PEARL HARBOR GENERAL'S OWN STORY IS BARED

250 Documents Back Short's Defense.

Probe in Hawaii

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Sept. 9 (AP).—The naval court of inquiry, into the Pearl Harbor disaster has moved to that navy base to continue its sessions, the navy announced today. Adm. O. G. Murfin heads the court, which also includes Adm. E. C. Kalbfus, Vice Adm. Adolphus Andrews, and Capt. Harold Biesemeier. The army board inquiring into the Pearl Harbor attack opened its meetings in Honolulu this week. It is headed by Lt. Gen. George Grunert.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time of the Japanese surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, stands willing to appear before congress and present documentary proof clearing him of responsibility for the greatest disaster this nation suffered in war, it was learned tonight.

Gen. W. C. Short.

As the Pearl Harbor catastrophe loomed as one of the hottest issues of the Presidential campaign Rep. Harness [R., Ind.] prepared to inform congress Monday that Gen. Short, like Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, former naval commander at Pearl Harbor, is eager for an opportunity to vindicate himself.

Tells of Short's Pleas.

Harness will tell congress that, altho he does not speak for the general, he has been reliably informed Short has some 250 documents showing that he repeatedly pleaded for more men and equipment for defense of the islands, and these appeals were ignored. His speech will constitute the first authoritative statement of Short's position.

Short is also ready to submit documentary proof that his defensive plans for the island were approved by the war department. The general had ordered the least of three alternative alerts, advised the war department of this decision and received a message approving his action.

Among the Short documents, Harness will tell congress, is a wire he received from Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, several hours after the Jap attack saying this government expected a Jap ultimatum at 1:30 p. m. Dec. 7.

Delivered on Bicycle.

This wire was sent by commercial cable rather than more direct and speedier military communication channels and delivered by a messenger on a bicycle.

Short is also prepared to offer evidence that authorities in Washington, in possession of all the intelligence, did not think it necessary to have a full alert because twelve bombers sent to Hawaii before the attack arrived with defense equipment completely inoperative. Machine guns and small cannon were in original grease packing and none of the ammunition was available for use.

Harness will emphasize the repeated warnings made to the White House and the army and navy high commands by Joseph C. Grew, ambassador to Japan, and to the secretary of state on the possibility of a Jap attack. Short will testify none of these warnings was relayed to him, it was understood.

Short is also prepared to testify two warnings from the Australian government, which have just come to

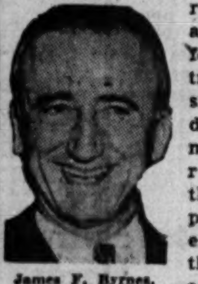
Byrnes Maps Pay Slashes in Post-War Era

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—War Mobilization Director Byrnes, reporting plans are well advanced for a vast industrial reconversion after the defeat of Germany, tonight recommended that it be accompanied by a general return to the 40 hour week and lifting or easing of many economic controls.



James F. Byrnes.

In a 7,000 word report to President Roosevelt, he reviewed the plans made for a 40 per cent reduction in war production after V-E [victory in Europe] day and a shift of released workers and machines to output of goods for the home front.

"It is necessary that the government plan now to spread the work," he said, but declared fears of prolonged unemployment after V-E day are "exaggerated."

Higher Prices Expected.

"We will speedily return to civilian production," he declared. "The pent-up demand for goods will come from a people who have the money with which to buy them."

But prices of many of those civilian articles not now in production, such as autos, radios, and refrigerators, probably will have to be higher than in pre-war years because of increased labor and materials costs, Byrnes added.

He disclosed that officials are working on price ceilings for such articles and will calculate them on the basis of pre-war costs, plus a percentage price increase. The formula for determining the price increase will be announced in about 10 days.

Less Pay in Sight.

Byrnes, whom an associate said tonight intends to quit as war mobilization director once congress completes demobilization legislation, made the following recommendations or forecasts in his report today:

1. Return to the 40 hour week, "except to take care of production necessary to the war effort and some specially tight labor areas." This would mean a sharp reduction in "take home" pay for thousands of workers now being paid at the rate of time and a half for work in excess of 40 hours a week.

2. Abandonment of man power controls to facilitate transfer of workers from curtailed war programs to civilian production.

3. Retention of existing price ceilings on civilian goods which have been produced thruout the war.

4. Removal of additional foods from the ration list "as soon as supplies justify removal."

More Gasoline Urged.

5. Increase of gasoline allowances for civilians in "certain areas," as V-E day will reduce war needs but continuation of rationing.

6. That congress appropriate up to 2 billion dollars to carry out the farm "support price" commitment. Byrnes said V-E day would release approximately 8 million tons of food from the war time reserve for other uses and the reduced demand might bring market prices below the support price, forcing the government to "buy the surplus if it is going to support prices."

7. That congress announce its intention to drop the excess profits tax after the defeat of Japan and consider the advisability of allowing manufacturers to depreciate

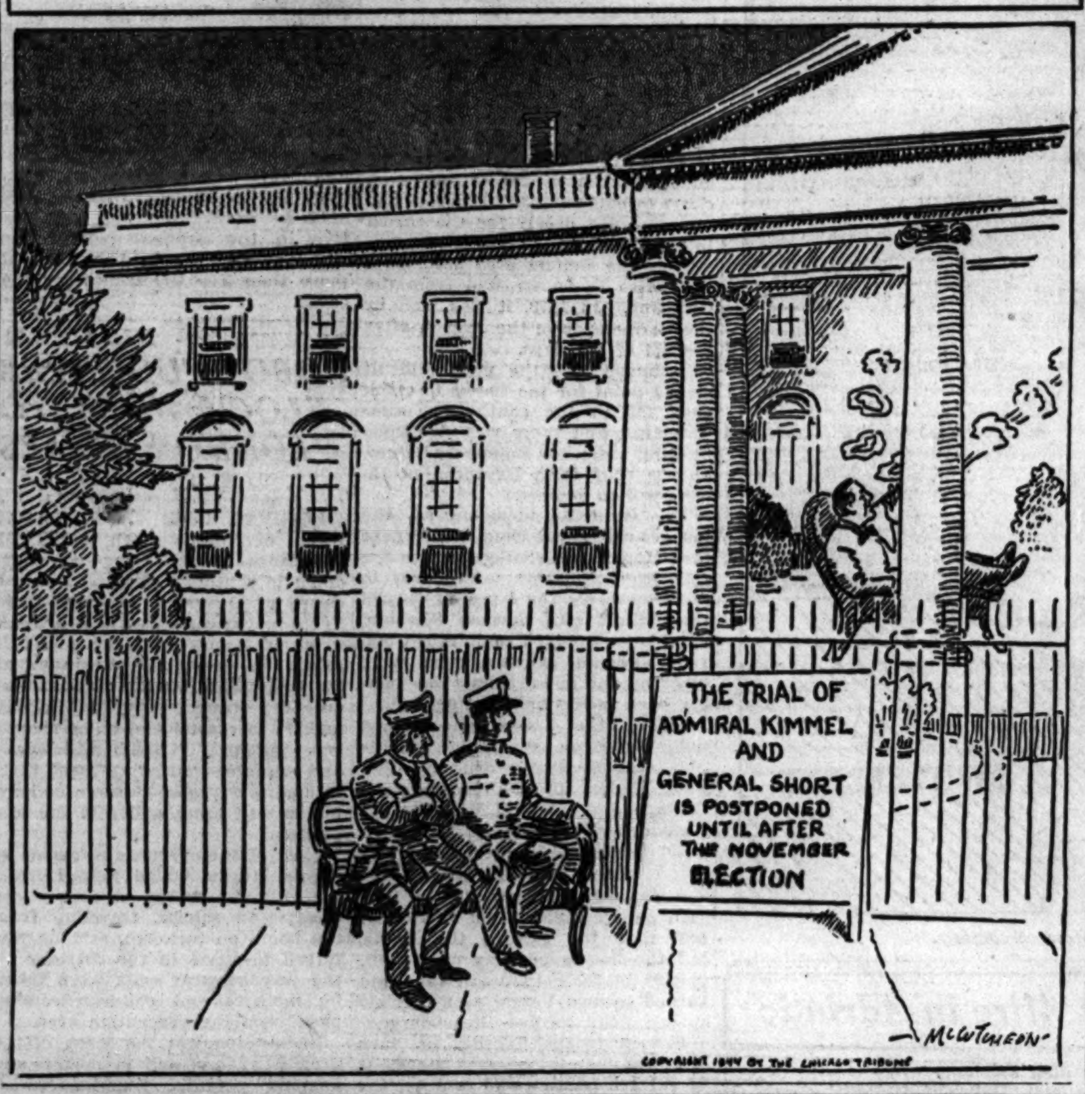
POLITICS—OR WAITING FOR JUSTICE



OWOSSO SHOUTS 'HI! TOM DEWEY'

Thousands Hail Him in His Home Town.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 9.—The home town boy who made good in the big city—Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for President of the United States—came back to his people tonight. And the people, most of Owosso's 16,000 and many more from the surrounding countryside, turned out to greet him.

Dewey's special train eased into the station with a crowd cheering and a band playing. The 42 year old nominee and his pretty wife, accompanied by Gov. Kelly of Michigan, were greeted on the rear platform of the train by Mrs. Anne Dewey, the candidate's widowed mother, and by Mayor J. Edwin Ellis of Owosso.

Cheer from Sidewalks.

A parade of motor cars formed and with bands playing moved thru the business district of this small city.

The caravan moved to the city hall, where the throng jammed the area in front of a grand stand bearing a big banner, "Welcome Home, Tom."

Mayor Ellis introduced the candidate's mother first. He called her "the woman who is known and loved thruout the whole community as Annie, the mother of the future President of the United States." She bowed to the applause. Then the mayor introduced "the man we have watched grow up thru grammar school and high school and then go away to college."

Obviously Happy.

Under the floodlights that made his black hair glisten, Dewey stepped to the front of the platform, grinning. He obviously was as happy as a kid.

"Mayor Ed, Gov. Harry, distinguished guests—and so many people I have known so long," he said, "I can't tell you how much pleasure this gives me. It's a great thrill to have the home folks turn out like this. But I know that this is not personal acclaim. Many here don't know me. A great many are here in respect to my mother, whom more know.

"Many others, however, are here because the Republican candidacy represents free government, dedicated to a proposition that America shall remain American.

"We represent a belief that no government can order the lives of 130 million people without destroying what we love most."

After the greeting, Dewey and his wife and mother retired to the mother's home here to remain until Dewey's train, on a transcontinental campaign tour, departs tomorrow afternoon for Des Moines, Ia.

[A story on the governor's mother will be found on page 24.]

The Man Behind Hillman

(An Editorial)

Sidney Hillman is the man behind Roosevelt in this campaign. The man behind Hillman is Earl Browder—Stalin's No. 1 agent in America—felon—draft dodger—convicted liar and forger.

Hillman's CIO political action committee (recently it altered its name in an effort to cover its violations of corrupt practice acts) is the most active organization working for the fourth term. It is better organized and, at the moment, better financed than the Democratic national committee.

Hillman was able to establish a throne room in a suite in the Ambassador hotel and veto Democratic nominations for Vice President for two reasons. One was the PAC, the other the American Labor party, on which rests Roosevelt's only hope of carrying New York. Both Hillman owes to Browder. Both Browder, in all probability, could take away from Hillman if he did not find Hillman's reputation a convenient screen for himself and his activities.

Hillman was only a front man in the seizure of the ALP. It was Browder's Communists who took it away from David Dubinsky and the Socialists and so-called right wingers. John L. Lewis and Hillman let the Communists into the CIO because they could use their disciplined fanaticism in the lawless organizing campaigns of 1937. Lewis thought he could use them and then purge them. It was Lewis who was purged. The Communists control many CIO unions outright. They have infiltrated most of the others. Hillman and Philip Murray, the CIO president, are their prisoners. The Communists do their bidding now because Browder tells them to obey. Whenever Browder gives the word the Communists will turn on their present allies.

It was Earl Browder who coined the slogan that communism is "20th century Americanism." It was Browder who befouled the memory of Abraham Lincoln by linking his name to Communist enterprises and placing his picture with those of Lenin and Stalin at Communist meetings. This does not appear to have been a sudden inspiration. It flows rather from a curious sense of parallelism that exists in Browder's mind, if nowhere else.

Both Lincoln and Browder came of old Virginia stock. Both were born to extreme poverty. Both were largely self-educated. There, however, any rational parallel ends.

Lincoln surmounted his failures. He grasped the opportunities that America has always offered and he gave his leadership and, in the end, his life, that the America of opportunity might survive as a nation.

Browder also grasped at those opportunities. He failed twice. He organized a business which went broke. He organized a communal farm scheme. Like every other communal undertaking in this country that has not had the backbone of a pietistic religion, it flopped. In Browder's mind there could be but one explanation

First Ballots Sped to Yanks

First of the soldiers' ballots were mailed yesterday with a burst of speed to which the secretary of state, the election board, the postoffice, and the printer contributed to save every minute possible.

As a result of teamwork, 15,000 ballots, addressed to men and women in service in virtually all the foreign fields, were sped by special truck to the airport late in the afternoon, two days ahead of what earlier in the week had appeared the likeliest mail time. The remainder of the 116,000 ballot applications received at the election board and the 22,000 in the hands of County Clerk Flynn are expected to be on their way by Wednesday.

The state certifying board met in Springfield yesterday and John Daly, an election board clerk, was present to flash the word of approval to Chicago and to bring the certification on the first train. Otherwise, said Chief Clerk John S. Rusch, the notice would have come by mail tomorrow morning.

The ballot already was in type, set up from an unofficial copy sent out two weeks ago by Lewis Vogel, head of the election division in Secretary of State Rowe's office.

All mailing in connection with the soldiers' ballots is carried by air.

Both the election board and the county clerk's office said they would work today on the ballots.

ROMANIA'S KING TELLS HOW HE LED IN REVOLT

Dictator Seized and Locked in Vault.

BY JOSEPH MORTON.
[Copyright: 1944: By the Associated Press.]

BUCHAREST, Romania, Sept. 7 [Delayed]—(AP).—A handsome young king, the tires of his automobile screaming as he raced out of the palace driveway and drove off into the night, exchanging shots with the enemy—

The stately queen mother riding thru the blackness to keep a rendezvous with her son, fingering a small pistol in her lap, vowing to shoot first—

An iron fisted dictator stripped of his power, apoplectic with rage, then cooled off in a fireproof vault built to hold the royal stamp collection—

This was Romania on the evening of Aug. 23, the historic hour when a small group of determined young men transformed her from a dictatorship working for Hitler into a professedly liberal monarchy seeking to range herself with the allies.

King Tells His Story.

The full story of this adventurous coup d'etat has been given to the Associated Press.

Twenty year old King Michael and his mother, Queen Helen, received me at the country villa where they are living temporarily and provided many of the details.

Baron Ion Mocsonyi-Styrcea, youthful marshal of the court and mysterious man behind the scenes, reënacted in the palace itself some of the events of that fateful evening. Other officers of the court and members of the government helped me put details together while they were still fresh in their minds.

This is the story as they gave it to me:

No fewer than seven times, they said, the king and his young collaborators had planned similar coups, the first early in 1942. In most of these coups the dictator, Marshal Ion Antonescu, friend of the axis, was to have been overthrown. In two or three it was planned that he should be forced t break with Germany. For one reason or another all failed, but the circle of palace plotters remained intact in spite of everything the marshal could do to break it up.

Michael Center of Intrigue.

The central figure during all this intrigue, the young king, kept his young advisers close around him, meanwhile provoking the Germans by speaking English to them, by riding around in an American jeep, by openly befriending allied fighters shot down in bomber raids over the country.

A secret radio set helped him maintain contact with the allies. In a forest hideout an airplane was kept in readiness in the event that complications forced him to flee.

NAZI GENERAL KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO RUN U. S. ROAD BLOCK

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIEGE, Belgium, Sept. 9.—A German general and two staff officers were killed Friday evening when they attempted to run an American road block southeast of Liege. A tank destroyer and the doughboys manning the block also ran up an impressive total of vehicles in the space of two hours. It required a bulldozer to remove the litter from the road.

The general, according to Maj. William Castille, Houston, Tex., drove up in a brand new German sports model car. Ordered to halt and surrender, he backed off, changed into high gear and tried to drive around the block. Our 50 calibers opened up and killed every one in his car. One bullet pierced a picture of the general's wife in the paybook which he carried over his heart.

During the next two hours this road block crew also knocked out the following: 12 more touring cars full of officers, two big trucks, 12 20-millimeter self-propelled anti-aircraft guns, 13 horse drawn supply wagons and one brand new self-propelled 75 which was sneaking up to blast the road block.

RUSSIANS END FIVE-DAY WAR ON BULGARIANS

LONDON, Sept. 10 [Sunday]—(AP).—Russian forces sweeping 100 miles into Bulgaria yesterday occupied a big Black sea port of Burgas, only 30 miles from the Turkish frontier, as Moscow announced the end of its war with Bulgaria.

In one of the shortest wars in history, soviet troops were ordered to cease military operations against Bulgaria at 10 o'clock [2 p. m. Chicago time] last night, "in view of the fact the Bulgarian government has severed relations with Germany, declared war on Germany, and asked the soviet government for an armistice," said a Moscow broadcast. Russia had declared war on Bulgaria on Tuesday.

Moscow said: "The soviet government, together with the governments of Great Britain and the United States, is working out conditions of an armistice with Bulgaria."

Port 80 Miles from Greece.

In addition to Burgas, 80 miles from Greece, the Russians occupied Razgrad, 34 miles southeast of the Danube port of Ruse, and Shumen, 50 miles west of Varna.

The Bulgarians are estimated to have 20 divisions [perhaps 200,000 men] which they can send against Germany.

The Sofia radio announced that Bulgaria had again changed governments. Former Premier Kimon Georgiev, an anti-Nazi, took over the premiership from Konstantin Muraviev and formed a new government.

A dispatch from Sofia broadcast by Moscow announced the appointment of three new Bulgarian regents, Venerin Ganev, Todor Pavlov, and Tsvetko Boboshevsky.

Demo Kazasov, Bulgaria's new propaganda minister, announced that all ministers of government who held office since Jan. 1, 1941, and all deputies of the 25th national assembly who approved anti-national policy had been ordered arrested and their property confiscated.

Drive on Krakow Reported.

Berlin reported the Russians had begun a new offensive in southern Poland aimed at Krakow, a fortress city 48 miles from German Silesia. The Russians told of rapid gains in northeastern and central Romania in the drive on Hungary, axis satellite.

The 2d Ukraine army advanced 34 miles in 24 hours from Sibiu in Transylvania, taking the rail city of Alba Julia, only 108 miles from the pre-war Hungarian frontier.

To the northeast the Russians seized 100 villages and towns as they battered down German-Hungarian defenses along the eastern rim of the Carpathian mountains.

Tito's Men near Russians.

Moscow did not mention the Yugoslav frontier area, which the Russians reached at Turnu-Severin in western Romania last Wednesday.

[The Free Yugoslavia radio announced yesterday that Marshal Tito's Partisans had captured Zajecar, eastern Serbia, within six miles of the Bulgarian border and 30 miles of the Danube river. At Zajecar they would be 50 miles south of Turnu-Severin. The bulletin said 1,000 of the axis defenders were killed and that the Partisans pushed on. The Partisans apparently are trying to join the Russians to seal a trap on possibly 250,000 Germans in the Balkans.]

The Cairo radio said the seat of the Greek government had been shifted from Cairo, Egypt, to the Naples, Italy, area.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Germany reported yesterday:

"In the Szeklers area [named for a people near kindred to the Magyars] in southeast Transylvania, numerous heavy enemy attacks were repelled. Counter-attacks by German and Hungarian formations threw the enemy back at several places.

"At the northern edge of the Carpathian forest and at the lower Narew renewed enemy attacks failed against the stubborn resistance of our divisions."

YANKS' SHELLS BLAST HIDDEN GERMAN FORTS

Beat Off 3 Hour Counter-Attack.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN 3D ARMY, on the Moselle River, Sept. 9.—The 3d army's battle to secure its bridgeheads across the Moselle river raged tonight as American and Nazi batteries engaged in the heaviest artillery duel since the Normandy landings.

American infantry men who last night beat off a three hour counter-attack five miles below Metz still were clinging to their foothold over the Moselle despite murderous mortar and artillery fire from hidden German forts that prevented evacuation of wounded comrades.

American shells were exploding by the hundreds on the east side of the river while German shells poured into Dornot and the road leading into it.

Nazis Can't Match Yanks.

The Germans engaged in the defense of the last natural barrier between Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's onrushing armor and the Siegfried line were no match for the Yanks who crossed the Moselle at Dornot in small boats yesterday under fire.

The Nazis launched counter-attacks from the north and south about 6 p. m. under cover of an artillery and mortar barrage.

Our artillery laid down a box barrage which cut down the Germans' mortar fire but could not halt their infantry. At one point the Nazis withdrew, reorganized, and came in again. At 9 p. m. the battle died with the Germans withdrawing and our beachhead still holding firm altho under heavy shellfire all during the night.

At one observation post where Capt. Fred Andrt, 6802 26th st., Berwyn, Ill., was in charge, we could see the blasts from the American shells blossoming up and down the far shore.

DRIVE NEARER GERMANY

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 10 [Sunday].—American troops penetrated last night beyond Liege to the area west of Verviers, which is only 12 miles from the German border and 16 miles southwest of Aachen, a strongpoint in the Siegfried line. Heavy artillery has been brought up to positions almost within range of German soil.

In the Ardennes forest, to the south, other 1st army forces captured St. Hubert, 16 miles from Luxembourg and 32 miles from Germany. Just below the Belgian border, another 1st army column took Ecouviez, a village on the rim of the old Maginot line in France.

Bag 30 Nazi Tanks.

On the northern flank of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d army, a German counter-attack launched from Thionville along the west bank of the Moselle river has been decisively smashed. More than 30 German tanks were knocked out and nearly 1,000 prisoners were taken, in this attempt to attack the 3d army from the rear.

All five American bridgeheads over the Moselle were being heavily attacked by fresh German troops. Nevertheless, Gen. Patton's infantry and supplies were piling up across the river for the coming battle of the Lorraine gap, on the route to the Rhine.

The German radio said the Americans had "massed huge forces of men and material in the Metz area, and a large scale assault there appears imminent."

British Cross Canal Again.

British troops in Belgium forced a second crossing of the Albert canal at Gheel, 25 miles southeast of Antwerp, against fresh German reserves. This bridgehead is 12 miles northeast of the original crossing at Beeringen. The push beyond Beeringen was stalled inside Bourg-Leopold, about 25 miles west of the German frontier, with the British holding part of the town.

Heavy fighting developed along the channel coast as the Germans were pressed into ever shrinking pockets. After an all-night battle allied troops smashed a desperate attempt by the Germans to break out from a pocket between Dunkerque and Ostend. The attack was directed against the allied rear between Lille and Gent.

Close In on Ports.

Along the channel, Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian 1st army was investing Boulogne and Calais more closely and was reported to have moved in and around Dunkerque to a distance of five miles from the port. The Paris radio said that patrols had broken thru the inner defenses of Boulogne.

In the pocket between the Schelde river and the coast, now reduced to the area between Ostend and Antwerp, tanks were advancing on Bruges, 25 miles northwest of Gent and only 10 miles from the sea. There were reports that advanced patrols had reached Bruges.

The Canadian troops who occupied Ostend have crossed a canal between Ostend and Gent. Polish armored forces established another bridgehead over the canal at Nieuwendam, 13 miles west of Gent. A third crossing was forced by Canadian infantry in the area of Oostcamp, south of Bruges.

At Boulogne and Calais the German garrisons apparently intended to fight to the last. They are thoroly hemmed in with allied patrols pushing toward the sea cutting or controlling all the roads leading to the ports.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the German Saturday war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"In north France, enemy assaults against the naval fortresses of Brest, Boulogne, and Dunkerque failed. In the Le Havre fortifications 29 enemy tanks and 12 armored reconnaissance cars were destroyed yesterday.

"In Flanders our rear guards continue to be engaged in bitter defensive fighting against the enemy following up.

"Enemy attacks from his bridgehead at Antwerp northward were smashed. Enemy bridgeheads northwest of Hasselt were narrowed down in a counter-attack. The enemy suffered particularly heavy losses, including 21 tanks.

"The fight for the Liege citadel and in the area northwest of Metz is bitter. Against advanced enemy troops, counter-attacks have been launched."

EDEN PROMISES FULL PART IN WAR ON JAPAN

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today victory over Germany was near, "but we still have the Japanese to deal with and mean to play to the full our part in bringing them to defeat."

Speaking to constituents at Kenilworth, the foreign secretary said: "We have scores of our own to settle with the Japanese. They have overrun vast territories which formed part of the British commonwealth and empire and we are determined, as with Germany, to see that our victory is utterly complete."

Robot Hits Paris Area Second Time; 4 Killed

PARIS, Sept. 8 [Delayed]—(AP).—A German flying bomb landed early today at a point in the Paris basin—an area about 40 miles around the capital—and killed at least four persons and injured 12. It was the second robot bombing of Paris. The first attack was a week ago. The populace showed little concern.

LINER REX AFIRE AFTER 123 HITS BY RAF ROCKETS

ROME, Italy, Sept. 9 (AP).—Struck by 123 royal air force rockets, the 50,000 ton liner Rex was burning in the Adriatic off Trieste today after attacks by rocket-firing Beaufighter planes. Pilots said the onetime queen of the Italian merchant fleet was lying motionless with a 60 degree list to port as a result of hits below the waterline. Flames raged over all the ship.

An R. A. F. pilot sighted the Rex under tow south of Trieste two days ago. The vessel had a slight list. An air force report said the Germans were believed to be preparing to sink the ship to block the Trieste harbor. Yesterday, while the liner was at anchor, the R. A. F. attacked.

BELFORT GAP IN VIEW AS U. S. COLUMNS GAIN

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 7TH ARMY, Sept. 9.—The Belfort gap, scene of many historic battles and now the gateway that the allies must breach for the invasion of southwestern Germany, could be viewed thru the clear, chill skies today.

Standing on a spur of the Jura mountains near the Doubs river northeast of Besancon, the blue line of the Vosges range in Alsace and its tallest feature, 4,400 foot Ballon d'Alsace, could be seen.

Between the Jura and Vosges heights lay the low, fertile Belfort plain, stretching 15 miles from north to south and the place where a powerful German defensive stand is imminent.

Forts Circle Belfort.

Around the city of Belfort itself are many forts dating from centuries ago, and the enemy has manned and further strengthened them. He is reported to have brought in several new divisions, including crack panzer units, in an effort to halt our swift progress and make us pay dearly for the thrust to his homeland.

Thus the Belfort area becomes a war prize to be wrested from the Germans. In 1870, it was won by the Germans from the French after a siege of 103 days.

Besancon was the most difficult strong point for the Yanks to crack thus far in the southern France campaign, and there was strenuous fighting today for Baume-les-Dames, on the road from Besancon northeastward to Belfort.

The Germans blew up all the bridges across the Doubs river near these towns and shelled heavily the American engineers working to erect by-spans. As I peered toward the Belfort gap German 88's and what were believed to be much bigger calibered railway guns were cracking and our artillery was roaring back in the heightening duel.

Among the Yanks who helped take Besancon were Sgt. Willis Shot, 232 S. Seeley av., and Pvt. Paul Caden, 5634 Princeton av., Chicago, and Sgt. Phil McLeod, 2525 Eastwood, Evanston, Ill., and Pvt. Colie Williams, Mount Carmel, Ill.

Some Nazis Escape.

Apparently portions of the Nazi 11th panzer division got to Belfort and thru the gap to the Rhine, but the fleeing infantry units were balked in their eastward race and turned toward Vesoul as a possible escape door toward Strasbourg.

French troops fighting up thru the Jura mountains seized the towns of Pierre-Fontaine and Maiche, the latter 25 miles south of Belfort.

The Germans were offering stiff resistance to the French moving up along a 40 mile front to within 23 miles of Dijon at one point.

In this fighting, the French captured Le Creusot, Chagny and Montchanin-les-Mines in the heart of the steel and coal area, 45 miles south of Dijon.

More than 170 miles south of the battle for Belfort, American forces plunging deep into the Alps were attacking Briancon, seven miles from the Italian frontier.

Here the Germans were trying to hold open the St. Genevre pass into Italy.

Maquis Leader

ISABEL TOWNSEND PELL.

New York, Sept. 9 [Special].—When 16 American paratroopers landed 10 miles off course in the southern France invasion, a woman of the French underground appeared to lead them thru German lines to safety. The woman, then known only as "Fredericka" to her Maquis comrades, has been identified as Isabel Townsend Pell of New York. She has been active in the French underground throuout the war and has raised more than 2,000,000 francs for the cause.

ROBOT FUGITIVES FLOCK BACK TO LONDON HOMES

BY E. R. NODERER.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—While the threat of Hitler's much touted V-2 vengeance weapon hung over London and southern England like the sword of Damocles, evacuees from flying bombs continued to pour back to their homes in large numbers today. So great was the influx at Paddington and Euston stations that outgoing traffic carrying holiday makers to coastal and other resorts was jammed. "Bomb widowers" and parents, waiting to meet their returning wives or children or leaving to visit them, added to the congestion.

Most of the evacuees returned by regular trains which helped make the situation worse. A sleepy and bleary-eyed soldier, traveling from the north on furlough, said he was forced to stand in the corridor all the way because seats were taken by mothers and children coming back from the evacuation area.

Paddington was the scene of the greatest rush of holiday makers and anxious parents. Queues, which began to form early, were eventually extended along both sides of an adjoining street. Children and the mothers, returning from safe areas, besieged buffets.

BLAST IN TRAILER INJURES TWO.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wooden, who live in a trailer in the camp near the intersection of route 66 and 47th st., McCook, were burned severely yesterday when their trailer was destroyed after an explosion in a gasoline stove. They were taken to MacNail Memorial hospital in Berwyn.

Lyon & Healy

They like to loiter here to and from School...

FROM kindergarten days through college, Lyon & Healy is their Alma Mater in things musical . . . Undergrads and post-grads stop in for school charts on the arrangements of marching and concert bands . . . to ask for Bing Crosby's latest, or why Beethoven called his Symphony No. 3 the "Eroica". And that is what we are here for—to help young Chicagoans get lasting enjoyment from Music.

MUSIC PUBLISHERS' PARADISE

The music of every well-known publisher is found at our long Sheet Music counters . . . the newest march for a school band; a special arrangement of an old favorite . . . books of etudes for the piano class . . . popular song and dance hits for the Junior Prom and no end of school pageants, operettas and cantatas. (First Floor)

THEY KNOW THEIR RECORDS, TOO

It's a liberal education to walk by our rows of Record Booths and listen to the records that the average school boy and girl listens to today. . . . From this one comes a Bach Fugue; next it's "People Will Say We're in Love," then Coates' delightful "London Suite" . . . and so on through a maze of records from jive to the "Jupiter" symphony . . . Young Chicagoans know their records and where to get them. (First Floor)

Things to Make Band Instruments Stay Young

Very important until WPB permits more instruments to be made again . . . As usual, we can supply the better makes of Mouthpieces, Mutes, Reeds, Straps, Cases, Pads, Pegs and Strings. (First and Fourth Floors)

Lyon & Healy is the place you think of when someone mentions Band Instruments by Conn, Pan American, Cavalier, Selmer, Martin . . . Pianos by Steinway, Chickering, Lyon & Healy, Cable-Nelson, Story & Clark . . . Phonograph-Radios by Capehart, Magnavox, RCA Victor . . . Records by Victor, Columbia, Capitol, Decca.

GIRLS OF LIEGE GREET YANKS WITH KISSES

Welcome Doughboys Like Paris Did.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIEGE, Belgium, Sept. 9.—Liege, the last large Belgian city before the German frontier, was celebrating its liberation today. It fell yesterday to a spearhead of tanks and armored doughboys of Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' 1st army troops in their thrust toward the gateway to Hitler's Germany.

Liege was like another entry into Paris and the enthusiasm of the natives often hampered military movements.

One tank colonel was irate at the doughboys. Every time he turned around he saw soldiers, usually with one or two days' beard, leaning over a jeep to kiss swarms of willing girls.

Tankers Get Kissed, Too.

But the reporters noticed, too, that men in half tracks and tanks, wherever they stopped, got their share of embraces. The warmth of the Belgian welcome left no doubt in any American's mind how the populace felt.

Liege often had been bombed in an effort to hit some of its factories and bridges. But one Belgian who had been the representative of a New York manufacturer and whose own home near a bridge had been destroyed, shrugged his shoulders and grinned and said: "The important thing for us is that you are here."

Life in the city apparently was not too harsh for people with money. Some Belgians said if you had money you could live well and buy anything you wanted on the black market, but that the average worker who earned only 40 Belgian francs a day had a terrible time trying to make ends meet. These people lived largely upon potatoes.

Bread 80 Cents a Loaf.

Quotations on the black market were: a loaf of white bread, 40 francs [80 cents]; one kilo [2.2 pounds of meat], about 400 francs, and a suit of clothes 6,000 francs.

Incidentally, until the finance office can establish a new rate thruout Belgium, Americans who buy beer, wine, or souvenirs are required to pay the 1914 rate of one Belgian franc for two French ones. The new rate is 88 Belgian for 100 French. [The French franc is quoted at 2 cents.]

American soldiers are beginning to appreciate what it meant for Belgians to live during the winter on 300 kilos of coal per family. The soldiers here are now realizing that the strong winds and chill air mean summer definitely is gone.

The first patrols of the 1st army to enter Liege rolled in Thursday night and went as far as the Meuse river. Later, elements of another armored force, which I accompanied, swung down behind the city on the southeast and probed thru several of its streets.

Yank Speed Surprises Nazis.

The main force of both columns supported by infantry yesterday morning started working into the town against the last remnants of the scattered opposition which the Germans had left behind to delay us and by early afternoon the town virtually was cleared and resistance stopped.

Most of the Germans had been surprised by the speed of our advances. It was not until late Thursday afternoon that they blew the last bridges across the river.

The Germans pulled out what they could along a road running northeast which was taken under fire by our self-propelled artillery.

Staff Sgt. Michawl Taggert of El Dorado, Ill., set up an observation post in a house and aided our artillery silencing an enemy battery. Taggert said the people in one house staged a real celebration with a roast beef dinner and champagne.

GETS FWA GRANT.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] announced the federal works agency had approved a grant of $377,925 for sewer construction in Granite City, Ill. The city will put up the remainder of the cost, $581,925.

THREE ARMY FLYERS FROM CHICAGO AREA KILLED IN NEBRASKA

Three Chicago area flyers were killed in plane crashes Thursday and Friday at the army air field near Bruning, Neb.

Lt. J. T. McCarthy.

They are Second Lts. John T. McCarthy, 20, of 2201 Touhy av.; Lyle C. Baxmann, 19, of 119 S. Hickory st., Bartlett, near Elgin, and William F. Washburn, formerly of Evanston.

Lt. McCarthy, who died in a crash Friday, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. McCarthy. He was graduated from Sullivan High school and was commissioned last May 23 at Foster Field, Tex.

Lt. Washburn, who also was killed Friday, was the son of Mrs. Myra C. Washburn. He also is survived by his widow, Mrs. Vicky McClure Washburn, and by a brother, Sgt. John C. Washburn.

Lt. Baxmann, who was killed Thursday, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad H. Baxmann. He was graduated from Elgin High school.

NAZIS REPORT NORTH NORWAY GRIPPED BY PANIC

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The German D. N. B. agency broadcast tonight that "there is something afoot in Norway." It said the civilian population was leaving its homes wholesale and panic had broken out in the northern province of Finmark, with inhabitants fleeing to the south.

Some Londoners said the Nazis might have created a panic to make room for German troops pouring into Norway from Finland. Earlier, a dispatch to a Stockholm, Sweden, newspaper said Finns were fleeing northern Finland following rumors that the Germans were fortifying the area and did not intent to leave without a fight.

Sweden announced that she had stopped railway transit of all German freight to and from Norway thru Sweden and that only German sick or wounded would be allowed to pass.

Navy Helldiver Planes Now Use 20 MM. Cannon

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Cannon firing war planes, the first ever built for operation from an aircraft carrier, are in operation against the Japanese, the navy disclosed today. They are Curtiss Helldiver dive-bombers, equipped with 20 millimeter guns, which are attached on the leading edge of the wing. These weapons take the place formerly used for .50 caliber machine guns.

PETAIN 'STATE' ABOLISHED BY FRENCH COUNCIL

PARIS, Sept. 9 (AP).—As this city slowly but steadily comes back to normal, the De Gaulle regime formally notified the French people that the "French state" of Marshal Petain and all its major laws had been abolished and that France remained a republic.

"In law the republic never ceased to exist," it said in a statement giving the widest publicity to the text of an ordinance adopted in Algiers a month ago reëstablishing legality of the republic.

De Gaulle Shifts Cabinet.

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle has reshuffled his cabinet, naming a number of new ministers and reassigning others, the Paris radio said tonight. Georges Bidault, president of the National Committee of Resistance in France, was appointed foreign minister to succeed Rene Massigli. Resistance groups had been demanding stronger representation in De Gaulle's government.

Adrien Tixier, former Free French delegate to the United States, who has been minister of social affairs, replaced Emmanuel d'Astier as minister of the interior.

Jules Jeanneney, former president of the French senate, joined the cabinet as minister of state.

U. S. Names Envoys.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—American diplomatic and consular officials have been ordered to Brussels and Paris, the vanguards of full diplomatic representation later on in regions closed four years by Nazi occupation.

The state department announced today it is sending a charge d'affaires to reopen the embassy in Brussels, and disclosed it has ordered four foreign service officers to Paris, one of whom is already en route.

Ernest Mayer, secretatry of embassy in London, was ordered to Brussels as charge d'affaires.

Gerald A. Drew, second secretary of embassy in Guatemala, was designated American counsul at Paris, to serve as secretary of American mission there and to be attached to the office of the United States representative of the French Committee of National Liberation.

To assist him as vice consuls, Sabin J. Dalferes was ordered transferred from Algiers, and John R. Wood of the state department is being sent from Washington.

It was emphasized at the state department that sending these foreign service officers to Paris does not imply diplomatic recognition of De Gaulle's provisional government.

FIGHTERS THRIVE IN ARMY TEST OF PACKAGED FOOD

900 Train Two Months in Ration Experiment.

Camp Carson, Colo., Sept. 9 (AP).—Packaged rations have passed the test in keeping up the health and morale of 900 soldiers and officers in what the army believes is the largest ration experiment in military history.

For eight weeks at Camp Topside, 8,850 feet above the sea in the Tarryall mountains, veterans of the Aleutians campaign lived on a diet of packaged rations. They were isolated from the outside world and went thru training as rigorous as combat, except that no enemies were shooting at them.

The average loss of weight by each man was 5 pounds, but supervisors of the test said the men emerged from it in better health and better condition than when they started. Altho statistics are incomplete, it appeared none of the combat rations used in the experiment is lacking in nutrition.

Encouraged to Complain.

Moreover, having encouraged the "guinea pigs" to complain to their hearts' content, the quartermaster corps was able to find out what they like and don't like. Each man recorded what he ate and how it tasted.

The experiment indicated something else—that soldiers may not be satisfied with the quantity of rations normally issued in combat. The men began with a ration and two-thirds, then were reduced to the normal ration. Their protests brought restoration of the extra food.

Doctors said the reduction did not impair their efficiency or health, however, and many of the "guinea pigs" did not eat all their increased rations.

Instead of dropping, morale soared. Two soldiers went AWOL and turned up at Camp Carson and announced "they couldn't take it." Questioning disclosed that had walked 45 of the 75 miles from Topside. They were shipped back and finished the test.

Men Sing Ending Hikes.

At the end of several 25 mile hikes and a four day 90 mile march winding up the test, the men tramped into camp singing. They cooked up their own version of "Mademoiselle from Armentiers: "The ration test will win the war, parlezvous."

The G. I. propensity for cracking wise got full play during the experiment. One soldier explained why he wasn't losing as much weight as his buddies:

"After I ate the stuff awhile, I just didn't bother to open the cans. I eat them, too!"

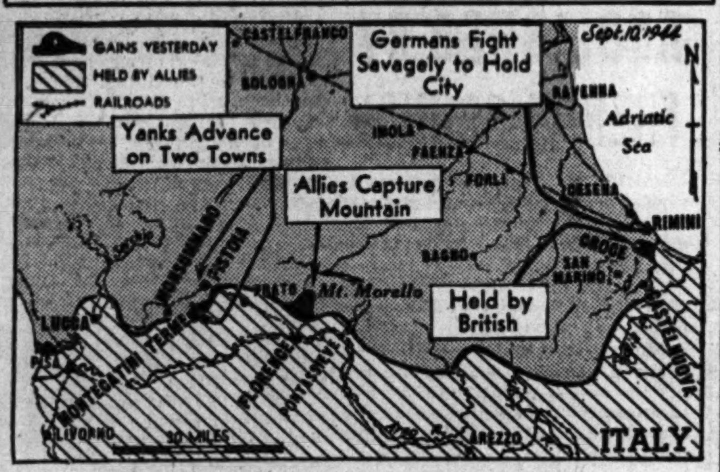
MUSSOLINI, ILL, CALLS IN PRIEST, SWISS REPORT

LUGANO, Switzerland, Sept. 9 (AP).—Benito Mussolini, gaunt and ravaged by illness, is reliably reported to have called for a priest recently to hear his confession.

The priest is said to have visited the former Duce of the Italian empire at his home on Lake Garda.

Mussolini's health is reported to have declined to such an extent that he is refusing further medical attention as useless and resorting to hypodermic injections whenever it is necessary for him to meet people.

Nazi Defense Stiffens in Italy



Where fighting is raging along the Gothic line.

ALLIES IN ITALY BEAT OFF NAZI ARMOR ATTACKS

Advance on Rimini Stirs Up Germans.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 9 (AP).—In seeking to prevent an allied break thru into the Po valley and a possible envelopment of the whole Gothic line, the Germans fought savagely today to hold the gateway city of Rimini against British 8th army forces.

A bulletin from Gen. Harold Alexander's headquarters said that Marshal Albert Kesselring, making probably his last stand in Italy, had thrown his infantry and armored units into a series of heavy counter-attacks in the Adriatic sector yesterday. The 8th army repulsed them with no substantial change in position. Casualties were heavy on both sides.

Fierce fighting ranged from the Adriatic coast six and a half miles inland to Croce, nine miles southwest of Rimini. British troops held Croce after prolonged seesaw fighting, the bulletin said.

Canadians Near Rimini.

Canadians moving along the coast fought to the banks of the Marano river, within four miles of Rimini.

British troops seized Palazo and neighboring hill 151 and checked German armored counter-attacks. Menghio, 1,000 yards west of Croce and the same distance from hill 151, also was retained by the British as the Germans made fierce attempts to regain them.

Two miles farther inland, British and German forces were battling for Gemmano.

Allied troops seized 3,000 foot Mount Morello, eight miles north of Florence.

Clark's Troops Advance.

Americans on the 5th army front continued to move forward along their entire sector. Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark told his troops in a message on the first anniversary of the Salerno landing that "the final blows are still ahead and your 5th army will soon deliver one from which the enemy will not recover."

American patrols pushed to within nearly a mile of Pistoia before enemy fire halted them, and other American units penetrated the eastern outskirts of Montecatini Terme, 7½ miles southwest of Pistoia.

On the west coastal sector Americans crossed the Serchio river seven miles north of the mouth of the Arno.

[Germany's war bulletin said yesterday: "Fighting on the Adriatic coast, which temporarily had slackened in intensity, increased again yesterday. Our troops smashed all enemy attacks].

ANDRE MALRAUX, FRENCH AUTHOR, REPORTED SAFE

PARIS, Sept. 9 (AP).—The French novelist Andre Malraux, who was reported to have been killed while fighting the Germans, now is reported reliably to be safe after a dramatic career during the occupation as a "Lawrence of Arabia" among the southern French Maquis.

Malraux served as a liaison man between the French Forces of the Interior and the British in sabotage work and in funneling supplies to patriot warriors.

PROTESTANTS RIP CHURCHILL FOR TALK WITH POPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent visit to the Vatican and his audience with Pope Pius XII, were bitterly assailed today in a message to the prime minister from the Protestant Truth society. The society expressed opposition to having the pope represented at the post-war peace settlement conference, charging that Vatican politics contributed to the European unrest which brought about the war.

"The nation owes you an inestimable debt for the high courage, indomitable spirit and magnificent leadership you have shown during the course of this war," the message stated, "but your visit to the pope has caused grave heart burnings in the breasts of thousands of Protestant citizens." The society warned the prime minister that it is his obligation, under the English bill of rights, to follow the constitutional prohibition against communion with the Holy See or the church at Rome.

The society accused the Roman Catholic church of deliberately attempting to cause a rift between Russia and England over the Polish question. It also took exception to the pope's message to Adolf Hitler after his escape from death and the papal silence over the flying bombs while pleading for forgiveness to Britain's enemy.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 9.—Since the first allied military government [AMG] officer landed in Sicily on July 10, 1943, on the heels of assault troops, the history of AMG in Italy has been one of an organization which has succeeded in dealing with a subject people despite a confusion of authority in its own high command.

Much of this confusion was brought about by the fact that the Italian war did not go according to the text books used in military government schools in the United States and England where the present administrators studied for their duties. Italy changed overnight from an enemy nation to a co-belligerent—and to this day no one has been able to give a good workable definition of co-belligerency. All that can be said is that it stands somewhere between an enemy and an ally.

Too Many Bosses, Say Officers.

There are other faults. AMG officers themselves state their principal complaint is that the organization is not well dove-tailed into a military one. There are too many bosses. Orders come from too many directions, occasionally conflicting. Basically to blame are Washington and London, which have not quite decided just what they want to do about liberated Italy.

AMG's troubles began in Sicily. Heading AMG tlie was Lord Rennell [James Rennell Rodd], British banker and former ambassador to Italy, who has drifted out of the picture. Rennell's sympathies were with the upper classes, which are almost completely pro-Fascist, and he found himself in an uncomfortable situation with the world press. Charges flew that AMG was instituting its own brand of Fascism to replace Mussolini's, but the tempest soon boiled down.

Armistice Brings Miseries.

Except for the excitement over Rennell, AMG had comparatively smooth sailing until Sept. 8, 1943, but on that day, when the Italian armistice was announced, its miseries began.

To Italy came an allied military mission headed by Lt. Gen. Frank N. Mason-MacFarlane. Its main duty was to determine whether the allies could make use of Italian troops in combat, but its members had remarks to make about the administration of Italy, until that time solely the task of AMG. One confusing statement piled upon another.

Then, because Italy no longer was exactly an enemy but not exactly a friend, a new military government organization was brought into being by the allies on Nov. 10. It was the allied control commission and its stated duties were to enforce terms of the surrender to insure that the conduct of the Italian government conformed to allied requirements. Mason-MacFarlane was appointed director.

Two Jealous Powers.

November and December, 1943, were months which gave many a military government officer gray hair. AMG and ACC were working side by side in liberated Italy, each issuing its own orders to run the country, each jealous of its authority and afraid the other might steal its power. Military government officers themselves could not keep track of what was going on, let alone the poor Italians being governed.

The situation was somewhat clarified last January when ACC was amalgamated with AMG under a plan which in part defined the duties of each. The system promulgated then is the one still in use.

It works like this: Liberated Italy is divided into three territories. The north section at present is a 100 mile wide strip extending from the battle line from Porto Civitanova on the Adriatic sea to Orbetello on the Tyrrhenian sea. This is under the direct control of AMG and is known as the army zone.

Italians Rule in South.

The middle strip extends from the army area to a line from Termoli on the Adriatic to the Tyrrhenian west of Rome. This is governed by the ACC executive military government and is known as the regional zone. The remainder of southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia have been restored to the Free Italian government operating under a benevolent but watchful eye of the ACC.

As the allied military machine rolls north, the army and regional zones move with it. Thus, bit by bit, liberated Italy will be handed over to the Free Italian government.

It is interesting how the three zone plan works out. When the army advances, AMG officers follow. They appoint mayors, prefects, and police forces, organize food distribution systems and rehabilitate public utilities. Their word is law.

Then, as the allies move on, this territory finds itself eventually in the ACC regional zone. Here, altho the ACC officers still keep authority, attempts are made to have the Italians themselves perform most of the functions of government. In addition, ACC reviews men appointed to office by AMG and either approves or replaces them.

Native Rule Emasculated.

Finally, in Free Italy, the Italians are given complete authority, with ACC acting only in a liaison capacity. But ACC retains the right to reinstate military government anytime. It might truthfully be said that under such a condition the Free Italian government is an emasculated one.

Altho the merger of ACC and AMG eliminated much confusion, the unfortunate division of authority still exists. The present ACC director, Capt. Ellery Stone of the United States navy, can only advise Brig. Gen. Edgar Erskine Hume, AMG director for the 5th army, and Group Capt. G. W. Benson, AMG director for the British 8th army.

Normally such advise is observed. But it is conceivable that Hume, for instance, would follow his own mind if he so chose, or would follow a line of reasoning laid down by his superior, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark of the 5th army. There is no one man with power to say that this or that shall or shall not be done in the allied military government in Italy.

Zones of Italian Governments

The three zones in Italy, composed of: The zone nearest the battle front, which is run by the AMG; the area behind that, which is in process of return to self-government thru the ACC, and the zone restored to self-rule.

600 German Repatriates Told All's Well at Home

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Sept. 9 (AP).—Six hundred German civilians arriving here last night from Britain aboard the exchange liner Drottningholm were greeted by two Nazi officers who, in informal pep talks, apparently sought to give the impression that all was well in the homeland. They formed the second contingent of Germans being exchanged for American and British war prisoners and civilians. The remaining exchanges from Germany, including 94 Americans, are due here today.

Swiss Say 1 Dead, Many Injured by Allied Bombs

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—One person was killed and several injured when American planes machine gunned Swiss railroad stations yesterday, a bulletin broadcast by the Swiss radio said today. The death was attributed to a falling high tension cable. "It can be stated that Swiss air space was violated by both British and American planes up to 4:30 p. m. in the areas of western Jura and Lake Geneva," the broadcast said.

JAPS REPORT NEW B-29 RAID ON MANCHURIA

Claim Many Downed; U. S. Says One Lost.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Kenryo Sato of the Japanese war ministry, in a Tokyo broadcast, announced that a new air attack was launched today against Anshan, industrial city in southern Manchuria, by about 10 American aircraft.

Earlier, the Japanese news agency Domei had said the new attack, following up yesterday's heavy raid on southern Manchurian industrial centers, was made by a single plane.

The previous broadcast, heard by United States government monitors, said a check revealed more than 100 great bombers had participated in yesterday's attack and more than six were "heavily damaged."

Report Celebes Base Hit.

The Japanese domestic radio said today that about 60 enemy planes had raided Manado, Japanese base at the northern tip of Celebes Island, Thursday morning [Japanese time], while about 50 others struck at the Kua bay area on Halmahera in the Moluccas.

Both Japanese bases are situated on the southern approaches to the Philippines, with Manado some 400 miles south of Davao and Halmahera some 500 miles south and east.

Claim Several B-24's.

According to the Japanese broadcast, Manado was attacked by "large four-engined" bombers under fighter escort, while B-24 Liberators, B-25 Mitchells, and P-38 fighter planes were said to have participated in the raid on Halmahera.

The broadcast, which was reported by the federal communications commission, claimed that "several B-24 bombers" had been shot down over Halmahera.

Loss Held to One B-29.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—One Super Fortress is missing and presumed lost as a result of yesterday's B-29 attack on Anshan, Manchuria, the 20th air force reported today.

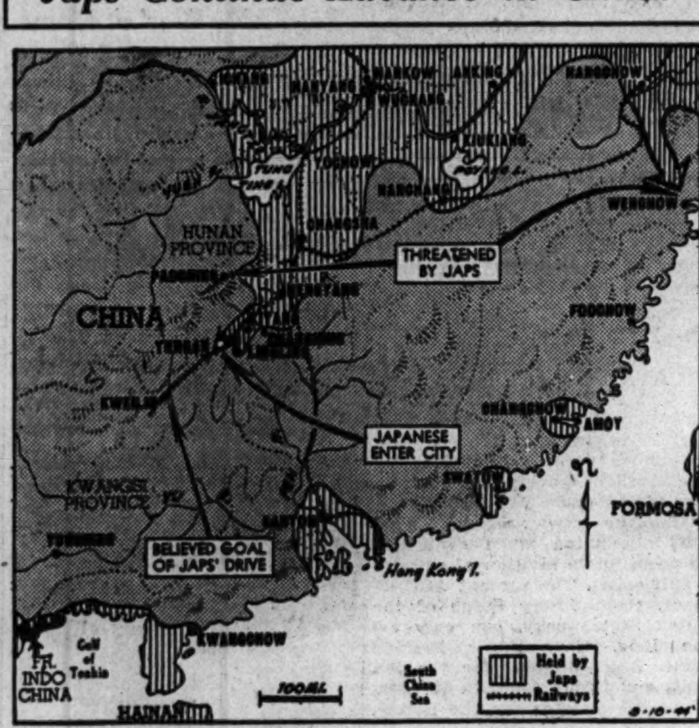
All other planes of the large task force which made the attack have now been accounted for, a bulletin said. The report added that our gunners shot down seven enemy fighter planes, probably destroyed 10 others, and damaged 11.

Raid on B-29 Base Fails.

A SUPERFORTRESS BASE IN WEST CHINA, Sept. 9 (AP).—A handful of Japanese planes attacked two west China B-29 bases during the night, but not one of the big American bombers, just returned from the Anshan raid a few hours earlier, was lost, nor were the runways hit.

They spent more than two hours in the soupy night sky trying to find the bases. About a half dozen heavy bombs and a few strings of fragmentation bombs landed in the rice field and the open country.

Japs Continue Advance in China



Progress of the enemy's current campaign.

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Japanese, driving down the Hunan-Kwangsi railway, have entered the town of Tungan, 90 miles from Kweilin, a Chinese war bulletin announced today, and a fresh enemy threat loomed from Indo-China.

If they should take Kweilin, the Japanese might be inspired to make a difficult and costly but entirely feasible drive from Indo-China to Kunming as a means of nullifying the prospective opening of China's new overland communications across Burma.

The Chinese were fighting stubbornly. They reported that fierce combat still was in progress in the streets of Tungan [which, Japanese radio claimed, was entirely occupied], and also in the suburbs of the fallen American air base city of Lingling.

The Japanese also were pressing a new threat to the town of Paoching [Shaoyang], which they have been trying to seize to strengthen their lengthening grip on the Hunan-Kwangsi railway. Brisk fighting was in progress 34 miles from the town after a Japanese advance of eight miles from the northeast.

FLEET, PLANES BLAST PALAU IN HEAVY ATTACK

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 9 (AP).—Heavy blows by American Pacific fleet cruisers and destroyers and carrier based planes against the Palaus, Japanese island sentinels guarding the Philippines on the east, were reported today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. The Palaus are about 600 miles from the Philippines.

Earlier Tokyo reports said that more than 500 carrier aircraft lashed Palau and Yap while Yank "battleships and cruisers" hammered the Yap group some 350 miles northeast of the Palaus. The Pacific fleet press release made no mention of a naval attack on Yap.

Adm. Nimitz also reported aerial strikes in the Volcano, Bonin, central Carolines, and the Marshalls.

Navy Follows Up.

The big guns of the navy were directed against the Palaus Wednesday, a follow-up attack to the blow delivered the day before by swarms of carrier-fighter planes and a 90 ton bomb assault by Southwest Pacific land based bombers.

Carrier planes also participated in the Wednesday strike. While naval shells were wrecking or damaging buildings and defense installations and starting major fires on Angaur, southernmost of the group, carrier planes blasted supply facilities. The attacks extended to Peleliu, Koror, and Arakabesan Islands. Anti-aircraft fire was meager and the announcement said none of the cruisers or destroyers was damaged.

The raiders left big fires raging on Koror, site of the principal town in the Palaus.

Far to the north army Liberators blasted air fields and installations at Iwo Island, in the Volcanos 750 miles south of Tokyo. One interceptor was probably destroyed.

Other Liberators attacked Chichi Island in the Bonins, damaging an enemy freighter in the harbor.

New Landing off Guinea.

GENERAL HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 10 [Sunday]—(AP).—Continued unopposed aerial neutralization of Japanese positions from the Moluccas to the Philippines and a new amphibious landing which completed allied conquest of the Schouten Islands, off Dutch New Guinea, were reported by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today.

Thunderous raids on Halmahera Island, southern guardian of the Philippines, and the Japanese shipping and aerial center on Dutch Celebes were included in the reported air strikes. Other targets included blasted Palau, hit by patrols; Ceram and Timor.

Under air and naval cover, amphibious allied units landed Thursday on Soepiori Island, adjacent to American held Biak in Geelvink bay. There was no Japanese opposition, and it was considered unlikely that more than a handful of enemy stragglers were on the island.

A navy B-24 bomber sank or badly damaged a coastal vessel and two small freighters at Davao Thursday. Liberators cascaded 150 tons of bombs on Manado, northern Celebes, Wednesday night.

[Tokyo broadcasts said 60 allied planes participated in a raid Wednesday on Manado.]

A strong force of Liberators, Mitchells, and Lightning fighter planes hit airdromes and gun positions on Halmahera Thursday. There was no aerial opposition.

MARINE GENERAL ADMITS 'RELIEF' OF ARMY HEAD

'Forced' to Remove Saipan Commander.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—A disagreement over campaign methods was reported tonight to have preceded the decision by marine Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commanding all American forces on Saipan, to relieve army Maj. Gen. Ralph Smith of his command.

The marine general, in response to questions, said at a news conference today that he had been "forced" to relieve Gen. Ralph Smith from command of army forces in the Saipan operation, but declined to relate the circumstances.

"I am not given to passing the buck," he said, "but as you seek details concerning this incident, I remind you that Gen. Smith is an army officer and I must refer you to the war department."

War Department Comments.

The war department promptly tossed back to the marine the question of whether any public explanation was to be made. A spokesman said:

"Gen. Holland Smith was correct in stating that it was his responsibility and prerogative, operating under the principle of unity of command, to make whatever assignment he believed necessary in regard to his subordinates.

Maj. Gen. Ralph Smith [left] and Lt. Gen. Holland Smith.

"Since the decision of the change in command was properly his, the reasons for that change should be properly given by him."

There the matter stood officially, but the account circulating in military circles was this:

The two generals disagreed on methods of conducting the campaign. The marine favored quick hard drives to end it as promptly as possible. The army man advocated a slow, more cautious campaign.

Two Schools of Thought.

Two schools of thought have always existed in military circles on those points, each contending their favored method curtails casualty totals. Those advocating quick decisive battles argue that altho initial losses may be high, the prompt victory will be less costly in the end by reducing the period of time in a campaign. Those supporting slow and cautious moves contend that their methods holds down casualties thruout a campaign.

Army Gen. Smith, 50, was given the Legion of Merit last April for his training and direction of army troops which took part in the capture of Makin in the Gilbert Islands and Eniwetok in the Marshalls. From Saipan he returned to Honolulu and it was announced in July that he had been given command of an infantry division in Hawaii.

Marine Gen. Smith is commander of the fleet marine force in the Pacific.

LOOSE A-12 GAS COUPONS RULED VALID BY OPA

Filling station operators may accept "A-12" gasoline rationing coupons even tho they are detached from the ration book, the office of price administration ruled yesterday in Washington, D. C. OPA explained: Applicants who are renewing their "A" rations may have to detach coupons to send in the back cover of the ration book. Until the amendment, it had been illegal for a station operator to accept loose coupons.

Navy Honors Invasion Officers from Midwest

ROME, Sept. 9 (AP).—Naval headquarters today announced awards of the Legion of Merit to commanders of task forces during the invasion of southern France. The list included Rear Admirals Frank J. Lowry, Cresco, Ia., and Don Pardee Moon, Kokomo, Ind. The award to Moon was posthumous. Lowry received a gold star since he had won the Legion of Merit in previous actions.

KING TELLS HOW HE OVERTHREW DICTATORSHIP

Gun in Hand, Michael Leads Romania Plot.

offensive, starting Aug. 20, precipitated the eighth attempt. It was first set for Aug. 26. But while preparations were in an early stage Styrcea, visiting a doctor's office at the same time as an aide of Antonescu's, overheard a telephone call that changed the plan.

He learned that the marshal was planning to leave shortly for the front, where he would be out of reach. So the date was moved up.

On Aug. 23, after a late lunch, Michael sent for Antonescu. The dictator arrived an hour late, following his practice of keeping the king waiting. He left his bulletproof automobile, with glass an inch thick, a gift from Adolf Hitler, in the courtyard. Several other automobiles loaded with bodyguards parked behind it.

The king waited in his stucco residence behind the main palace buildings. He stood in his study, Gen. Constantin Sanatescu beside him. Across the hall in another chamber sat Styrcea, Gregorie Nicolescu Buzeti, young diplomat destined to become foreign minister, and 20 year old Mirce Ionnitiu, the king's secretary and constant companion. In a third room an officer and three members of the king's palace battalion stood by.

Thru a window Michael watched the marshal, the man who had kept him a virtual prisoner for four years, walk across the lawn from the palace. When Antonescu came in they shook hands.

This is what happened as reported my Michael himself:

MICHAEL: "I have a wire from the front and the situation looks disastrous. What are you going to do about it? Are you or are you not going thru with the armistice?"

ANTONESCU: "Yes. I am going thru with it but there are some conditions to be met. I want a guarantee from the allies that they will land in Romania and guarantee it for us against the Russians."

MICHAEL: "That is so absurd it is not worth discussing. How do you expect the allies to guarantee us against their own allies?"

ANTONESCU: "I will not move. If necessary I will retire to Transylvania and fight there."

MICHAEL: "You will have to make an armistice or resign. This time you have gone too far."

Dictator White with Rage.

Antonescu's rising temper overcame him. White with rage, he was unable to speak.

Michael stalked out of the room. Joining Styrcea, Buzesti, and Ionnitiu, he discussed the siutation with them for a few minutes and all agreed that there was one course to follow. Styrcea called up the soldiers and posted them at the door of the study while Michael went back in.

The king took up a position beside a wide double window. Styrcea and Ionnitiu, both excellent shots, took pistols from their pockets and stepped in at the main doorway.

"I am very sorry but I have explained the siutation to you and you must make a choice," Michael said to Antonescu.

"I will not resign and will not leave this counrty in the hands of people that I am not sure about," said Antonescu.

Soldiers Seize Antonescu.

"Very well then," said the king, reaching with his foot for a push-button hidden under the carpet to summon the soldiers.

Before he could reach it, however, the soldiers tramped in.

"You dare to do this to me!" exclaimed Antonescu, angrier than ever.

"Follow me," the major of the guard interrupted. He led the way into the hall toward a back stairway, pausing to pat Antonescu's pockets to make sure he was not armed.

Antonescu roughly pushed the officer's hand away, crying furiously, "I haven't any arms," and spat in the major's face. The officer did not reply or strike back, but led the way up the stair.

Half way up, Antonescu turned and screamed, "You will pay for this; you will all be shot in the morning."

The soldiers silently forced him up the stairs to a small fireproof vault King Carol had built to safeguard his stamp collection. They put him in and bolted the door.

The bodyguards were invited in for coffee and were captured.

Meanwhile machine guns and tanks rolled into place at strategic points.

At the same time others set a trap for Antonescu's leading collaborators, summoning the first by telephone and forcing him on arrival to call up another, and so on.

Germans Get the News.

Early in the evening the king put the finishing touches to his proclamation announcing an armistice and the overthrow of the dictatorship. Styrcea left secretly to take news to Juliu Maniu, leader of the National Peasant party and a leader of long standing. An hour or so later the new government was formed without ceremony.

At 10 p. m., just as the king's proclamation was put on the air, Baron Manfred von Killinger, German minister to Romania, telephoned and asked for an audience.

Michael said Buzeti told Von Killinger Romania wanted to terminate relations with Germany peacefully but was prepared to fight.

The German minister was permitted to return to the legation [where after the arrival of Russian troops in the city he killed himself].

The chief of the German military mission, Gen. Hansen, then went to the palace with the Nazi air commander, Gen. Alfred Gerstenberg. They were requested to order their forces to lay down their arms. The two officers said compliance was impossible without safe conduct passes to leave Bucharest. Gerstenberg gave a pledge of cooperation and, provided with a pass, proceeded to the Baneasa airport. There he ordered for the following day a savage and ruthless German air attack. The king's palace in Bucharest was a particular target.

King in "Shooting Party."

Michael, his personal role in the events completed, rounded up a "shooting party." At 3:15 a. m. five automobiles led by a light coupe driven by the king rolled up the ramp from the palace's underground garage and sped out into the city.

At about the same time Queen Helena, started westward from the royal family's summer home at Sinaia, northwest of Ploesti. All during the long trip thru German-held country she clutched a small pistol, determined to shoot any enemy soldier attempting to halt her party.

The king sped westward for two hours and then turned the car off the road at a gasoline dump. While fuel was being put in the cars a German motorized column came into sight. The group jumped back into their cars and sped off just as the Germans opened fire. Bullets flew back and forth furiously for a few minutes.

Both the king and the queen mother arrived safely at the secluded villa where this correspondent later was received.

On the front the carefully planned withdrawal began on the 24th. One week after Antonescu's arrest the coup was a complete success. Of the 40 German divisions in the country only two are known to have gotten away.

NAZIS TO MAKE STAND AT OWN BORDER: LANZA

Change of Commanders May Be Expected.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

A new phase of the war is starting. The Germans have been thoroly beaten in France, and are getting out as fast as they can. They are at their own borders. Present indications are that they will defend them. For the moment they intend to retreat no further.

The Russian front also has changed. The great offensive of early summer against Germany is now a restricted one. On the other hand, there is very aggressive Russian action within the Balkans.

Almost Out of France.

With the exception of certain ports, the Germans have almost abandoned France and are in process of quitting most of Belgium and that part of Holland south of the Maas, or Rhine river. They have been fairly beaten in battle and know it. A change of commanders on the German side on their west front may be expected.

The German chief of staff, Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, seems to have reversed the policy of his predecessor of concentrating this summer against the allies in France, in favor of stabilizing the Russian front. This decision appears to have been made about July 22. A few days later, the Russians reported that divisions from France were appearing on their front. How many divisions were taken from France has not been determined, but probably did not exceed 10.

Orders to withdraw from France were given at that time, for immediately afterwards the Germans were reported leaving for Germany. Whether Guderian fixed any dates for completion of the evacuation or left this to local decision has not yet been ascertained. Whoever was responsible took too long in doing it. The German 7th army, instead of withdrawing from Normandy across the Seine river at the end of July, hung on. It even undertook an offensive.

Planned Drive West.

This was decided upon Aug. 2. An armored attack was to be made westwards from near Vire toward the west coast of the Cotentin [Cherbourg] peninsula. If successful, this would cut off that part of the American 3d army which had broken thru on Aug. 1 near Avranches. To obtain troops for this offensive it was necessary to send them westward from near Caen.

It took the Germans until Aug. 7 to get ready for this attack. It then did have a limited success, but failed to get to the coast. On Aug. 11 the 3d army had detoured around to the south and was approaching Argentan, on the left rear of the German offensive. At the same time the Canadian 1st army was attacking and approaching Falaise, on the right rear of the Germans. The larger part of the German 7th army now found itself threatened with encirclement. It then, but too late, commenced to withdraw in earnest.

Lost Many Troops.

By hard fighting, the Germans managed to save more of their troops, from what has become known as the Falaise pocket, than had at first been expected. But they lost plenty, and they lost more later on.

Exactly when the Germans decided to go all the way back to their frontier isn't yet known. Work on reconditioning the West Wall was reported from Swiss sources as already under way early in August. The Germans then realized that they would go back to the wall but the date for their troops to abandon their fight in France may have been made at a later date.

From reports of German radio commentators, the one hope that the Germans still have is that the general mobilibation ordered July 20 will produce enough men to stabilize the west front. There is no reliable information as to how many men Germany has raised, or could raise, and equip, to strengthen her declining armies.

Sacrifices Port Troops.

To gain time to raise these troops, Germany has sacrificed garrisons left back in France and the Low Countries to defend certain ports. The most important is Brest, where three or four German divisions have been under siege by American troops for more than a month.

The other French ports being held are St. Nazaire, Lorient, Le Havre, Boulogne, Calais, Ostend, Zeebrugge and Flushing. The last two places close the entrance to the harbor of Antwerp. At these places, the defending forces appear to be odd lots of whatever soldiers, sailors, and marines happen to be handy at the time of the investment.

The allied armies in France seriously need ports. Cherbourg was captured at the end of June. It took two months to repair enough of the facilities, which had been blown up, for the first ship to unload. In addition to supplying the troops, the allies must bring in a large amount of supplies for French civilians. One port is far from enough.

St. Malo Port Small.

The only other port so far taken is St. Malo. This is a small place suitable only for a limited number of coastal ships. How heavily this port was damaged, and how soon the facilities it does have can be put into use again, has not yet been reported.

It would be most desirable to open for allied use the first class ports of Le Havre, Antwerp, and Brest, but any port could be used to advantage. The time required to recondition the ports must be added to the time taken to capture them.

A Punch from Judy

JUDY CALKINS.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9 [Special].—Judy Calkins is only 5, but can boast she helped build one of the B-29 Super Fortresses that now may be poised for a flight toward Tokyo.

News dispatches recently related that Judy's father, Maj. Selby Calkins, radioed the code word, "Judy," as a signal that his Super Fortress had accomplished its mission in a raid on Mukden, Manchuria. That put the real Judy back home in the spotlight.

Judy was invited to visit the Hudson plant to provide inspiration for its workers. She also was allowed to drive a rivet—just one, but it satisfied Judy—into a fuselage section being built for the Super Fortress.

U.S. FORGETS ALL ABOUT CONVOY IT SENT TO ARCTIC

Crews Shiver 8 Months Waiting to Return.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Several hundred American seamen, including five from Chicago, spent eight months last year in the bitter Arctic cold of north Russia when their six merchant ships became a "forgotten convoy," the war shipping administration disclosed today.

The press release did not disclose how it happened that the six ships, vitally needed for allied shipping, were left tied up at the docks for eight months after making the perilous run to Murmansk with food and war materials, but it told of the discontent of the men—officers and crew—as they sat out the long wait in a small factory town where for six months they had constant daylight.

Join "Forgotten" Society.

The United States naval attache at the Russian port took cognizance of the tough lot of the crewmen when he issued them certificates, complete with the seal of the U. S. embassy and the attache's signature, attesting that they were members of "The Society of the Forgotten Convoy of North Russia."

The certificates stated:

"Be it known to all men by these presents: That———on board of———did suffer eight months confinement in north Russia and did undergo all privations connected therewith, that he did shiver thru the Arctic and bask in the rays of the midnight sun, and by virtue of these feats is herewith declared to be a certified member of the forgotten convoy."

5 Chicagoans Inducted.

The Coast Guard said Chicagoans in the company included Adam Dorsh, 2200 Milwaukee av., aboard the SS. Bering; Stephen J. Ram, 2821 Shakespeare av., aboard the Francis Scott Key; George Lekisch, 2202 W. North av., aboard the Thomas Hartley, and Sebastian Vrehr, 1704 Larrabee st., and Joe Hughar, 3620 Bosworth st., aboard the Israel Putnam. Other ships in the convoy were the City of Omaha and the Beacon Hill.

The convoy left New York Jan. 2, 1943, and reached the Russian port two months later after battling storms across the Atlantic and running the gantlet of German plane attacks off Norway. As time went on and the return convoy was not formed, the men sought entertainment, the shipping administration said. Two dances were held weekly in the town, but because of language difficulties the Americans could not gain admission until they hired an interpreter. Thru him some arranged dates. It wasn't long until they learned to talk to Russian girls without the interpreter.

Some of the men, because of boredom, began hitch-hiking about north Russia. Finally, in September a year ago, a return convoy was formed and the men returned to New York nearly a year after they had embarked there.

RUSSIA, JAPAN MUST REMAIN NEUTRAL: TOKYO

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese foreign minister, told the Japanese diet today that "the present realistic interest dictates that Japan and the soviet union remain neutral countries." The Tokyo radio, heard by the office of war information, quoted Shigemitsu as saying "it is our intention to keep on friendly terms" with Russia. The statement was in reply to a request for comment on Soviet-Japanese relations, the broadcast said.

Plans for the 12th annual convention of the Illinois Association Student Councils to be held April 13 and 14 in Peoria were mapped at a committee meeting held yesterday in Hotel Sherman. Norman Olsen of Main Township High school, Park Ridge, is president of the association.

Germans Warned of Peace Rumors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9. — As rumors about "disaster and peace" were reported sweeping Germany today, Berlin newspapers warned the people against listening to stories spread by refugees from France, Holland, and Belgium.

"Certain people like to boast about their own hardships," the newspapers said. "They give eyewitness accounts of various events. This leads to false rumors and might lead civilians to become confused."

Helping fan the peace rumors thruout Germany were Swiss reports, quoted by the Algiers, Algeria, radio, that armistice talks began Wednesday morning and that Franz von Papen, former German ambassador to Turkey, was in a neutral capital, presumably Madrid, Spain, to confer with an Anglo-American commission.

Borrow French Slogan.

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The German home radio proclaimed for the invasion-threatened Rhineland the slogan "They shall not pass," made famous by the French at Verdun in World War I. A commentator said the "general mood is now or never," and added:

"Workers toil 12 and more hours and trainloads of new weapons issue from every factory. Thousands of Hitler youths are moving up to the front, shirking no sacrifices. 'They shall not pass' is the spirit in the German west."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—The office of war information and the war and navy departments said in a joint statement today that rumors of Germany's surrender should not be accepted unless confirmed by Gen. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander. The statement said:

"False rumors of German surrender or of negotiations looking toward surrender have already appeared, and may be expected to be more frequent from now on. Some of these may be innocently spread; others may be inspired by enemy propagandists, who hope to cause confusion among the peoples of the united nations and to induce us to relax our efforts.

Headquarters First to Know.

"It is quite possible that there will be no single day which can be called the end of the war with Germany. Instead of a surrender en masse, the German armies may gradually disintegrate and surrender piecemeal. If there should be a general surrender, headquarters of the allied expeditionary force will be the first to know it. Accordingly, no rumors of surrender should be accepted unless confirmed by Gen. Eisenhower. If such rumors, without confirmation, should be published or broadcast as a matter of news, it is hoped that more than usual care will be taken to attribute them to their sources."

RADAR WORKERS WILL SEE NAVY ACTORS TODAY

More than 100 actors and entertainers from Great Lakes Naval Training center and other navy units, in addition to two bands and two orchestras, will entertain an expected 40,000 workers in Chicago's radar industry at Wrigley field this afternoon, the navy said yesterday.

The celebration will be built around a special certificate of achievement, the first to be awarded by the army or navy to an entire unit of an industry, and the certificate will be presented to representatives of the 65 member plants of Chicago Radar-Radio Industries, Inc., and their 70,000 employes, of whom 60,000 are women.

Rear Adm. A. S. Carpender, 9th naval district commandant, will present the award to Leslie F. Muter, president of the industry group. With Adm. Carpender will be more than 50 navy officers and several hundred sailors.

A special guest will be Lt. Alexander Vraciu, the navy's Pacific ace, and his Grumman Hellcat plane will be on exhibition.

COUPLE ROB WOMAN OF $283.

Mrs. Melia Gideons, 31, Negro, of 4940 South Park way, was held up yesterday by a woman and a man, both Negroes, at Cottage Grove av. and 46th st., and robbed of $283.

EGYPT PUTTING ITS POST-WAR CLAIMS IN SHAPE

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 9.—Political leaders of Egypt are now formulating a series of post-war claims on the grounds that this country should be repaid for the inconveniences it suffered during its nonbelligerent but much fought over days of desert war and that its aspirations for complete independence should be honored.

These claims as they have been variously expressed can be summarized thus:

1. Evacuation of all troops from Egyptian soil after the war, including the permanent British garrison here.
2. The handing over to Egypt of complete control of the Suez canal.
3. Giving Egypt full control of Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

British Acceptance Unlikely.

How far Egyptian politicians expect to get with these claims remains a matter for conjecture. It would seem highly unlikely that a victorious Britain would willingly surrender the vital Suez link to her commercial and military empire and as long as Britain controls the Suez it is more than probable that she will insist on at least a minimal military establishment to protect it.

Air bases furthermore are now an important factor in this region and even the United States is thought by some to be interested in maintaining some form of legal possession of such valuable installations as Cairo's magnificent Payne field built by the American army.

See British Fostering Break.

The question of Sudan is one which has been slowly coming to a head in recent months. The Sudanese are not particularly anxious to come under Egyptian control and the Egyptians believe that the British have been fostering this idea. Indeed, they fear that the British have been encouraging a movement for Sudanese independence which would, in effect, tie up Sudan still closer with Britain and sever all of its bonds with Egypt.

Facts regarding Anglo-Egyptian friendship and collaboration during this war cannot yet be written because of the censorship.

HEAR U. S. SEEKS NEW SETUP FOR OCCUPYING REICH

Yanks Would Take Over Northwest Zone.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The part of Germany which United States and British troops, respectively, are to occupy has again become a subject of speculation.

A report circulated in London for the last week that the United States at the 11th hour has put in a claim for occupation of the northwestern zone is understood to be accurate. It was said that this was among the questions which would probably be discussed by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at their forthcoming meeting.

It is believed the original plan was that British forces would occupy that part which includes the Ruhr, Rhineland, and the North sea coast and ports and runs down to a line roughly southwest from Berlin to the French frontier. American troops would garrison all Germany south of this line and west of a line running roughly north and south thru Berlin to the western tip of Czecho-Slovakia. Everything east of that would be the Russian zone.

United States' Motives Stated.

The United States is understood to wish for a transposition of these zones, with American troops garrisoning northwestern Germany and British troops the southwest.

The reason for this would be that the United States line of communication to its forces was too long, since it stretches across the Atlantic, and would be longer still if it had to stretch to southern Germany.

The British, it is understood, would grant the soundness of such a claim as a short term military argument. But they probably take the attitude that it would lose much of its force if the occupation of Germany were to be a long term affair. Their main reason for adhering to their original preference for occupation of northwest Germany would be that control of the channel and North sea ports is vital to their existence.

Northwest a Vital Position.

Behind the preference of the United States for occupation of northwestern Germany may be a realization that this is the most important part of the reich industrially and militarily, and that strategically it perhaps is the most vital position in Europe.

Occupation Zones

(Story in adjoining column.)

Three zones into which Germany would be divided for allied occupation. It was reported last night that the United States government now wishes to occupy the northwestern area, which had previously been assigned to British forces, and have the British take southern Germany. Russia would occupy the esatern part.

STATE POST-WAR STUDY PREPARES FOR FAR FUTURE

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

While the care of soldiers and sailors and the smoothing of difficulties inevitable in the immedate post-war era are the primary objectives of the Illinois post-war planning commission, its members are looking further into the future. They are striving for a program that will utilize all the resorces of the state and reform a number of age worn inefficiencies.

As an example, Illinois has thousands of rural schools accommodating less than 15 pupils each. Hundreds, so the members of the commission have been informed, accommodate less than a half dozen each. Educators regard such education institutions as wasteful, unfair to teachers and bad for the children. Some cure for this situation is being sought.

Tackle Delinquency Problem.

Another problem to be attacked is juvenile delinquency, with which existing organizations and methods have been unable to cope adequately, altho millions are being spent thru them each year.

Also on the agenda of the commission is a critical examination of the state's organic law, with a view to determining how it "limits or hinders future progress."

The commission has been charged with deciding whether constitutional revision is needed, and of recommending such laws as may be necessary to carrying out post-war development. Still another field in which the commisison is making studies is finance—state and municipal.

A policy in regard to slum clearance and low cost housing, in which there would be a line of demarcation between private and public agencies, is demanded of the commissioners.

Every one of these problems is a challenge to the efforts and the ingenuity of the commission, and the committees and subcommittees which are helping them. In the aggregate they are stupendous. Add the troubles of depressed areas, elimination of grade crossings, correlated water, land, and air transportation, and the big immediate requirements for reconversion of industry to post-war production and it is obvious the planning project is one of the most ambitious ever undertaken in Illinois.

Labor Inventory Made.

An inventory of labor in each section of the state is being made. A survey of the state's resources has already been made by Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the state department of geology, assisted by the faculty of the University of Illinois. It will soon be published.

Members of the commission who have studied the manuscript have described it as the most clear and complete record of the wealth—mineral, agricultural, and arboreal—ever made for any state.

Anderson Pace, Illinois Central railroad executive who heads the commission, said he was confident that planning in the future would be recognized as a necessity, and that the legislature would provide ample funds for an adequate staff. The 250 men and women of the commission and the committees, all experts in their fields, are serving without pay.

YANKS CUT DOWN NAZI GENERAL TRYING TO FLEE

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY TROOPS AT BESANCON, France, Sept. 7 [Delayed] — (AP). — Maj. Gen. Axel Schmidt, a German division commander, became one of the first high ranking enemy officers actually to be killed on the front line in a fight here today.

Apparently unaware of the presence of American troops in this sector, the German general was flustered when he encountered a small group of doughboys. Instead of surrendering, he turned and ran frantically. He had gone only a short distance when a volley of bullets cut him down.

PEARL HARBOR GENERAL'S OWN STORY REVEALED

Short's Defense Backed by 250 Documents.

light, were never reported to him. One was made 48 hours before the attack and the second 24 hours before the attack. Both reported a Jap task force, including carriers, had been sighted by Australian reconnaissance proceeding toward Hawaii.

The general will testify that had he received either of these warnings, he would have ordered utmost vigilance and the army and navy would not have been caught flatfooted when the enemy struck, Harness said.

Short is prepared to refute the report of the investigating commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Roberts. Adm. Kimmel has denounced the Roberts report as not containing "the basic truths" of Pearl Harbor and has asserted the nation will be amazed by the true story.

Quiz to Be Welcomed.

In the last two weeks a number of congressmen have charged on the floor of the house that the complete story of Pearl Harbor will shock the world. Harness will inform congress for the first time that Short will welcome such investigation.

Short was in charge of Hawaiian land defenses from February, 1941, until he was relieved Dec. 20, 1941. He has a file of his requests to Washington and San Francisco asking for additional men, additional equipment, priorities, and critical supplies in view of the imminence of danger. Little or no attention was paid to his requests, Harness will tell the house.

Harness will tell congress Short is not politically minded and would prefer to have the investigation come after the November election. However, the general is ready to face a court martial immediately or a congressional investigation and desires to have the facts placed before the country in as unbiased and nonpolitical manner as possible.

Urged Aircraft Warning.

On June 10, 1941, Short wired the war department urging building of the aircraft warning system of the islands as the most important single military project. The project was not completed at the time of the attack, because of dilatory policy of the war department, Short is prepared to testify.

Short has documents to show that on Nov. 27, 1941, as a result of communications passing between Hawaii and Washington, he ordered the first of three planned alerts.

Alert No. 1 called for a watch for acts of sabotage and uprisings within. Alert No. 2 called for security against hostile submarines and other ships and planes. Alert No. 3 called for occupation of all field positions for a maximum defense of the islands.

Washington Is Satisfied.

Short is prepared to testify that as he put alert No. 1 into effect he advised Washington of the action and received by return wire from the chief of staff confirmation of the propriety of this alert. Short is ready to tell congress that he had no information that alert No. 3 was the proper defense measure, Harness said.

The wire advising Short that a Jap ultimatum was expected at 1:30 p. m., E. S. T., Dec. 7, 1941, was sent at 1:30 a. m. from Washington, Harness said. It did not arrive in Honolulu until 11:30 a. m., four hours after the attack, and it took two hours to decode the message.

Had Gen. Marshall telephoned the message, Short feels he would have been sufficiently alerted to meet the attack, Harness will tell congress. This is the message reported to have been delivered by a messenger boy on a bicycle.

Planes Sent from California.

Short is prepared to testify that at 9 p. m. on Dec. 6, the night before the Jap attack, 12 B-24 bombers were dispatched from San Francisco, Cal., to Pearl Harbor to augment island defenses. These arrived with inoperative weapons.

The planes arrived at Hawaii a half hour after the attack started and were easy targets for the Japs. Several were shot down. Fortunately they had skeleton rather than full crews.

Short is prepared to discuss the division of responsibility between the army and navy for the defense of Pearl Harbor, Harness said. He will testify that all long range reconnaisance was the direct responsibility of the navy and that the army had no right to conduct patrols far out, which might spot enemy ships or planes.

Harmony with Kimmel.

Short has notes and minutes of conversations with Adm. Kimmel, it is reported. From these he is prepared to tell congress that Kimmel's war plans officer on Nov. 27, 1941, informed the admiral and himself at a conference in Kimmel's office that there was absolutely no chance of a Jap raid on Oahu. The admiral and general conferred regularly and operated with full harmoney, it is reported.

Four minutes before the main attack on Dec. 7, a small Jap submarine was sunk inside Pearl Harbor. Harness said that he has been informed Short was not advised of this incident by the navy and that the general feels, that altho the time was limited, he could have partially alerted his command if he had been informed promptly by the navy.

Harness will tell the house that while the army generally regards Short as not culpable for the Pearl Harbor disaster, the army does not want a court martial at present because it would embarrass the Roosevelt administration.

At present two boards, set up by the war and navy departments, are engaged in an investigation of the disaster. They have held some hearings here and are now at Hawaii. These investigations are considered as efforts to quiet congressional demands for courts martial rather than a thoro investigation of the facts.

Held as Thief

MRS. JOB TAYLOR II.

Riverhead, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP).—Socially prominent Mrs. Job Taylor II., charged with stealing $27,000 in jewels from friends while a guest at their homes, remained in Suffolk county jail today as District Atty. Fred J. Munder sought an exact appraisal of the jewelry to determine the amount of bail.

Mrs. Taylor, 24, mother of two children, whose husband is overseas with the army, is accused of taking the jewels, which included a $25,000 ruby and diamond clip, while at summer parties in exclusive Westhampton beach and East Hampton and in New York.

Accounts of her wedding here on April 18, 1941, describe her as a descendant of Benjamin Harrison, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Presidents William Henry Harrison and Benjamin Harrison.

1,500 PLANES RIP NAZI RAIL LINES CLOSE TO FRONT

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—More than 1,000 heavy bombers and 500 escorting fighters smashed vital German communications and industrial targets close to the western front combat zones today. A war bulletin said 23 of the bombers and four of the fighters were missing.

The attack, centering on freight yards near Mainz, Mannheim, and Dusseldorf, was the third this week on the same general area from 50 to 100 miles ahead of advancing allied armies.

Hundreds of other allied warplanes bombed and strafed enemy troop concentrations and transport thruout northern Belgium and Holland.

G. O. P. LEADERS ASSAIL F. D. R. BUST SCHEME

Kemper Cites Provisions of Hatch Act.

Republican leaders yesterday took action to spike a scheme to collect a slush fund for the campaign of the New Deal and CIO political action committee to elect President Roosevelt for a fourth term thru the sale of Roosevelt busts to war plants, labor unions, and federal office and job holders.

The design to get the money from industrialists, labor, and pay rollers was revealed in Friday's TRIBUNE. It features pressure to compel purchases of imitation bronze busts of the President for $150 to $175. The original of the bust allegedly was carved by Alonzo Victor Lewis of Seattle, Wash.

Chicagoan Rejects Offer.

The plan was disclosed in a letter and brochure sent to a Chicago salesman who was solicited to handle arrangements in the middle west. The letter disclosed that salesmen thruout the nation have been approached with promises of big percentages. The Chicagoan refused to have anything to do with it, even tho the promotors argued that they had sidestepped the Hatch and corrupt practices acts.

Alonzo Victor Lewis Associates, 1411 Fourth Avenue building, Seattle, said the statuette bust is "22 inches high, weighs 30 pounds and is made of dealstone, a synthetic stone that is durable and looks like bronze."

James S. Kemper, chairman of the Republican national finance committee, reflected the attitude of the G. O. P. leaders after they had read the promotion letter and brochure. He said he had discussed the matter with Herbert Brownell Jr., of New York, Republican national chairman, and that Brownell was taking action.

Says It Violates Hatch Act.

Kemper, after his phone conversation with Brownell, said: "This proposal is a clear violation of several sections of the Hatch act."

Action already had been taken by Atty. John F. Tyrrell, G. O. P. state chairman of Illinois. Tyrrell telegraphed Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, as follows:

"In my official capacity as chairman of the Illinois Republican state central committee and as an individual American citizen, I hereby record my protest against the violations of the Smith-Connally and Hatch acts in the matter of Alonzo Victor Lewis Associates of Seattle.

Demands Biddle Investigate.

"It is my information that these two federal statutes have been and are being violated. The effort to sell thru the Democratic central committees of the various states synthetic statutes at $150 each and for them to resell these same statutes at prices ranging from $500 upward, is a fraud in itself. The entire presentation is another means of the CIO and PAC groups to evade and violate existing federal enactments regarding honest elections.

"I respectfully request that you as attorney general of these United States, under your oath of office, proceed immediately to investigate and determine whether any crime has taken place."

George B. McKibbin, in charge of the western national Republican headquarters, pointed out that the self-accusations of the promoters' printed matter, including indorsements by Democratic leaders, "are stronger than any condemnation I could voice. It's a typical scheme in which the New Dealers seek to evade the laws which they themselves helped pass—with a wink. It is a subterfuge that should not be countenanced or contributed to by anybody."

In Oregon Lew Wallace, Democratic national committeeman, said he told the promoters he would have nothing to do with the proposal. George Lavey, Multnomah county committee chairman, said: "The whole thing looks like a racket," and Henry Aiken, state committee chairman, said he was not interested.

Schroeder Will Address Girls' Republican Club

Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, will speak at 6 p. m. tomorrow when members of the Girls - Who - Save - Their - Nickels - to - Elect - A - Republican-President club gather at Republican western headquarters, 105 Adams st. Other speakers will include George McKibbin, assistant director of headquarters, and Mrs. Guy G. Frary, director of the women's division. Miss Mary Neff is president of the club, which has headquarters at 53 W. Jackson blvd.

UNION ATTORNEY MOVES TO QUASH SUIT BY WARD'S

Motions to quash the summons and dismiss a suit filed two weeks ago by Montgomery Ward & Co. against the United Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes union, local 20, an affiliate of the United Retail and Wholesale Employes union [CIO], was filed yesterday in United States District court by Atty. Francis Heisler.

The motion asserted that the court is without jurisdiction to hear the suit because the union is a New York organization. The motion also said that a similar suit was ordered dismissed by the Circuit Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia because directions of the war labor board are not reviewable by the courts.

Montgomery Ward's suit asks for a declaratory judgment against a WLB order of June 6 declaring expired contracts between the company and the union still in effect. The suit contends that the order was not issued in compliance with the war labor disputes act.

BUTCHER ACCUSED OF THREAT.

Peter Augustine, 51, 1532 N. Western av., a butcher, will be arraigned tomorrow on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Mrs. Marie Frystack, 35, 5315 Oakdale av., cashier in a market at 2001 N. Western av., who said that Augustine threatened her with a cleaver.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL.

Mrs. Marie McMahon, 58, of 6328 Greenwood av., died at her home yesterday, apparently of a heart attack.

BRITAIN TO KEEP ITS FOOD STOCKS, SAYS MINISTER

Plan to Relax Rationing for Own People.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The liberation of occupied countries and the consequent necessity of providing them with food pending resumption of their own production definitely are not going to affect stocks of supplies in this country, Col. John J. Llewellin, minister of food, promised Great Britain today. However, he said in a speech in Cambridge it is not yet possible to make any change in the present food rationing system despite allied victories which have permitted the easing of some other restrictions such as the blackout and home guard training.

The food minister made it plain that Britain intends to hang on to its food resources and as soon as the supply is sufficient there will be a relaxation in rationing for the English public.

Leaves It to Export Countries.

"We have sent some stocks," he said, "but no stocks that will cause us to diminish our supplies. Our people have been rationed for four or five years and it does not seem right that their food should be sent. In the main the supplies for liberated countries will have to come from the food exporting countries."

Reference to "food exporting countries" evidently was aimed at the United States which has become the world's champion exporter of food and other war materials under the lend-lease program. American food also has been used in the last few years not only by the British public but also by the British fighting forces along with French and Italian soldiers.

British Took Paris Credit.

In this connection it was being recalled today that the British claimed credit for supplying the first food to Paris apparently for propaganda purposes within a few hours after American forces had fought their way thru to the French capital. In the wake of advancing doughboys came a fleet of American made trucks laden with foodstuffs bearing signs, "Churchill promised you food. Here it is."

Llewellin also declared today that the Americans, Russians, and British intended to occupy the whole of Germany after Hitler's final defeat. The mistake was made in the last war in not securing an unconditional surrender but it won't be repeated this time the food minister asserted.

The crew of an army transport plane gave Elgin a thrilling half hour's exhibition of daredevil flying yesterday by dipping repeatedly over the heart of the city. HE CAN'T READ; NO ONE DOES IN GAS STAMP HOAX

The few citizens of Rockdale, a village near Joliet, who were not duped into buying some black market "gasoline coupons" were laughing last night after it was disclosed that the "coupons" were premium stamps from the general store in the community. The discovery was made by Henry Schelling, chief of the navy depot police, when he examined the coupons purchased by Antone Oberstar, a former mayor of Rockdale.

The coupons began filtering into Rockdale residents' pockets Friday after a Negro sweeper at the navy spare parts warehouse found a sheet of the stamps. The sweeper, whose name was withheld, couldn't read, but he confided to another sweeper who thought he could and was told the stamps were gasoline coupons.

Oberstar admitted he paid $1.50 for 20 stamps, but Schelling said the sweeper acknowledged that he sold them at two dozen for 50 cents until he learned he had a popular item. Then the price went up.

FBI AT MATTOON AS GAS PROWLER ATTACKS 5 MORE

Mayor Considers Calling State Police Aid.

BY CHARLES BALLENGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 9.—Two agents of the federal bureau of investigation arrived here today from Springfield and Mayor E. E. Richardson announced plans for bringing in a large force of state police as the city's gas spraying night prowler remained uncaught after a week of continuing depredations.

Attacks on five persons at two homes last night and a report of a previously unreported attack Thursday night—all in the prowler's favorite manner of spraying a "sickish sweet" gas thru an open bedroom window — brought the number of persons known to have been made ill by the bizarre assaults to 27.

Altho the FBI men refused to comment, it was said they were concerned chiefly with ascertaining the type of gas being used with a view to locating its source.

Police Force Short of Men.

Mayor Richardson said he believes public safety requires sufficient night police patrols to cover the entire community of 18,000 persons and that there are not enough men on the Mattoon police force to do the job. If the prowler is not caught by tomorrow, he said, he will ask Police Commissioner Thomas Wright to appeal to state police.

Public hopes for a mass meeting to spur the search for the prowler were dimmed by state authorities today. Officials told business men who planned the meeting tomorrow afternoon that it only would add to the rising hysteria which has gripped this community of 15,800 persons since the first fiendish attack with the unidentified "sweet, sickening" gas Saturday night. In a majority of the cases, the gas was sprayed thru open bedroom windows, causing the victims severe nausea and temporary partial paralysis.

Vigilante Action Opposed.

While some aroused citizens, armed with shotguns and rifles, joined police last night in search of the prowler, state officials opposed the idea of such undisciplined squads for fear some "quick trigger" vigilante might shoot night war workers returning home from late shifts.

Hopes of identifying the strange gas used by the prowler also were dimmed today with the report of Richard T. Piper, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal investigation at Springfield, that attempts to analyze a piece of cloth with a reddish stain had yielded no clews. The cloth was found Tuesday night on the porch of Mrs. Carl Cordes, who was burned about the face when she smelled it.

Four More Sprayed.

Four persons sleeping in one bedroom in the home of Mrs. Russell Bailey reported being made ill about 1:45 a. m. today when "sprayed liberally" with the gas thru a partly opened window. The four were Mrs. Bailey and two sisters, Miss Katherine Tuzzo and Mrs. Genevieve Haskell, and the latter's 7 year old son.

Romona Driskell, 11, fled from her home late last night when she and her mother, Mrs. Violet Driskell, were aroused by the prowler, who, they said, tried to remove the storm sash from their bedroom window. The girl said the fumes made her ill as she called for help from the porch.

The other newly reported victims were Miss Frances Smith, principal of the Columbian grade school, and her sister, Maxine.

Actress Married

DONA DRAKE.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 9 (AP).—Dona Drake, 22, film actress, disclosed yesterday that she has been married since Aug. 19 to Billy Travilla, studio dress designer. Miss Drake said she and Travilla were introduced a year ago by actress Joan Blondell and that the ceremony was performed in Santa Monica, Calif., by a municipal judge.

B-29 STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN AT DODGE PLANT

Heed CIO Chiefs and Army Officers.

An unauthorized strike conducted by more than 850 workers, which for a time halted production of B-29 Super Fortress airplane engines at the vast Dodge Chicago plant on the southwest side, was terminated yesterday afternoon when the workers agreed to return to their jobs pending negotiation of disputes by company and union officials.

However, the company reported late yesterday that only 342 second-shift workers of a total of 638 had reported for work.

Army officers and union leaders attending a stormy four hour meeting of more than 500 of the strikers in Marquette hall, 6908 S. Western av., impressed upon the men the urgent need for the engines they are turning out and persuaded them to agree to return.

The strike began without union sanction last Wednesday when several workers in the final assembly department protested the promotion of Stanislaw E. Twardosz, 2101 E. 93d st., and contended it violated the union's seniority provisions.

The company said that the worker had been promoted on the basis of merit and ability.

Promoted Month Ago.

Twardosz, a 29 year old machinist who was promoted to assembly line leader, disclosed last night that his elevation to a straw boss became effective a month ago.

"The strike was a surprise to me, altho it did seem there had been something 'fishy' going on [among other workers in the plant]," said Twardosz.

Twardosz, a graduate of Pullman Technical High school, said he has been a machinist for 11 years. He has never been a member of the CIO, but was affiliated with a union in the eight years he worked for the Ford Motor company.

He went to the Dodge plant about 18 months ago.

Has No Influence, He Says.

"My promotion wasn't discussed with me before it was made," said Twardosz, who denied charges he was a company "stooge." "I haven't a bit of influence with the front office."

Twardosz is married and the father of a daughter, 4. He has a brother in the army in Australia. "I am out there to do my job to turn out motors that are winning the war," he said.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED AGAINST TITLE FIRM AID

Paul P. Pullen, 621 Sheridan rd., Evanston, advertising executive for the Chicago Title and Trust company, was sued for divorce on grounds of cruelty yesterday. His wife, Ruth, secured an injunction from Superior Judge William J. Lindsay restraining him from molesting her. The divorce complaint charged that Pullen abused and assaulted her on six occasions, including Aug. 25, this year. The couple was married in 1913 and separated Aug. 25. They have one married daughter and three sons, the latter all in the armed forces.

Squirrel's Thrift Blamed for Fire That Razes Tree

Elgin firemen blamed a squirrel yesterday for starting the blaze which all but destroyed a big oak tree in Channing st. cemetery. Neighbors who summoned firemen said the blaze originated in the squirrel's nest, probably as result of matches or a cigaret stub carried there by the squirrel.

131 AGREE THAT POLICE CAPTAINS TEST WAS TOUGH

One hundred thirty-one police lieutenants took written examinations for captaincies yesterday in Wells High school. Sweltering candidates agreed "it was a tough one." Twenty-two vacancies are to be filled.

The examinations were supervised by James Osborne, secretary of the civil service commission. The lieutenants were seated in three rooms, with three monitors in each room. Other officials were present, among them Dean Rollin B. Posey of Northwestern university, who helped administer the tests.

Walter L. Gregory, president of the civil service commission, said results of the examination will not be released until all papers have been graded, including those of Lt. Matthew B. Murphy, now with the army in Australia. Murphy's examination, mailed July 12, was to be administered by his superior officer.

WE'RE PROUD OF OUR AWARD...

BUT YOU CAN BET WE KNOW OUR JOB IS FAR FROM FINISHED!

MERIT OF ACHIEVEMENT PRESENTED SUNDAY, SEPT. 10, 1944 TO RADAR-RADIO INDUSTRIES OF CHICAGO BY THE UNITED STATES NAVY

Today, during ceremonies held at Wrigley Field, the Radar-Radio Industries of Chicago receive a high honor! . . . A special United States Navy Award as recognition of conspicuous service to the Armed Forces! We, the seventy-five thousand men and women who make this vital equipment, accept this citation proudly. Yet—for us this Award is more than a mark of past achievement. It is our challenge to carry on with every ounce of continued effort until the final day of Victory is won!

The first award of its kind ever made in the nation's history! Another "first" for Chicago! Recognition of Chicago's spirit of work-to-win-the-war . . . recognition of unequaled cooperation in American industry!

FOR THESE 75,000 CHICAGO WAR WORKERS IT'S "AYE, AYE, SIR" UNTIL THE DAY WE TAKE TOKYO!

We know we've still got a job to do and we're determined to do it thoroughly—and quickly as we can! We will not slacken at our task until every piece of our equipment necessary to the strength of the Armed Forces is completed and delivered. Above all—we will endeavor to meet production schedules ahead of time because we know that the lives of our fighting men depend on the electronic war weapons we make! This is our pledge to the United States Navy and to the citizens of our country!

THIS PLEDGE TO THE UNITED STATES NAVY

is made by sixty-four Chicago manufacturers of radar-radio equipment joined together in cooperative effort for the purpose of achieving the successful performance of their wartime tasks.

NOW!

MORE THAN EVER, BUY AND KEEP MORE WAR BONDS!

The war must still be won! Put your dollars to work for the final drive to Victory!

Singer Is Bride

BETTY GARRETT.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 9 (AP).—Betty Garrett, Broadway stage singer, was married last night to Film Leading Man Larry Parks at St. Thomas Episcopal church. Parks, currently enacting a Russian paratrooper, appeared for the ceremony with a heavy beard required by the role. Their honeymoon will be deferred until the picture is completed. Miss Garrett was attended by a cousin, Miss Caroline Stone, and Lloyd Bridges was best man.

WORLD TO SEEK U. S. AS LEADER, MME. WEI SAYS

In her union of states, America has found the way to unity and justice within her boundaries, and to America the world must look for leadership after the war in working out a way to international coöperation and international justice if peace is to be a reality.

This opinion was expressed here yesterday by the wife of the Chinese ambassador, Mme. Wei Tao-ming, China's outstanding woman lawyer and its first woman judge. She arrived from Washington, D. C., to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

Discussing the failure of the peace plans negotiated after the first World war, Mme. Wei recalled that she had written 25 years ago, "This peace prepares for a future war!" Mme. Wei came to the United States to plead against the Shantung compromise, by which Chinese territory usurped by Germany, was opened to Japan. Only by a meticulous adherence to international justice can a peace that will endure be achieved, she asserted. Toward this desired end women trained in law have a "double" responsibility, she said.

Chicago Negro Pilot Kicks When Pals Hog Nazi Kills

ROME, Sept. 9 (AP).—An all-Negro Mustang group destroyed 29 German planes on the ground yesterday in attacks on the Ilandza and Alibunar airfields of Yugoslavia. Lt. Clarence D. Lester of 5329 Prairie av., Chicago, who flew in the second formation attacking Ilandza, said "it was damned selfish of those fellows in the first formation to leave us only three planes."

U-BOAT WAR CUT, SAY ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—With the principal U-boat operating bases in the Bay of Biscay neutralized by allied operations in France, enemy submarines have become "relatively ineffectual," President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill said tonight.

In a statement released thru the office of war information they said:

"Last month, due to the effectiveness of the allied operations in France, the principal U-boat operating bases in the Bay of Biscay were neutralized. As a consequence the Germans have been forced to operate their underseas craft from Norwegian and Baltic bases, thereby stretching even thinner their difficult lines of operation. The exchange rate between merchant ships sunk and U-boats destroyed continues to be profitable to the United nations' cause.

C-47 Cargo Planes Fly Gasoline to Moselle Front

U. S. 3D ARMY HDQ. IN FRANCE, Sept. 9 (AP).—A sky train of C-47 transports has flown in gasoline for Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's trucks, prime movers, jeeps, and armor on the Moselle front. The craft landed on forward air strips two days ago.

BYRNES EXPECTS CUT IN WAGES IN POST-WAR ERA

Higher Prices Predicted in Conversion Study.

new machinery substantially in the years in which such machinery is purchased. Byrnes said the excess profits levy cannot be lifted on V-E day because "we will still have war production and war profits" until the Pacific war is over. The depreciation clause would encourage new industry and reconversion, he said.

Cut in U. S. Workers Proposed.

8. Release of "many government workers" as federal control machinery is reduced.

9. Reconsideration by congress of the Byrnes proposal for a minimum weekly unemployment compensation of $20 for as long as 26 weeks. He said state unemployment systems have accumulated reserves of 5½ billion dollars and they should "now act to liberalize the benefits and make the state systems serve their true purpose."

In discussing employment prospects, Byrnes observed that "the prosecution of the war against Japan will demand the continued production of great quantities of war materials" and said "basic industries such as steel and textiles will not be affected" by the end of the European war.

He also indicated shipyard employment will continue at a high level, saying "the maritime commission, like the navy, has a tremendous task to perform in the war of the Pacific. The surrender of Germany will not lessen the necessity for the construction of certain types of ships, but it will make possible the cancellation of some ships."

Drop in Jobs "Inevitable."

But, Byrnes continued, it is "inevitable that in some particular industries and in some communities there should temporarily be reduced employment. This is more likely to occur where the curtailment is in government owned plants engaged entirely in war production and having no plans for civilian production."

To meet this situation Byrnes has appointed a committee which is at work interviewing contractors to determine whether they will exercise their options to buy or lease government owned plants.

In a seminar to explain his report to reporters, Byrnes said speed has been applied to that problem in the last week because "that's where the trouble will come." Altho many contractors are interested in buying or leasing plants, he said, it is obvious restrictions on disposal of these facilities will delay their reconversion and cause unemployment.

Given List of Plants.

He said the war department has provided him with a list of plants that it probably will want kept in a "stand-by" condition after V-E day and another list of those which will be available for conversion. The lists thus far are secret, he said.

He said in the defense plant corporation alone the government has 1,800 plants costing 18 billion dollars and that in the last year and a half 14 lessees have exercised their option to buy and have paid the government 25 million dollars.

Byrnes said that since reductions began more than a year ago, procurement agencies have canceled more than 18 billion dollars of authorized expenditures.

He added that Lt. Gen. Somervell, commander of the army service forces, with the approval of Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, has directed that authority be given him to suspend procurement immediately on up to 50 per cent of the materiel provided in the current strategic reserve.

Saving Put at Billion.

This reserve embraces supplies of initial equipment for an additional million men, and Byrnes estimated the cut would save a billion dollars. He said the Somervell decision will not result in reduction of existing orders but in reducing by 50 per cent orders placed after this date for strategic reserves.

Byrnes emphasized the ample supply of some munitions will not lessen the need for overcoming shortages in certain other critical supplies.

"Reports continue of the short supply of certain artillery ammunition, requiring our officers to restrict the number of rounds fired per day," he declared. "For the last week the conduct of the war, fortunately, has lessened the demand upon the supply of heavy artillery ammunition. But no one can tell when demands will again increase. The army cannot gamble as to the day of surrender."

Accounting Plans Discussed.

Byrnes reported that procurement agency representatives are conferring with contractors, agreeing in advance of termination as to methods of accounting, and settling such questions as the allotment of overhead expenses between war production and civilian production.

"The agencies will notify their contractors by telegram, when the defeat of Germany is announced, of the curtailment of war production in the contractor's plan," he said.

Byrnes concluded his report with an assertion that the "fear of timid people temporarily may retard our return to full production and full employment."

"But it will be only for a short time," he declared. "Today America is stronger than ever before. We should make the maintenance of the present national income and high level of employment our goal—and achieve that goal."

NAVY GIVES RANK OF COMMODORE TO CAPT. EMMET

Capt. Robert R. M. Emmet, commander of the Great Lakes Naval Training center, has been promoted to commodore, the navy department in Washington said yesterday. His promotion previously had been approved by the senate.

Commodore Emmet assumed command at Great Lakes in February, 1943. He played a leading role in the invasion of French North Africa and was awarded the distinguished service medal. During World War I., he won the navy cross for distinguished service in the North sea. A graduate of Annapolis, he has been in the navy 40 years.

Commodore Emmet's new rank corresponds to that of brigadier general in the army. The rank of commodore was abolished in 1899, and reëstablished last year for the primary purpose of giving flag officer status to commanders of small naval groups.

for the failure. He couldn't be wrong, so the system must be. He set out to destroy the America of opportunity.

Before his business failures Browder had already spurned his country in its hour of need. In 1917 he was sent to a Missouri jail as a slacker. When he got out of jail he sought to persuade others to resist the draft and was sent to Leavenworth penitentiary. The Communist party in the United States was organized while he was in prison. He joined it when he was released after the war.

In time the party sent him to Russia for training. While he was there he availed himself of the Russian postcard divorce system to get rid of his wife, the mother of his first child, and marry a party member. The second Mrs. Browder sneaked into this country without a proper passport.

Until they got on the New Deal pay roll the American Communists were never self-supporting. Browder returned to this country in 1928 as Stalin's pay-off man. He controled the subsidies from Russia and he took over the party, despite the opposition of many of the old line revolutionists.

When the expected revolution failed to materialize out of the depression Browder and the Communists fell in with the New Deal. In 1936, as the party candidate for President, he was advising voters, if they wouldn't vote for him, to vote against Landon. In that campaign also he anticipated Roosevelt by many months in the proposal to pack the Supreme court.

Only when Mr. Roosevelt was eager to follow Britain into the war while Russia was backing Hitler did Browder break, temporarily, with the New Deal. His followers picketed the White House, denouncing imperialist war and proclaiming that "the Yanks aren't coming." The New Dealers retaliated by indicting Browder for passport frauds. It must have been a great shock to the communist leader, accustomed to lying about everything, to be sent to prison for four years merely for lying about his own name.

The night after he was sentenced Browder got up at a meeting in Madison Square Garden to denounce his former friends. He recalled the support the Communists had given the New Deal candidates at the polls. He pointed out that Gov. Lehman of New York had been saved by communist votes two years before.

"Yes," he said, "these former associates of ours don't need us any more. What use are we to them now? In the days when they did want to rouse the masses we had the peculiar experience of having to restrain them. They were ultra-leftist; and very often we had to warn them that that kind of tactics is not good."

Hitler marched into Russia, Pearl Harbor took us into the war, and some months later Roosevelt pardoned Browder "in the interests of national unity." The pardon was a nice slap at Assistant Secretary of War Patterson. As a federal appellate judge he had written the opinion holding that Browder's sentence was a just and legal one.

Browder was a poor prophet. The New Deal does need him. He is again seeking to rouse the masses for it, thru his stooge, Hillman. They are seeking to convince millions of American workmen that the land whose opportunity Browder failed to grasp likewise holds no opportunity for them; that America should divide on class lines as Europe does; that class hatreds should govern American politics.

It is easy to see why Roosevelt needs Browder. It should be equally apparent why Browder needs Roosevelt. The Communists are not interested in Roosevelt's accomplishments, such as they are. Their eye is on his failures and his deficiencies. They see as readily as any one else the menace of the Roosevelt debt, the Roosevelt record of failure to end peace time unemployment.

In their plans Roosevelt is still Kerensky, as some of them assured Dr. Wirt he was in 1934. They have to keep Kerensky in office, else there will be no crash and no opportunity for the Communists to take over.

LESS TAXES, MORE JOBS.

Believing that the main domestic problem in this country after the war is to find jobs for returning soldiers and discharged war workers, the committee for economic development employed a group of distinguished experts to develop a program of tax revision which would promote a high level of production and employment. The committee was made up of men of widely varying social philosophies. It included Prof. Harold Groves of the University of Wisconsin, who has served as expert for the treasury department, the Wisconsin tax commission and for congressional committees; Prof. Henry Simons of the University of Chicago, whose opposition to the Ruml plan last year attracted widespread attention, and Dean Griffin and Prof. Paton of the University of Michigan. Others connected with the project included Beardsley Ruml, who sold the country on pay-as-you-go taxation; Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; President Flanders of the Boston Federal Reserve bank, and Gardner Means, who has been a consultant of the inner circle of New Dealers since early Roosevelt days. That such a diverse group could agree upon a program and a statement of tax policy is remarkable in itself.

The committee found to be true what has been stressed in these columns for years: that excessive taxes prolonged the depression, which had lasted 8 years when the war broke out. "If," said the committee in its report, "the deliberate aim were to hold down peace time volume of employment, our present tax system would go far to accomplish it."

Specifically, the committee proposed that the excess profits tax be repealed; that the present corporation income tax be reduced to between 16 and 20 per cent of net earnings, and that double taxation of income of corporations be ended. It urged these reductions because "taxes on corporations are taxes on job making." Next it advocated the elimination of the present 3 per cent normal tax on the little taxpayer, which allows no credit for dependents. It further proposed that the present combined tax of 23 per cent for the lowest bracket of taxable income be replaced by a single standard of not less than 16 nor more than 20 per cent. Recognizing that people of small means do not and should not put their money into untried business ventures, and that venture capital must come from men able to take risks, the plan provides for a considerable reduction of taxes in the higher income brackets. There are also provisions for the repeal of a great many excise taxes now burdening particularly those in the lower income brackets.

But if all these taxes are cut, what revenues will be left? The experts predicated their findings upon active business and an annual national income of 135 billion dollars. They found that under such circumstances with the rates proposed, the tax yield would be between 18 and 20 billion dollars. This would pay for twice the greatest expenditures the government had in any pre-war year, and leave a balance over for debt reduction. That would be something that has not happened for 12 years.

If congress will reform the tax system as suggested with the aim in view of making it possible freely to invest in new enterprises, we can have good times again. It was the taxes of the Roosevelt regime, discriminating heavily against job making, as much as anything, which prevented business from expanding at any time before the war by an amount sufficient to absorb the unemployed. In contrast, the country enjoyed its greatest period of prosperity at a time when the maximum income tax rate was 25 per cent.

MR. FLY, IT SEEMS, HAD A FRIEND.

James L. Fly, chairman of the federal communications commission, is in trouble again.

Mr. Fly is assiduous, but not necessarily in good works, as the house committee investigating him and his agency discovered and rediscovers from time to time. The committee is in stride again, revivified after frantic New Deal attempts to smother its investigation. Mr. Fly is a very hot baby and the committee keeps coming back to him, in spite of the obstacles placed in its way. The committee's new counsel, Mr. Sirica, has come up with the story of Station WFTL in Miami. According to the case he presented, that station, which was owned by Ralph A. Horton, entered a contract in 1942 to sell a part interest to another Miami man, and to employ a manager named Stephen A. Vetter.

It was testified before the committee that Fly told Horton that the transfer was illegal and that when it came to the attention of the FCC the station would probably be barred from the air. As a result of these threats, Sirica charges, Horton sold the station at an allegedly reduced price to George B. Storer.

Storer, who is now in the navy, is a golfing and bridge playing pal of Fly. The meeting between Fly and Horton took place in Storer's room in an Atlanta hotel and Sirica presented the committee with a receipted bill showing that the room occupied by Fly had been paid for by Storer.

This is not the first case in which Fly has been charged with using the power of the FCC to force owners of radio stations to sell out to his friends. Donald Flamm, owner of a New York radio station, charged that he was forced by such threats to sell that station to a bunch of New Dealers. Tommy the Cork, who left the Roosevelt brain trust with the announced intention of making a million dollars, was in on that one, too. The Democratic members of the investigating committee managed to stifle that investigation just as it was about to blow up all over Washington.

Mr. Fly is not unique. He is a mine run New Dealer and the acts with which he is charged are acts to be expected from men who operate under a system of government that increasingly abolishes the restraints and directives of statute laws and invests vast discretionary powers in favored individuals.

The New Dealers have labored tirelessly to present themselves as selfless men. They may be laboring to upset and change the government, to harass and shackle business, but they seek to present themselves as above the temptations that come with the powers they have seized. They would have the public believe that at the end of a day spent in chivvying their victims they retire to ascetic cots, warmed by their passion for reform. There were, of course, the Hopkins party and many other incidents to demonstrate that for supposed ascetics these holy men have a fairly normal fondness for caviar, vintage wines, boxes at the race track, and other appurtenances of soft living.

As a matter of fact, the so-called New Deal reformers have never had any difficulty getting along with the metropolitan bosses, who notoriously are in politics for what they get out of it. Their tactics and actions are indistinguishable, but the slot machine politicians are not quite so nauseating in their protestations of rectitude. Any time unrestrained power is placed in the hands of men on the scale that it has been placed under the New Deal administrative system, a considerable number of those men will recognize the opportunity to turn a penny for themselves and for their friends, and act on it.

The only strange thing about Mr. Fly and his ilk is that the people of the country have been so slow in catching on to them. Certainly they ought to have become suspicious long before now, if only because the New Deal gang spends so much time telling how honest it is.

SEN. McCARRAN'S VICTORY.

Sen. McCarran of Nevada has been renominated in the Democratic primary in his state. The bitter campaign waged on behalf of the senator's opponent by the communist controled CIO political action committee got nowhere. The CIOers said Sen. McCarran was an isolationist, a noninterventionist before Pearl Harbor, and for America first. In the CIO stronghold of Clark county [Las Vegas], Sen. McCarran beat Lt. Gov. Vail Pittman, the CIO candidate, by 1,580 votes.

Observers in Nevada say that the attacks on Sen. McCarran made friends for him. This is understandable. The Communists and left wing New Dealers denounce any candidate who stands for America first by implying that he is a seditionist or worse. That only serves to emphasize that he puts the interests of his own country above those of soviet Russia, Great Britain, and the other allies in Europe and Asia. The candidate who declares for America first is guilty of plain American patriotism, and that's no crime in Nevada or any other of the 48 states where people value their citizenship.

FREEDOM TO WORK.

[Kansas City Star.]

The labor practice of putting arbitrary restrictions on work by union members has been dealt a blow by government seizure of a group of machine shops in San Francisco. Last spring the war labor board ordered the local union officials to cease limiting union members employed in the shops to a 48 hour week. The order was ignored and the government seizure of the shops finally was resorted to.

The purpose here, Chairman Davis of the war labor board explains, was not to force any employe to work longer than the 48 hours per week but to get the arbitrary restriction removed so that any worker who desired to stay on the job longer would have the opportunity to do it.

BATTLE OF GERMANY

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

Preparing to speak on the forthcoming battle of Germany, I wondered why Hitler so extended himself: From the arctic circle to the coast of Africa, and from the Atlantic ocean to the Volga river, then wondered why conquerors always overreach themselves—or almost always do. Alexander the Great did. Charles V. did. Louis XIV. did. Napoleon did. In fact, Rome did. It never found a peaceful frontier and finally went to pieces.

The only conquerors I can think of who constrained themselves were William the Conqueror, President Polk, and Chancellor Bismarck.

After the Mexican war, there was a strong sentiment to annex the whole of Mexico, but Polk stood firm on the boundaries we hold to this day. Bismarck would take nothing from Württemberg, Bavaria, or Austria, and if he had had his way he would have taken nothing from France, in which case perhaps the war of 1914 might never have occurred, but Field Marshal von Moltke insisted on taking Alsace and Lorraine for military reasons, an annexation which France never forgave.

At the south of the line we are about to attack, the Germans are in this very territory. Whether they will try to hold it, we do not know, as our armies have not yet reached that front. In the last war, their line ran immediately north of Nancy and Luneville to Basel. The 1st division was in line there in 1918, but as the line was never attacked, we may assume it was strong. We may imagine a similar line will be occupied up to the junction of the Maginot line just east of Eupen and from the end of the Maginot line presumably along the east bank of the Meuse to its mouth.

As were the Roman wall in Britain and the Chinese wall centuries ago, the Maginot line was built to be a continuous impenetrable barrier. The cannon and machine gun positions all faced to the east, of course, with deep underground tunnels to protect the defenders. As you recall, the Germans turned this line in 1940 and took the forts from the rear.

I have no idea what the Germans have done in the way of building gun and machine gun positions facing west, but they have the use of the underground tunnels. Very likely they will not try to use the line as a barrier, but as part of a defensive system. Indeed, our map indicates that our troops have crossed the line north of Mezieres. This is in the region of the Ardennes forest—good defensible country—behind which lies Luxemburg, where the 33d division from Illinois was billeted after the last war, which contains many deep defensible ravines.

Our troops have crossed the Meuse river at Liege and are on the main line of the German advance into Belgium in 1914 and thereby on the route into Germany thru Aachen and Cologne.

The Germans doubtless will try to hold the Meuse [called Maas by the Dutch] to the seacoast. Shortly north of the Maas is the Waal, the Dutch name for the Rhine as it flows thru Holland. If this sector becomes the point of attack, as it may, because it is the easiest supplied and runs thru the flattest country, and if the rivers are successfully crossed, the Germans doubtless will rest their right flank on the Zuider Zee, and failing to hold there, on their Westwall line along the Dutch border.

I presume also there will be inundations as in the past, but these, like the river barriers, should not be great obstacles to our unlimited numbers of landing craft.

Why the German army, which invented blitzkrieg and broke all defensive opposition, should have turned to the tactics of their defeated enemies is a mystery. All of the German writers on military affairs, and most of the writers on this subject have been German, strongly deprecate such a form of strategy. They may advocate the strategy known as "economy of forces," which is one of those phrases that, like many of our military phrases translated word for word from the French, means nothing at all in English, tho the French idiom is expressive.

Another way of stating the principle is that "to try to be strong everywhere is to be weak everywhere." This principle was well stated by the Confederate Gen. Forrest when he said generalship consisted in getting there first with the most men. Some wag chose to repeat this as getting there "fustest with the mostest." The joke will endure where the epigram will not, and this really terrible, brutal soldier will be known in history as a joke.

Whenever an army is forced to the defensive, the principle has been to hold the front lightly and keep in reserve a mass to maneuver for counter-attack. It may be objected that Wellington at Waterloo had all of his troops in line, but that was an exceptional case, because he was counting upon Blücher's Prussians to deliver the counter-attack, which should and did win the battle.

Sometimes conditions are such that the general has no alternative to a passive defense. Such was Lee's position after the battle of the Wilderness, and skilfully he handled it, but only to end at Appomattox.

Washington waited for his enemy at Brooklyn, White Plains, Fort Washington, and Philadelphia, and was defeated each time. His victories at Trenton and Princeton and his triumph at Yorktown were offensive campaigns.

If the Germans employ the same method of defense at the Westwall that they used at the coast—namely: Trying to hold all of it statically, Gen. Eisenhower, I presume, will repeat the tactics of Normandy, watch most of the line, and concentrate an immense superiority at the point he chooses to attack. With the means at his disposal, his determination, and the brilliant generalship of his subordinate, Bradley, I have no doubt of the result.

Test Your Horse Sense

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Calipers are usually associated with which type of worker? Carpenter Machinist Painter Electrician.
2. The number of prongs in the usual dinner fork is Two Three Four Five.
3. Which one of the following types of nut grows on bushes or shrubs? Walnut Pecan Hazelnut Chinquapin.
4. The word "voile" should make one think of which worker? Bartender Housewife Plumber Painter
5. In taking your blood pressure, a physician employs a Sphygmomanometer Barometer Micrometer Hydrometer.
6. In the left hand column below are listed five famous characters from the Bible. Try to associate them with the appropriate phrases in the right hand column which pertain to each. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Paul [v] "A sycamore tree"
[b] Zaccahaeus [w] "A tentmaker"
[c] Joseph [x] "A coat of many colors"
[d] Saul [y] "A mighty hunter"
[e] Nimrod [z] "The Witch of Endor"

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

OLD TIME CURES OF CHEST DISORDERS.

We have come a long way from the folklore cures of past centuries. When tuberculosis was more widespread than it is today, many and varied were the prescriptions guaranteed to restore health. John Wesley, who wrote on medicine as well as religion, insisted that the patient fast for a day or two. Thereafter, he was permitted to eat an ounce of hard bread. Some time later, the usual diet was resumed. The program was adhered to for a month to six weeks. Not only would "consumption" vanish, but asthma as well.

For the latter ailment, a surefire antidote was to oblige the sufferer to stand with his back to a sugar maple tree. A friend then bored a hole in the trunk, and inserted a lock of the victim's hair. The tresses were secured with a wooden plug and cut off close to the scalp. Still another panacea was pulverized crab shells, eaten on bread and butter, three times each day. If the individual lacked calcium we can see some value in this formula, as no doubt a portion of the mineral would be absorbed.

Many of us can remember cubeb cigarettes. They were probably impregnated with stramonium, which will ease spasmodic contractions of the smaller bronchial tubes, so characteristic of asthma. The use of this combination arose from the various vapors which were breathed in and which were said to relieve disorders of every type. One writer asserted that cloves set on a hot griddle would provide an essence which, when inhaled, would banish bronchitis. Thomas Beddoes [the father of the poet] placed victims of tuberculosis on the second floor of a stable. He believed that the warm air and effluvia from the bodies of the cows would destroy the malady.

Foods were not neglected. Many an old recipe called for the yolk of an egg in an ounce of olive oil. Some times this concoction was beaten into an emulsion and applied to the chest. Plant remedies included althaea, burdock, elder, mallow, walnut, and salvia. The leaves and stems of the plants were steeped and the tea utilized as a beverage.

Ocean bathing was popular and, altho it cut short the life of Robert Burns, it may have been of some benefit. It forced the patient to visit the shore, where rest was undoubtedly helpful. It was thought that the stronger the brine, the better, and those who were unable to arrange a sojourn on the coast could rub sea salt into the skin of the back, bathe in a solution, or drink the natural product.

Evidently pleurisy was a common symptom. At any rate, discomfort was severe enough to call for drastic treatment. A well known mixture was an ointment which consisted of the fat of ducks, into which a bit of bear's bile had been dropped. Lacking these materials, unsalted butter could be rubbed on altho one could not expect the pain to leave quite so promptly. If distress still continued, the sufferer was admonished to go to the road, pick up a small stone, and press it firmly against the aching side.

These nostrums are mentioned only to call attention to the outstanding advances that have been made in the science of healing. We no longer employ a drug unless we understand just what it will do and how it affects body functions. First, we must know the cause of a given symptom. The attack can then be made upon eradicating it. This explains how we have learned that certain infections will yield to the sulfa compounds, to penicillin, to vaccines, or to antitoxins.

CAN'T EAT.

R. P. writes: I have a hungry feeling all the time and yet when I sit down to the table I cannot eat. What is wrong with me?

REPLY.

The basis of this condition [anorexia nervosa] is an emotional upset, born of fear. After a time the habit may become fixed. Small but frequent feedings are suggested, with no relation to the dining room. The main objective must be the development of a stable nervous system.

TERMINOLOGY.

M. C. writes: Why is vitamin B called by so many different names?

REPLY.

For some years after the discovery of vitamins, it was believed that B was a single substance. Research in the last quarter of a century has proved that it contains many different fractions—thiamin, nicotinic acid, riboflavin, pyridoxin, etc.

NOT INHERITED.

N. N. writes: I am engaged to marry a man whose father and two aunts are hump-backed. Any danger of our future offspring inheriting this disorder?

REPLY.

None. Pott's disease is usually the result of tuberculosis of the spine. The pasteurization of milk has forestalled this danger.

NO EFFECT.

A. T. writes: Will ice cream, soft drinks, and sweets aggravate hay fever?

REPLY.

No influence unless the edibles contain substances to which you are sensitive. They will then add to your troubles.

MICROBE INVADERS.

A. L. writes: Is ozena contagious?

REPLY.

Yes. Putrefactive germs are always present.

BRITISH SNOB WRITERS.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 31.—When will the parade of British snob writers cease? On the heels of Hilary Saunders, who wrote a lick and promise book about the United States in which he charged Americans were a "foreign people," there comes D. W. Brogan, a member of the radical London school of economics, with his "The American Character."

The Saturday Review of Literature prints a preview chapter from Brogan's volume. Discussing the American army, Brogan chides it for wastefulness. Brogan says: "It is the army of an untidy country." He says American farmers are "lazy people." He criticizes America for having "colossal business enterprises, often wastefully run in detail," and deplores America for producing "gadget minded originals as Franklin and Ford." This Britisher then adds that our George Washington was no military genius, and that America considers war "almost all the time a nuisance."

To Mr. Brogan I would say: Thank God America considers war a nuisance, and not a business, as the British believe, and thank Providence for gadget minded Franklins and Fords. As for lazy farmers, Mr. Brogan forgets American farmers have been working overtime to feed not only America, but the snide, sharpshooting, snoblike Britishers.

HE LIKES OUR CLIMATE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28. — A short time ago one of the motion picture producers in Los Angeles was making a film showing scenes in Chicago, but something was wrong with the picture. The architecture of the buildings was correct, the scenery was perfect, but still it did not look just like Chicago, so experts were called in and they quickly told the producers that the actors were moving about like California people. They did not show the enthusiasm, pep, and quick action that are so common to citizens of Chicago. They walked about leisurely, like Californians.

Just what is it that makes Chicago people so filled with energy, enthusiasm, and pep? The cold winters, the balmy springs, the warm summers, and the delightful falls make for better health that is evidenced by the way Chicago people walk, think, and act.

Yes, the Lord is good to Chicago people. He brings a change of climate right to their door. They don't have to go thousands of miles away for a change of climate. All thru the south there are signs over the butcher shops reading "Chicago meat," and Chicago meat is far superior to the meat of cattle grown in the south. The climate has the same effect on the human body that it has on the animals. For good health, invigorating bodies, and keen intellects, Chicago has as good a climate as any place in the world.

THE NAZIS ARE STILL IN NORWAY?

Bark River, Mich., Aug. 31. — Mr. John C. Dodd in the Voice of the People states that "When the peace is written, countries like Holland, Denmark, Norway, Australia, England, and France should pay to the United States part of our war debt for their liberation and for the aid we gave them."

I would like to ask what aid Norway and Denmark have received from the United States or the allies? So far, it looks to me like the other way around. At the beginning of the war Norway had about the fourth largest merchant fleet. In quality it ranked as No. 1. This fleet immediately went into the allies' service. Many of these modern ships have been lost. Quite a number of the smaller ships were converted into mine sweepers and escort ships, so that 70 ships of the Norwegian navy are serving with the allied navies. Thousands of young Norwegians are serving in the armies of the allies. Norway has received no lend-lease from the United States. In 1923 and 1924 Norway made two loans in this country of 20 million dollars and 25 million dollars respectively, at 5% and 6% interest. These loans were paid in full on July 31, 1944.

OLE HARSTAD.

WHERE FORREST RESIGNED.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 1.—I am glad to see that The Tribune is aiding in debunking the continued misquotation of Gen. Forrest's statement including "fustest" and "mostest."

My father, Col. John Bell Brownlow, who commanded the 9th Tennessee volunteer cavalry [Union], was a great admirer of Gen. Forrest's military genius and I can recall how, after the turn of the century, he was always rather indignant when this language began to be attributed to Forrest. Forrest was not an "educated" man in the modern sense of the word, but the most illiterate southerner neither then nor now would use "fustest" or "mostest."

After the war, and up to the time of his death as majority leader of the senate under Cleveland, Isham G. Harris was a close friend of my father, altho they continued to differ politically. My father once asked Harris if there was any truth in the story that Forrest had once contemplated resigning his command. Harris replied, "Hell, he did resign." He then gave this explanation. It had been announced in a dispatch from Richmond that President Davis would promote Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Wheeler to lieutenant general and a day or two later Forrest came into Harris' office and handed Harris his resignation. Harris was then war governor of Tennessee and Forrest originally had been commissioned by him. Upon being asked the reason, Forrest replied that he absolutely refused to serve under "Little Joe" Wheeler.

Harris took the first train to Richmond. When he walked into Davis' office and the president of the Confederacy inquired what brought him to Richmond, Harris replied, "I have come to get a commission as lieutenant general for Bedford Forrest." Davis demurred and when Harris injected the name of Wheeler into the discussion, Davis, who was notoriously partial to West Pointers, stated that Wheeler was a West Point graduate and that Forrest had only a limited education. To this Harris replied, "Mr. President, God Almighty did for Bedford Forrest what neither West Point, your excellency nor the whole Southern Confederacy can do for Joe Wheeler—he made a great soldier of him. I am not leaving here until I get Forrest's commission."

When Harris returned to Nashville and sent for Forrest, he handed the general both his resignation and his new commission.

LICENSE TO ROB.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt will make his first speech in his effort to secure a fourth term at a convention of the teamsters union during September. This will be a very congenial group for him to address. During a strike in 1941, a New Jersey dairy farmer was held up with firearms, and forced to pay $8.41 before he was permitted to drive his own truck, carrying his own milk, into New York City. The union members who did this were convicted for this outrage in a United States District court, but, on their appeal to the Roosevelt Supreme court, they were held not guilty of any crime, the decision having been written by the then Justice James F. Byrnes, with whom five other justices concurred. Chief Justice Stone alone dissented, and stated that this monstrous decision had made "common law robbery an innocent pastime."

Will the President in his speech to this union congratulate it that its members have license from his Supreme court to rob farmers and other citizens not members of unions with force and arms, and will he explain to all of us how this harmonizes with the revered democratic principle of "equal rights to all, special privileges to none"? The case is Local 807 vs. United States, 351 United States 524.

A "HOSPITAL ROOM" AT HOME.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—I have often thought that when the time comes that we are again at peace I should like to build a home. I would add to it an up-to-the-minute sick or hospital room, in which there would be nothing lacking for the comfort of the patient as well as the nurse. I have never seen or even heard of any one having such a room as I here mention.

Some people build a spare room or guest room that's all very good, but in most cases such rooms are seldom used, or only too often are used by some sponging person who never knows when his welcome expires. Is it not much more sensible to have such an extra room for illness than to invest money in a so-called guest room? If builders would suggest building or adding such a room to the home it would certainly stir the interest of the prospective owner.

THE MEMBERS RUN HIS UNION.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—For some time your paper has been printing letters in the readers' column from people who sign their names as "Union Member" or other aliases, who condemn organized labor and labor unions.

Your paper of Sept. 1 carried a letter headed: "Labor Dictators" and signed "Union Member," in which the writer says: "The rank and file of any labor union has nothing at all to say about its policies or the running of the union," and berates labor organizations further by saying that organization officials tell members what to think and how to vote.

For the last 22 years I have been a member of a union in Chicago which is affiliated with the AFL, and I know that there is no truth to this "Labor Dictators" letter, when he refers to "any union." There are possibly a few hoodlum unions or company unions in Chicago which attempt to dictate to their members how and whom to vote for—but not a law abiding union. All these years that I have been a member of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America we members have never been told whom or how to vote for in either city, state, federal or organization elections. Our organization journal, for which I have been a correspondent for the last 16 years, at times makes suggestions as to who are friends and foes of labor. But I would venture to say that you will find as many Republicans as there are Democrats among us.

The chances are the party who signed himself as "Union Member" has never attended a union meeting and has gathered his impressions from hearsay. A union card in any legitimate labor organization gives the holder a voice and a right to vote on any organization affair. I have at times heard members of our organization criticize officers and actions taken at meetings. I have asked these lads if they attended meetings and they would say no. They have no right to criticize the actions taken by the majority who were there to vote.

I am not a union official and never have been, but if you could see organized labor as I have in the last 22 years, seeing the good it has done for not only the American worker but for industry as well, you wouldn't pay so much attention to letters such as that of "Union Member."

As far as a true American worker is concerned, a bad labor organization is better than none.

THE PALACE GUARD.

Park Falls, Wis., Aug. 30.—While we all know that Mr. Roosevelt loves power and is a master of showmanship and theatricals, I sometimes feel he is entitled to our sympathy as he has surrounded himself with the most cold-blooded self-seeking gang that ever gathered around any ruler.

They are there for what they can get and they know they must keep him there to remain themselves. Most of them are discredited by and renegades from other cults, isms, or parties. There is not one in his circle of advisers that was ever heard of before he picked him up. They are barnacles on the ship of state and must be scraped off.

LAWYER'S CHARGES.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—1. I should like to know if a lawyer can charge a person for a visit to his office concerning a divorce and, if so, [2] how much he can charge.

V. A.

1. In general you should expect lawyers to charge for office interviews, just as you expect doctors to charge.

2. The amount would depend on the lawyer's standing, the nature of the problem, and on other facts that are not before us.

The veterans' administration automatically sends applications for insurance benefits and widow's pensions, etc., to the named beneficiary within a month or six weeks following the death of the service man. The only time the beneficiary should take any action is when more than two months elapse after the death of the Yank and no word has been received from the veterans' administration. Application by letter may then be made to the director of insurance, veterans' administration, Washington 25, D. C., or to the nearest regional office. Benefits are automatically retroactive to the date of death of the insured.

GREEN ATTENDS OPENING FETE OF G.O.P. OFFICE

Democrats Are Poised to Begin State Drive.

Republican campaigners, who started their state drive last week, opened their state headquarters in the La Salle hotel with a crowded reception yesterday. Democratic state candidates got poised to begin their rounds downstate tomorrow and Tuesday.

Gov. Green visited the reception in the La Salle and met with County Chairman George Fisher and the county candidates in an executive session. Others on the state ticket took their week-end rest in the field, ready to resume their meetings this week. State Chairman John F. Tyrrell, National Committeeman Werner W. Schroeder, and Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, greeted the several hundred party workers who jammed the third floor corridor in the La Salle thruout the afternoon.

Concentrate on Registration.

County Chairman Fisher said that committee members will concentrate on registration in the next month. He said half a million eligible voters in Cook county were unregistered or improperly registered, and that this group should be a source of Republican gain.

All the divisions of state campaign will be fully staffed this week, said State Chairman Tyrrell. Offices for the labor, veterans', women's, and similar organizations are grouped around the chairman's suite on the third floor of the La Salle and were open to visitors yesterday.

Lucas to Open Drive.

Two Democratic tours will start downstate this week. Sen. Lucas will open his campaign for reëlection at Decatur tomorrow night and on other days of the week will speak at Vandalia, Carbondale, Harrisburg, West Frankfort, and Marion.

State's Atty. Courtney, nominee for governor, and three other candidates will open at Rockford tomorrow night and on the three days following will appear at Rock Island, Galesburg, and La Salle. With Courtney will be Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, nominee for congress at large; Earl Merritt, state treasurer, and Casimir Griglik, clerk of the Supreme court.

BEATEN BY HOLDUP MEN.

Sigmund Frankowicz, 33, of 8307 Buffalo av., who was taken to the South Chicago hospital for treatment of bruises and a possible skull fracture, told police two men strong armed him early yesterday and robbed him of his wallet and $10. He said the assault occurred in Russell Square park, at 83d st. and South Shore dr.

SIGN FOR DRAFT ON REACHING 18, YOUTHS WARNED

Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois state selective service director, warned yesterday that boys who attain their 18th birthday and do not register for the draft face a possible five year prison sentence, or a $10,000 fine, or both. "The law requires that every young man must register on the day he becomes 18," Armstrong stated. "Some young men have the erroneous idea that they may put off registering until they are found out and forced to appear before the local board."

Police Seek Attacker of a 17 Year Old Girl

Shakespeare av. police yesterday were seeking a man who attacked a 17 year old girl in an alley at the rear of 2033 N. Wood st. Friday night after she had accepted a ride while waiting for a street car at Damen and Fullerton avs. The girl was taken to County hospital. She described her attacker as being about 28 and well dressed.

NEW DEAL DRIVE TAKEN OVER BY REDS—BRICKER

Assails Roosevelt Link to Sidney Hillman.

BY GUY GENTRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 9.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, accepting the Vice Presidential nomination of the Republican party, tonight told nearly 1,000 Indiana Republicans crowded into the French Lick Springs hotel that "decent American voters will not travel in such political company" as the communistic forces which have taken control of the New Deal campaign.

"In its alliances with Hague and Kelly and Hannegan and Hillman and Browder, the New Deal has achieved a new low in American politics," Bricker said. "The vast body of decent American voters will not travel in such political company.

"The cynical and sinister bid for power of this unholy alliance will be overwhelmingly rejected. The nation proposes to remain American."

Into Hillman's Hands.

Bricker, making his first scheduled speech of the campaign before the Indiana Republican Editorial association, charged that President Roosevelt delivered the Democratic party into the hands of Sidney Hillman, the radical leader of the CIO political action committee, when he instructed National Democratic Chairman Robert Hannegan in their pre-convention conference to "clear everything with Sidney."

"It is time to elect a President who will clear everything, not with Sidney, but with congress and the American people," Bricker said. "Thomas E. Dewey is that man."

Warning that this is a year of vital decisions, Bricker declared the paramount issue of the campaign is:

"Shall the United States continue to be a Republic?"

Wage War and Remain Free.

"It is for us this year," he said, "to prove again that representative government can wage war and remain free—that to defeat tyranny in the world we need not sacrifice our constitutional rights and traditional freedom—and that America possesses a reservoir of fresh leadership to which it can safely turn, even in the heat of conflict, and upon which it must rely to keep us a virile nation."

The nominee pointed out the most liberal government is that in which the individual citizen is the source of all power and the most reactionary is that in which the "individual lives and moves and has his being only by sufferance of the government."

"Fr m its inception," Bricker charged, "the New Deal has been moving in that direction. It believes that you, the people, are not competent to determine your own needs and that you are unable to govern yourselves. It reasons, therefore, that the government must order every act of your personal lives, every day from morning until night and from the cradle to the grave."

He Quotes Tugwell.

Bricker quoted Rexford Guy Tugwell, whom he described as one of the early prophets of the New Deal, as saying. "We have a century and more of development to undo. . . ."

"And so the New Deal launched a program of management," Bricker declared. "It was unintelligent, uncompromising, dominating, and incoherent management. Governmental planners were hostile to risk capital. They stifled small business, forced distribution of their earnings and made it impossible for them to expand.

"In spite of this record, the New Deal now asks for a fourth term. Again it has the sinister support of notoriously corrupt political machines such as those of Hague of New Jersey, Kelly in Chicago, and Pendergast of Missouri. In addition it has the fervent support of Sidney Hillman and his political action committee. It is no secret that this committee, including its communistic adherents, proposes to buy this election with money extracted from the honest and patriotic workers of this country."

Four Point Program.

Bricker, declaring "the Republican party proposes to reëstablish liberty at home," laid down the following program:

"First," he said, "We must clean our governmental house of the debris with which it is now cluttered and which has been accumulating during the 11 years of the New Deal.

"Second, we must restore responsible cabinet government in Washington.

"Third, the Republican party proposes to end the reckless trend toward centralization of all power in the federal government."

Bricker spoke to crowds numbering several hundreds during the afternoon at Mitchell, where he left his train and started by auto for French Lick; at Orleans, and at Paoli, where James Tucker, newly appointed assistant to National Chairman Brownell, introduced the Vice Presidential nominee to his fellow townsmen.

PENNSYLVANIA G. O. P. ASSAILS ONE MAN RULE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP).—The Pennsylvania Republican state committee, opening its campaign today in the Presidential election, denounced "one man government" which it said had "substituted directives for due process of law and debauched the intellectual honesty of the people's court."

The committee, indorsing the national Republican platform 100 per cent, adopted a resolution stating:

"This one man government has plunged the people deeper and deeper into debt for 12 years, has mortgaged the future of our children in a long series of costly and disastrous experiments, has overrun the states with its agents who have pried into the private affairs of all our citizens, has ruled by devious and assumed authority. . . ."

REVOLVER IS STOLEN.

Robert McCracken, 5058 Kenmore av., told police Friday that a .38 caliber snub nose revolver was stolen from his home.

2 HELD IN QUIZ OVER $2,980 IN MISSING CIGARS

Charges of larceny against a Medinah club house detective and a bellhop, who pleaded guilty in Racine av. police court yesterday to theft of 10 boxes of cigars from a stand in the club, were continued until Tuesday to enable police to question the pair about the disappearance of $2,980.96 worth of cigars in the last 19 months.

Harry Williams, 62, of 613 Wrightwood av., the house detective, served 30 days in the Bridewell for assault with a deadly weapon in 1917, it was reported. Theodore Callin, 35, of 6508 N. Ashland av., the bellhop, has a record of 14 arrests and served a year and a day in Leavenworth, Kas., in 1930 for a narcotics law violation, police said.

The men were arrested Thursday when they registered in the hotel at 648 N. Dearborn st., while carrying a box containing the stolen cigars. James Hamill, Chicago supervisor for the firm which operates the Medinah club stand, told the court $1,264.16 worth of cigars had disappeared from the stand since Jan. 1 and that $1,716.80 worth was missed in 1943.

TAVERN OWNER DIES.

Max Peretz, 59, of 6947 Sheridan rd., owner of a cocktail lounge at 6249 Cottage Grove av., suffered a fatal heart attack yesterday at his home.

REPORT 3 NEW POLIO CASES IN CITY; TOTAL 89

The Chicago board of health reported yesterday three new cases of infantile paralysis within the city. Those afflicted are a boy, 16 months old; a boy, 9 years, and a girl, 4. There were no deaths.

The total number of cases since Jan. 1 is 89, with three fatalities. In the similar period last year there were 530 cases and 56 deaths, said Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the health board.

One new case was reported in the county outside the city yesterday, the victim being a 4 year old girl in Evanston. The suburban record thus far this year is 47 cases and two deaths, compared to 145 cases and 15 deaths in the comparable period of 1943, said Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, head of the county health unit.

Waukegan got its first infantile paralysis case of the season yesterday. He is Charles Hoefflin, 11, son of Mr .and Mrs. Harold Hoefflin, 454 Hickory st., Waukegan. He is in Vic-Lake county, all in Highland Park.

The Chicago Motor club issued a warning to parents yesterday that paralysis quarantine precludes travel in the Milwaukee area. Children 16 or under are not permitted to travel in the Milwaukee region without permits from the Milwaukee board of health.

G.O.P. CONFIDENT OF CLEAN SWEEP IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Lethargy of Democrats Enhances Prospects.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 9.—South Dakota is safe for the G. O. P. ticket, national and state, in the opinion of detached observers. Republican chiefs rate the state about in the same category of party strongholds as Vermont and Maine.

Democrats appear languid. When the Democratic state convention met last week in Aberdeen 24 counties out of the state's 69 were not represented, a fact gloomily referred to by speakers. Among those not troubling to send delegates was Brown county, host to the convention.

Talks with folks on a bus here from Fargo, N. D., and on the streets and elsewhere here indicate strong currents of Dewey-Bricker sentiment. The G. O. P. national ticket shows undoubted evidences of popularity. Dewey was far out in front in straw votes on Republican candidates for the nomination in polls before the national conventions.

1940 Majority Recalled.

Politicians point to 1940, when South Dakota was at the top of the ten states carried by Willkie, in vote percentages. President Roosevelt lost the state by 45,703 votes. Out of a state vote of 308,427, the Republican ticket got 57.4 per cent, the highest ratio given by any state that went Republican on the Presidency. This time, from all present appearances, the state again is headed to the G. O. P.

There is no excitement about politics in the air as yet. Local political writers say it's quiet as a church, but there is plenty of quiet discussion. The "undecided vote" at this period is said by men who have toured the countryside to be considerably lower than reported in some other areas. The farmers are rated by Republicans as being more anti-New Deal than ever.

This farm sentiment has been manifested in elections from 1938 until the present. The Republicans have a solid state delegation in congress—two senators and two representatives—and they have the statehouse at Pierre. The state legislature is overwhelmingly Republican, with 10 Democrats out of 110 in the two branches. Gov. M. Q. Sharpe has abolished the 2 per cent campaign levy on state employes and all campaign funds are voluntary.

Paper Hails Strike Record.

Sidney Hillman and his CIO political action committee cut no weight in the Coyote state. The CIO influence is negligible, American Federation of Labor unions having managed to keep it out. The Daily Argus-Leader here dwelt yesterday upon the unblemished record of Sioux Falls in war time strikes.

Not since Pearl Harbor have employes in any Sioux Falls industry gone on strike, Francis K. McDonald, secretary of the South Dakota Federation of Labor, noted recently.

McDonald said all officers of the 35 local AFL unions, embracing between 5,000 and 6,000 workers, are citizens who have lived here some time. All are bonded, and union expenditures are subject to review by the organizations. The Argus-Leader said efforts on the part of outside agitators to raise a rumpus in the packing and other industries here have been resisted by local labor, and there is no chance for racketeering.

Convention Scene One Factor.

These factors seem of influence in the political thinking. As in rural regions of Minnesota, North Dakota, and elsewhere, folks out this way appear to have an unfavorable impression of the picture at the Democratic national convention of party bosses from big cities going before Hillman, hat in hand.

Both Republican senators from this state are being applauded by constituents for recent utterance in Washington. President Roosevelt's remark in his Bremerton, Wash., address that "We were not allowed to fortify Guam" is discussed on the street here, and newspapers have been carrying the real story of this political football as developed in Washington. Sen. Gurney is up for reëlection, and is regarded by Republicans as almost certain of winning.

Sen. Bushfield's charges this week in the senate that plans now before the Dumbarton Oaks security conference at Washington would give the President power to declare war without consent of congress are being discussed widely. His friends say Bushfield speaks South Dakota language. In these regions, one uncovers sentiment for prevention of war in the future thru international organization but against an international police force in which Americans might be under the thumb of an outside nation.

2 REPUDIATE PART IN 'REPUBLICAN' CLUB BACKING SEN. LUCAS

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Two southern Illinois men today repudiated any connection with a Democratic campaign organization claiming to be composed of Republicans supporting Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.].

"I have never supported the Democratic ticket," protested Mayor Frank P. Parker of Harrisburg, who identified himself as a life-long Republican actively working for Richard J. Lyons, the G. O. P. senatorial nominee. Parker said he was "embarrassed and humiliated" because Democrats had announced in Chicago he is a Lucas supporter.

Dr. R. J. Joseph at Belleville announced he had shipped back to Democratic headquarters the propaganda he was supposed to have used as district chairman of the alleged Republicans-for-Lucas club.

"I didn't know they were appointing me and I don't have any time for politics," Dr. Joseph said. He identified himself as a regular Democrat. He was asked whether he intended to support the Democrat senator. He said he didn't know about that.

BICYCLE DEATH HELD ACCIDENTAL.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Marie Greenstreet, 17, of Bradley, near Kankakee, who was struck by an automobile while riding a bicycle on route 54 north of Bradley on Sept. 1.

NEW DEAL LOSES GRIP ON VOTERS IN LITTLE EGYPT

BY ROBERT HOWARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carlyle, Ill., Sept. 9.—The downstate's rising tide of opposition to President Roosevelts's New Deal is symbolized here by A. B. Lager, who for 22 years was a Democratic leader in the Illinois legislature. Now he is the Republican candidate for state's attorney of Clinton county. The swing to the G. O. P. of old line Democrats is general in rural areas.

It is time that Jefferson and Jackson and Cleveland Democrats get out of the party when Hillman and Browder take it over, Lager said today.

Lager, in abandoning the Democratic party, has full confidence he will be elected Nov. 7, in what has been regarded as a Democratic county. His optimism is supported by the prediction of Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator, that the Republican ticket will sweep downstate Illinois by at least 400,000 votes.

Lyons and Lager Speak.

Lyons and Lager, who served together in the Illinois house of representatives, spoke from the same platform here last night.

Until his defeat in the 1942 primary, Lager was one of the most prominent Democratic legislators. As chairman of the house roads and bridges committee, he handled important highway legislation. When Gov. Horner was in office, he was regarded as an administration spokesman.

Local Republicans who knew of Lager's antipathy for the New Deal gave him the nomination for prosecutor on a "white-in" basis. A plump man with a ringing voice, he has been an effective camapigner. Local Republicans say that with Lager's help they can carry the county by 4,000 votes.

"The New Deal campaign is based on the fallacious philosophies of unlimited tenure of office and of the indispensable man," Lager said. "According to the teachings of Jefferson, unlimited tenure of office would destroy the republic. We must eliminate from public life all such vagaries and the lack of faith that leads to the teaching that one man must be kept permanently in office if the nation is to survive."

Bosses Are Indispensable.

The New Deal's only indispensable men are the big city Democratic machine bosses, Lager said. Adding that "Pendergastism is indispensable to Sen. Truman, the New Deal puppet candidate for Vice President."

He asserted election of Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker will revive confidence in the Republic.

"After all the machinations and experiments of the New Deal during the last 13 years, we know that only the fundamental American institutions are indispensable," he said.

"Here at home our citizens are being deprived of many things essential to the way of life for which our loved ones are fighting. I do not refer to the deprivations of material things which we gladly give up to help the war effort, but I refer to the wholesale attempts of impractical idealists who are trying to remake America—as if she needs remaking: These so-called super-intellectuals are a menace to our constitutional government and our American way of life."

Turn Against Hillman.

Among those Democrats who are turning Republican one of the deciding factors is the political leadership assumed by Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO political action committee, and Earl Browder.

Some Democratic county chairmen are reported ready to vote straight Republican ballots. In such industrial centers as East St. Louis and Granite City, the only places where the PAC has been active in southern Illinois.

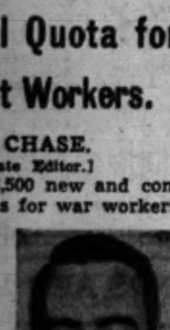
ALLOT CHICAGO 3,500 MORE WAR HOME PRIORITIES

City's Final Quota for In-Migrant Workers.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Priorities for 3,500 new and converted home units for war workers in the southwestern part of Chicago and for civilian employes of Vaughan and Hines hospitals were announced yesterday by William K. Divers, regional representative of the national housing agency. This will be the last housing quota which will be limited to war workers coming into Chicago from elsewhere, Divers said.



William K. Divers.

"The next program for Chicago will be based upon the standards of the so-called H-2 program which is not limited to in-migrant workers, but is authorized to relieve areas which have been congested as a result of the war," he said. "We expect that H-2 housing will be authorized for the northwest sector of Chicago and possibly other areas some time during the coming winter so that construction may start in the spring."

Most Privately Financed.

Of the 3,500 new priorities 2,100 will be for construction of privately financed dwelling units for war workers and hospital employes; 400 will be privately financed housing units for Negro war workers; 500 will be privately financed remodeling of completed buildings into war homes, and 500 for publicly financed permanent construction dwellings for Negro war workers.

This new allotment of 3,500 priorities to Chicago by NHA is in response to a request in June by Leonard R. McDonald, director of the war housing center, for 5,000 home units here. He asked for priorities for 3,000 new and 2,000 conversion units.

The new quota brings the total of priorities assigned to this area to 24,964. Of these 19,550 are for privately financed new and remodeled home units, and 5,414 are for publicly financed homes.

Conditions Getting Tighter.

"From all available information, housing conditions are getting tighter in Chicago each day," said Divers. "This is the result of an accumulation of demand from war workers who want better living conditions or proximity to their work, those moving to Chicago for war jobs, and returning war veterans who expect to work in war plants here.

"Neither materials nor man power are available at the present time to build new housing to improve the living accommodations of families just because they can afford it. However, we must take care of workers who must be brought into Chicago for essential industries, as well as returning veterans employed on war work. We also have a constant demand which must be met from renting war workers who are being evicted because their homes have been sold."

Open 90 Acre Project Near Buick Works

A 90 acre subdivision half a mile south of Franklin Park will be opened to the public today by Town Development company, Robert Smiley, associate general manager, said yesterday. The property is bounded by Fullerton av. on the north, 25th av. on the east, Armitage av. on the south, and Ruby st. on the west.

Known as Fullerton Gardens, the new development will have ⅓ and ¼ acre homesites. When war restrictions permit, a shell type of unfinished house will be built for buyers, Smiley said. This will enable the home owner to save labor costs by completing the interior of the house himself.

Pre-Fabrication Studied.

"The Town Development company is making a study of pre-fabrication, steel framing, and other advanced developments in low-cost home construction," Smiley said. "Purchasers will thus have the latest information available and will be able to apply it to building a home with the best layout and site location, as soon as government regulations permit."

Adjoins Buick Plant.

The new subdivision is north of and adjacent to the Buick plant in Melrose Park and across from the 80 acre site for Continental Can company's proposed plant.

This is the second subdivision to be marketed in the North-Mannheim area by Town Development. It recently sold 100 acres of homesites at the southwest corner of North av. and Mannheim rd., diagonally across from the Buick plant.

LOOP BUILDING, LEASEHOLD SOLD TO TOFFENETTI

Dario L. Toffenetti, president of Triangle Restaurant company, yesterday bought from Mrs. Mattie R. Finn the three story building and leasehold at 169-71 W. Madison st. for $60,000 cash, thru the Mark Levy Realty company. The land, 25 by 189 feet, is owned by Samuel G. Braudy and was leased in 1907 for 99 years to Mrs. Finn at $7,000 annual ground rental. She subleased it to Toffenetti in 1929 at a graduated annual rental of $16,000 to $18,000. He erected a three story fireproof building which he occupies with one of his seven Chicago restaurants. Samuel R. Rosenthal of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Morse, was attorney for the seller. Ben H. Matthews of Isham, Lincoln & Beale, represented the buyer.

New Evanston Shops

Designed by Maher & McGrew, Evanston architects, in the Early American manner, the "Colonial Shops" are to be built at 1513-19 Chicago av., Evanston, when war restrictions are removed. The $100,000 project will have nine shops, a landscaped court, and parking space in the rear. Construction will be red brick walls with white woodwork trim. A syndicate recently bought the 132 by 170 foot site thru Smart & Golee from Public Service Company of Northern Illinois for $40,000.

Negro War Homes

Typical duplex homes for war workers being built by Chicago housing authority in the West Chesterfield Negro community on the far south side. Designed by Loebl & Schlossman, each of the two units will have living room, dining room, kitchen, and large utility and storage room on the first floor, and two bedrooms and bath on the second. Floors and stairways will be of fireproof construction. Each unit will cost $6,000.

PETITION URGES COMPLETION OF WAR HOME UNITS

A petition signed by more than 400 persons has been received by the Chicago housing authority asking that work be continued on the 250 unit war housing project in the area bounded by 91st and 94th sts., Indiana and South Park avs., it was announced yesterday. This is part of the West Chesterfield district, in the western half of which are homes said to range in cost from $6,000 to $44,000.

Federal District Judge La Buy recently denied the petition of a group of Negro property owners in West Chesterfield community to vacate an order of July 20 by Judge Elwyn R. Shaw granting the government immediate possession of a tract of 120 parcels of real estate for the erection of 250 war workers' homes.

Norman J. Schlossman of Loebl & Schlossman, architect of the project, said that work is under way on all of the 125 duplex buildings. He said it is expected that 50 homes will be ready by the first of next year. They will be rented at a rate yet to be determined and sold when the war is over, said Miss Elizabeth Wood, executive secretary of CHA.

Wabash Avenue Building Purchased for $80,000

The five story business building, 80 by 175 feet, at 521-25 S. Wabash av., was sold by Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, to the 521-25 South Wabash Avenue Building corporation, John W. Lynch, secretary and treasurer, for $80,000, thru Arthur G. Levy, broker. Ryan, Condon & Livingston was attorney.

DEWEY'S MOTHER IS MIGHTY PROUD —IN A QUIET WAY!

BY KAY CLANCY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 9.—If Gov. Dewey is elected President this fall, the thousands of residents of his native town will greet the achievement with a harmonious chorus of "I told you so." They've been saying for years that they wouldn't be surprised to see Anne Dewey's son in the White House.

Anne Dewey, however, is not so communicative. As the town went about the happy business today of preparing the rousing welcome that greeted Gov. Dewey tonight, Mrs. Dewey calmly bought groceries and got the family home ready for distinguished company.

An Expert on Bridge.

She says nothing about herself but friends will tell you she is the town's best bridge player and a good golfer. She admits she always has voted Republican and likes her son's mustache because his father son's mustache because his late father always wore one.
tinged with gray, is worn close to her head in loose waves. Her figure is trim and her gray eyes calm. She maintains a polished surface under which she tries and almost succeeds in hiding an immense pride in her son.

Her voice is brisk, but it softens when she speaks of her son. He was an average boy, she said, with a mind of his own, but not headstrong. "We never permitted him to accept money for small favors and jobs, because we wanted him to learn that one gets good out of doing for others," she said.

Interest in Law.

At the age of 14 he became city agent for a publishing company which later was involved in a lawsuit. Young Tom was subpenaed as a witness and received his expenses to Chicago, plus a jack knife. Mrs. Dewey believes it was her son's first experience in court and may have helped turn his interest to law and away from music. He had been taking piano lessons since he was 6.

"When he was 16 he worked on a farm for Earl Putnam, who lives nine miles southwest of Owosso," Dewey's mother said. "It was during the World war and help was hard to get. Later Putnam told us Tom was one of the best hired hands he ever had. He asked endless questions, learned rapidly, and never had to be told a second time."

It was while working on the farm that Dewey wrote his first letters home. They were brief and to the point. "Got stepped on by a horse, didn't hurt much," one message read. "I milked a cow, got milk. Am learning," another related.

Maple Shaded Street.

The Dewey home, a large white two story house with three living rooms, is on a maple shaded street within sight of Dewey's first school. The wall near the fireplace is blanketed with newspaper pictures of Dewey, covering his activities as prosecutor, governor, and now candidate. It is the only apparent gesture Mrs. Dewey makes that indicates she recognizes her son as a national figure.

Among those who related Dewey stories today was Dr. A. L. Arnold, 87, who spanked the first breath of life into the baby boy he delivered to Mr. and Mrs. George Dewey on March 24, 1902.

"Had I been blessed with prevision," the doctor said, "I could have told my wife when I arrived home late for that dinner that a future President detained me. As it was, all I said was, 'George and Anne have a fine boy. Never saw a healthier or prettier one.'"

GOV. DEWEY SPEECH DIALED OFF RADIO AT ARMY HOSPITAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—The radio system at Walter Reed army hospital clicked off last night at the start of Gov. Dewey's address and a hospital spokesman tonight attributed the incident to a sergeant's effort to comply with the army's regulations.

The program originally scheduled for that time, the spokesman explained, had been approved in advance for rebroadcast on one of the hospital's two circuits. When it was announced that the sponsor of that program had relinquished the time to Gov. Dewey's address, the sergeant ordered the hospital control room to switch to music, the spokesman said, adding:

"He was aware that the Dewey program did not meet regulations requiring that all political speeches must be approved in advance to assure that equal time be made available to all political parties. Had he been able to get authority from the war department or from a major in charge to allow the program to continue, and balance the party program time in the future, Gov. Dewey could have been heard."

REPORTS PARKED CAR LOOTED.

Theft of a robe, a flashlight, and a wristwatch, all valued at $45, from his car parked in front of 3013 W. Lake st., was reported to Warren Avenue police by Martin Eagan, 4046 Division st.

DEWEY'S VIEWS CONTRADICTORY, SAYS HILLMAN

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP).—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, today said Gov. Dewey's statements on foreign policy were "contradictory" and on domestic affairs "vague."

Hillman, addressing the New York state CIO convention, asserted the Republican Presidential nominee had "curried favor both with the isolationists and with the internationalists in his party."

On Jan. 11, 1941, Hillman said, Dewey characterized the lend-lease bill as "a grave blow not only to national unity but to all free governments everywhere." A month later, Hillman declared, Dewey "completely reversed himself and expressed the hope that the bill would be passed."

Dewey's statements on domestic policies "are even more vague and contradictory than those he has made on foreign affairs," Hillman said.

NEGRO BAPTIST POLL SHOWS BIG LEAD FOR DEWEY

A vast majority of the 4 million Negro Baptists affiliated with the National Baptist Convention, Inc., will vote for Gov. Dewey for president because of his insistence upon justice to all Americans, Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, said in Chicago last night on his return from the convention's 62d annual conference in Dallas, Tex.

Brown disclosed both northern and southern delegates at the conference voted their preference for Gov. Dewey over President Roosevelt in a poll conducted by the council. The preferential contest among representatives of 23 northern states gave Dewey, 1,648; Roosevelt 722. Representatives of 11 southern states gave Dewey 584 votes, Roosevelt, 276.

Dr. D. V. Jemison of Alabama, who succeeded the late Dr. L. K. Williams of Chicago as president of the convention, told the Dallas conference that Negroes should support the Republican nominee because of Dewey's fight for racial fairness and the "forthright pledges" of the G.O.P. platform.

United Medical Service

Provides Competent Medical Care in All Departments of Medicine, Including RECTAL AILMENTS

Rectal disorders are a major disease problem. If they are not corrected in the early stages by proper treatment serious results may follow. In the beginning piles or hemorrhoids are small varicose veins or blood tumors. As they increase in size they become very painful as well as very dangerous.

Fistula and Rectal Abscess

A simple hemorrhoid or pile can cause a fistula or rectal abscess. These are perhaps the most dangerous types of rectal disorders. The first symptom is a throbbing pain in the rectal region. As the abscess gets larger the pain may become more intense. If the abscess breaks or is opened by a skilled physician immediate relief will follow. However, if the pus is allowed to burrow into surrounding tissue more abscess and more fistula tracts will form. Fistula is pus forming, which in itself is a constant menace to health. For this reason fistula should be treated as early as possible.

Other Rectal Diseases

There are many other rectal ailments, usually associated with hemorrhoids or piles, requiring special treatment. The most dangerous which can develop as a result of an untreated rectal condition is cancer. Regardless of the fear and apprehension most persons have toward cancer we believe a timely word of warning against this disease should be expressed whenever possible. Cancer is curable when diagnosed early and properly treated. Despite this fact there are more deaths from cancer in this country today than occurred 25 years ago.

CANCER can be largely prevented by removing known causes such as constant irritation, inflammation, or abnormal growth regardless of its location within or on the body. Many potential cancers have been prevented by such vigilance. Untreated rectal ailments are often a source if not a cause of cancer. All rectal conditions should be accurately diagnosed before any medication is prescribed. To be fully protective an examination of a rectal condition should be made by a skilled physician with special knowledge in this field of medicine. Examinations made here include the services of a competent and experienced physician; urinalysis, blood and serological tests. The cost is only $3.50

Glasses Fitted
Under Medical Direction

Do not take chances with your eyes. When vision is impaired and glasses are needed, be sure they are properly fitted. Optical service under medical direction provides greater protection. Here you can obtain glasses of excellent quality and style in beautifully engraved ful-vue gold filled mountings with single vision lens for as low as $8.00

Eyes Examined
by a physician

Symptoms of eye trouble are persistent headache, floating objects before the eyes, pain in the eyeballs, inflamed eyelids, impaired vision, etc. Any one of these symptoms may be due to disease or infection in the eye itself, or in another part of the body. Only an eye physician is qualified to diagnose the cause. An examination, with tests for vision, refraction, urinalysis and blood tests is only $3.50

Examinations for Persons Past 40

A complete physical checkup by the physician, an X-ray of the chest showing condition of heart and lungs, an electrocardiogram of heart, blood pressure, a basal metabolism test, a full mouth X-ray of the teeth (14 films), a urological or gynecological examination and laboratory tests of the blood, urine and other secretions. These medical procedures will disclose hidden infection or beginning disease and proper treatment can prevent serious damage. These combined services are only $16.50

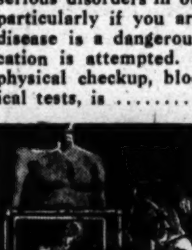
Women's Complaints Women who have such ailments as headache, nervousness, pains in the abdomen, irregular menstruation, frequent or painful urination, need medical attention. Such conditions rarely correct themselves, especially if you are past 40 years of age, when cancer invasion is possible. Many thousands of patients have been examined and successfully treated here during the past 12 years. A regional examination, including the use of the colposcope, Schiller's test, microscopic study of secretions and discharges, urinalysis and blood tests, is $3.50

Diseases of Older Men In older men such symptoms as fear, nervousness, frequent or painful urination, blood in the urine, discharges, impaired sexual function, or pain and discomfort of any kind call for a thorough physical checkup. To be fully protective, the clinical examination by the physician must include microscopic examination of all secretions and discharges, blood and serological tests; fee is $3.50

Teeth X-rayed Under Medical Direction

When the teeth start to decay there is grave danger to health unless they are treated promptly. An X-ray of all the teeth at regular intervals will disclose their condition before serious damage has occurred. It is the only way to save your teeth and protect your health. Highly trained technicians, unexcelled facilities, insure good service and accurate interpretations. Full mouth X-ray, 14 films and a report, are only $2.50

Stomach Trouble The stomach, in addition to directing attention to its own troubles, often produces the first symptoms of serious disorders in other parts of the body. Therefore, never neglect a stomach ailment . . . particularly if you are past 40 years of age. In persistent cases beginning cancer or heart disease is a dangerous possibility. An accurate diagnosis should be made before any medication is attempted. A preliminary gastro-intestinal examination, including a physical checkup, blood pressure, urinalysis, a blood examination and serological tests, is $4.50



An X-ray examination of the gall bladder is $6.50

A lab examination of the gastric contents and stool for $5.50

A fluoroscopic examination of the stomach and small bowel following a barium meal, and an X-ray film of the abdomen when necessary, is $8.50

A fluoroscopic examination of the colon following a barium enema, including two 14"x17" X-ray films, one of barium filled colon and one after evacuation, for $8.50

Ear, Nose and Throat

Summer colds, sore throats, inflammation and infection in tonsils and adenoids, discharges from ears and other conditions often lead to serious, acute and chronic ailments. Have them examined by our ear, nose and throat physicians. The examinations will include tests for hearing, urinalysis, and blood tests. Fee is only $3.50

Skin Disease Skin disorders should be accurately diagnosed and competently treated. For they frequently indicate a serious disease condition. Competent skin therapy is available here. Diagnosis, including urinalysis, blood and serological tests, is $3.50

Complete X-ray and Laboratory Services
Under Medical Direction

X-ray of the kidneys, ureter and the bladder $4.50
An X-ray of the chest, showing the heart and lungs $4.50
X-ray picture of the sinuses (2 views) $3.50
An X-ray picture of ankle (2 views) $3.00
An X-ray of all the teeth (14 films) and report, only $2.50
A basal metabolism test is $3.00
Electrocardiogram of the heart is $3.00

Syphilis and Gonorrhea treated in strict privacy under conditions that do not call attention to these ailments.

Hay Fever, Asthma and other allergic conditions can be accurately diagnosed and controlled. Through various skin tests our physicians can diagnose the cause and prescribe effective treatment. From 80 to 90 per cent can be relieved. Consultation and preliminary medical examination is $4.50

Pre-Marriage Examinations by physicians practicing in all fields of medicine. Couple, $5. Single $3.00

F. D. R. BLESSING ON COMMUNIST BACKERS BARED

Lauds Outfit That Called Him a Warmonger.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt during the last week, under cover of sensational war developments, put his official seal of approval on Communist support of his fourth term campaign, Capitol hill became aware today.

Mr. Roosevelt was disclosed to have sent a special message last Monday to a convention at Philadelphia of the CIO United Office and Professional Workers of America, an organization which, according to an official report of the house committee on un-American activities, "has consistently followed the line of the Communist party thru all its twists and turns over a period of years."

After listening to a warmly worded greeting from the President lauding them for their assistance in obtaining "national unity," the delegates went unanimously on record for the Roosevelt-Truman ticket. The same union assailed Mr. Roosevelt as a warmonger when the Stalin-Hitler pact was in force.

Leader in Subversive Outfits.

The President's message was read to the convention by Lewis Merrill [born Louis Cohen], president of the union, who was an active leader in the American League Against War and Fascism, the American League for Peace and Democracy, and the American Peace Mobilization. All three organizations were branded subversive by Atty. Gen. Biddle in 1942. Only six months before Pearl Harbor, Merrill was expressing "the fears of organized labor regarding the course of the administration's program for national defense."

A Sept. 4 dispatch in the Daily Worker, official Communist organ in the United States, described the "ovation" given Mr. Roosevelt when Merrill read his message to the convention.

"Every effort must be made to strengthen national unity for a speedy victory," the President wrote, "durable peace, full production, and full employment. I know that your union and its membership will be helpful in every way they can to achieve these aims."

Calls for Election.

Merrill then addressed the convention, asserting labor could solve its problems "only to the degree it makes Roosevelt's election certain." He assailed the Republican party and charged that a local Republican machine had "trumped up" the recent street car strike of CIO employes in Philadelphia.

Another speaker was Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union, whose Communist connections have been publicized scores of times in congressional investigations. Curran hailed Mr. Roosevelt as "a great and experienced commander in chief."

Merrill was described as "a member of the Communist party in New York City" in testimony on Aug. 13, 1938, before the Dies committee by John P. Frey, president of the AFL metal trades department. Merrill was one of the organizers of the committee to free Earl Browder, jailed for passport falsities. In 1937 he was active in behalf of Luis Carlos Prestes, imprisoned Brazilian Communist leader and a former member of the executive committee of the Communist International.

Picketed White House.

"During the Stalin-Hitler pact, he was a sponsor of the American peace mobilization which raged against conscription and picketed the White House. After Hitler invaded the Soviet union, and the line of the Communist party became pro-war and pro-second front, Merrill followed suit.

"Despite the fact he was enjoying all the privileges of citizenship in his adopted country [Merrill was born in Canada 36 years ago], and despite the fact that numerous members of his union were risking their lives on the battlefield, Merrill, who was classified 1-A by his local draft board, secured deferment on April 30, 1943, as the indispensable head of an organization which has consistently followed the line of the Communist party."

EXPECT 2 TICKET PLAN APPROVAL IN TEXAS SPLIT

Democrats to Hold Meeting Tuesday.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 9 [Special].—Adoption by the Texas Democratic executive committee of Gov. Stephenson's "peace plan" in regard to Presidential electors was predicted here today by George A. Butler of Houston, state party chairman.

He made the prediction at a press conference as delegates gathered preliminary to Tuesday's state Democratic convention, where a showdown is expected between pro- and anti-Roosevelt forces.

The governor's plan, reported to have President Roosevelt's approval, calls for the placing of two slates of Democratic electors on the ballot, one set labeled "for Roosevelt," and the other, "against Roosevelt."

Approval Expected.

Butler said he expects the executive committee will give the plan almost unanimous approval Monday. If this is done, the plan will be submitted to the convention bolstered by the committee recommendation. At Austin, Gov. Stephenson said "if he had to" he would address the convention appealing to the warring factions to get together.

The state Democratic convention in Austin last May named presidential electors under instructions that they should be free to vote for Democrats other than Roosevelt and Sen. Truman. Of the 23 electors, 15 have said they will vote against Roosevelt and eight intend to vote for him.

Tuesday's convention, ordinarily a routine affair to certify primary election winners, has been given importance by the efforts of pro-Roosevelt Democrats to gain control of delegates and use the session as a medium for reversing the May choice of electors.

Disputes Being Aired.

A credentials subcommittee of the executive committee started hearings tonight on disputes between rival delegations from Dallas, El Paso, Tarrant [Fort Worth], Harris [Houston], and other populous counties. In these cases the pro- and anti-Roosevelt forces each named delegations, and decisions on their seating may determine the political complexion of the convention, thought to be about equally divided.

Another problem facing the convention is the question of Negro voting in primaries. Butler said the executive committee will recommend that the convention declare for amending election laws to permit the party to control its membership. The United States Supreme court recently ruled that Negroes may not be excluded from participation in Democratic primaries.

NEGRO ADVISER OF MRS. F. D. R. TO SUPPORT DEWEY

New York, Sept. 9 (AP). — Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, former Negro Democratic member of the Pennsylvania house of representatives, announced today she would support the Republican presidential ticket because she said she believed "it would be possible for Negroes to confer freely with Gov. Dewey if he were elected President."

Mrs. Fauset said she was a special consultant on Negro affairs under Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt when the President's wife was associated with the office of civilian defense.

CEMETERY HEAD EXPLAINS BAN ON CHINESE BURIAL

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

John B. Vercoe, vice president and superintendent of Rosehill cemetery, yesterday explained the refusal of the cemetery to permit the body of Tom Y. Chan, Chinese leader, to be buried there. Many religious leaders protested the cemetery's quarter-century old ruling which, Vercoe said, had nothing to do with race but with practical situations.

Vercoe said that altho the cemetery had brought back many single graves from Chinese owners, there are still some lots owned by them. If the Chan family owned one of those lots [a lot contains two or more graves] then Chan could be buried in Rosehill beside his first wife, Mary. The Chan family, however, said that they owned only a single burial plot where Mary Chan is buried. Rosehill has a rule against burying two bodies in one grave, as is done in some cemeteries, Vercoe said.

Facts Lacking, He Says.

In replying to criticism of the cemetery based on the refusal to permit Chan to be buried near his first wife, Vercoe pointed to the fact that "no one gave us either Mrs. Chan's first name or the date of her death. With 150,000 persons buried in Rosehill we must have at least those two facts."

"We have complete records of all persons buried here, but we have to have this information in order to find the facts in the records," Vercoe said. "We found one person by the name of Chan was buried here about 20 years ago, but being unfamiliar with Chinese, we do not know whether it was a man or a woman. If the matter was so important, why did not someone supply us with these two bits of necessary information?

Explains Race Not Involved.

"When the cemetery limited the sale of graves or lots to Caucasians it had nothing to do with race, but with quaint burial customs of the non-Christian Chinese. They often disinterred their dead to burn the flesh from the bones over a charcoal grill; polish the bones, and pack them into tin boxes for shipment to China for final burial. It it had been a matter of cremation it would have been simple. But they had to have the bones. Adjoining lot owners protested the scenes and the stench.

"The cemetery simply faced a practical situation that had to be changed. We are not a bit sorry about the decision and we are not offering apologies for it."

JOHN A. BROWN, SOCONY HEAD, DIES IN CANADA

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 9 (AP).—John Albert Brown, 59, of New York, president of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, died in the Royal Victoria hospital here today. In Quebec province for a vacation, Brown underwent an abdominal operation last month.

Brown was born in Hampton, Pa. He entered the oil business in 1911 as secretary-treasurer of a small oil company in Taft, Cal. Later he spent 11 years in Mexico and the Dutch East Indies as an official of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. He served as vice president and later as president of the General Petroleum corporation in Los Angeles after his return to the United States, and in 1933 became head of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., formed in 1931 as a merger between Standard of New York and Vacuum Oil company.

CHARITY BUDGET FOR NATION SET AT 260 MILLION

Community Drives Will Begin Next Month.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Drives for local community charities and war funds totaling 260 million dollars will be opened thruout the nation early next month. Of the total to be collected from the American people 219 million will go to American fighting men, war prisoners and local charities; 41 million has been earmarked for foreign relief.

For the soldiers, sailors, and war prisoners alone 67 million dollars has been set aside.

The National War Fund, Inc., has a tentative budget of 115 million, which will be divided among 22 agencies according to their needs. Of these, 19 are for foreign aid and relief. On the tentative budget the amount set aside for these 19 agencies is $37,949,382.84. But the budget is flexible and executives in charge of the fund raising set the amount generally at about 41 millions. It is in this budget, also, that $67,167,825 is allotted for those in armed service.

Goal Nearly 13 Million.

The local Community and War Fund of Metropolitan Chicago has set its goal this year at $12,980,000. Of this some 6 million dollars will go to the National War Fund; the remainder to 187 local charities, agencies of the Community Fund itself.

These agencies include the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, the Catholic Charities of Chicago, the Hull House association, the Jewish Charities of Chicago, the United Charities, the Visiting Nurse association, and the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Hospitals receive money from the fund in payment for specific service rendered to patients referred to them on the fund account by approved social agencies.

Tells Where Money Goes.

Robert E. Coburn, executive head of the local fund, explains that out of every dollar given to make up the local goal, 35 cents goes to the charities belonging to the Community Fund, 45 cents to the United Service organizations, United Seamen's Service, War Prisoners' Aid, and the 19 allied relief agencies of the National War Fund.

Coburn says that only 2¾ cents of the dollar goes for campaign expenses, another cent pays the cost of year around administration; 4¾ cents is held in a reserve contingency fund, and 2 cents in a postwar reserve fund.

Any individual, firm or other organization giving any sum either to the National War Fund or the fund as it is combined in Chicago and most of the rest of the country may designate any specific charity or relief agency to which he or it wishes the contribution to go. He may designate it entirely for the fighting men, for any relief. Or he may even insist that it go to some one of the 187 agencies benefiting from the Community Fund campaign.

Gifts May Be Designated.

Edward L. Ryerson, member of the board of directors and executive committee of the National War Fund, and also an official of the local campaign, asserts, however, that designating funds for particular agencies is only important when a campaign fails of its general goal. Should a drive fail by 10 per cent to reach the goal, an organization to which enough funds had been specially designated would not take so large a share in the distribution.

Ryerson is chairman of the board of the Inland Steel company. Another Chicagoan on the National War Fund board and executive committee is Aubrey H. Mellinger, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

The tentative budget fixed for the National War Fund is for the year from Oct. 1, 1944, to Oct. 1, 1945, and Gerard Swope, former president of the General Electric company, who is chairman of the budget committee, stated that this "shall be subject to direct reduction by any amounts for items or projects which allied governments, lend-lease or any other governmental agency may be able and willing to assume.

Stand by Their Pledges.

"In this connection you may be assured that the National War Fund is taking every possible step, with all possible urgency, to see that we make good on our pledge that the American people are not to be asked to contribute funds for purposes covered by lend-lease, UNRRA, [United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration] or any other public agency here or abroad."

Both Mellinger and Ryerson were asked about the application of the allegedly Communist Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee committee for benefits from the National War Fund, following certification for such benefits by President Roosevelt's war relief control board. Both said they knew nothing concerning the truth of charges that the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee committee had earlier been refused certification on the grounds it was engaged in communistic propaganda. They said they had no facts concerning the organization having been discredited for its conduct in a so-called Spanish relief drive.

Many Agencies Rejected.

The budget and executive committees of the National War Fund are slated to act upon the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee committee's application some time this month. Both the Chicago men said that in their opinion the committee has little chance of admittance to the benefits.

"Certification by the President's war relief control board means nothing whatever," Mellinger said. "Some 200 organizations were so certified last year, but 180 odd were turned down and only 22 admitted. Were I a betting man, I would say the odds against this organization are about 100 to one."

He then pointed out that the National War Fund is controled by business men and labor leaders.

"There is no government or Washington administration control whatsoever," he said. "Any organization which wants to be voted the benefits of the National War Fund must first pass muster with the budget committee of which Gerard Swope is chairman. If this committee recommends it, it must still get over the hurdle of executive committee approval. The executive committee is headed by Winthrop Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank."

Ryerson said any organization tainted with communism would have small chance of getting into the war fund.

KEEP WAR JOBS, WMC DIRECTOR URGES WORKERS

Evidence leading some war workers to leave their jobs because they feel the end of the war is near is untrue, Charles P. Casey, Illinois director of the war man power commission, declared yesterday.

"With Berlin almost in sight, shells, bombs, and heavy artillery are needed more than ever," the director asserted.

Especially critical, he added, is construction engineering equipment and trucks, since softening of enemy lines by bombing in advance of our troops necessitates rebuilding communications and transport facilities.

"Your battle station is in your war job," he continued, "and it is your personal responsibility to stay at your station just as every soldier and sailor is remaining at his."

TAILOR DIES AFTER HEART ATTACK.

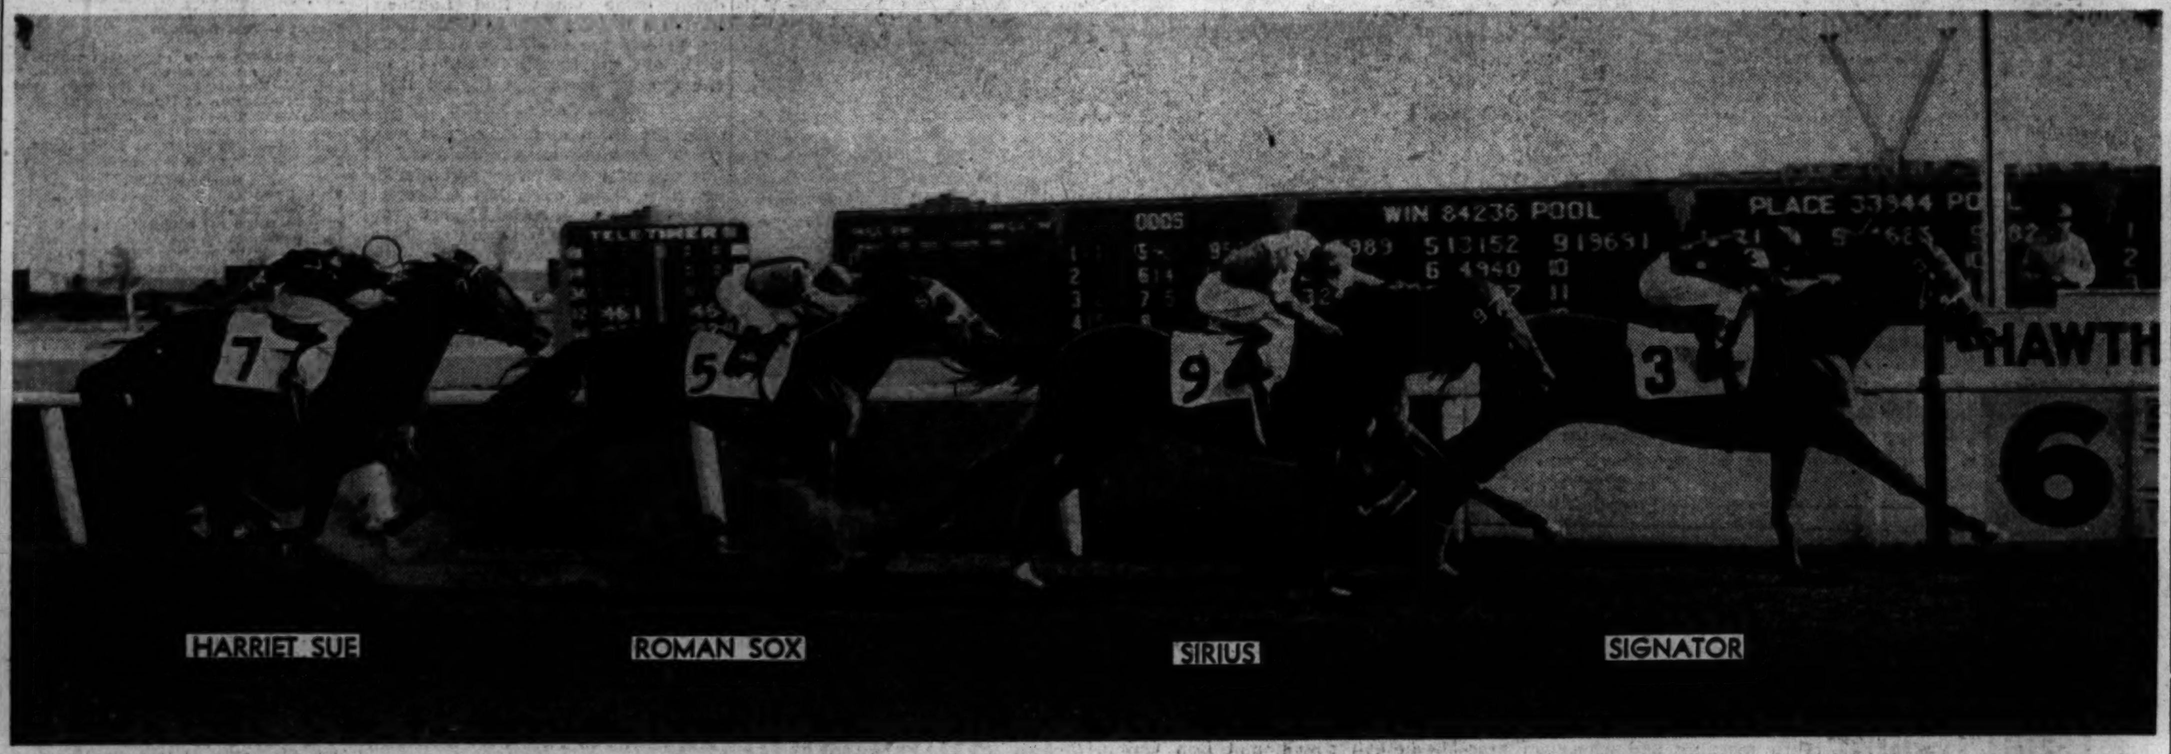
BROWNS BEATEN IN 14TH BY SOX; DROP TO 3D

SIGNATOR WINS $9,000 HAWTHORNE SPEED HANDICAP

AFTER SEVEN FAILURES, A KANSAS CITY HORSE MAKES GOOD



SIGNATOR WINNING HAWTHORNE'S SPEED HANDICAP YESTERDAY, FOLLOWED BY SIRIUS, ROMAN SOX, AND HARRIET SUE.

SIRIUS SECOND, ROMAN SOX 3D BEFORE 19,867

Daily Double Pays $1,472.80.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Herbert M. Woolf's Signator, a consistent winner last year, but a lackadaisical performer all this season at Washington and Belmont parks, came to life yesterday under the riding craftsmanship of the veteran Buddy Haas and won the $9,000 Speed handicap at Hawthorne before a crowd of 19,867.

The 6 year old star of the Kansas Cityan's Woolford farm, which had lost his last seven starts, whipped a field of six in the all age division, six furlong affair, beating Mrs. V. E. Smith's Sirius to the wire by three-quarters of a length. Brolite Farm's Roman Sox took down third money a length and a half in back of Sirius and a head in front of the 3 year old Harriet Sue, Hyman Friedberg's classy filly.

Winner's Share Is $6,225.

To the owner of Signator went first money of $6,225 and to the patrons who backed him went $6.20, $3.60 and $2.80 for win, place and show. Sirius returned $3.60 and $2.60, and Roman Sox paid $3.20.

Signator went to the post the favorite at 2 to 1 despite the fact his last winning effort was at Jamaica on April 20 when he beat Thumbs Up a neck in the $5,000 Fighting Fox handicap. Haas got him off second as Roman Sox, ridden by Tony Skoronski, went into the lead by a couple of lengths with Harriet Sue in close pursuit and Sirius taking it easy in fourth place.

As the field hit the far turn, Roman Sox still was in the lead, but his margin was fading as Signator made his move. Into the turn it was Roman Sox by half a length, Signator a length and a half in front of Sirius, and Harriet Sue pacing the remainder of the pack with Bright Willie fifth, Espino Gold sixth, and Holdall bringing up the rear.

Second Behind Record.

As they swept into the home stretch Signator stepped to the front by half a length over Roman Sox as Sirius, under the urging of Willie Bailey sought to overtake the leaders. In midstretch Sirius moved past Roman Sox which was fast cutting down Signator's lead but couldn't make the grade.

The winner's time was 1:11 3-5, one second slower than the track record held by Gibbons and Myrtlewood.

The field for the handicap was cut from 10 to seven with the withdrawal of Bolus, which had been coupled with Holdall as the Henry Tikulski entry; D. V. McClure's Gold Princess, and the Happy stable's Happy Issue.

Double Pays $1,472.80.

Victories of long shots in the first and second races got the crowd off to a cheering start as the daily double refund reached a new high for the year, $1,472.80.

S. I. Crew's Long Ago, a consistent performer at Washington Park, was overlooked and Jackie Martin brought her in at $20.60 for $2 in the first race. Then Tommy Root's Sun Sport, making the fourth start of his career, went to the post at 80 to 1 in the second and scored his first victory by a length and a half over the 3 to 2 favorite, L. B. Combs' Flying Colors. Sun Sport, ridden by Jess Higley, paid $174 to win, $41.20 to place, and $16.40 to show.

Only 29 $2 tickets and one for $10 were sold on the winning daily double.

Wagering for the afternoon's program of eight races run off under ideal conditions totaled $1,064,690, bringing the handle for the first two days of the 34 day meeting just short of $2,000,000.

STRATEGIC, 24-1 SHOT, CAPTURES AQUEDUCT STAKE

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Strategic, a colt from the Havahome stables which most of the 29,544 spectators thought was in the race for the exercise, won the $15,000 added Edgemere handicap at Aqueduct today, paying $49 for $2.

The 4 year old son of American Flag, carrying only 104 pounds that included Jockey Francis Thacker, ran third until the top of the stretch when Thacker sent him to the front.

To the surprise of virtually every one, Strategic staved off the closing rush of Mrs. Ed Mulrenan's First Fiddle, laden with 127 pounds, by a length and a half. In the recent Aqueduct handicap, Strategic was able to beat only one horse.

Arnold Hanger's Dit just lasted to win third place. Time for the mile and a furlong test was a mediocre 1:52.

BOBANET TRIUMPHS.

Laurel, Md., Sept. 9 (AP).—Bobanet triumphed in the 32d running of the $10,000 added Eastern Shore handicap today at Laurel Park.

Bobanet, owned by R. Bruce Livie of Baltimore, won a three-quarter length victory over the Pentagon stable's The Doge, which in turn led M. Wexler's British Buddy by four lengths. F. W. Hooper's Tiny Tackle was fourth.

Bobanet's backers in the crowd of approximately 12,000 persons, received $10.10, $3.60, and $2.30 for a $2 ticket. The winner, ridden by Jockey Shelby Clark, was timed in 1:15 3-5 for the six furlongs.

The stewards disallowed a claim of foul against the winner, lodged by Jockey Jack Westrope, who rode The Doge.

The victory was Bobanet's fifth in eight starts, and purse boosted his winnings to $39,340.

THORNTON TO ZACA GRAY.

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 9 (AP).—C. O. Jelm's Zaca Gray, 5 year old Zacaweista mare, won the $5,000 added James C. Thornton Memorial handicap today at Narragansett Park.

At the finish of the six furlongs she led E. J. Daily's Johnny Jr. by two and a half lengths. The time was 1:10 4-5.

Favorite of the crowd of 18,000, Zaca Gray paid $5.80, $3.40, and $2.40, earning $4,190.

Third place went to the Bay Cove farm's Valdina Craft, two and a half lengths back of Johnny Jr., who paid $3.40 and $2.60. Valdina Craft paid $3.20 to show.

Jockey Hubert Trent brought Zaca Gray out of the gate on top of a small field of five and kept her there despite vigorous challenges by Mrs. Helen Miller's Ogham and later by Johnny Jr.

The favorite pulled away from Johnny Jr. easily in the stretch as Ogham tired and dropped back to fourth.

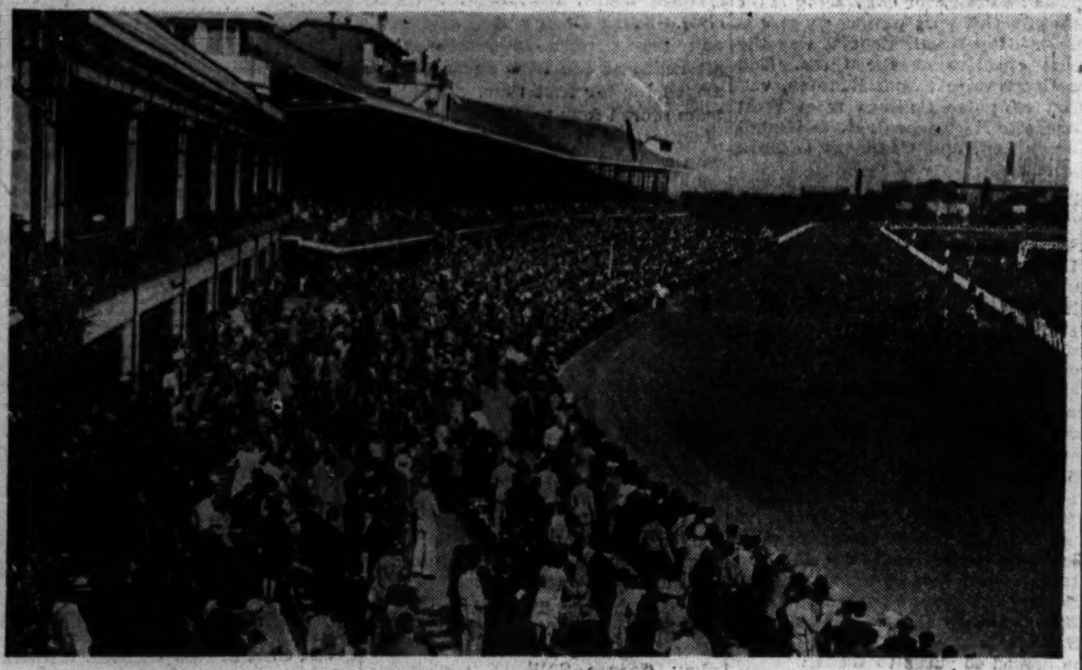
SMACKED WINS NIMITZ.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9 (AP). — Smacked, fast starting 6 year old gelding from the Haggard-Snediger stable, led all the way today in beating a 15 to 1 outsider, Grey Days, by a length in the $10,000 Adm. Nimitz handicap, Detroit Fair Grounds feature.

Ridden by Charley Bianco, Smacked stepped the six furlongs in 1:11 flat and paid $10.10 straight. Amber Light, 9 to 10 choice, was fourth. Night Crawler, closing fast at the finish, was third.

Tulachmore, W. E. McDonald's Canadian ace, beat Restless by a neck to win the $7,500 Gen. Vandergrift handicap, secondary feature. Tulachmore, ridden by J. R Layton, was timed at 1:51 for the mile and one-sixteenth and paid $12.40 to win. Sweep Swinger and Dove Pie ran a dead heat for third.

A crowd of 13,739 fans poured $597,331 thru the mutuels.



Part of the 19,867 crowd watching the finish of the fifth race, won by Burgoo Maid. The fans wagered $1,064,690. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

BEARS TO MEET REDSKINS; TEST FROSH TODAY

Games This Week

Today—Chicago Bears vs. Washington in Baltimore; Green Bay vs. Boston in Buffalo.
Tuesday—Card-Pitts vs. Philadelphia in Philadelphia. [All exhibitions.]

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The unsolved riddle of football is a defense for the T-formation man in motion, but the answer may come this year on the professional fields. Since the Bears rose to power by expert and revolutionary methods based on the ancient T, rival teams have desperately striven for counter-measures. All have failed.

This year, one of the Bears' collaborators, lean Clark Shaughnessy, has gone over to the Washington Redskins. The eastern champions, who have succeeded the Packers as the Bears' No. 1 enemy, are putting in the T and Shaughnessy has helped fashion it. So it will be the T against the T when the Bears meet in Baltimore this afternoon and in Chicago's Wrigley field on Oct. 1. These are exhibition games and the two do not meet in a championship battle.

Bears Aren't Asleep.

It is believed that the Bears, while making rapid strides in developing their explosive type of football, have not been asleep in figuring out how their own trickery

Nelson Holds 4 Stroke Lead in Texas Open

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 9 (AP).—Byron Nelson scored his third subpar round of the Texas Victory open today and it was enough to give him a four stroke lead at 54 holes over Harold [Jug] McSpaden with a 208 total to McSpaden's 212.

McSpaden carded a three under par 68 to Nelson's 70. The final 18 hole round will be played tomorrow.

Harrison, Hogan Tied.

Sgt. E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Wright Field, Dayton, O., and Ben Hogan of Fort Worth army air field, were tied for third at 217.

Nelson, top money winner for the year, was missing short putts all afternoon and he ran into trouble in sand traps, roughs, and tree territory, but he made some great recovery shots and was three under par coming to No. 17. His second shot was in a sand trap and he blasted to within three feet of the hole. His first putt, however, curved to the right and it cost him a bogey. Then, his drive from No. 18 tee went into the weeds back of a tree. He shot under the tree limbs but got only to the edge of the green and three putted.

Jug Goes for Ace.

McSpaden almost scored an ace on the 208 yard sixth. His drive rolled by the pin, missing it by an inch and going on past three feet. He easily sank the putt for a birdie. On No. 8 his tee shot rolled against a fence. McSpaden got on the other side of the fence and blasted the ball 140 yards to the green for a par.

Nelson and McSpaden each toured the first nine in 33, two under par, but coming home, Nelson had a 37 and McSpaden a 35, the latter one under par.

Behind Harrison and Hogan were Ray Mangrum of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Denny Shute of Huntington, W. Va., each with 218, while Ky Laffoon of Chicago, and Amateur Earl Stewart of Fort Worth army air field were next in line with 219. Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., soared to a 77 for 226.

AFTER 14 TRIES CUBS FINALLY BEAT CARDS, 6-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—The Cubs finally rose up tonight more or less furiously and put a stop to the fashion in which the Cardinals have been kicking 'em around all season. After 14 beatings at the hands of the repeating champions, the Chicagoans registered their first victory over the fellows by combing them for a 6 to 1 decision, made all the more tasty by a five run eighth inning and a pitching job that reduced the title holders to four hits.

The Cubs not only choked off the jinx but did it despite the presence of one Ted Wilks who entered the party with a record of 15 victories against two defeats. He sighted his 16th in the seventh, when his pals, after six hitless innings against Claude Passeau, ganged up for one run. But the crash came a moment later in the shape of those five runs featured by two base contributions from Len Merullo, Stan Hack and Phil Cavarretta. Naturally enough, Wilks wasn't permitted to finish the inning.

First Card Hit in Seventh.

Passeau's offering toward the amusement of 7,200 cash customers was so impressive that thru four innings the Cards didn't see base. They broke this spell with two out in the fifth when Merullo was charged with an error when a high powered drive was bounced past him by Whitey Kurowski. By the time the seventh opened the official scorer was beginning to sweat but with one out and Stan Musial on first as the result of a pass, Walker Cooper definitely removed the no hit feature by singling. So did Ray Sanders, Musial scoring. Kurowski also singled, but Merullo recovered the ball after it had bounced off Hack's glove and threw out Cooper at the plate.

Merullo's double opened the eighth and the happy inning rolled along until he came up a second time to register the third out. Williams sacrificed and W. Cooper tried to cut down Merullo going into third, but was too late. Lou Novikoff, batting for Passeau, forced Williams, but the play gave Merullo time to scamper in with the tying run.

Hack and Cavarretta Double.

Hack was the next gentleman to provide evidence that times, so far as Cubs and Cards were concerned, had changed. Hack whistled his two bagger into right and Roy Hughes, who ran for Novikoff, pulled up at third, going home from

RED SOX CRUSH YANKEES, 7 TO 1; TIGERS DEFEAT INDIANS, 15 TO 6

Boston, Mass., Sept. 9 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox checked the Yankees' pennant drive by slugging out a 7 to 1 victory today, to square the series at one game all. Rookie Rex Cecil held the New Yorkers to five hits three of which came with two out in the ninth inning.

Boston's victory deadlocked the season's 20 game competition with the Yankees, which ends tomorrow with a double header.

Rookie Starts Wrong.

Cecil, while gaining his third victory to match three defeats, got off in wabbly fashion and finished likewise. After keeping the Yankees hitless from the fourth inning, he was belted for three consecutive singles in the ninth before the veteran Paul Waner, pinch hitting with the bases loaded, ended the game by grounding out to Second Baseman Jimmy Bucher.

The Yankees scored their run in the first inning when George Stirnweiss singled, moved to third on walks to Bud Metheny and Hershel Martin, and scored on Johnny Vindell's infield out. Before Cecil returned to the mound, George Metkovich lashed a homer to tie the score. It extended Metkovich's consecutive hitting streak to 23 games, to tie the Red Sox record set by Derrill Pratt in 1922, last matched by Ted Williams three years ago.

Bonham Is Easy.

The Red Sox pounded Ernie Bonham for the rest of their runs before he stepped out for Bill Zuber in the seventh, collecting another in the third on Lou Finney's double and Metkovich's single, three more in the fourth on three hits, a walk and Stirnweiss' error, and a pair in the sixth on Finney's two run single.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers, roaring down the September stretch in a bid for their first American league pennant since 1940, belted the Cleveland Indians, 15 to 6, today to push within half a game of first place. Attendance was 9,529 paid.

The Tigers, winning their eighth game in 10 starts, poured across five runs off Cleveland's starter, Ed Klieman, in the third inning and six more off two relief pitchers in the eighth.

Rufe Gentry, following Stubby Overmire and Johnny Gorsica to the mound for Detroit, stayed the last five innings and was credited with the victory, tho he entered with the score 6 to 5 in his favor.

Hits Are Plentiful.

Each club got 18 hits, Rudy York hammering out two singles, a double, and triple in five trips for the Tigers and Pat Seerey slamming his 15th home run in addition to a double.

Klieman, charged with his 12th defeat, yielded 10 hits in four innings and Joe Heving, Paul Calvert, and Outfielder Paul O'Dea, who followed him to the mound were little more effective.

STAGGS OBSERVE 50TH YEAR OF MARRIAGE TODAY

Stockton, Cal., Sept. 9 (AP).—The Amos Alonzo Staggs will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary here tomorrow.

It will be a quiet affair, with a few friends dropping in at their bungalow near the campus of College of the Pacific.

The Staggs were married in Chicago in 1894. His first coaching position was with University of Chicago where his wife was a student.

They have three children, Amos Stagg Jr., of Selinsgrove, Pa.; Mrs. J. Alton Lauren of Chicago, and Paul Stagg of Worcester, Mass.

Butzow Leaves Staff at Arlington-Washington

Frank E. Butzow, a member of the Arlington-Washington Park Jockey club publicity staff for the last five years, has resigned that position. Butzow, who is turf and political correspondent for several publications, also is the owner of two thorobreds. They are Miss Observer and Priscilla Prim. He intends to continue his turf activities.

BELMONT PARK FIRE DESTROYS 18 RACE HORSES

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Eighteen race horses were destroyed tonight in a fire that burned a stable at Belmont Park race track in Nassau county.

The horses, all under supervision of veteran trainer Max C. Hirsch, had been kept at the track since the closing of the Belmont meeting on Sept. 2 Their names and owners could not be learned immediately.

Starting shortly after 11 p. m. [EWT], the blaze was confined to one building, but that structure was burned to the ground. Stables on either side were not burned and the thorobreds housed in them were led to safety.

The fire brought two alarms, with companies from Elmont, Franklin Square and New York City responding.

9 WEEKS TO GO, BUT IRISH-ARMY GAME SOLD OUT

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP).—The Army-Notre Dame football game, to be played in Yankee stadium Nov. 11, has been completely sold out, Col. Lawrence Jones, graduate manager of athletics, said today.

Altho the game is played annually before a capacity crowd, this is the first time in the 31 years of the fixture it has sold out as early as nine weeks before the game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Eddie Lopat, the White Sox's waddling lefty, outlasted ex-Seabee Jack Kramer last night in Comiskey park and the Chicagoans won, 2 to 1, with two out in the fourteenth inning. The outcome deprived the Browns of a first place tie with the leading Yankees and dropped them to third place, a game behind the Yankees and a half game behind the new second placers, the Detroit Tigers.

Leroy Schalk scored in the first inning on a double by Hal Trosky and Lopat protected that lead for six innings without letting a Brownie get to second base. In the seventh a runner got to second and no farther. Then, with one out in the eighth Kramer won himself the privilege of carrying his team on his back for seven more innings by knocking a homer for the 1 to 1 tie which prevailed until Schalk scored in the fourteenth.

Schalk Launches Rally.

Here is the way the game was broken up by the Sox in the 14th: With one out Schalk lined his third hit, a single to center. Ralph Hodgin sent his second single to left. Trosky supplied the second out with a bouncer to Don Gutteridge. Thurman Tucker, who had not hit safely all evening, looped one to short right. Milt Byrnes, who was playing much deeper than most right fielders play Tucker, raced in a mile a minute and wound up with a terrific dive. But he had little chance for a catch. Schalk was on the home plate with the winning run when the ball hit the ground.

Tho they absorbed their 15th defeat in 21 games, the Browns played with a dash that was not in evidence in the two earlier games of the series. True, they were held to an average of a half a hit an inning by Lopat, but that was no reflection on their zest as pennant contenders. Lopat has won four of the seven Sox victories since Aug. 18, including two over the team that passed the Browns last night—the Tigers.

Kreevich Causes Trouble.

Last night the only Brownie to make a hit off Lopat in the first six innings was Mike Kreevich. Mike singled with two out in the first inning and with one out in the fourth, but did not reach second after either smack. In the seventh, Chet Laabs and Mark Christman singled after two were out. Laabs thus became the first Brown to get to second, but he got no farther.

In the eighth, Kramer knocked the ball into the lower deck to the left of the bleacher wall. Later in the inning Milt Byrnes singled, but he never got to second.

The Browns had runners in scoring position in the tenth and eleventh innings, but Lopat in each instance called a harsh halt. George McQuinn opened the tenth with a single to left, which proved, by the way, to be the last hit off Lopat. My Hayworth sacrificed and got to third on Kramer's dribbler to Lopat. Then Gutteridge prolonged a hitless chain with a fly to Eddie Carnett.

At the start of the seventh, Byrnes drew Lopat's only pass of the night. Kreevich sacrificed, Mike Tresh to Schalk, who covered first. Discovering Hodgin off third, Byrnes started for third, changed his mind, and sprawled as he sought to return to second. Schalk threw to Skeeter Webb to double Byrnes off second and the Browns' last threat had been dissipated. Lopat retired the last 10 men to face him.

Kramer Is Tough, Too.

From the first to the twelfth Kramer did not let a man get to second and only three to first. In the twelfth he pitched out of his first jam subsequent to the opening inning. Schalk opened with a single. Hodgin and Trosky flied out, then Tucker drew Kramer's only pass. Carnett, who had replaced his roomie, John Dickshot, was called out on strikes. Dickshot, by the way, was honored in pre-game ceremonies in which fans of Waukegan and North Chicago presented him with a wrist watch and a $1,000 war bond.

The victory was Lopat's tenth against nine defeats. Kramer's loss was his thirteenth against 13 victories.

FOUR ELEVENS SCRIMMAGE AT NORTHWESTERN

Yungwirth, Funderberg Lead Regulars' Drive.

Northwestern's football team received its first taste of competition under game conditions yesterday as four teams were put thru a stiff intrasquad scrimmage at Dyche stadium. The work-out was held without the services of a trio of first stringers including Red Clawson and Ben Schadler, quarter backs, and Jack Harker, half back, who are side line with injuries.

Purple Scores Twice.

The first team attired in purple jersies rolled up two touchdowns over a white jersied reserve squad. Johnny Yungwirth, 165 pound freshman half back from Fond du Lac, Wis., and Bob Funderburg, junior full back, led the regulars' attack.

Yungwirth opened the first touchdown drive by passing to Funderburg for 30 yards. The Wisconsin youngster went off tackle for 10 yards and then went around end for 5 yards to score. Funderburg set up the second touchdown with runs of 20 and 40 yards. Jack Doyle, a freshman from Milwaukee, scored from the 10 yard line on a quarter back sneak. The reserves scored on a long pass from Hap Murphey to Jim Powers.

Meulendyke, Roper Lead Attack.

Jim Meulendyke, another freshman from Fond du Lac, and Bill Roper, a V-12 candidate, led the second team to a 13 to 0 victory over the reserves. Meulendyke, a full back, opened the first march with a 15 yard drive over center. Roper swept right end for 25 yards to the 3 yard line where Meulendyke carried it over. Roper scored the second touchdown on a long run and Oral Congdon, freshman tackle from Kenosha, kicked the extra point.

ILLINOIS VARSITY WINS.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—The Illinois varsity ran and passed to a 52 to 6 victory over the reserves in a game-length scrimmage today.

Paul Patterson, Aurora freshman, threw two touchdown passes to Sam Zatkoff, end, on plays netting 10 and 58 yards. John Martin's passes to John Orr for 31 yards and to Claude [Buddy] Young, Chicago freshman, for 54, were also scoring plays.

On the running side, Ed Jacobs, Chicago sophomore, scored from 26 yards out, Young from 1 yard, and Bill Butkovich once from 12 and again from 1 yard.

The Reserves counted on a 41 yard pass play, Walt Anderson to Bob Stancik, Chicago.

Three regulars—Churck Smith, tackle; Eddie Ray, half back; and George Bujan, center—did not take part in the game. Of these, Smith is sure to play next Saturday against Illinois Normal here, but the other two may be rested for the conference opener with Indiana, Sept. 23.

Charleston Plans Return to Football

Charleston, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Dr. Charles P. Lantz, director of athletics at Charleston Teachers' college, today announced that the school will return to collegiate football competition this fall after an absence of one year.

Charles Lantz.

The decision was reached following a conference attended by President R. G. Buzzard, Lantz, and Andrew Sullivan, end on the 1942 Charleston eleven, and only letter man available this fall.

Charleston's decision means that every member of the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic conference will support a complete schedule of intercollegiate athletics this year. Several weeks ago Carbondale Teachers' college announced it would play a complete schedule this fall after being out of football competition for one year.

Lyle Knott, a graduate of Teachers' College High school, who won both dashes in the state track meet last May, is expected to join the team as a half back. Don Carmichael, captain and full back of last year's Shelbyville High school eleven and Fred Wollfe, captain and half back of the Charleston College High school eleven a year ago, both will become candidates also. Three other Charleston community high school athletes will be available. They are Jim Sexson, center; Bill Tipsord, guard, and Jerry Bell, tackle.

Director Lantz plans to arrange an eight game schedule and the team will play all of the members of the I. I. A. C. and probably Illinois Wesleyan, he said today.

KANDY KIDS AND CHICKS RESUME SERIES TONIGHT

Doris Picka for the Chicks and Renee Sweet for the Kandy Kids will be the hurlers tonight in the National Professional Softball league championship series which swings back to Parichy stadium, Harlem av. and Harrison st., for the third game of the five game series. The contest will start at 8:30 p. m.

A WILDCAT ROLLS UP SLEEVES AND RUNS

Bob Tournquist, sleeves rolled up for action, blasts for a 6 yard gain for the Whites against the Purples in yesterday's scrimmage between the two Northwestern football squads in Evanston. The Purples won, 12 to 6. A teammate's fine block opens the way for Tournquist. Norhtwestern opens its season Sept. 30 against Wisconsin in Dyche stadium. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BEARS, REDSKINS MEET IN T PARTY AT BALTIMORE

can be stopped. Two years ago, the Philadelphia Eagles switched to the T and much was made of the first National league battle involving identical systems. At the end of the first half, the Eagles had a 14 to 0 lead. Then something happened. In the second portion, the Bears ran up 49 points and held the Eagles scoreless.

The Bears had deliberately put in a phony defense for the T in the first half. Then they switched their tactics with the aforementioned devastating effect.

Strategy Board Worried.

The two games with the Redskins have the Bears' strategy board in a quandary. They know that scouts from the other eight National league teams will sit in on the Baltimore exhibition, much in the manner of guest surgeons watching the expert operate.

What to do? Use the proper defenses which so far have been their own secret, or keep them hidden so that rivals which will be met later in league games will not learn the key which unlocks the T formation? The guess is that the champions will decide to keep hidden the defense for their own type of play until they are forced to come out with it in a game which means something.

The Bears have another problem, perhaps a bigger one than this defense brain teaser. It is not believed that Ensign Sid Luckman will be present and this will throw the burden on untested quarter backs. Johnny Long, heir apparent to Luckman's mantle, played only briefly against the All-Stars. His failure to cover Creighton Miller led to the collegians' first touchdown, a pass by Glenn Dobbs deep in the end zone.

Two Cardinals Report.

Al Grygo, a handsome youngster from South Carolina, is tabbed for the No. 2 spot and some followers of the Bears believe he will beat out Long somewhere along the championship route. Gene Ronzani, 35, is back with the Bears to serve as a steadying influence.

Green Bay gets its second exhibition test today against the Boston Yanks in Buffalo. The Card-Pitt combine will make its debut Tuesday night in Philadelphia against the Eagles. This is an exhibition game for charity. Ed Rucinski, star Cardinal end, and Johnny Martin, veteran half back, have reported, thus raising the combination's hopes of beating out the Bears or Packers for the western title.

WOODLAWNS TO BATTLE BENDAS IN TITLE SERIES

Jim Earle's Woodlawn Radios will meet Benda Coals of Berwyn today in Fernwood park in one of the two third-round title battles featuring the Midwest league's six game schedule. Each has won 19 games with Woodlawn Radio, seeking its first crown, losing only three, one less than the Benda Coals.

The Chicago Hornets invade Hodgkins, Ill., for a game with Cole-Lenzis. Krier's Skokie Indians, 1943 champions seeking a fourth crown in five years, drawing a bye, will play a free lance game, encountering Oak Lawn, a team they eliminated from the series last week in Skokie's Oakton Park. The schedule.

Benda Coals vs. Woodlawn Radios, Fernwood park, 104th st. and Wallace av.; Chicago Hornets vs. Cole-Lenzis at Hodgkins, Ill.

Consolation Series.

Harvey Moose at Arlington Heights; Semi-Swingers at Chicago Heights; Petrones vs. Ace Fasteners, Busse playgrounds, Park Ridge, Ill.

Other Games.

Oak Lawn vs. Krier's Skokie Indians, Skokie's Oakton park, Cicero av. and Oakton st.

Max Burnell to Speak at Meeting of Officials

Max Burnell, head coach of St. George High school will be the guest speaker when the Athletic Officials' association holds its first rules interpretation of the season Thursday night at the Atlantic hotel. Burnell's topic will be "What Mr, Coach Expects of Mr, Official."

Hoosiers Speed Up Training for Opener in Double Drill

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 9 [Special].—Coach Alvin N. [Bo] McMillin sent the Indiana football squad thru morning and afternoon practice sessions today to speed conditioning for the opener against Fort Knox here next Saturday.

McMillin lost a promising freshman back field candidate today when Abe Addams, former all-Kentucky High school back from Louisville, informed him that he was withdrawing from school. Addams had won a tentative first string assignment during the summer practice periods.

The Hoosiers had an hour and a half session this morning, devoted to blocking drills, and then for two and one-half hours in the afternoon on punting, passing, and blocking.

GOPHER ENDS PROMOTED.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 9 [Special].—Dick Nelson and Rudy Brandstrom, two freshman ends, received chances on Minnesota's first string team today as a result of their showing in the season's first long scrimmage. Nelson and Brandstrom, who have been improving daily, were in their best form today.

Rube Juster, giant 240 pound first string tackle, was forced to retire to the side lines with an injured ankle that is expected to keep him out of action for at least a week.

IOWA REGULARS WIN.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 9 [Special].—The Whites, representing the regulars, scored a 26 to 0 victory over the Blues in a regular game scrimmage today that marked the heaviest day's work to date for Iowa's Hawkeyes.

Jim Hansen, freshman full back from Omaha, showed the way for the Whites as he scored on a 45 yard dash. Half Back Dick Woodard also was a consistent ground gainer and shared in the passing with John Stewart and Herb Byers.

In the White line, veteran Guards Stan Mohrbacher and Bob Liddy were outstanding along with freshman End Jack Kelso.

ISBELL TUTORS PASSERS.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 9 [Special].—Cecil Isbell, Purdue's new head football coach, a master passer in his own right, today instructed the squad's passers as the Boilermakers launched their second week of practice.

Isbell concentrated on Raymond Schultz, Navy V-12 trainee from Chicago, a minor letter man in 1943; James Walley, member of last year's basketball squad, and Don Quinn, freshman from Milwaukee.

The necessity for convincing fakes and effective pass patterns was emphasized by Isbell. Schultz was the most effective of the three. Top receivers were Frank Bauman, veteran end; Joe Collings from West Lafayette High school; Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, and Chalmers [Bump] Elliott.

GIRARD STARS FOR BADGERS.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 9 [Special].—The brilliant running and passing of Freshman Earl [Jug] Girard featured a 59 to 0 victory by Wisconsin's first team in today's scrimmage against a reserve eleven. Girard passed for two touchdowns and ran for four more. The Badgers' second team scored a 20 to 0 triumph over another reserve eleven in a shorter scrimmage.

Girard ran for a touchdown on a 55 yard sprint off tackle. Then he raced 23 yards for another score after passing to Pat Weber for 23 yards to put the ball in scoring position. In the third quarter Ed Bahlow caught a short pass from Girard and ran 74 yards. Later Girard ran off tackle 12 yards and 87 yards for No. 4 Near the finish he passed 40 yards to Weber.

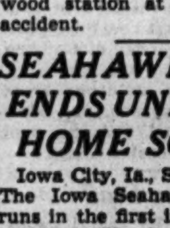
WOLVERINES SEEK STARTERS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 9 [Special].—Michigan's football squad scrimmaged again today as Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler sought to decide definitely on a lineup for the opening game against the Iowa Seahawks here next Saturday.

The squad worked in groups on offensive fundamentals and then devoted part of the practice period to a defensive workout. Crisler sent his kickers thru a special drill with Capt. Bob Wiese, full back, who did most of the kicking last year, getting consistently good distance on his punts. Crisler also plans to use Wiese on placement attempts after touchdowns.

NAVY HUNT FOR WETTERLUND IS DISCONTINUED

Search for Ensign Chester J. Wetterlund, 26, a member of the 1942 Chicago Cardinals professional football team, lost in the crash of a Navy dive bomber off the coast of Wildwood, N. J., last Tuesday night, has been discontinued, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wetterlund, of 10960 S. Prospect av., were notified by the navy department yesterday.



Ensign Wetterlund.

Ensign Wetterlund played left half back on the Cardinal team. He was a 1942 graduate of Illinois Wesleyan, where he was captain of the football team and selected on the All-State Illinois College conference eleven. He was commissioned on March 1, 1944, at Corpus Christi, Tex., and his engagement to Ensign Myra Jane Rodgers, of Bloomington, Ill., had been announced last week. She was visiting the Wildwood station at the time of the accident.

SEAHAWK NINE ENDS UNBEATEN HOME SCHEDULE

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 9 [Special].—The Iowa Seahawks scored three runs in the first inning on a homer by Ned Harris, former Detroit Tiger, and then went on to a 7 to 3 victory over Adel today to close an undefeated home season.

Ed Welland, former White Sox, gained his ninth mound victory for the Seahawks as he yielded 10 hits and walked nine. Score:

Adel	001	001	100—3	10	1
Seahawks	300	020	02*—7	7	1

Batteries—Manders and Townsend; Welland and Baker.

IRISH DISPLAY SCORING POWER IN SCRIMMAGE

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 9 [Special].—Notre Dame's first and second teams were impressive this afternoon as the Irish squad scrimmaged for the first time. The first team scored four touchdowns before yielding to the second stringers, who scored two more touchdowns.

Long runs by Bob Kelly, Chick Maggioli, and George Terlep led the first team's attack, Kelly and Maggioli each going 65 yards to score. Frank Dancewicz's passing to Ends Bill O'Connor and Johnny Ray also resulted in touchdowns.

Standouts Receive Awards.

Coach Ed McKeever announced earlier today the winners of the Frank E. Hering awards, an annual presentation given to Irish football players who were outstanding during spring and summer drills.

Dancewicz, quarter back monogram winner from last year's squad, won the medal as most improved player on the squad. Kelly, Chicago half back, was named hardest running back on the squad.

O'Connor Tops Ends.

Others selected were: O'Connor, New York City freshman, for end play; George Sullivan, sophomore monogram winner, for tackle play; Fred Rovai, Hammond, Ind., for center play, and Joe Gasparella, Vandergrift, Pa., as the outstanding quarter back.

KEANE STARS FOR OHIO.

Columbus, O., Sept. 9 (AP).—Coach Carroll Widdoes divided the Ohio State university football squad of 67 into two groups today for a practice game, and the first and second teams combined to defeat the third and fourth elevens, 54 to 6.

Freshman Quarter Back Tom Keane passed for three touchdowns, scored one himself, and figured in lateral passes which added two more.

BRONCOS ROUT FORT SHERIDAN ELEVEN, 67 TO 6

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 9 [Special].— Western Michigan college opened the midwest football season today by swamping a heavier Fort Sheridan eleven by a score of 67 to 6.

The Soldiers made it a battle only in the first quarter when they staved off two Bronco drives just short of the goal and in the final quarter when they scored against a Western reserve team. The Broncos opened their 10 touchdown and one safety barrage at the start of the second quarter when James Marks, full back, plunged over from the 2 yard line. Shortly after, Al Pedracine, right half, went over from the 5 yard line, and the third touchdown came when Red Louthen hurled a 16 yard pass to Cliffe Keddie behind the goal. Ben Wall, full back, got the fourth touchdown of the quarter from the 1 yard line.

Marks Scores Again.

In the third quarter a pass was ruled complete on the Soldiers' 3 because of interference and Marks again smashed over. Art Gillespie, reserve full back, raced 64 yards for a touchdown a few minutes later and Phil Igoe, Chicago reserve half, ran 49 yards for another to make the score 46 to 0.

Charles Kalbfeisch threw Jerry Morrissy of Fort Sheridan, behind his own goal line shortly after the kickoff to add a safety and 2 points. Leonard Dovalovsky, left half, then broke away on a 22 yard touchdown run and the score was increased to 61 to 0 at the end of the third quarter when Mallett Jackson, reserve quarter, threw a 22 yard pass to Glenn Selbo, who ran 18 yards to score.

Soldiers Score on Pass.

In the final quarter the Broncos made it 67 when Ed Mendrysa went 13 yards to score. With four minutes left, Deforest Setzer of Fort Sheridan tossed a pass to Don Hemmingson, the pass and run being good for 65 yards and the Soldiers' only touchdown. The Broncos made 22 first downs to 1 for Fort Sheridan.

NEW ORLEANS, ROCK-OLA GIRLS TO MEET TONIGHT

Jax Girls of New Orleans, winners of the women's world softball tournament the past two years, and the Rock-Ola Music Maids, Midwest regional champions, clash tonight in Rock-Ola stadium, 4200 N. Central av., in the second of a three night series. The teams play again in Rock-Ola stadium tomorrow night, after which both leave for the world's tourney in Cleveland.

Nina Korgan, who has hurled 10 consecutive shutout victories in pitching the Jax Girls to the world title two straight years, will be on the mound for New Orleans. Mary Skorich is slated to oppose her.

SCHICK INJECTOR BLADES ARE BACK!
(Sorry—No New Razors Yet Except for the Armed Forces!)
Here you are, sir—looking and feeling your best after tomorrow morning's shave. And for good reason! Schick Injector Blades are back again in force!
Yes, tomorrow just return to your Schick Injector Razor—and presto! It's smooth shaving from then on.
We now have blades to supply civilian as well as military demands—but we still can't get the material for new razors except for the Armed Forces. So keep your Schick Injector Razor in A-1 condition and keep on enjoying these basic Schick Injector features. They're the only basic improvements in safety razor shaving in the past 40 years.

REDS CUT PIRATE 2D PLACE LEAD TO 4 GAMES, 3-2

Walker Drives In Winning Runs with Homer.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 9 (AP).—The National league's only remaining battle, for second place, tightened perceptibly today as the Cincinnati Reds took their second straight game from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 2, to cut the Pirates' lead over them to four games.

Gee Walker's home run with Clyde Shoun and Woodie Williams aboard accounted for all the Cincinnati scoring in the sixth.

Plain's Father Asks Delay in Serving Writ

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP).—Serving of a writ of mandamus which orders Springfield High school to reinstate Albert Plain, 17 year old senior, on its athletic eligibility list has been delayed at the request of his father to give the Illinois High School association time to reconsider its decision which banned young Plain from athletic competition.

The I. H. S. A. declared Plain ineligible for playing in an all-star baseball game in Chicago last July. A mandamus request by the youth's father, H. U. Plain, was granted Thursday by Judge L. E. Stone who ordered the high school to replace the basketball and baseball star's name on the eligibility list.

Atty. Hugh Dobbs, representing Plain's father, told a reporter last night the writ had not yet been served on the school principal and mandamus defendant, Lyman K. Davis, because the Plains asked a delay so that the I. H. S. A. could reverse its decision.

SPUD CHANDLER WINS PRIZE AS MOST VALUABLE

Camp Shelby, Miss., Sept. 9 (AP).—Spud Chandler, last year's Yankee world series star now a private with the 65th infantry division here, was presented an engraved wrist watch today as the most valuable American league ball player in 1943.

The award was made by Chandler's commanding general, Maj. Gen. Stanley E. Reinhart, who presented the watch for J. G. Taylor Spink, editor of the Sporting News, sports publication that annually makes most valuable awards in both major leagues.

In an interview which was broadcast on a radio network as part of the ceremonies, Chandler said he was "good for at least two more years" of big league ball. "I'm not younger, but I'm smarter," the ex-Yank pitching ace said, "and altho it will take me a little time to get my arm back in shape after this army layoff, I'm really in better physical condition as a result of my training than I have ever been in my life."

Chandler has been in the army since last May.

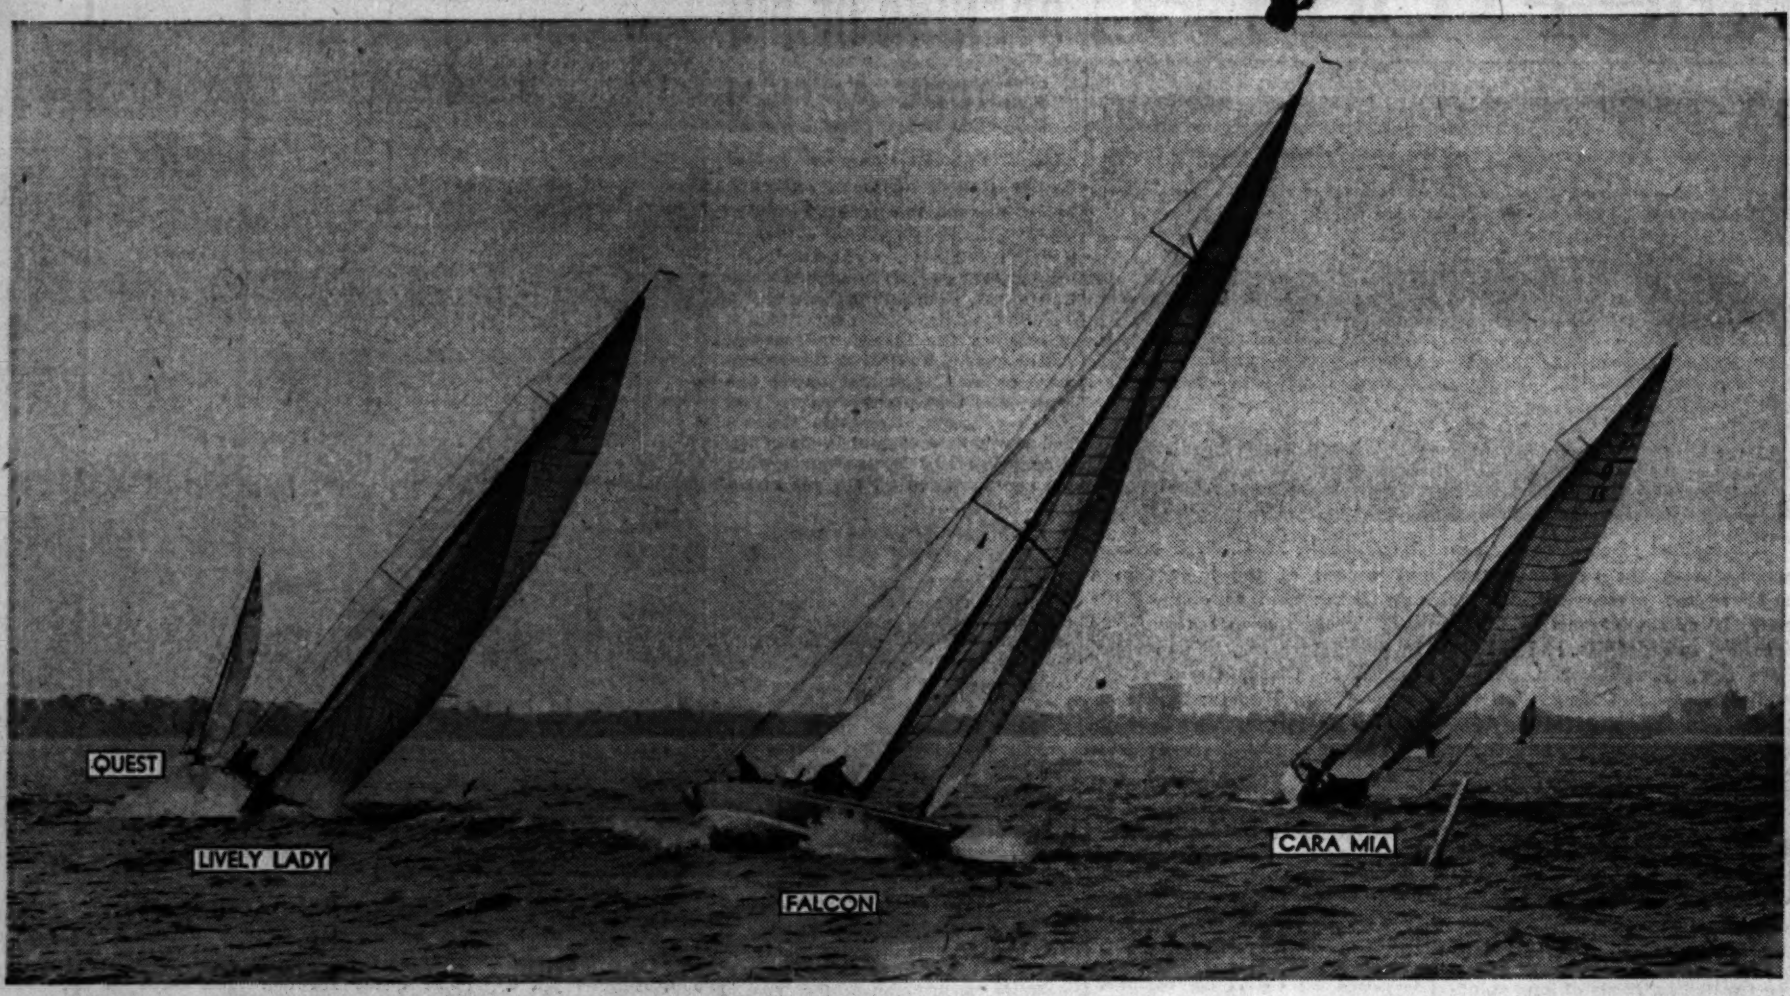
EXPECT SMYTHE TO TAKE HOCKEY POST IF ABLE

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (AP).—Maj. Connie Smythe probably will accept the presidency of the National Hockey league if he recovers sufficiently from wounds received in Normandy while serving with his battery, it was learned today.

Smythe, who was managing director of Maple Leaf Garden and manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the N. H. L. before going overseas, is expected home within the next two weeks but he may not make a decision immediately on his arrival.

A cablegram he sent the league governors in Montreal yesterday indicated his injuries were more serious than at first believed but it was learned that the tone of the message led the governors to think he will accept as soon as he recovers.

LIVELY LADY HAS ANSWER IN 'Q' SERIES



Four sloops negotiating a buoy in yesterday's first round of the Q class series sponsored by the Lake Michigan Yachting association off Jackson Park harbor. Almost obscured is Quest, which finished fourth; Lively Lady, the winner; Falcon, second place, and Cara Mia, third. Two races today will complete the series. Lively Lady is Otto Dreher's 47-footer from the Milwaukee South Shore Yacht club.

BUCK NEWSOM, ATHLETICS BEAT SENATORS, 3 TO 1

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Buck Newsom pitched and batted the Philadelphia Athletics to a 3 to 1 victory over the Washington Senators tonight. Roger Wolff was Newsom's victim, mostly thru faulty fielding.

With runners on second and third in the sixth inning, Newsom laid down a bunt to score Frankie Hayes from third. Freddie Vaughn then let Irv Hall's easy roller thru for an error to score George Kell.

NEWS FROM ARMY AND NAVY POSTS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Glenview Air Station.

LT. BILL CERNEY, athletic officer at this station since June, 1942, last week received orders detaching him to duty elsewhere. . . . Lt. Cerney, alternate for Elmer Layden of the famous Four Horsemen unit at Notre Dame, will be succeeded here by Lt. Comdr. Paul P. Mooney, former Columbia university basketball coach, who has reported from duty at Cecil field, Jacksonville, Fla. . . . Under the direction of Lt. Cerney, the physical training department was organized at this establishment. . . . He once served as assistant football and baseball director at North Carolina. . . . In 1934 he returned to Notre Dame as Layden's assistant and chief scout. . . . Lt. Cerney is married and the father of six children—Mary Lou, 16; Gertrude Marie, and Jo Ann, 14 year olds twins; William J. Jr., 11; Patricia, 7, and Richard, 5. . . . Mrs. Cerney and the children are living in South Bend.

Lt. Bill Cerney.

Chanute Field.

THE Chanute Planesmen, who captured the Eastern Illinois Baseball league post season tournament by beating Seymour, Ill., 6 to 2, last Sunday, will meet the Chicago White Sox in an exhibition game at this army air forces training command Thursday. . . . The soldiers also swamped Royal, Ill., 14 to 2, as the result of a 12 run outburst in the fifth inning of a game on Wednesday. . . . Appearance of the Sox will mark the first time a major league team has played here in two years. . . . Lt. Dick Newell, who allowed only one hit while pitching the Chanute players to an 8 to 0 victory over Thomasboro, Ill., likely will be on the mound against the American leaguers. . . . Also in the lineup for the Planesmen will be Pvt. 1st Class Byran Howell, who led Eastern Illinois circuit batters with a .468 average.

Fort Sheridan.

THE fort football representatives, who opened the season at Kalamazoo yesterday against Western Michigan, will make their second start of the season against the Great Lakes eleven at Great Lakes next Saturday. . . . De Forest Setzer, who was a forward on the Concordia college basketball team from Milwaukee which played the quintet from this post last winter, has reported for duty and will seek a berth on the football team. . . . Fort Sheridan's boxers, who met Madison Athletic club color bearers in Chicago on Friday, will meet the Chicagoans in a rematch in the post gymnasium here Sept. 20. . . . The return meeting originally was scheduled for Wednesday, but a postponement was made necessary when work was started to recondition the gymnasium floor in preparation for the 1944-'45 basketball season. . . . Nine teams, representing various units at this establishment, today will participate in a post-wide rifle meet under the sponsorship of the camp newspaper.

Schick General Hospital.

SGT. FRANK DUKET, former Green Bay Golden Gloves sectional winner, has returned to this army hospital in Clinton, Ia., for treatment of malaria contracted in New Guinea. . . . The noncom from Marinette, Wis., received the silver star for gallantry in action on May 17 when, after crawling thru enemy fire to a buddy, continued fighting despite suffering a bullet wound in the shoulder. . . . Members of his patrol in that action included Roger Behrendt, also of Marinette, and Sgt. Koeuts of Minnesota, and Privates Corvinas and Dugal, California residents.

Lively Lady Wins 1st Race in Lutz Series

Lively Lady, 47 foot sloop owned by Otto Dreher of the South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club, won the opening race yesterday for the T. C. Lutz trophy, emblematic of the Lake Michigan Q class championship, in the first of three races at the Jackson Park Yacht club. The Milwaukee yacht was sailed by Peter Tanger, skipper, with the crew composed of William Dreher, the owner's son, Anthony Herrmann, William Lepthien, Gene Tanger, and Dr. James Blackwood.

Victory's Time Fast.

Winning time for the 10½-mile course, was 1 hour, 16 minutes and 12 seconds, fast due to the fresh southwest breeze off the outer Jackson Park harbor. Falcon II., Clare Udell's Chicago Yacht club entry, was acros the starting line 20 seconds ahead of Lively Lady, but was caught at the halfway mark. Falcon was 25 seconds astern of the winner at the finish. L. L. [Ole] Karas' Chicago Yacht club entry, Cara Mia, was third.

The second race of the series will be held at 10:30 a.m. today, and the final event will start at 2:30 p. m.

Alady Wins Wilmette Race.

Alady, owned and sailed by Chief Boatswain Aaron Evans, U. S. C. G. R. [t], won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club race for Arrow class sloops off Wilmette harbor. Chief Evans' crew consisted of his daughter, Amy, Thomas Floyd, and Marjorie Hollingshead, a Girl Scout mariner. Their winning time for the seven mile course was 1:17:41. Robert Rogers won the Star class race with his 22 foot sloop, Gusty. Summaries:

there on Don Johnson's fly. Cavarretta blasted his two bagger into right center and in came Hack with the third run. Bill Nicholson was purposely passed and Dim Dom Dallessandro walked to load the bases. Andy Pafko, after getting into a choice 3 and 1 spot, let go with a single to left to score two more whereupon Alvin Jurisich was summoned to finish the inning.

After this flurry Hy Vandenberg stepped in to Passeau's place and blew down three Cards, two of them pinch hitters, in the home eighth. Then Sylvester Donnelly tried his hand against the Cubs in the ninth and was welcomed by a single from Dewey Williams, after which Vandenberg drew a pass. Eventually Williams scored on a wild pitch and then Vandenberg, after getting the first two Cards in the home half, surrendered a single to W. Cooper and pass to Sanders but reached the 27th put out before St. Louis could increase its run production.

1939—Dick Metz.
1940—Dutch Harrison.
1941—John Revolta.
1942—John Revolta.
1943—Jim Foulis.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 22d battle for the Willie Marshall trophy and the championship of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America will get under way today at the Glen Flora Country club in Waukegan. Jim Foulis, slender Ruth Lake pro who came back to win the title last September on the same course, after an absence of 10 years, will defend his crown against a strong field of stars from every section of the state.

Today's opening program will consist of 18 holes in which will be combined the first round of the pro event proper, and a special pro-amateur competition wherein Glen Flora members will join with the professionals. The P. G. A. tourney itself will be completed with another 36 holes of medal play tomorrow. Admission will be $1 in war stamps, to be directed to the Lake county war bond fund, of which James B. Crowley is chairman. Crowley also is in charge of the Glen Flora side of the tournament, having arranged the pro-amateur pairings.

Revolta Heads List.

In addition to Foulis, Tournament Chairman Bill Gordon of Tam O' Shanter and the Illinois section, has assembled a stout field, including Johnny Revolta of Evanston; Jack Grout of Greenacres; Byron Harcke of Twin Orchard; George Smith of Onwentsia; Sam Bernardi of Old Elm; Red Dennison of Midlothian, and Johnny Gibson of Midlothian.

Revolta, the curly-haired Evanston pro who formerly held the National P. G. A. and Western Open titles, and scored two team triumphs in the Chicago Victory National tournament with Lt. Patty Berg and George Hardy, is the only man in the history of the state event to have won the title five times, winning in 1936, 1937, 1938, 1941, and 1942. Smith and Bernardi were prize winners in the recent All-American tourney at Tam o'Shanter.

Jim Wins in Playoff.

Last year's tournament, played in cold, rainy weather, found Foulis and Revolta tied at the end of the regulation shooting, with 54 hole scores of 219, three over par for the distance at Glen Flora. In the 18 hole playoff, Jim won with a par 72, against Johnny's 73.

NEGRO WORLD SERIES TO OPEN IN BIRMINGHAM

The Negro baseball world series between the Birmingham Black Barons, American league champions, and the Washington Homestead Grays, National league pennant winners, will open in Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 17. The series will be a four of seven games affair and the second on Sept. 19. The teams will return on Sept. 18. The teams will return to Birmingham for the third meeting on Sept. 21.

Action will shift to the north for the fourth contest, which is scheduled in Pittsburgh's Forbes field on Sept. 23 and the remaining games, if necessary, will go to Washington, D. C., on Sept. 24 and 25 and to Philadelphia on Sept. 29.

TERRIER CLUB SPONSORS PUPPY MATCH TODAY

Chicago dog fanciers are invited to attend an open air puppy match sponsored by the Kerry Blue Terrier club of Chicago for young dogs of that breed, which will be held today in Lake Shore park, Chicago av. at Lake Shore dr. Judging will start at 2 p. m. with Alfred Glaves acting as judge.

Tuesday night William Schafer, Glenview, Ill., an authority on the working breeds, will address the West Suburban Kennel club in the Glen Ellyn community house. The meeting will open at 8 p. m. All dog fanciers are invited to attend

FIFTH ALL-STAR BASKET GAME SET FOR DEC. 1

The fifth annual College All-Star basketball game will be held Friday night, Dec. 1, in Chicago Stadium. Opponents of the leading college players of last year will be the world professional champions, the Zollners of Fort Wayne, Ind., who captured the title last March.

The college team will be chosen by a board of coaches and sports writers. Men in service will be permitted to play on the All-Star squad provided there is no interference with their military duties.

FIREMEN MEET DAVIDITES.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 9 [Special]. —Mike Murphy's Chicago Firemen will meet the House of David team here tomorrow.

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

FORTY-EIGHT foursomes, representing 24 Chicagoland industries, will tee off this morning in the second tournament of the Industrial Amateur Golf association at the Elmgate Golf club in Glenview. This event is the climax of the industrial golf season in this area, the contestants being the survivors of a field of 161 teams which played in preliminary tournaments during the summer.

The tournament itself has enjoyed remarkable growth since last year, when 28 foursomes entered the first I. A. G. A. meet. That was the outgrowth of an idea fostered by Claud S. Gordon of the Claud S. Gordon company. Not only was he the daddy of the league and its chief backer in its first year but he was chosen as president when the association was incorporated last spring.

The first foursome will tee off at 7:30 this morning with most of the lower handicap players being grouped together in quartets which will get away between 9:30 and 10 o'clock. There will be a buffet luncheon in the clubhouse at noon and all contestants, as well as league and company officials will be guests at a 6 o'clock dinner, at which the imposing array of team and individual trophies will be presented.

Teams Bid for Gordon Award and Sports Association Trophy.

The trophy list is headed by the Gordon award, which will go to the foursome turning in the low gross aggregate for the 18 holes. The Chicago Sports association has provided a trophy for the low net foursome and there is a list of other awards which is almost as long as the entry list.

American Steel & Wire, whose single foursome entered in the 1943 meet won the Gordon trophy, tops the 24 industries represented this year with seven teams due to take part. Ed Slobe of Johnson Motors won the individual low gross award last year and will compete again. The public is invited to attend the tournament and there will be no admission fee, the I. A. G. A. having taken over the course for the day.

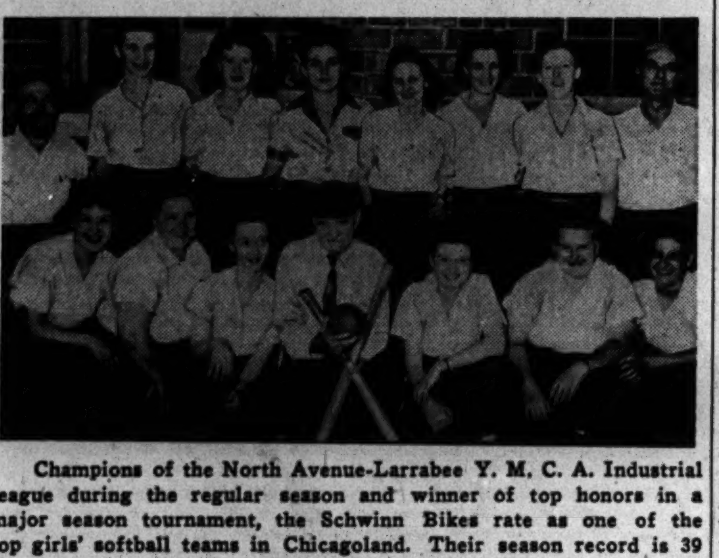
Entries in the tournament, listed by zones in which they played their preliminary rounds are:

NORTH ZONE—American Steel & Wire [7 teams], Johnson Motors [4], Abbott Laboratories [3], American Can company [2], Bell & Gossett [2], Farmsteel corporation [2], North Shore Lines [2], Chicago Hardware Foundry [2], Cyclone Fence, Culligan Zeolite, and William D. Gibson company.

WEST ZONE—Douglas Aircraft [4], Belden Manufacturing [2], Advance Aluminum Casting [2], Acme Industrial [2], Belmont Radio, Lindberg Steel Treating, Liquid Carbonic, and Lindberg Engineering.

SOUTH ZONE—Acme Steel [2], Inland Steel Container, Wilson & Co., Foote Bros., and Claud S. Gordon company.

In addition to these 47 foursomes there will be another made up of low scorers from teams which did not qualify for the tournament as groups. These individuals will be chosen by lot and will be eligible for individual prizes only.



Champions of the North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. Industrial league during the regular season and winner of top honors in a major season tournament, the Schwinn Bikes rate as one of the top girls' softball teams in Chicagoland. Their season record is 39 victories, two defeats, and one tie. In the picture are, left to right, front row, Joan Skokan, Ann Tewan, May Clark, Orrin (Pop) Darling, Laverne Cating, Dolly Becker, and Ann Diloria; back row, Coach Ben Shulman, Marie Seroca, Mary Monks, Grace Taviano, Lucille Lasky, Angie Petronia, Gussy De Smit, and Manager Paul Richter.

MOTOROLA Radio carried off season honors in the North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball league by defeating Stewart-Warner Friday night in Weber park in the final game of the league's play-off series. The two teams, rivals of long standing, had won the championships of the two divisions of the league and every one was expecting a close, low score game, on the basis of previous meetings. However, they put on a wild scoring contest, with Motorola winning, 21 to 8. Gits Molding took third place by beating Procter & Gamble, 11 to 7. The 14 teams in the two divisions of the league finished the regular season in this order:

AMERICAN DIVISION—Motorola, Gits, Mercoid corporation, Haber Screw Machine Products, Oak Manufacturing, A. Finkl & Sons, Postoffice Cashier Clerks.

NATIONAL DIVISION—Stewart-Warner, Procter & Gamble, Sola Electric, Chicago Latrobe, Signode Steel, Utah Radio, Crown Screw company.

The North Avenue league will hold its annual awards banquet in the association building late this month, with an attendance of 125, including five representatives of each team. Team and individual prizes will be awarded, among the latter being the James McDonald sportsmanship award and the Paul Wilbur batting trophy. The recipient of the sportsmanship prize will not be announced until the banquet, but Eddy Ryan, league director, reports that the batting championship has been won by Sam Gore, Negro catcher for Chicago Latrobe, with a .667 average.

Schwinn Bike Girls Capture North Avenue Title.

The Schwinn Bikes dominated the North Avenue Girls' Industrial league, going thru the season undefeated. Russell Electric finished second in the first half of the season and tied with Milwaukee Road for the runner-up spot in the second half. The two will play off this tie Tuesday night in Weber park and if Russell wins the season will be over. If Milwaukee takes this one, the two will play again for second place in the full season standings.

The Division Street Y Industrial Softball league championship will be settled Wednesday night, with Elcor, Inc., winner of the first half of the season, playing either Hammond Instrument or Thordarson Electric. Hammond already is certain of at least a tie for the second half title and Thordarson can throw it into a deadlock by beating Simpson Optical in a play-off of a postponed game tomorrow. If Thordarson wins, it will meet Hammond in a play-off for the second half title Wednesday, the winner then meeting Elcor for the full season championship later that night.

Simpson Optical Needs Victory to Tie for Fourth in League Race.

If Simpson Optical can knock off Thordarson tomorrow it not only will simplify the matter of the second half championship, but also will tie with Poster Products, Ekco Products and Bendix Aviation for fourth place. Elcor, the first half champion, is in third position for the second half, behind Hammond and Thordarson, while Milled Screw Products brings up the rear in the eight team league.

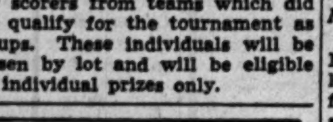
Bill Kutnick, Thordarson left fielder, slipped below .600 for the first time this season last week but his mark of .582 still is good enough to win the individual championship and he has a chance to improve on it in the game with Simpson tomorrow. Bill won the title last year with a mark of .611 and most of this season was ahead of that mark.

The next item of business on the agenda of north side industrial softball teams will be a North Side Y. M. C. A. invitational tournament, tentatively scheduled for next week. The top teams in the North Avenue-Larrabee, Lincoln-Belmont, Irving Park, and Division Street leagues will be invited to play in the tournament in Weber park.

GRANDPAPPY OF BAT BOYS.

THE Schwinn Bikes, girls' softball team sponsored by the Arnold Schwinn Bicycle company, advances two claims to distinction. One is that it is the No. 1 outfit in its sport in the Chicago area, which few rivals will care to dispute. The second is that it has the oldest bat boy of any industrial team, masculine or feminine, in Chicagoland. He is Orrin [Pop] Darling, 74 and still spry as they come. No member of the team or of the Schwinn organization can recall just when Pop adopted the girls' team as a group, but it is pretty well agreed that it was the first one the company [long a leader in this field of sports] ever backed.

BREEZING ALONG



THE state of New York has received $17,460,140 as its share of revenue from five meetings this year. . . . This compares with $10,861,025 for the same period in 1943. . . . With four meetings, totaling 54 racing days, still to be held, the 1944 season appears certain to break last year's revenue mark of $18,259,625. . . . William A. Hamilton, Hawthorne racing official, says many of the thorobreds now campaigning at the Stickney track will compete at Gulfstream Park. . . . Hamilton who will serve also as an official at the Florida track has been accepting requests from owners for stall space for their horses. . . . Gulfstream will open the Florida racing season on Dec. 1. . . . Bill Knapp, the former jockey who rode Upset to victory over Man o' War in the superhorse's only defeat, did all right for himself at Garden State Park until the halter men put him out of business. . . . Knapp won two races with Saros and two with Dime A Dance during the meeting before they were claimed. . . . Matt Winn, president of Churchill Downs, Inc., says Keeneland is not expected to attempt fall racing but the Breeders futurity and other major stakes of the Blue Grass club will be run during the Churchill Downs meet. . . . Churchill has applied for a 19 day meeting starting Oct. 21.

Leading Jockeys Pick Arcaro as Best Rider in the Nation.

Twelve out of 15 leading jockeys recently voted Eddie Arcaro as the best rider in the country. . . . When Arcaro learned of the voting he said, "Take any of those first five jockeys, put him on the best horse and he'd get 'em home." . . . The smallest daily double payoff in the history of harness racing has been recorded at Westbury, L. I. . . . The payoff was $3.40. . . . THE TRIBUNE race handicapper who picked the $628 double at New York the other day leads all Chicago newspaper experts in picking the longest priced combination for the local tracks. . . . During the Sportsman's Park meeting he picked a double that paid $188.60. . . . No other newspaper handicapper in town has topped it. . . . The sprint department on the New York tracks should gain attention thru the presence of Three Dots and Occupation, the Chicago sprint champions. . . . Three Dots, the sensation of the Washington Park meeting recently ran six furlongs in 1:10. . . . Occupation, as every racing fan knows, can pick 'em up and lay 'em down with the best sprinters in the business.

20 TEAMS AWAIT OPENING OF PIN LEAGUE ACTION

The 20 team Congress Ladies Classic league, generally conceded to be one of the nation's fastest women's bowling circuits, will start its 10th campaign Wednesday evening at 8:30 on the Congress Recreation alleys, Congress at Wabash.

Following its usual policy, league officers for the 1944-'45 season will not be elected until after the second week of bowling at which time balloting will take place after the evening's program. Henrietta Wilman has served as president in six of the nine years and Betty Ramsey has been secretary in all but one of the nine seasons.

Champions Have New Backer.

The Budweisers, 1944 champions and six times winners of the league title, will defend their crown with the same lineup as last year but will be under the banner of Mario's Restaurant. The team roster includes: Henrietta Wilman, Lee Garrity, Celia Winandy, Irene Engel, and Lee Liepe.

Wednesday's opening will be the 10th for several of the team captains including Betty Ramsey, Henrietta Wilman, Tess Morris, Bea Hochstadter, Ann Unhoch, Teresa Corns, Mary Clesse, and Emma Munzel.

OPEN FALL CUP SOCCER LEAGUE MATCHES TODAY

BY OFFSIDE.

The National Soccer league officially opens fall activities today with cup competition replacing the regular league schedule. All three sections will take part in this afternoon's schedule.

The National league is the first soccer group to try the new system of deciding the various titles in the spring instead of playing half of the schedule in the fall and then carrying over into the spring.

Hansas Meet Spartas.

Today's schedule pits the Hansas against the Spartas in the only major league games, battling in Weber stadium at Wellington st. and Ashland av. The Hansas have signed John Nugent, former league referee, as their manager and entertain hopes of making a bid for league honors. Their starting lineup includes practically all of last year's players with Herbert Sack, Werner Fekker, August Goeller, and Kurt Jotzat slated to start.

The Spartas will be under the direction of Manager Charley Fencel for the first time in several years and also have strengthened by signing Unio Marchiori of the Italians and Mario Myrion of the Necaxas for the season. Tom Scott and Laddi Mrnka will be at the full back posts and Jimmy Wolf, another veteran, will start at outside left.

Enter Govier Trophy Tourney.

Several teams not scheduled in the league program will participate in the five-a-side tournament for the Sheldon W. Govier trophy, sponsored by the Scots Clan MacDonald Lodge, at the Olympia Gardens, 211th st. and Lincoln Highway opposite Olympia Fields golf course.

The schedule:

First Round Pairings.

Hansa seconds vs. Schwabens, 1 p. m., Referee Otto Lenker; Hansas vs. Spartas, 3 p. m., Referee Fred Linstow in Weber stadium, Wellington st. and Ashland av.

Norwegians vs. Chicago Sport club, 1 p. m., Referee Frank Nowakowski; Lineas vs. Hakoah-Centers, 3 p. m., Referee Robert Jones, in Hanson park stadium, 5500 Fullerton av.

Hunt Battles Chuck Hunter at Marigold

Jimmy Hunt, 1943 city Golden Gloves welterweight champion, will try for his sixth victory in seven starts when he meets Chuck Hunter, Chicagoland Golden Gloves lightweight title holder, in an eight round windup bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

Hunter also will be attempting to stretch his winning streak to five in a row. Chuck beat Berry Wright, Bill Parsons, Robert Fowler, and Gene Ward in recent months.

Holds Victory Over Parsons.

Hunt's victims also include Parsons. He fought to a draw with Fowler, but scored an impressive conquest of Tommy James in the Marigold arena on Aug. 21.

Robert Earl, also a former city Golden Gloves winner, is paired with Jose Mendoza, Mexico City lightweight, in an additional eight round event on the card. Mendoza conquered Gene Spencer of South Chicago in his Chicago debut. In Earl, however, he will face a strong foe. Robert defeated Charley Parham of Milwaukee on Aug. 28. Previously he beat Leon Spencer, Rudy [Torpedo] Reed, Pvt. Dave Bruce, Leroy Spencer, Fowler, and Johnny Rhodes.

Pittro to Meet Robinson.

Jerry Pittro and Dan Robinson, Chicago welterweights, meet in a six round match. A five round encounter will bring together Parsons, Danville, Ill., 150 pounder, and Jimmy Bishop. The latter used to box as Bishop Murphy. Pee Wee Hoag, junior lightweight newcomer from Wichita, Kas., is matched with Bobby Williams in a four round opener.

George Dusette, Boston heavyweight wrestler, will meet Al Williams of the north side in the main event of a mat show in White City tomorrow. . . . Inability to obtain a suitable foe for Sgt. Lou Woods, Camp Grant and Detroit 155 pound boxer, has caused Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun to cancel a proposed show in Chicago Stadium Sept. 22. . . . Pete Lello, Gary lightweight, will leave this week for Mexico City where he encounters Juan Zurita, National Boxing association 135 pound ruler, in a 10 round nontitle contest Sept. 21.

CATHOLIC PREP ELEVENS TO PLAY 5 GAMES TODAY

Prep Football

GAMES TODAY.
Miscellaneous.

Loyola vs. De Paul in Loyola stadium, 2 p. m.; St. Mel vs. Mount Carmel, at 83d and Yates, 2 p. m.; Weber vs. St. Philip, in Lane Tech stadium, 2 p. m.; St. Ignatius vs. St. Rita, in Shewbridge field, 2 p. m.; Leo vs. St. George, in Shewbridge field, 8 p. m.

Ten Catholic league teams inaugurate the Chicago football season today with nonleague games in which four coaches, Earl Walsh of Mount Carmel, George La Cognata of Weber, Frank Mannot of St. Patrick, and Frank Jenks of De Paul, make their Chicagoland debuts. Four games will be played this afternoon while the best game on the program is expected to be the evening encounter between St. George, defending league and city co-champion, and Leo in Shewbridge field at 8 p. m.

In the afternoon games, De Paul travels to Loyola to continue a north side rivalry started in 1911 when De Paul won, 5 to 3; Mount Carmel, co-champion with St. George, acts as host to St. Mel; Weber meets St. Philip in Lane Tech stadium, and St. Ignatius plays St. Rita, also in Shewbridge field. Each game will start at 2 p. m.

Three Regulars Back.

Coach Max Burnell at St. George has three regulars from last year's team. What the Dragons lack in experience is made up in size. Burnell has one line which averages close to 200 pounds per man, altho he probably will make use of a lighter group which has had more experience. Co-Captains Jack Vainisi and Bill Murphy, both tackles, and Half Back Larry Coutre are returning varsity players.

John [Hicks] Connelly, the league's oldest coach in years of service, enters his 18th year and his fifth at Loyola against his assistant coach of last year, Frank Jenks, in the De Paul-Loyola game. Neither team made spectacular showings last season but past records mean little when these teams meet. Loyola holds a slight edge in the 33 year old series.

South side fans will get their first view of a former Fordham university head coach's team when Earl Walsh's Carmel Caravan, with only three returning lettermen, meets St. Mel, which is looking forward to a better than fair season. Coach Emmett Murphy of St. Mel has had the largest turnout in several years with nine regulars back from last year.

St. Ignatius, St. Rita Strong.

Six experienced players form the nucleus around which Coach Ralph Malliard has built his St. Ignatius eleven. Coach Leo Deutsch at St. Rita on the other hand has four lettermen back and both teams have been tabbed for the upper bracket of their divisions because of the spirit and aggressiveness exhibited last year. Ignatius wound up in third place in the north section, behind St. George and Fenwick, while St. Rita lost only one league game and registered a practice victory over St. George.

George La Cognata has a small team at Weber with a good backfield but dearth of line material as he makes his league debut against St. Philip. Weber, which has made great athletic strides in the past few years, hopes to carry on where its junior basketball team left off last March when the Red Horde won the league crown and then defeated Marshall for the city title.

St. Philip rules as a favorite in today's game since Coach Tom O'Brien had his squad at a camp near Coloma, Mich., for a two weeks period. The benefit of more concentrated work, as is possible at a camp, has given St. Phillip an edge in training over Weber. O'Brien has nine regulars from last year's squad which won two, lost, three, and played one tie.

FEDERAL TAXES TAKE BIG TOLL OF BUSINESSES

Burden Too Heavy for Heirs.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With the efficiency of a guillotine, federal taxes are killing off independently owned business enterprises in the United States. This is made clear by the results of studies made on the effects of present estate and income tax rates on business ownership.

Singled out for destruction are the enterprises in which ownership is held by an individual or a small group. With the estate tax the government takes a first mortgage on the business at the time of the death of the principal owner. With the income tax it takes away most of the profits of the enterprise that might be used to lift the mortgage. As a result the heirs or the business associates of the owner, in whom the ability to preserve the business is most apt to be found, are prevented from acquiring ownership.

Risk Termed Too Large.

The business is sold under the most adverse conditions, at prices that reflect the destruction of going business values. The prohibitive income tax rates that bar the heirs and associates from acquiring ownership also deter others possessing the necessary capital from buying. Altho a business is potentially profitable it is seldom that a prospective purchaser with capital can increase his income after taxes commensurately with risk he takes.

The federal levy on a net estate of $1,000,000 is $325,000. To this is added the state inheritance tax, which varies according to the manner in which the property is distributed. There will be other miscellaneous claims and the cost of estate administration. In all, these will approximate $400,000 on an estate of $1,000,000. It is this amount that must be raised within a short period, the federal estate tax being payable within 15 months of death. The period may be extended in "hardship" cases but the decision is left to the discretion of the internal revenue commissioner.

Must Raise a Third of Value.

An individual without other means inheriting a $1,000,000 enterprise finds it necessary to raise an amount exceeding a third of the value of the business or lose the enterprise. Assuming the business earned 8 per cent a year after corporation taxes, the income would be $80,000. After interest on $400,000 and individual income tax there would remain about $28,000 for amortizing the loan. If the entire amount were used for this purpose the loan would be paid off in about 14 years.

Meanwhile the beneficiary would be without income from the estate. If the beneficiary took $10,000 a year for living expenses there would remain $18,000 for payment on the loan. At this rate the period of amortization would stretch over 20 years. In either case, tax men agree, the beneficiary would be unable to obtain a loan of the size needed to retain the business. The only course open is to sell.

Values Are Sacrificed.

The logical purchaser of such a business is the management group. An administrator handling the estate would normally approach these individuals first. They know the business and their economic livelihood is tied up in its future. But these individuals are in the same position as the beneficiary unless they possess adequate capital of their own, which is rarely the case. The inability to repay out of the earnings of the business money borrowed for the purchase prevents the transfer of ownership to this group. Under these conditions the good will, trade names, and other intangibles might be peddled to a competitor and the fixtures auctioned off. This means sacrificing the value that can be preserved only by continuity of ownership and management.

At present rates, the corporation income tax impairs the health of business enterprise before the estate tax comes in for the kill, the studies disclose. The minimum tax on earnings of a good sized corporation [$50,000 or more income] is 40 per cent. With excess profits taxes the effective rate of taxation reaches an 80 per cent maximum. This heavy drain on profits chokes off development of business enterprise that draws on earnings to finance growth. This has been the most important source of capital in development of enterprise.

The destructive effect of the estate tax increases with the size of the estate. At 2½ million dollars the government takes approximately 1 million in estate taxes; at 5 million dollars, nearly 2⅔ million; at 10 million, the government gets more than 6 millions in tax.

Five successive increases since 1932 have raised the rates to their present level. Each of the increases was presented to congress as a revenue measure, but the total collections this year from the estate levy, and its companion gift tax, will amount to less than 1 per cent of federal receipts. The estate tax, however, has an impact on the country's economy out of all proportion to the revenue it produces.

Sale of Oats by Canadians Breaks Prices

Efforts of Canadians to sell large quantities of cash oats in the United States yesterday extended the decline in domestic oats. September, December, and May options sold at new seasonal low prices on the Chicago Board of Trade. Weakness in oats sent September and December rye and all deliveries of barley to new lows.

September oats led the decline and closed at 55⅞ to 56 cents a bushel, a loss of 1⅛ cents. Other deliveries were ⅝ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, the latter on July. Rye was off ¼ to ⅛ cent and barley 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents. Fair deliveries of cash barley are expected on September contracts early this week. Wheat was unsettled, closing ⅜ cent higher to 1⅝ cents lower, July showing the weakness.

Canadian Oats Bring 61¼ Cents.

A moderate amount of Canadian No. 2 white oats, 40 pounds per bushel, sold at 61¼ cents duty paid, track Chicago, or 30⅝ cents less than was paid recently. A reduction of 2 cents in the Canadian export tax, effective yesterday, resulted in a similar reduction in offerings in eastern markets where No. 2 white oats were quoted at 68 cents, duty paid, off 8 cents in the last three days.

Brokers said the rapidity with which the Canadian export tax was reduced last week decreased the demand, as buyers have no confidence in the market. Winnipeg October oats on which there is a ceiling of 51½ cents closed at 50⅛ cents, up ⅞ cent. Receipts of 454,000 bushels Canadian oats were reported and brokers expect large deliveries on September contracts early this week.

Continued large purchases of cash wheat by the Commodity Credit corporation, especially in the northwest, tends to decrease pressure on futures, brokers said in explaining the relative strength in the September delivery.

Corn Offerings Increased.

Weakness in oats and barley was affecting the corn market and country offerings of new grain for deferred shipment were the largest of the season. Purchases of 200,000 bushels were reported mainly on the basis of $1.12⅞ to $1.13 a bushel for No. 2 yellow, shipment by Dec. 31. More than 750,000 bushels were estimated to have been purchased last week on this basis.

Weather conditions over the corn belt were more favorable for maturing the new crop, and each day of good weather is estimated to put 2 per cent or more of the acreage out of danger of frost damage. A department of agriculture estimate on the corn crop will be issued tomorrow.

OIL EXPLORATION URGED IN ARCTIC AREA OF ALASKA

Latest aerial oil surveys on the arctic slope of Alaska show many old seepage areas that should be explored immediately for future oil reserves, Norman Ebbley Jr. of the United States bureau of mines said yesterday in the September issue of Mining and Metallurgy magazine.

Only one-third of the area has been mapped geologically, Ebbley said. Some information is available about the distribution of rocks with which petroleum usually is associated, but little is known of the actual occurrence of petroleum. For this reason much preliminary work is necessary before production drilling for oil can be undertaken, he said.

SEC APPROVES CAR LINE'S PLAN FOR REDEMPTION

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission has approved Milwaukee Electric Railway and Transport company's plan to redeem on Sept. 16, at principal amount plus interest, $400,000 of its 4 per cent first mortgage bonds, held by its parent, Wisconsin Electric Power company. Milwaukee will also reacquire for 1 million dollars from Wisconsin 10,000 shares of its capital stock.

LAKE SHIP OPERATORS SAY 1944 ORE TRAFFIC WILL BE ENDED EARLY

Cleveland, O., Sept. 9 [Special]—Freighters will be withdrawn from the ore trade and docked for the winter late next month and early in November, Great Lakes vessel operators said today.

Fleets that in the last two years were kept busy until ice sealed navigation channels to the upper lakes will find it impossible to obtain cargoes in another six weeks, reports indicate, and plans are being made for the earliest lay-up since Germany marched into Poland.

Vessels carried 12,288,253 gross tons of ore over the lake route last month, boosting the total as of Sept. 1 to 54,574,155 tons. Last year's movement in the corresponding period was 52,359,474 tons, but increased shipments in the closing weeks of the season increased the total to 84,404,852 tons.

With the end of the European war apparently near, vessel operators will limit this season's ore movement to 80 million tons. Approximately 25 million tons will be carried in the next two months, leaving less than a half million tons to be moved in November.

Ore consumption set a new all-time record in the first eight months of this year, but stocks on hand at lower lake ports are large enough to keep steel plants operating for at least four months and ship owners are reluctant to increase surplus stocks.

HAWAIIAN AERO LINK BACKED AS VITAL TO PEACE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Adequate post-war air connections between Hawaii and the Pacific northwest are vital to peace in the Pacific and to the area's equitable participation in world trade, the civil aeronautics board was told today by Northwest Air Lines officials who supported an application for a route between Hawaii and the Portland-Seattle-Tacoma area, for which an estimated million dollar government subsidy would be needed.

Croil Hunter, Northwest's president, termed the Puget sound area the "natural gateway" to Alaska and the orient and said it should be allowed to participate in post-war air trade which would flow thru Hawaii to and from the United States. H. C. Timberlake, Northwest's economist, said such service would facilitate movement of army and navy personnel and avoid the congestion apt to develop in California.

If CAB approves Northwest's pending application for extension of its line to New York, that line would be the only one to provide one carrier service to Honolulu from all northern areas across the entire mainland, Timberlake said. United Air Lines will argue Monday for its proposed service between Los Angeles and San Francisco and Honolulu.

CARNEGIE STEEL EMPLOYS 4,000 RETURNED VETS

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation has employed more than 4,000 returned veterans, J. L. Perry, president, told officers and directors of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce in the Edgewater Beach hotel last night. More than 2,000 of the veterans are former Carnegie-Illinois workers reëmployed after a leave of absence in the army or navy, he added.

Carnegie-Illinois employs more than 15,000 women, 11,000 of whom are engaged in 360 operating-jobs, Perry said. Employment of women has required new training programs to qualify them for a variety of skilled and unskilled jobs, he added.

Admits Field's Sun Violated Paper Quotas

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Counsel for the Chicago Sun admitted today that the publication, owned by Marshall Field III., exceeded its allowed quota of newsprint, as established by the war production board, in the second quarter of this year.

The admission was made by H. Templeton Brown, attorney for the Sun, at a hearing before the WPB appeals board, on the Field publication's application for an increase in its newsprint allotment.

Brown's statement followed charges yesterday by E. M. Antrim, assistant business manager of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who told the appeals board that the Sun's alleged illegal use of paper was "one of the most flagrant cases of wilful violation of the law" in WPB history. Antrim estimated the Field paper used 815 tons more than its quota for the second quarter—an overage of 12.85 per cent.

Seeks Increased Quota.

Brown refrained from mentioning the amount of the excess, but contended that the allotment exceeded by the Sun was only a "tentative" quota. He said the Sun, thru its current appeal, is seeking an increased quota which would be retroactive to cover the excess already used and also apply to future operations.

Antrim replied that WPB limitation orders specifically forbid retroactive newsprint increases as well as forbidding any publisher to exceed his allotment for a given quarter. If this were not true, any newspaper could exceed its allowed quota and then evade penalties by applying for a retroactive increase, he said.

Brown and Clem J. Randau, business manager of the Sun, contended that the Sun should have a 15 per cent increase in its present quota which is based largely on newsprint used in 1942, its first full year of operation. This is more than double the 6.01 per cent boost recommended for the publication by the WPB printing and publishing division. The figures are exclusive of reductions of about 20 per cent from base quotas which apply to the Sun and all other papers under WPB paper restriction orders.

Asks "Modest" Increase.

"We know there is a war on, so we are asking for a modest increase—only 15 per cent," Randau told the board.

Antrim protested such an increase would give the Sun an unfair advantage over all other Chicago newspapers and would be contrary to WPB's announced intention of restricting newsprint use by all publishers on a uniform basis.

Commenting on charges by Antrim yesterday that officials of the Sun had studiously sought to influence federal officials to allot the publication more paper, Randau denied any undue pressure had been brought, but he admitted he had made "33 trips to Washington in the last 22 months" in an effort to get the Sun a satisfactory newsprint quota.

Dr. A. N. Holcombe, chairman of the WPB appeals board, interrupted the hearing on several occasions to reprimanded Brown or Randau for making uncomplimentary references to THE TRIBUNE and to Antrim.

Sun Officials Admonished.

Brown opened his remarks by referring to Antrim as "Mr. Tantrum" and told the board it would be "venomously attacked" by THE TRIBUNE if it granted the Sun an increased paper quota. Randau referred to Antrim's testimony as containing "THE TRIBUNE'S customary spleen and smear." Holcombe admonished both Sun officials for so "characterizing" THE TRIBUNE and said such remarks were not helpful to the appeals board.

Antrim today filed a brief with the board in support of THE TRIBUNE'S application for 1,819 tons of newsprint for the current quarter in addition to its regular quota. The request is based on the contention that THE TRIBUNE has been forced by newsprint cuts to reduce its advertising lineage, while certain other Chicago newspapers have been able to increase their lineage. Antrim argued the application closely parallels a similar one by the Chicago Times, which the appeals board recently granted.

The board took under advisement both the Tribune and Sun appeals.

URGES BRITISH GEAR INDUSTRY TO LATIN TRADE

Retake Markets of U. S., Says Bank.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9. — A demand that British industry be geared for the fullest exploitation of the South American trade as soon as the war permits, to recapture these markets from the United States, was made this week by the Bank of London and South America.

The bank, with its intimate local knowledge, said, there is every evidence of willingness by the South American countries to resume trade with Britain, but emphasized the strong position gained by the United States in these areas. It also referred to changed conditions brought about by the accelerated growth of Latin industries likely to be protected by tariffs and subsidies after the war.

Urges Priority for Needed Goods.

The bank recommended that British industry receive priority for manufacturing a wide range of goods urgently needed in South America.

An outstanding feature of Latin America's economic position since the war is the accumulation of large reserves abroad in gold and foreign curencies. At the end of 1943 these amounted to about 2 billion 400 million dollars, of which about 1 billion belonged to Argentina and 500 million to Brazil. The foreign exchange portion of these reserves is largely in United States dollars, but there also is a substantial portion in pounds. Argentina alone holds well over 50 million pounds. These reserves largely represent pent up purchasing power which has had no outlet because of war time import difficulties.

Many Wants Listed.

The study gives a detailed list of imports required by the Latin American countries, including textiles, coal, iron, steel, agricultural machinery, locomotives, radios, typewriters, motor vehicles, drugs, chemicals, and ships.

The bank's principal branches emphasized the strength of American competition, particularly in Brazil where United States exporters have obtained a predominant position, "which, from all reports, they are endeavoring to retain."

At the same time, the Financial News editorially demanded a clarification of the British government's policy regarding post-war trade. "It should be decided without delay whether restrictions imposed by lend-lease are to continue to hamper British exports or whether the policy is to be relaxed so as to allow a wide range of goods to be exported," it said.

TOBIN REPORTS 5,000 JOBLESS IN TIRE SHORTAGE

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL], today said 5,000 interstate truck drivers were out of work and there was danger the unemployment would spread because of a critical shortage of heavy tires and automotive parts.

He made the assertion at Democratic national headquarters where Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, announced that Tobin, at President Roosevelt's request, again would head the labor division of the Democratic campaign committee.

Tobin said a brotherhood conference, which Mr. Roosevelt will address Sept. 23 for his opening campaign speech, was called to study the tire situation.

CONFEREES PUT JOB CURB INTO SURPLUS BILL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Senate and house conferees amended the surplus property disposal bill today to prohibit government employes handling sales of surplus goods from later taking positions with private purchasers for a period of two years.

Chairman Thomas [D., Utah] of the senate conferees said the provision was designed to prevent "a party to the sale from being a party to the purchase, and added the ban would be applicable to $1 a year men in the government.

Munition Order Cutbacks Top 421 Millions for Eleven Weeks

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Government procurement agencies, topped by the army, made 407 cutbacks totaling $426,493,000 in war production in the 11 weeks from June 15 thru Aug. 31.

Altho an estimated 49,000 workers will be released when the cutbacks become fully effective in about four months, only about one-third of them will involve the release of workers. Some were in plants with sufficiently large backlogs of orders to continue in full production, while others were "paper cutbacks" involving production still in the planning stage.

Only Few Workers Affected.

In a review of cut-backs today, the office of war information said only a "small fraction" of the 9½ million workers employed in the munitions industry would be affected.

"As yet cut-backs have presented only isolated instance where serious difficulty might be found in absorbing released resources in war production," said Arthur H. Bunker, chairman of the production executive committee staff. "Cut-backs fall most frequently in tight labor areas, but these areas are best able to absorb available workers in other production. Of the total number of cut-backs, 67 per cent involved no release of labor by employers affected."

Plane Cut-backs Largest.

In number and dollar volume, cutbacks were largest in the aircraft industry, with 74 reductions in production schedules involving $134,231,000 and 21,869 workers. Ship cutbacks totaled $74,912,000 with the prospective release of 6,580 workers, and guns and related equipment $47,912,000 and 9,958 workers. There were smaller reductions in other munitions fields.

The army placed 227 of the cutbacks, amounting to $233,230,000 and indicated a release of 31,033 workers, including 21,869 in the aircraft industry. The navy made 161 reductions amounting to $173,939,000 and the prospective release of 14,042 workers.

Ford Strike Ends as Night Shift Returns

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9 (AP).—Normal production of B-24 Liberator bombers was restored tonight at the giant Ford operated Willow Run bomber plant as employes who walked out yesterday returned to their jobs.

Approximately 2,000 riveters and crane operators left their jobs in what was described by company spokesmen and officials of local 50, United Automobile Workers [CIO], as a dispute over the transfer of riveters from one department to another. The walkout shutdown the entire plant, making about 30,000 employes idle.

6,100 Coal Miners Idle.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP).—Approximately 6,100 coal miners were idle in West Virginia today and 14 pits were closed in a dispute involving rights of mine supervisory employes to unionize. Sixteen mines, 10 in Pennsylvania and six in West Virginia, seized by the government last week, resumed production yesterday and today. Supervisors at about 100 mines have filed notice of intention to take strike votes within a 30 day period. Already elections have been held at 57 pits.

Steel Strike Ended.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 9 (AP). — Employes of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's three blast furnaces at Fairfield voted in a union meeting today to return to their jobs on the 11 o'clock shift tonight.

The workers, members of the CIO United Steelworkers, quit their jobs Wednesday in protest against what both the company and the union termed delay on the part of the war labor board in ruling on an incentive wage plan.

Bushings Plant Seized.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Acting on orders of the President, the army tonight announced it is taking over the plant of the 20th Century Brass company, in Minneapolis, Minn. The plant, which makes bronze bushings as a subcontractor for war plants, has been closed since Aug. 21.

On that date between 35 and 40 employes quit in protest against failure of the company to comply with a war labor board wage order handed down June 3 which is being contested in the federal courts.

The workers, members of United Electrical Workers [CIO], did not call a strike, but announced they were quitting and demanded their pay, a company spokesman said.

98 MILLION DOLLARS SURPLUS WAR GOODS SOLD UP TO AUG. 15

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Approximately 98 million dollars of surplus war property was disposed of between May 15 and Aug. 15, W. L. Clayton, surplus war property administrator, announced today.

Major disposals were made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of capital and producers' goods and by the procurement division of the treasury department of consumer goods, Clayton reported.

RFC in July disposed of surplus property costing $4,976,000 for $4,130,000, or 83 per cent of cost, Clayton said. Both RFC and treasury procurement have realized a high percentage of cost in disposals, he added. Remaining inventories on Aug. 15 totaled 313 million dollars, including aircraft and gliders, plants and real estate.

WARD'S PETITION FOR RWLB ORDER REVIEW IS DENIED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—A petition for review of an order of the 6th regional war labor board, Chicago, was denied today by the national board in a dispute involving Montgomery Ward & Co. and the Mail Order, Warehouse and Distribution Workers [CIO], bargaining agent for 1,091 employes in the company's St. Paul, Minn., store.

Issues included a racial nondiscrimination clause, wage increases, arbitration of grievances and duration of contract. The regional board ordered a wage increase of 7½ cents an hour and a 50 cent hiring rate to eliminate substandard wages, both retroactive to Feb. 13, 1943.

QUESTION NEED FOR RATIONING MEATS IN U.S.

Canadian Supplies Not Controled.

Cattle Run Sets High

Aggregate receipts of cattle at all markets thus far this month were the heaviest in 10 months and set an all-time record for early September, live stock interests said yesterday. The department of agriculture announced that August cattle slaughter, 1,339,198 head, was the heaviest in history.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

Are meat restrictions in this country being drawn tighter than is necessary? This question came up in the stock yards yesterday when it was learned that Canada apparently does not plan to resume meat rationing suspended early in the spring. Canadians are getting more meat than they did earlier in the war, and data from the dominion bureau of statistics show the war actually has expanded meat eating in that country.

The pork supply in the United States this week is tighter than it has been at any time since the war started in Europe, meat distribution experts agree. This country is being harder pressed for meat products, thru lend-lease, than other countries from which more supplies could be obtained, some observers said.

Beef Use Increases.

The dominion bureau of statistics, explaining the increase in meat eating in Canada during war years, reported that the increase in production was sufficient to provide for larger exports and domestic consumption. The per capita beef consumption actually was higher than in the United States, in peace time one of the largest beef eating countries in the world. The Canadian beef use per capita was 13 per cent higher in 1943 than in 1942, and pork showed a gain of 15 per cent.

To prevent illegal sales without ration points to civilians in this country the OPA demands reports of all pork sales that farmers make from their own live stock. The food administration of the Canadian prices board recently announced that farmers may slaughter hogs for sale without obtaining a slaughtering permit and may sell pork without having it stamped. The board explained the new procedure was possible because of the suspension of meat rationing and a

STOCK MARKET CLOSES LOWER; VOLUME SMALL

Week's Downturn Widest Since July 27.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—The stock market closed lower today as Saturday sessions were resumed after three extended week-end holidays. Customers who appeared in boardrooms continued to exhibit caution, but light bidding developed on the belief the recent retreat had been overdone. Some last minute short covering enabled a few issues to advance after early declines. Losses were in the majority at the close and volume was one of the smallest of the year.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.1 at 53.2 in today's brief proceedings and on the week showed a net loss of 1.8 points, the widest setback since the week ended July 27. Today's turnover of 275,690 shares, smallest since July 29, compared with 374,470 on Aug. 12, the last Saturday session.

Some Prominent Losers.

Prominent losers included United States Steel, Southern Pacific, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse Electric, Warner Brothers, du Pont, and General Electric. Chrysler wiped out a loss to emerge with a point advance. Douglas Aircraft also recovered to close up 1¼. Minor improvement was held by General Motors, Standard Oil [N. J.], Allied Chemical, Goodrich, and J. C. Penney.

On the curb, Brewster Aero, Cuban Atlantic Sugar, and Republic Aviation were ahead fractionally. Pennsylvania Water and Power lost 3⅝ on small transactions. Turnover was 67,235 shares.

RAIL BONDS AGAIN HIGHER.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Prices closed irregular in today's bond market as rails continued to show selective improvement and utility and low yield issues declined. Transactions were $2,414,800 compared with $1,908,700 on Aug. 12, the last Saturday session.

Carriers up fractions to about a point included Boston and Maine 4s, Great Western 4s, Milwaukee 5s of 1975, Kansas City Southern 5s, and New Haven convertible 6s. Alton 3s, Milwaukee adjustment 5s, and Missouri Pacific F 5s of 1977 were lower.

Issues losing ground in the low yield division included American Telephone 3s of 1956 and Virginian railway 3⅜s. United States government securities were steady.

CHICAGO SHARES LOWER.

Prices closed lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in turnover of 11,000 shares. More active issues included Consolidated Biscuit, unchanged; Chicago corporation, down ⅛, Automatic Washer, up ⅛, and Libby, McNeill & Libby, unchanged.

TO REBUILD RAIL LINE.

The Chicago and North Western railroad's Scribner branch in Nebraska will be rebuilt soon, Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] said, quoting an ICC statement. The line, about 100 miles long, has been without service since June when floods washed out a large section of track.

EXHIBIT SHOWS WIDE VARIETY OF USES FOR WOOD

When Processed It's Even Potable.

New uses for wood which may make possible wide expansion of the timber industry after the war were emphasized yesterday in an exhibit shown at the Union League club by American Forest Products Industries an organization of associations engaged in the lumber business.

The exhibit presented evidence to show that wood is not merely a substance that can be cut into lumber for the building of homes and furniture, but is a versatile material which may be moulded into hundreds of different articles and which, when given certain treatment, may be eaten or drunk.

Possibilities Held Unlimited.

M. O. Chenoweth, of New York, in charge of the exhibit, said the post-war possibilities are unlimited for exploiting new uses for forest products which will aid greatly in extending employment.

"Altho wood is one of our oldest structural materials, we are far from knowing all its secrets," Chenoweth said. "But only today scientific management of forests and tree farms is assuring us a continued supply of wood. Out of the test tubes have sprung amazing things that a few years ago were not even dreamed of."

The exhibit showed the step by step procedure in the production of hydroxylin, or black plastic, from the raw sawdust to the final molded plastics. Another exhibit showed how certain common faults of wood have been overcome thru impregnation, heat, and pressure. Several samples of impregnated wood demonstrating its rugged strength were shown, including a cross-section of an airplane propeller and a section of decking for an aircraft carrier.

Various Samples Shown.

Various samples of plywood, laminated wood, and wood "sandwich" materials were shown. In the plywood section was a wooden hinge with a moulded channel for the metal pin. A model ship keel was shown in the laminated section and in the "sandwich" material division a section of a Mosquito bomber fuselage of plywood over a balsa wood core.

Chenoweth explained that wood is made edible or potable thru a process of wood hydrolysis. He said a wood "steak" made from protein yeast made thru this process is sold in Swedish restaurants and some of Sweden's famed aquavit made from alcohol obtained thru the same process.

QUESTION NEED FOR RATIONING MEATS IN U. S.

big increase in the number of Canadian hog producers.

The pork supply in this country has become acute since the arrival of new lend-lease contracts for large tonnage at a time when production is falling rapidly. Packers said they still are working on pork orders from the military and lend-lease contracted for earlier in the season when output was larger. The proportion of loins, hams, and some other good cuts for civilians was reduced drastically in recent weeks.

Lend-lease representatives also are buying heavily in other meats. August contracts for beef and veal were largest since March, and lamb and mutton buying last month was at a six months' peak.

How urgently Europe as a whole needs American meat will not be known until definite information is available on requirements of liberated countries based on surveys by the allied nations, packers well informed on pre-war European agriculture said. They believe that some of the severe meat shortages in war torn countries can be marked up to distribution difficulties caused by disrupted transportation.

Dependable reports on live stock in Europe have been unavailable since the war started, except from Denmark and Sweden, where substantial upturns are reported. Denmark, which prior to the German invasion was one of England's chief sources of pork supplies, has 32 per cent more hogs on farms now than in 1943 and 55 per cent more than in 1942, it was said.

WARNS TOO MANY CURBS MAY BAR FARM ADVANCES

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special]. — Predicting that revolutionary changes may be expected in agriculture after the war, Dean Henry P. Rusk of the University of Illinois college of agriculture, said today that a vastly improved standard of living will result if all groups interested in the welfare of agriculture work together. Federal controls, if established, "should be designed to ease the strains but not to prevent the adjustments," he added.

"Overcontrol can upset important relationships and retard needed adjustments," Rusk said. "One control leads to another and industry and labor have just as much to fear from domination by government as does agriculture." Such domination results from demands by powerful pressure groups, he warned.

"We need government as a referee, but we do not want it to call the signals and play in the back field," he said, and added that the way to "sidetrack tendencies toward burocratic, socialistic, or communistic developments is to pave the way for a rebirth of individual, family, and community responsibilities and help this nation and the world take a liberal dose of America's old time remedy for economic ills—efficient production."

Tire Maker Discloses Program of Expansion

An extensive expansion program for the Pharis Tire and Rubber company, Newark, O., involving the expenditure of more than a half million dollars, was announced yesterday by Furber Marshall, president. The company has sold privately to the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York a 4 per cent loan of 1 million dollars, Marshall said. Approximately $450,000 of the proceeds will be used to repay bank borrowings, and the remainder for additional plant and warehouse facilities.

WPB Bars Tranactions by Copper Wire Dealer

E. M. Flavin, operator of a warehouse at 5632 Gunnison st., has been suspended from selling, transferring, delivering, or dealing in copper or copper base alloy wire or cable from Sept. 8 to Dec. 31 by WPB's Chicago regional office. He was charged with selling copper wire on orders without preference priorities and with failure to keep accurate and complete records.

Oil Production in Illinois Shows Increase in August

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 10.—Illinois oil production in August today was estimated by the state geological survey at 6,425,000 barrels, 64,000 more than in July. The daily production average was 207,000 barrels, an increase of 2,000 over July.

Train That Ran Six Million Miles Will Get Overhauling

After eight years, one of the two "City of Denver" streamliners has been run into the repair shop for a complete reconditioning, the Union Pacific and Chicago and North Western railroads, which own and operate the trains jointly, announced yesterday. In this period the train and its twin each ran 6,084,022 miles.

The streamliner remaining in service will be renovated when reconditioning of the first is completed, the companies said.

Slower During War.

The trains were put into service June 18, 1936, on the Chicago-Denver schedule, and timed to make the 1,048 mile run in 16 hours with an average running time of 65.5 miles an hour, including eight station stops. When the war made it necessary, the westbound operating time was increased to 17 hours and the eastbound schedule to 16 hours and 40 minutes.

Originally 12 car trains with 2,400 horse power diesel-electric locomotives, the trains were increased in May, 1939, to 14 car trains thru the addition of an all-room sleeping car and the conversion of the two unit power plants to 3,600 horse power, three unit locomotives.

Valued for Research.

"The remarkable performance of these trains has been a tribute to the experts of the Union Pacific railroad and the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company who designed and built the trains," W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, said.

"Thru the use of certain materials on these trains, we have learned what materials will not stand the grueling pressure of high speed daily operation. When peace comes, designers and engineers of streamlined train construction will have the invaluable benefit obtained by the outstanding performance of the trains."

QUICK SETTLING OF ORDERS FOR PLANES URGED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—The board of governors of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce today urged "prompt and fair" settlement of canceled aircraft contracts to clear the way for swift reconversion to civilian production.

It endorsed a program prepared by its contract termination committee which said "the aircraft industry went to war on the basis of 'first things first,' and will not survive except on a termination method embodying these same principles."

E. E. Wilson, chairman of the chamber's board and vice chairman of United Aircraft corporation, predicted that automobile manufacturers would quit the plane manufacturing business as soon as war needs were met, but added it was "still a question" whether they will retire from the manufacture of airplane engines.

LIFT CONTAINER CURBS.

WPB has removed all restrictions on the use of new fibre containers by shippers of fresh tomatoes. Apples, grapes, limes, mushrooms, pears, rhubarb previously were removed from container quotas.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

J. M. Stapleton, former superintendent of blast furnaces for Geneva Steel company, Geneva, Utah, has been promoted to assistant division superintendent of blast furnaces at south works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, the company announced yesterday. Both companies are subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation. Stapleton will succeed the late R. D. Beck.

C. F. Henthorne, former account executive for Henri, Hurst and McDonald advertising agency, has become associated with the Buchen company as account executive.

Donald M. Crooks, midwestern representative of Douglas Fir Plywood association, will address the Investment Analysts Club of Chicago in the La Salle hotel Tuesday night on the plywood industry.

Charles J. Hardy Jr., former member of the law firm of Hardy, Stancliffe and Hardy, and until recently on active duty with the navy, has been elected a vice president and director of American Car and Foundry company. He will handle public relations for the company.

Melvin G. Grinspan, former general manager of the Goldberg Advertising agency, Denver, Colo., has been appointed manager of the radio department of Kuttner & Kuttner agency, Chicago.

J. P. Allison, Erie railroad trainmaster at Meadville, Pa., has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Marion division, with headquarters in Chicago. He replaces H. H. Clark, who has been promoted to superintendent of the Kent division at Marion, O.

Miss Leah Brown, former advertising and promotion manager of Saks Fifth Avenue, Chicago, has joined the copy staff of Weiss and Geller, advertising agency.

The Weatherhead company, Cleveland, O., has opened a Chicago sales office, H. Church, vice president in charge of sales, announced. The new office will be headed by Charles T. Craig, former director of purchases.

NEW BOND ISSUE SOUGHT BY ERIE FOR REFINANCING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—The Erie railroad today asked interstate commerce authority to issue 13 million dollars of first consolidated mortgage bonds, series E, to help finance the retirement of $7,430,000 of Long Dock company consolidated mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds and $5,955,000 of Erie railroad first consolidated series C mortgage bonds.

The company proposes to call both issues as soon as practicable, paying a 2 per cent premium and accrued interest on the Long Dock issue and a 4½ per cent premium and accrued interest on the Erie series C.

The new series is to be dated Oct. 1, 1964, and bear interest at a rate to be determined by the successful bid.

INSURANCE TAX SAVINGS.

In the life insurance business and among policy holders, a treasury decision [No. 5231], issued last year, relating to the income tax exemption of life insurance proceeds is receiving increased attention. It makes possible considerable tax savings under some circumstances.

The lump sum proceeds of such policies paid by reason of the death of the insured have been exempt from income tax all along. The regulations formerly provided, however, for the taxation of any increased amounts payable in instalments over the sum that would have been payable immediately upon the death of the insured.

Under the rules as changed by this treasury decision, such increased amounts received by the beneficiary are taxable only to the extent that they represent interest on money left with the insurance company under an option exercised by the beneficiary and not by the insured. If the option was exercised by the insured or the policy owner, the amounts representing interest and return of principal are exempt.

To show the importance of the possible tax saving, the example of a $10,000 policy payable over a 15 year period on a 3 per cent basis, at the rate of $68.70 monthly, or $824.40 a year is given. For the 15 years the payments would total $12,366, or $2,366 over the exempt $10,000. Federal taxes on this excess, at the present lowest bracket combined normal tax and surtax rate of 23 per cent, would total $544.18, assuming other income sufficient to offset the personal exemption and other allowable credits. Tax is figured on an annual basis by dividing these figures by 15.

Thus the total tax saving if the option is exercised by the insured, not by the beneficiary, would amount at present tax rates to $544.18.

Interest paid on proceeds left with the company, with no provision for instalment payments of the whole sum, is still subject to income tax.

Kidneys May Need Help to Clean Out Excess Acids

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when over-loaded.

Nearly 20 years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Liberal Trial Offer

To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need accept this fair-play trial offer: Get a supply of Cystex from your druggist today. Take it exactly as directed and watch for quick help, a rapid increase in pep, more youthful feeling and a new joy in living. You must be completely satisfied and highly delighted or you simply return the empty package and your money back is guaranteed.

Tear this out. Take it to your druggist. Be sure to get genuine, guaranteed Cystex which is scientifically produced under the direction of a licensed physician, and used by millions throughout the world. Three guaranteed Cystex sizes—35c, 75c, $1.50.

Now, more than ever, it is to your advantage to follow the dispatches of the experienced staff of Chicago Tribune foreign correspondents thruout the world in order to keep abreast of events affecting American lives and America's future.

LEGION DEMAND FOR ISLE BASES WILL BE SOUGHT

Convention Also to Urge Help for Veterans.

A resolution urging ownership or control of island outposts deemed essential to the nation's security will be presented to the national American Legion convention to be held in the Coliseum, Sept. 18, 19, and 20.

Universal military training also will concern the Legionnaires, and they are expected to urge adoption of such a law by congress before peace is restored. All males between 18 and 23, who would subsequently be transferred to the reserve, may be covered in the proposed law.

700 Resolutions to Be Studied.

Also among the 700 resolutions to be studied by committees before presentation for convention vote are the following:

1. Continuation of a congressional committee on un-American activities.

2. Denunciation of strikes in vital war industries.

3. Removal to their homes of all refugees in the United States, after demobilization.

4. Suspension of all immigration into the United States after demobilization.

5. Amendment of the Legion incorporation act so men now in the army and navy may be eligible immediately for membership.

Post-War Credit Wanted.

The Legion, which now boasts a record high of 1,412,574 members, will consider thru delegates many measures concerning the welfare of the United States' fighting men and women. Among such measures to be considered is one urging post-war credit for veterans of the present war.

A second asks the facilitation of government sale of lands to veterans, and a third asks preference for veterans in buying surplus war supplies. Recognizing the part of women in the war, the Legion will consider creation of the post of national vice commander to be filled by a woman.

Parades to Be Abandoned.

As usual since War World II. began, the convention attendance will be limited as far as possible to delegates and officials. Parades and band contests again will be discarded until peace returns to the United States.

Gov. Bricker of Ohio and Sen. Truman of Missouri, Vice Presidential nominees of their respective parties, will speak at the meeting. They will be joined by government, army, and navy officials as speakers at the three day convention.

HEART ATTACK KILLS RAIL WORKER. Patsy Montano, 55, of 729 S. Hermitage av., died of a heart attack while working in the railroad yards at 26th and Rockwell sts. yesterday.

JOHNSON TELLS REASONS BEHIND TRANSFER RULE

Aims to Cut Shifting of Teachers.

City-wide resentment against the voiding of elementary school transfer permits continued yesterday as Supt. William H. Johnson explained the transfer ban as a remedy for an organizational problem in the schools designed to equalize the student-teacher ratio.

"The shifting around of teachers to meet the number of transfer pupils got entirely out of bounds," Johnson said, "and the organizational difficulty reached the place where it was detrimental to the course of study."

Johnson explained that the order would help to equalize the size of classes and allow a more even distribution of teachers—particularly in cases where "popular" schools had attracted a larger number of pupils than had "unpopular" surrounding schools.

Acute in Smaller Schools.

"The problem was acute in the city's 40 to 50 smaller schools with enrollments of 300 to 400 children," Johnson added. "A minimum of 12 or 13 teachers must be stationed at such schools and transfers from them lower the student-teacher ratio too much."

As protest meetings were scheduled throut the afternoon and evening, it appeared that no change in the situation was likely before Wednesday when the board of education is scheduled to meet.

Legal action to end what has been described as a political maneuver to cause parents to seek favors from Democratic aldermen was threatened as group of parents said they would bring suits to force the withdrawal of the ban on the ground that children were forced to cross dangerous intersections in going to new schools.

Promises Investigation.

Johnson said yesterday that instances of danger or hardship will be investigated and adjustments made where such conditions are found.

Typical of the protests was that of Mrs. Ada Beckius, 3313 N. Karlov av., president of the Scammon school Parent-Teacher association.

"Some of our children living only two blocks from school have been ordered to the Irving Park and Monroe schools, which are many blocks away and require the crossing of Pulaski rd. and Diversey av.," she said. "We are circulating a petition to take to the board of education meeting on Wednesday."

Many parents, unable to reach Supt. Johnson at his office yesterday, threatened to swamp the office tomorrow until he sees them and listens to their protests. Some children are being kept out of school pending final action on the ban, announced last Wednesday.

"Stay-Home" Threatened.

Parents of children who attend Ogden school, State and Pearson sts., threatened a stay-at-home strike because, they said, the school to which the children have been ordered has a high delinquency rate, is overcrowded, and is too far away.

Meetings of Ruggles, O'Toole, Henderson, Pasteur, Earl, Tonti, Bryn Mawr, Hubbard, and Bass school parents were set for 3 o'clock today at 3236 W. 63d st.

Some parents who attempted to see Johnson yesterday without success said they might ignore the order because of reports that some children have been accepted at last year's schools even outside their home districts.

EVERY MEXICAN WHO READS TO TEACH ANOTHER

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9 (AP).—President Avila Camacho will teach two illiterates to read and write simple Spanish as an example to his countrymen in a movement to educate the half of the 21,000,000 people in Mexico who can neither read nor write.

A recent presidential decree requires every literate person to teach one person between 6 and 40 years old to read and write if his services should be needed.

The teaching will begin by Jan. 1. The army, civil officials, school staffs, and hundreds of thousands of other educated persons will be put to work. Housewives will teach their maids.

48 Per Cent Illiterate.

Official figures on literacy are only approximate but the ministry of education says about 48 per cent of the population and about one-third of the non-Indians are illiterate. No concerted effort will be made now to teach reading and writing to the Indians, many of whom use only their tribal dialects.

Several million primers will be used. They will be illustrated, showing "dog," "cat," "cow," and so forth. In each primer will be two coupons, one to be retained by a local official and the other sent to the ministry here. These will certify the pupil's proficiency.

How the tired factory owner will do his task is undetermined but the ministry of education may permit certain busy people to join in employing a teacher for a class. There will not be enough professional teachers and a group of amateur instructors probably will be created.

42 Groups of Women Aid.

Among details to be settled is the amount of reading and writing knowledge that will constitute literacy.

A group of 42 women's organizations has met with the president and Senora Avila Camacho and pledged the memberships to teach.

President Avila Camacho will allow 15 months for his program to be executed. When the results are appraised, future action will be considered.

Jaime Torres Bodet, minister of education, who will supervise the movement, will teach one pupil.

OLD 32D DIVISION TO MEET DURING LEGION'S CONFAB

Veterans of the World War I. 32d division, a National Guard unit from Wisconsin and Michigan, will hold their annual meeting of the Red Arrow club during the American Legion national convention which begins Sept. 18, De Verre McNinch, president of the local chapter, said.

BAR ASSOCIATION HEAD SEES RISE OF WORLD LAW

American lawyers have a great opportunity and a serious responsibility in seeing that the world abandons anarchy in international affairs and chooses law instead, Joseph W. Henderson of Philadelphia, president of the American Bar association, declared yesterday at the annual meeting of the International Association of Insurance Counsel in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

No one can dictate to nations how they will live together after the war, Henderson said. Many different schemes may have to be tried and some experimentation may be necessary to obtain a relative measure of security, peace, and harmony, he explained.

Our system of international law has not brought security, has not kept the peace, and is weak because the organization of our community of nations has not proceeded apace with other developments, said Henderson.

"On the outcome of this issue depends our really winning the war," he asserted. "We may not succeed in shaping the world so that our sons and grandsons will not be called upon to sacrifice their lives in a world war a generation hence, but we can make a determined effort to bring about that result.

"The alternative of law is anarchy. If the world is led by suffering to abandon anarchy in international affairs and to choose law instead, I believe our legal profession will want to help to implement that choice. We now have a great opportunity and a serious responsibility. We have a vision of justice among nations according to law," Henderson concluded.

COLONIAL RANCH HOUSE
Designed of Lannon stone and white shingle to hug a 90-foot lawn in rolling Northbrook Highlands, it will be started the minute materials are released and simultaneously with Germany's defeat. Its plump chimney is as old as the Cape, but its rambling 6-room interior is as modern as tomorrow. A breezeway porch, garage and tool shed add to the charm of country living in a restricted community with fine schools, stores, and convenient transportation.
Free house plans with land plats mailed upon request—or better still, drive North on Skokie-highway, R. 41 to Dundee-road, R. 68; West to Waukegan-rd., R. 42A to Information House.

My eldest son is in the army. I must sell one of my farms. It's 2,170 acres, cotton and cattle plantation encircled by government game reservation with a 51 mile lake. A sportsman's paradise. Good shooting; ducks, geese and turkey on plantation. Boating, swimming and fishing on government lake. Good labor; all houses filled. Modern, 2 bedroom and bath owner's home. Ample barns. Should make 600 to 700 bales cotton this year. You should look my place over to see what the ground will produce. I want $40 per acre. Would consider walk-out.

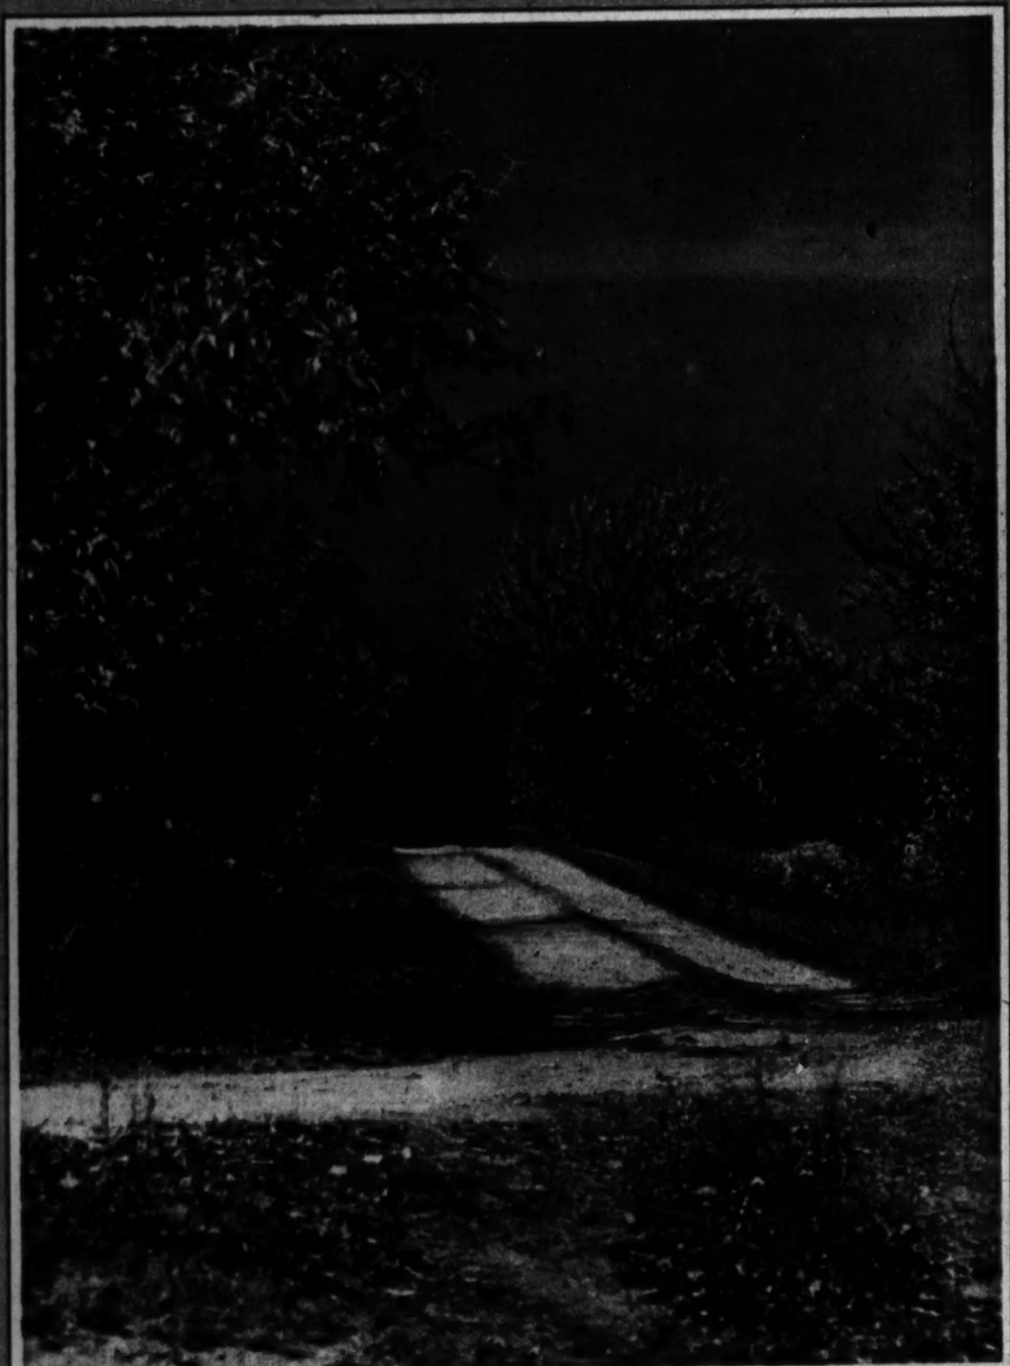
AUTUMN IN CHICAGOLAND



These autumn scenes were photographed in the near-by rural areas of Chicagoland.

YELLOW, mellow, ripened days,
Sheltered in a golden coating;
O'er the dreamy, listless haze,
White and dainty cloudlets floating;
Winking at the blushing trees,
And the sombre, furrowed fallow;
Smiling at the airy ease
Of the southward-flying swallow.
Sweet and smiling are thy ways,
Beauteous, golden, Autumn days!
—Will Carleton, "Autumn Days."

Sunny Side of the Greenstreet

Looking at Hollywood with Hedda Hopper

(Copyright: 1944: The Chicago Tribune.)

Hollywood.

THE ONLY trouble with being a fine actor in Hollywood is you're worked to death. Sydney Greenstreet knows all about that. In less than three years here Sydney, who is my idea of a really excellent actor, has made 12 pictures.

That, brother, is going some. Especially is it tough when you consider Sydney's roles are not the usual Hollywood "Hello, good-by, be seeing you" type.

A Sydney Greenstreet part comes close to being the kernel of any picture in which he appears.

That's the way it turned out in "The Maltese Falcon," his first. Audiences didn't know his name, but answers to nearly all the sneak preview cards asking, "Who gave the best performance?" read, "The fat man." That was Sydney, who weighs in at 280 pounds on the hoof.

Warners, where Sydney checks in, knew right then that they had something. Taking advantage of his leave of absence from the Lunt-Fontanne production of "There Shall Be No Night," Warners rushed him into his second, "They Died with Their Boots On," in which he scored again. When the Lunts wound up their road tour Greenstreet, who had grown to like Hollywood, broke a rule of years' standing and signed a studio contract. That was two and a half years ago, and he's scarcely been out of camera range since.

Sydney, who is 64, has been acting 44 years. His stage record reads like a Who's Who of the Theater, and in fact he has to refer to that musty tome himself in order to recall all that he has done.

Stars with whom he's appeared include Sir Herbert Tree, Margaret Anglin, Julia Marlowe, Viola Allen, David Thorndike, Mitzi, Lou Tellegen, the Lunts, and dozens more. It was Sir Herbert who, after watching a Greenstreet performance in Shakespeare, remarked, "There is the greatest unstarred star of the English stage."

Plenty of actors have brought down the house, but Sydney is the only one who brought down not only the house but the stage as well. It was during a performance of "As You Like It," when Sydney was playing the banished duke on a temporary structure outdoors. The platform crumpled under his weight, but, always the actor, he crawled from the hole in time to pick up his cue and give his next line, which was, "True is't we have seen better days."

In the library of his home Mr. Greenstreet here is surrounded by oil paintings of characterisations he made famous in Shakespearean plays. They include Jaques, Enobarbus, Caliban, and Sir Toby Belch.

Sydney has another oddity to his credit. A good friend of the late Theodore Roosevelt, he appeared in a White House performance of Hawthorne's "Wonder Tales," using Teddy's own bedroom in which to dress as the late President chatted with him. He was also a close friend of Woodrow Wilson in the latter's Princeton professorship days and was a frequent guest at his campus home.

The world has been Sydney's oyster. There's hardly a spot on the globe he doesn't know—Canada, the Americas, the British Isles, India, Ceylon, Italy, France, Malta, and North Africa—all these he toured not once but many times. The only time he ever quit the stage was one brief period many years ago when he became a tea planter in Ceylon and had there the agency for England's largest brewery. He sold out to return to his only love—acting.

SYDNEY GREENSTREET

Sydney Greenstreet, who was born in Sandwich, Kent, England, Dec. 27, 1879, is all thru traveling. He likes our town and has settled down for good on a high mountain overlooking the town. He greeted me there recently among priceless objets d'art, looking for all the world like some corrupt international master mind plotting the ruin of the world, with his florid face topped by sparse white hair. Focusing a pair of piercing eyes in my direction, he boomed:

"You see, Hedda, I am comfortable at last—I've done with my traveling. I'm 64, and I think there is tremendous scope for fine work here.

"The most important thing with me in pictures is to keep from being typed. I started as an arch-villain in 'The Maltese Falcon,' and feared for a while that I'd stay a big, bad man.

"Luckily, and I intend to keep it that way, I haven't. My characterization was changed in 'They Died with Their Boots On,' when I played General Scott. I was a heavy again in 'Across the Pacific,' and a sort of benevolent mystery man in 'Casablanca.'

"For 'Background to Danger' I reverted to evil again as head of the Nazi Gestapo, but in 'Conflict' I am a psychiatrist who sends Murderer Humphrey Bogart to his execution. In the fantasy 'Between Two Worlds' I am a representative of the supreme authority in the nether world, charged with the responsibility of judging mortals for entrance into heaven or the other place, while in 'Passage to Marseille' I am once more a heavy of diabolical proportions.

"'Devotion' has me cast as William Makepeace Thackeray, a perfectly lovely gentleman, but in 'The Mask of Dimitrios' I again switch to a man of mystery and dark doings. In 'The Conspirators' I am good again, but in my latest, 'Christmas in Connecticut,' I am just a plain stuffed shirt, neither good nor bad. Now, that, Hedda, is what I call running the gamut."

Actually Sydney had never played a menace before coming here. In the theater 75 per cent of his roles were straight comedy, which isn't hard to realize, considering his out-size. He also played in musical comedy for 10 years.

"Next," he says, "I would like a philosophical sort of part—sort of grumpy—an English lord, happily drunk, or anything with edge and authority to it. Anything human and significant, be it Shylock, Oscar Wilde, or Nero Wolfe."

Motion pictures present a real challenge to Sydney, a challenge he's determined to accept until even he, a perfectionist, is satisfied with his work.

"The movies are new to me," he says, "but I think I am catching on. The first time I saw myself I was embarrassed. I got the shock of my life. I wanted to die. I knew I was pretty bad, but there I was on the screen—a horror. The lens is the actor's best critic—it shows the mind working. It shows feelings. You can get wonderful coöperation out of the lens if you are true, but God help you if you play it false.

"Pictures are much harder than the theater. On the stage you have the drive and momentum of your role, but here you enter a scene cold-bloodedly. On the stage the audience is remote from you. In the movies you are placed on an operating table and told to be artistic. You're at the mercy of camera angles and the piecemeal pieces. You have to be on edge all day, because you don't know which portion of the film will be used. A performance on the screen is like 40 New York opening nights."

Greenstreet has what I call a background. While still a youngster he drifted into amateur theatricals until, encouraged by his mother, he joined Ben Greet's English company and made his debut in "Sherlock Holmes" in 1902. He appeared next in "The Eternal City," then toured in Shakespearean stock, playing roles such as Bottom, Polonius, Casca, Jaques, and Dogberry.

In 1904 he came to America, joining forces with Sir Herbert Tree and Margaret Anglin. For seven years he played with the Lunts in "The Taming of the Shrew," "Idiot's Delight," "Amphytrion 38," "The Sea Gull," and "There Shall Be No Night." Then Warners caught him.

Good food, good music, good art, and the pleasure of good company are Sydney's chief delights. The man loves to act, and if you coax him he'll play all the roles in one play. Recently he did that with one of his favorites, George Middleton's "That Was Balzac." Gosh! it was fun!

Married to a nonprofessional, Dorothy Ogden, Sydney has an only son, Sgt. John Greenstreet, who is in India.

If Greenstreet has any criticism of Hollywood actors—and he is very loath to criticize any one—it is that they don't work hard enough.

"Maybe I can't help it," he says. "Maybe it's old fashioned on my part, but I have to be letter perfect in my lines before setting foot on a stage. I was brought up that way."

HOW SMART CHICAGO WOMEN HELP PROTECT CLOTHES HARD TO REPLACE DURING WAR!

Amazing New Survey Reveals American Family Flakes Preferred 3 to 1 Over All Other Soaps for Wartime Washings

"I don't do hard rubbing to get my clothes white —I use American Family Flakes, and my clothes just last and last," says Mrs. H. R. Houle (8012 S. Jeffery Ave.)

"My colored things stay bright longer since I gave up strong granulated soaps and started to use American Family Flakes," says Mrs. Fred Schulz (7928 South Euclid Ave.)

DON'T WASTE SOAP! It's Made of War Materials

1. Soak clothes in clear, cool water first.
2. Don't use your washer until you have enough clothes to run a full load.
3. Fill washer with water at desired temperature. Start machine. Measure American Family Flakes in cup and add slowly until suds are about 2 inches thick.

PREMIUMS

American Family Flakes and American Family Bar Soap both give you valuable coupons—which you can exchange for practical, useful articles for yourself or your home without a penny's extra cost. Use American Family and save coupons for thrilling premiums at the American Family Premium Store, 57 W. Wacker Drive.

A. S. Vernon Mulvaney, Milwaukee, an engineering student in Marquette university's V-12 unit, and Cadet Nurse Dolores Aldera, Jefferson, Ia., of the Marquette university college of nursing in Milwaukee.

By ELEANOR NANGLE

Milwaukee, Wis.

THE ADOPTION of nursing as a profession for the college girl has been given tremendous impetus by the formation of the United States cadet nurse corps, which provides all-expense scholarships and allowances for training periods of 24 to 30 months.

At Marquette university's college of nursing in Milwaukee, for example, 80 per cent of the young women students are cadet nurses. The course here is nominally a four year one, a combined academic and professional course which earns for the students the degree of bachelor of science as well as the R. N. Now accelerated, the course's content remains the same but is completed in a shorter time.

Nursing beyond a doubt ranks now as one of the most valuable professions for a woman, and college girls view it quite properly with a new respect as the best possible preparation for successful living, either as a wife and mother or as a woman practicing her profession in civilian or government hospitals or in her community.

Here at St. Joseph's School of Nursing, the constituent college of Marquette university, students spend most of the first three semesters on the university campus, concentrating on pre-nursing academic work in chemistry, zoölogy, English, history, and biology. Most of their second year is divided between the campus and the classrooms at St. Joseph's hall, the huge and handsome nurses' home where they live.

The next year study is interspersed with actual clinical work in St. Joseph's hospital, the largest private one in Milwaukee, and in the final year they divide their time between clinical work in the hospital and field work, with such affiliations as the Visiting Nurse association, together with periods in which they observe and practice under supervision in the fields of rural health work, industrial nursing, special hospitals, and health services.

When congress approved the formation of a United States cadet nurse corps in June, 1943, its purpose to be the free training of 65,000 young women as a reserve to relieve critical shortages in civilian and government hospitals during and after the war, there were fears that the quota would not be met. Today almost 100,000 women are enrolled in the corps and some 1,000 schools of nursing are participating in the program.

The cadet nurses are issued uniforms — an outdoor ensemble of soft gray with silver buttons, consisting of a two piece suit, a guard's coat, and a "Montgomery" beret for winter wear; a gray and white striped two piece suit for summer. On the beret, judged one of the most attractive of all headgear for women in the services, is the public health service device, with the American shield and spread eagle superimposed on the anchor and the caduceus. On the lapels and buttons are the public health service insignia, a fouled anchor, with a winged caduceus. High on the left sleeve the cadets wear one of the oldest mercy emblems of all time, the Maltese cross, adopted by the Knights Hospitalers in the first crusade in the 11th century. On the corps uniforms this eight-pointed cross is in silver, mounted on a regimental red ground.

The Florence Nightingales of the campuses who are wearing the corps insignia so proudly these days are not required to pledge themselves to military service. It is where most of them want to serve, tho many seek a future in nursing education or administrative work. All the young woman is asked to promise in return for the educational and professional training received thru the United States cadet corps is that, health permitting, she will remain in essential nursing for the duration of the war.

The college girls in increasing numbers view the United States cadet nurse corps training as a privilege as well as an opportunity. They are enrolled in the cause of guarding our national health, if not today on the battlefields, tomorrow in hospitals, communities, or their own homes.

THIS BROOKE GOES ON, TOO

ONCE upon a time a movie mogul told Hillary Brooke she couldn't have a certain role because she had no sex appeal. Wait until you see her with Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, and Bing Crosby in "Road to Utopia" and you'll wonder how any one could ever have had such an idea.

Hillary gives the role of dance hall queen the eye-filling works. If she doesn't end up as a top pinup candidate among the fighting men her studio is going to be very much surprised. And if she isn't a name to conjure with after that performance they'll be equally perturbed. So sure are they of her merit that they've cast her already in "Ministry of Fear" and have big plans for her.

The Brooke lassie comes from Brooklyn and grew up in the New York atmosphere. A year in England provided her with a British accent which she has used to good effect in her career. She became a Powers model in New York and for three years specialized in that type of work. Then she decided she wanted to go to Australia.

Out on the west coast, while she was waiting for her ship, she finally answered the pleas of her friends to take a flyer at the movies. That was in 1936, and RKO was casting "New Faces." Hillary applied and was signed immediately. Naturally she missed her boat, but she didn't care, as she had found a new love—the movies. She had no dramatic background at all and went about the hard work of a bit player with enthusiasm because she found it both interesting and instructive.

She was rewarded when Robert Stevenson, the director, spotted her and cast her immediately in the role of Blanche in "Jane Eyre." It was her best break yet. Now she's on her way to the fame that comes of great exploitation. It looks as if Hillary, like Tennyson's brook, will go on forever.

"Liberty or Death"

These immortal words of Patrick Henry appear today in the upper right corner of page one of the main news section of The Tribune. They will appear there daily for the next few weeks as a reminder of America's spiritual heritage.

By DELOS AVERY

WHEN Patrick Henry made the most famous speech of his life, the "liberty or death" oration, the word liberty had for him more than a dictionary meaning, for it included the idea of duty.

Liberty as he saw it was not merely something to possess but something to use. Failure to use it, he held, could be treason.

Henry was expressing dangerous opinions that day early in the spring of 1775, opinions which could lead to prison, a firing squad, or the rope. But——

"Should I keep back my opinions at such a time thru fear of giving offense," he said, "I should consider myself as guilty of treason toward my country."

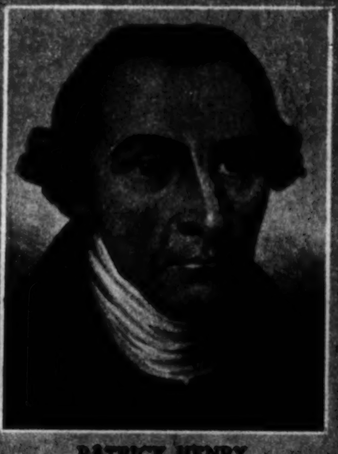
His speech, delivered before the Virginia assembly at Richmond, has been called his "personal declaration of war against Great Britain." He had no means of knowing whether followers would be won by his eloquence or whether he would be left alone to face the consequences. But possessing liberty of speech, as he did, he felt that he must make honest use of it.

It was not the first time he had risked his neck to say his say. Ten years earlier, claiming legislative independence for Virginia, he had spoken other daring words: "Caesar had his Brutus—Charles the First had his Cromwell—and George the Third [here he was interrupted by cries of 'Treason!', but he waited for silence and finished his triple comparison] may profit by their example. If this be treason, make the most of it."

Henry was 29 years old when he made the earlier speech, 39 when he made the later one. His "liberty or death" phrase rang thru the colonies like a great gong, with reverberations that heralded the American revolution. As in so many other great orations, the fire and color of one phrase have dimmed the public memory of other things he said on the same occasion.

Timid colleagues had shown a disposition to trust the English government, to accept its conciliatory gestures at par, but Patrick Henry said:

"Mr. President, it is natural to man to indulge in the illusions of hope. We are apt to shut our eyes against a painful truth and listen to the song of the siren till she transforms us into beasts. Is this the part of wise men, engaged in a great and arduous struggle for liberty? Are we disposed to be of the number of those who, having eyes, see not, and, having ears, hear not the things which so nearly concern their temporal salvation? For my part, whatever of anguish of spirit it may cost, I am willing to know the whole truth — to know the worst and provide for it."



PATRICK HENRY

He demanded that the soft words of Great Britain be judged against the background of her present acts. He distrusted her "insidious smile."

"Trust it not, sir," he pleaded. "It will prove a snare to your feet. Suffer not yourselves to be betrayed with a kiss."

He pointed to England's armed force approaching: "warlike preparations which cover our waters and darken our land." He asked:

"Are fleets and armies necessary to a work of love and reconciliation? . . . Let us not deceive ourselves, sir. These are the implements of war and subjugation—the last arguments to which kings resort. Has Great Britain any enemy in this quarter of the world to call for all this accumulation of navies and armies? No, sir, she has none. They are meant for us; they can be meant for no other. They are sent over to bind and rivet upon us those chains which the British ministry has been so long forging. . . . Sir, we have done everything that could be done to avert the storm which is now coming on."

Henry met and countered the argument that England was too strong to be opposed.

"They tell us, sir, that we are weak, unable to cope with so formidable an adversary. But when shall we be stronger? . . . Will it be when we are totally disarmed and when a British guard shall be stationed in every house? Shall we gather strength by irresolution and inaction? Shall we acquire the means of effectual resistance by lying supinely on our backs and hugging the delusive phantom of hope until our enemies shall have bound us hand and foot? . . . Sir, we have no election. If we were base enough to desire it, it is now too late to retire from the contest. There is no retreat but in submission and slavery! Our chains are forged; their clanking may be heard on the plains of Boston."

Then came the peroration—heard now on every commencement day, but heard no longer as it was heard on the day when Henry risked his neck to utter it:

"Gentlemen may cry peace! peace! but there is no peace. The war is actually begun. The next gale that sweeps from the north will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms. Our brethren are already in the field; why stand we here idle? What is it that the gentlemen wish? What would they have? Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

CHINCHILLAS Go American!

FAR UP on the lofty slopes of the Andes mountains in South America, between the altitudes of 8,000 and 12,000 feet, live shy little animals that are highly prized for their fur. In their own habitat these animals, chinchillas, are difficult to trap and thus hard to obtain, but in recent years they have been reared in captivity with considerable success upon chinchilla farms in the United States.

One of these farms is located at New Market, in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia. Altho this farm was started in 1938 with 34 pairs of chinchillas as a beginning, it was only within recent months that its first pelts were marketed in New York City. Some 30 skins from the Virginia farm were among 1,200 auctioned on the New York market. Top prices at the auction were $51 apiece for a lot consisting of 46 pelts. Second highest price was $40 apiece for a lot of 21 pelts.

At a recent benefit show held in Madison Square Garden, Jean Bartel, the "Miss America" of 1943, modeled a full-length chinchilla coat made of 530 skins, among which were some from the farm in Virginia. A Chicago authority on furs says that ordinarily 125 to 150 skins are used in making up a chinchilla coat. The coat modeled by Miss Bartel obviously must have been a garment of extraordinary workmanship and proportions. Garments made entirely of chinchilla fur, however, are said to be exceptionally rare, the principal use of the fur being for trimming coats of other and less expensive furs or fabrics. It also is used for muffs and scarves.

It was in 1917 that an American engineer in South America, M. F. Chapman, obtained a live chinchilla from an Indian. Chapman saw the possibilities of raising chinchillas in captivity in somewhat the same manner that foxes and mink are raised for their fur. In a three year search he was able to obtain only 11 of the small animals. These, however, he brought to the United States to become the

Today there are said to be several hundred chinchilla farms in the United States. About 6,000 pairs of chinchillas have been raised in this country since 1923.

Live chinchillas began traveling by air express in 1941 when the fur farm at New Market and one at Allentown, Pa., received a shipment of the animals from the Chapman farm in California.

The chinchilla is not much as size goes, an adult being only about 15 inches long, counting its five inch tail, and weighing only about 20 ounces. Its soft, silky fur is a delicate clear gray upon the back, softening into grayish white on the underparts. The ancient Peruvians regarded chinchilla fur highly, using it for trimming their finest apparel. White men later procured pelts from the Andean natives to ship to countries where fine furs were in demand.

In the early days of the fur business chinchilla pelts were more abundant and thus far cheaper than they are today, altho the South American natives never have been able to take the animals in great numbers—which is just as well, of course, since it prevents their extermination. The chinchillas burrow deeply into the mountainsides, and trappers in order to catch them have to drive them into the open by the employment of animals of the weasel family. The method is somewhat similar to that used in this country a generation ago in capturing rabbits by the use of ferrets.

Even tho the chinchillas are difficult to capture, they might have become extinct long ago except that they are prolific breeders. The Encyclopaedia Britannica states that the female chinchilla produces five or six young twice a year, but Ernest Protheroe in his "New Natural History of the World" declares that chinchillas breed all the year around. This latter statement is confirmed by the experience of the owners of the Virginia chinchilla farm. There the little chinchilla mothers often nurse one litter while carrying another.

The chinchilla is exquisitely clean in its habits. Whenever an animal is noted for the beautiful delicacy of its fur it usually is careful in preserving the fur from contact with anything that would soil or mat its fibers. The little animals on the Virginia farm never bathe in water, however. They clean themselves with sand, and "dry clean" themselves with fuller's earth.

Herbivorous by nature, they thrive on the lush grass of Virginia and the grains and vegetables raised there.

Chinchilla babies are born with their eyes open, fully furred, and with a set of sharp teeth. These teeth provide one of the main problems of the chinchilla farmers. The baby animals are prone to nip their mothers' nipples as they nurse.

Softer, Smoother Skin

with just

One Cake of Camay!

Actual tests by doctors prove—Camay is Really Mild!

The magic of a softer, more radiant complexion can be yours . . . with just one cake of Camay! Yes, you can have lovelier skin as quickly as that when you change from improper care to the Camay Mild-Soap Diet. Doctors tested this care on over 100 complexions. And with the first cake of Camay, most complexions sparkled with fresh new radiance, looked more sweetly soft.

. . . it cleanses without irritation

In these tests, you see proof of Camay's mildness . . . proof it can benefit skin! "Camay is really mild," said the doctors, "it cleansed without irritation." Surely you can expect Camay to bring striking improvement to your own complexion . . . so start with this mild beauty care tonight.

Go on the Camay Mild-Soap Diet

Take just one minute, night and morning. Cream Camay's mild lather over your face—nose, chin. Rinse warm. If your skin's oily, add a C-O-L-D splash. With your first cake of Camay, you'll see the enchanting new beauty of your skin.

Mrs. Kenneth Bryan Neal

TWICE the Wear with Ivory Flakes Care!"

"I BOMBARD DADDY WITH V-MAIL," says Air Force wife Mrs. Edward Edwardson, Jr., of Hillside, New Jersey. "Out there in the Pacific he gets mighty hungry for news of our adorable twins. What an active little pair they are, too. Don't leave me with any time on my hands! Certainly not for hunting up expensive, hard-to-find new clothes. So, when Mother put me wise to twice the wear with Ivory Flakes care, I was tickled silly!

"ALWAYS THINK TWICE before you put your precious washables in anything but lukewarm water and Ivory Flakes," cautions Mrs. Edwardson. It doesn't make sense to treat things roughly with the wrong kind of soap. Specially since wash tests galore on kiddies' clothes, housecoats, dresses, sweaters prove you get as much as twice the wear with Ivory Flakes care! So give all your washables—blouses, linens, slipcovers the same gentle treatment. Don't stop at just your stockings and girdles.

"MAKE IVORY FLAKES LAST LONGER, TOO," says Mrs. Edwardson. "Even a small amount of Ivory Flakes makes mountains of rich, kind-to-colors suds. So don't waste any. The flake form of baby's mild Ivory (like all soap) uses vital war materials."

Wash tests prove the Ivory Flakes way helps keep "pretties" bright and gay!

AIDING YOUR CHILD to Bridge the Span Between BABYHOOD and 'TEEN AGE

Some day, almost before you realize it, your child will have left his years of babyhood behind. When that time comes, will you feel proud of your success as a parent . . . or will you look back with regret upon lost opportunities? This will depend largely on whether you make plans for your child's training now, while he is still in his early formative years.

Personality and character traits are, for the most part, formed before teen age arrives. Most important of all, however, is the brief pre-school period . . . the only time in your child's entire life when he is directly and completely under your own parental influence.

Here Is a Priceless Help In Meeting Your Responsibilities as a Parent

MY BOOK HOUSE Plan of Child Training is designed to fit the individual requirements of both child and parent. It is practical, easy to use and is so arranged that it keeps pace with the child's mental growth. Parents are shown how to apply the training at every stage and for every occasion by means of the new, convenient guide book "In Your Hands." It contains a complete index as well as charts to help you check your child's daily progress. Over a million parents have used My Book House and testify to the marvelous help it has been in raising their children.

Investigate This Remarkable Plan of Child Training NOW . . . Prove It to Your Own Satisfaction

It has been amply demonstrated that MY BOOK HOUSE Plan does enable parents to make the most of every passing day, month and year, in building better personalities and stronger character for their children. ROMANTIC FIGURES of AMERICAN HISTORY

The illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varnak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches.

CAPITALIZING upon his fame as a hunter, scout, and Indian fighter, William F. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, achieved still greater fame as a showman. No other American showman, with the possible exception of P. T. Barnum, ever became as well known as he. Altho many of the daring exploits attributed to him have been shown to be the fiction of publicity men, he still lived a life of adventure, marked by numerous bold acts.

He was born in Scott county, Ia., Feb. 26, 1846. Not a great while after his family had moved to Salt creek valley, near Fort Leavenworth, Kas., in 1854, his father died and he was left as the breadwinner of the family. While still a small boy he served in an expedition against the Mormons and as a mounted messenger for a western freighting firm. In 1859 he went gold hunting in the mountains near Denver, and the next year he hired out as a rider for the pony express.

Two years later he served as a scout for the 9th Kansas cavalry in its campaign against the Kiowa and Comanche Indians. In the spring of 1864 he enlisted in the Union army, serving as a scout in Tennessee and Missouri.

Parts of the years 1867 and 1868 he was employed killing buffalo for food for the Kansas Pacific railway construction camps. It was then that he got the name of Buffalo Bill.

For the next four years he was a cavalry scout, ultimately becoming chief scout of the 5th cavalry. In 1872, as a resident of Omaha, he was elected to the lower house of the Nebraska legislature. He refused to serve in this office, however.

About this time his friend Elmo Z. C. Judson, whose writing name was Ned Buntline, wrote a play, "Scouts of the Prairies," and Cody produced it, with himself in the leading role. The play opened in Chicago on Dec. 16, 1872.

Other plays followed until the close of the season of 1875-76, when Cody returned to scouting for the 5th cavalry. It was on July 17, 1876, that he slew the Indian Chief Yellow Hand in a duel that has been made famous in dime novels and similar literature.

In the meantime Cody had formed a partnership with Maj. Frank North, establishing a large ranch about 60 miles north of North Platte, Neb. He kept to the stage, however, until 1883, when with Dr. W. F. Carver and Maj. John M. Burke he organized his famous "Wild West" show. When Carver withdrew the following year Nate Salsbury became a partner in the enterprise. Buffalo Bill's show not only exhibited in all the cities and fair-sized towns of this country but was seen in Europe as well.

In 1896 Cody settled on a ranch near a new town in Wyoming that was named after him. After this his activities were divided between the ranch and the show.

At the close of the 1916 season he went to Denver, his health broken. He died on Jan. 10, 1917, and about five months later his remains were buried on the top of Lookout mountain, not far from Denver.

Chartres Cathedral Saved from War

WHEN the Germans quit the old French city of Chartres recently they left its famous cathedral, Notre Dame, virtually intact, needing only a few minor repairs. Its treasures of art and religious relics, including the Veil of the Virgin (acquired by Charlemagne on his travels) and the priceless 13th century stained glass of the rose window and other windows, had been removed to a safe hiding place before the German occupation.

The building itself, with its oddly mismated spires, dates back to the 12th and 13th centuries and was finished, save for a few slight alterations, in 1240. There had been an earlier building, destroyed by fire.

There is a legend that thousands of men, women, and children worked by day and night carrying stone from a quarry five miles away, the procession pausing occasionally to sing hymns. It was said that a divine message was received by the priests to the effect that only the righteous could assist, so that the very act of assisting was in a way a certificate of righteousness.

The south spire, called the Clocher Vieux, was completed in the 12th century and is 351 feet high. The other, the Clocher Neuf, is 377 feet high and more elaborate in architecture and ornament.

The cathedral is Gothic, and its interior is 440 feet long; the choir is 150 feet across and the vaulting is 121 feet high. The choir screen has been described as "point lace in stone."

There is sculpture representing scenes from the life of Christ, and there are statues of the prophets and of the kings of France.

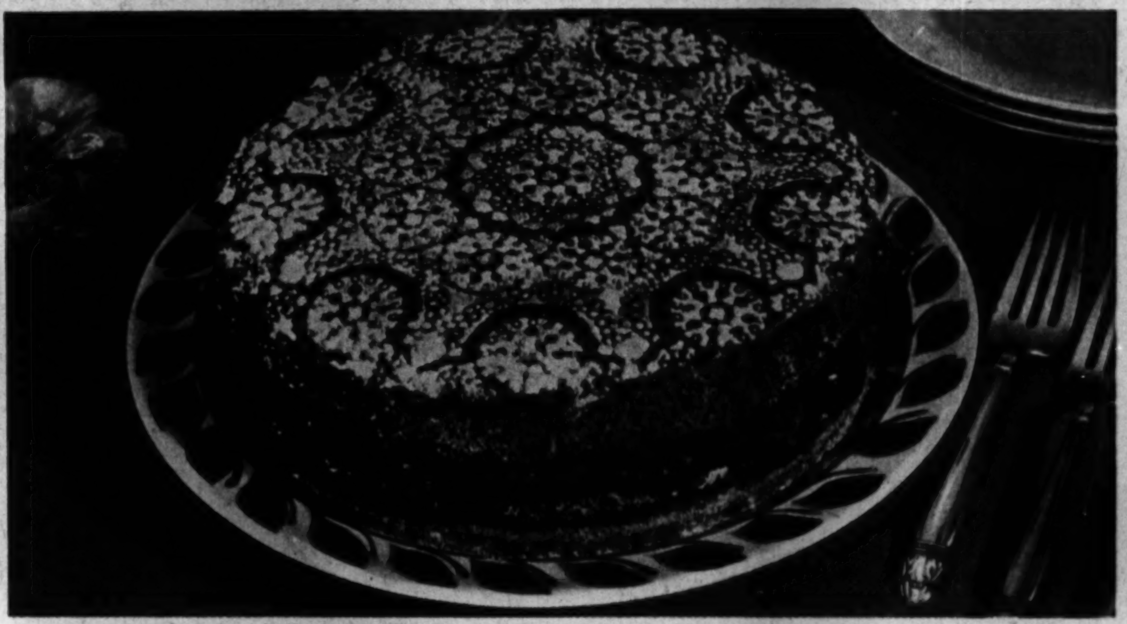
Coconut Makes a Comeback

Here's Cake to Sprinkle It on

By MARY MEADE

Orange-frosted cake is delicious with or without a thick coat of coconut around the sides.



Confectioners' sugar sifted over a paper doily makes the topping for graham cracker cake.

I HAVEN'T talked about coconut much for a long time, because it has been rather hard to obtain. It isn't to be found in every grocery yet by any means, but I've been informed that fairly good supplies will be available this fall. So I'm going to bring a good coconut cake recipe out of hiding. You can make the cake and leave off the coconut if you wish.

ORANGE COCONUT CAKE
(Two 9-inch layers)

½ cup margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1¾ cups sifted self-rising flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Frosting, coconut

Cream margarine thoroly. Add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Sift flour once and measure. Add flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Add vanilla. Beat well. Bake in two well greased nine inch layer pans in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for 25 minutes, or until done. Spread orange frosting on top and sides of cake. Sprinkle coconut over sides of cake and about an inch rim around the top, leaving the center of the frosting undecorated.

ORANGE FROSTING—Cream ¼ cup margarine. Add 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons orange juice, and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, working dry and liquid ingredients in gradually in alternate portions. Beat until smooth.

Another popular and delicious cake is made with graham crackers, which give the dessert an interesting texture and unusual flavor. The intricate looking design on the top of the cake was made by placing a paper doily over the top, sifting confectioners' sugar over the doily, then lifting the paper off. Pretty, isn't it?

GRAHAM CRACKER CAKE
(Two 8-inch layers)

½ cup shortening
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
⅝ cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1¼ cups fine graham cracker crumbs (15 crackers)
1 cup milk

Blend shortening, salt, and vanilla. Add sugar; cream until fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Sift together flour and baking powder and mix with cracker crumbs. Add dry ingredients, alternately with milk, to egg mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in two greased eight inch layer pans in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 25 minutes. Cool and fill with lemon filling or fruit filling. Sift confectioners' sugar over the top.

FRUIT FILLING—Combine ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons flour, ⅓ cup sour cream, 1 beaten egg, and ½ cup chopped cooked prunes in a saucepan; cook and stir over moderate heat for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add ¼ cup raisins, ⅓ cup chopped nuts, ⅛ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Chill.

BACON POPOVERS
(Six large popovers)

3 strips bacon
1 cup flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup milk

Fry or broil bacon until crisp, saving fat. Put 1 teaspoon of bacon fat in each of 6 large custard cups. Grease sides of cups and heat thoroly in oven. Sift flour into bowl and add eggs and milk, which have been combined. Beat with rotary beater until batter is smooth. Turn into hot custard cups, filling each one-third full. Bake in hot (450 degree) oven for 15 or 20 minutes, or until cakes pop out of cups; then lower heat to 350 degrees and continue baking until dried out, about 15 to 20 minutes. Cut slit in side of each popover and place broken bacon in each. If desired the bacon may be added to scrambled eggs and then placed in the popovers. Serve immediately.—MRS. CRAFT PATTERNS BY A. NEELY HALL

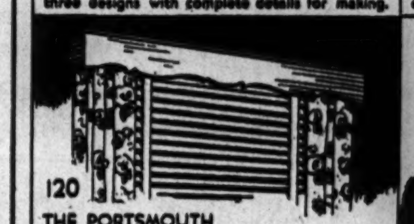
716 HOLLYWOOD HEADBOARDS

★ You can easily modernize your beds by building frames to support the box-springs and adding smart upholstered headboards, in the manner of fashion set by Hollywood. Craft Pattern 716 shows three designs with complete details for making.

719 DOUBLE-DECKER BUNKS

★ Double-decker bunks are an excellent sleeping arrangement for a boys' room or summer cottage. A single bunk may be built in an attic under a dormer window. Pattern 719 details the double decker and a modern bed without headboard.



120 THE PORTSMOUTH WINDOW VALANCE BOARD

★ Two Craft Pattern sheets of valance board designs have been prepared, to suit different tastes and to accommodate different draperies. They are Craft Patterns Nos. 120 and 122. Each sheet has four designs and shows how to cut the board, top and end pieces, how to assemble the cornice and how to fasten it to window trim.

240 VICTORY SCREENS

★ Victory screens may be both decorative and instructive—decorative because of coverings of wallpapers of attractive designs, and instructive because of mounted maps showing the war fronts. Craft Pattern 240 details the two designs above.

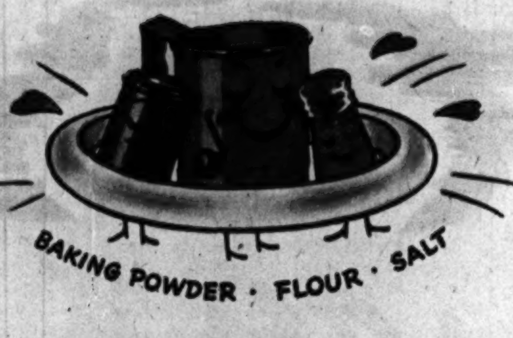
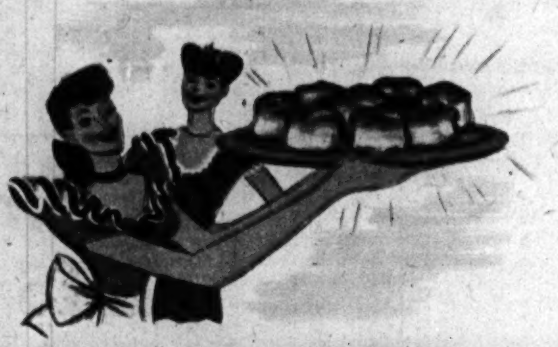
YOU WON'T BE KIDDED about "bride's biscuits" when you know what we mean by this kind of "perfect marriage." It saves time—saves bother—and saves disappointments in baking.



AS YOU KNOW most baking recipes call for flour, baking powder and salt—carefully and thoroughly blended together. "Marriage" means that we have done that for you in our mill. We blend flour, the right amount of the right kind of baking powder and salt so thoroughly that "marriage" is the only word to describe it.

SAVES YOU THIS STEP
Obviously, "marriage" saves the time and bother of measuring out these necessary ingredients and sifting them together. It also eliminates your worries about the kind of baking powder to use.

HOW IT ASSURES SUCCESS
You know how much good baking results depend on thorough sifting of ingredients. "Marriage" does this so perfectly that a hundred siftings in your kitchen couldn't give you the same, sure blending you get in Presto Cake Flour.



RESULTS ARE WONDERFUL!
You get the same fine results time after time when you use Presto. And flaky, light biscuits like these—not to mention cakes, piecrusts, waffles and the like—are an example of the kind of baking results Presto brings you. (See the 10 grand recipes on the box)

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE to save time—trouble—disappointment in baking? Then get a box of Presto Cake Flour and try it with your favorite cake flour recipe, omitting salt and baking powder.

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

YOU MAY NOT be wearing his flowers tonight, but he'll be coming home soon. And when he does you'll want to look your loveliest. His flowers on your shoulder must not appear one whit more soft and smooth and fragrant than your smiling face. For he'll be looking at you as he has never looked at you before.

So let's get started on that beauty routine today. The first and foremost rule, of course, is cleanliness, both internal and external. Internal, you say? What do you mean? To have a glowing, gloriously alive complexion it is essential that you radiate cleanliness from within. To achieve this is easy. Drink water, lots of water, and get plenty of rest. The old eight hour rule is trite but true. And that's a good start toward your sought-after goal. Do a few simple exercises daily to keep your figure trim. Also adhere to a sensible diet, as it will help keep your skin clear and reflect vitality in your expression.

As for external cleanliness—well, that depends on the type of skin you have. Is it oily? Then you are one of the lucky girls who can use plenty of soap via the indispensable complexion brush with warm water, followed by a dash or two of cold. Should your skin be dry, soap, as you think of it, is sometimes irritating. But there are a number of good soaps on the market especially for you girls with the dry skin. So find one that best suits your skin and go to it with a will.

Now you are ready for your face. Choose the cream you like and apply it generously with upward strokes. After removing it, moisten a piece of cotton with a freshener and pat it briskly on your face. Witch hazel is inexpensive and an excellent one. Try keeping it in the refrigerator. You will be delighted with its cool, tingling freshness.

Next comes your foundation. The cake ones are popular with you of the oily skin, while your dryer-skinned sister usually prefers a cream of liquid foundation. Whichever you use, keep going until your throat and neck are covered. We've all seen the effect of an otherwise perfect makeup which ended too soon—at the chin line, that is. And it's not good.

The shade of your foundation should be neither too bright nor too dark. It should tone in with the natural color of your skin, and if anything it should be a shade darker. The same goes for your powder. In applying your powder remember to dust it on gently with wads of cotton which can be discarded after use, or a clean, fluffy puff, and don't leave an excess to spoil the picture. Your eyebrows and eyelashes were not meant to be powdered.

As for your rouge and lipstick, choose a shade that blends with your complexion. If you want to assure yourself of the proper shades and color schemes of your lipstick and rouge, consult an experienced cosmetician. Let a seasoned hand blend your powder so that it will be exclusively yours. The most flattering shades of lipstick and rouge often are acquired by a variety of colors which in the hands of an amateur could play havoc with the desired effect.

Remember, rouge has a habit of flaunting itself after you have turned away from the mirror, so use it cleverly. Be sure to blot your lipstick well with tissue or you'll be leaving a trail behind wherever you've been. And just a word of warning—don't save precious time by applying a new coat of makeup over an old one, or a crop of ugly blackheads may be your reward.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: We have just seen "Passage to Marseille" and wonder if you would give us some information about Helmut Dantine—where he was born, when, etc. Also if you could find a place in your column to squeeze a picture of him we would appreciate it a lot. Loads of luck to you, your column, and to Helmut.

Helmut Dantine

SOME OF THE GIRLS FROM DOUGLAS AIRCRAFT.

Dear Girls: Loads of luck to you; and do you know what I wish? That you'd write in some time and tell me something about you—and your work. Will you? Helmut Dantine was born in Vilma, Austria, Oct. 7, 1918. He was educated at the University of Vienna and the Vienna consular academy; was arrested on the eve of his departure to assume a diplomatic post at the Austrian embassy in London. Was three months in a concentration camp. He's 6 feet tall, weighs 160, and has brown hair and gray eyes.

Dear Miss Tinée: Is there any way I could get your job—when you're tired of it? Of course you'd never tell me what to do—but I'll tell you that left-handed I could turn out a better column than you do. H. C.

Honey Chile (is that what the initials stand for?): All you do is just apply for the job. But don't tell 'em you're left-handed.

Dear Sourpuss: How many years has it been since you really enjoyed a movie? Or did you get a cold shoulder in Hollywood and feel that you must take it out on every picture that comes along? Just to remind you that good poetry is better if you start at the beginning. Bryant's "Thanatopsis," for instance, starts something like this:

To you, who in the love of Nature
Hold communion with her visible forms——

To get "So live that when thy summons come——" near the beginning you'd have to read it backward, because that phrase is the beginning of the last thought in the poem and winds up: "Thou go, not like the quarry slave, scourged to his dungeon at midnight, but, sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave like one who draws the draperies of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Pleasant dreams,

GUS A. COUNCIL.

Dear Mr. Council: I just knew somebody would catch me up on that! Thank you.

Dear Miss Tinée: Of all the men dancers I've seen, Gene Kelly is the best, and I wish some Sunday morning you'd print his photograph. One of those where he looks sort of deep and mysterious like he does sometimes when he isn't dancing. Thank you.

Gene Kelly

VELMA R.

Dear Velma: "Deep and mysterious"—did you have me scurrying thru my Kelly file! Here's a photograph which should thrill you no end, because it fills the bill (I think). You're welcome.

AUNT JENNY

New Jelly Roll—more moist, tender— Spry's easy new way

Dry Ingredients

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder (with a tartrate powder, use 1½ teaspoons)
½ cup Spry

Liquid Ingredients

4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon lemon extract

STEP 1 PUT DRY INGREDIENTS TOGETHER IN BOWL

Sift flour, sugar, salt and baking powder into mixing bowl . . . Drop in Spry.

STEP 2 ADD EGGS IN STAGES —BEAT AND BLEND

Add 2 eggs, vanilla and lemon extract and beat until perfectly smooth—about 100 strokes . . . Scrape bowl and spoon often throughout the mixing . . . Separate the remaining 2 eggs. Add yolks to batter and beat until well blended. (Did you ever see a batter go together so easy? That's New Spry's secret!) Beat the 2 egg whites until stiff and fold into batter.

Pour batter into shallow Spry-coated pan, 15½ x 12 x ½ inches, spreading batter evenly . . . Bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) 15 minutes . . . Turn cake immediately from pan onto cloth sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Quickly cut off crisp edges. Spread with jam or jelly (about 1 cup) which has been beaten with a fork so that it will spread easily . . . Roll cake, using cloth to push the roll. Work quickly so that cake will not crack. Leave in cloth at least ½ hour so that roll will remain nicely shaped. Serves 6 to 8.

Aunt Jenny says: "You'll thank New Easy-Mix Spry an' its New Cake Method for mixin' cakes amazin'ly quick an' easy. Such wonderful eatin', too—lighter, more delicious cakes that stay fresh and moist longer! See how much better cook you can be now you have new creamier Spry as your right-hand helper for all your bakin' an' fryin'!"

THE GRAPHIC LITTLE THEATER presents KATHARINE HEPBURN, WALTER HUSTON, and TURHAN BEY in "DRAGON SEED"

1 Back to the good earth of his father Ling Tan comes Lao Er (Turhan Bey) in the summer of 1937. With him is his new wife Jade (Katharine Hepburn).

2 Ling Tan (Walter Huston) and his learned cousin (Henry Travers) believe Jade is a dreamer when she warns of the approaching Japanese.

3 Even Lao Er sometimes fails to understand Jade's strange interest in the outside world, her desire for knowledge.

4 But Jade's warnings are justified when bombers destroy the near by town. Ling remembers her words that the enemy is ruthless, orders his family to scatter.

5 Some of them do; others are caught, brutally murdered.

6 A son-in-law, Wu Lien (Akim Tamiroff), turns traitor, becomes a trusted enemy agent.

7 Lao Er and Jade join a band of refugees moving an entire factory into the mountains.

8 Only Ling Tan remains behind. During the long, hard winter he and his neighbors nearly starve.

9 Stealthily the family returns, now hardened and determined to destroy the enemy. Jade steals into the Jap officers' kitchen and poisons the food. Wu Lien is suspected, slain, after many officers die.

10 Lao Er bonds the village men together as guerrillas or laborers and all agree to leave their land in order to fight.

11 Steadfast in their purpose, Lao Er and Jade symbolize the spirit of China.

Let's Get It Straight

"... a little sweetness goes a long way ..."

By MAUREEN DALY

(Author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother.")

THIS IS a good time to get a few things straight; to set some of the important facts down in black and white. It's a repeat performance on the old subject of "necking." Maybe you don't like the sound of that word, maybe your crowd have a better name for it, or maybe they don't talk about it at all—but at least necking is a term common enough so it explains itself without any one's having to draw pictures. This bit of chatter is for gals only.

The business of necking is nothing new. It isn't a fad that came in with station wagon coats, long sweaters, and Harry James' music. Even the Eskimos take time out to rub noses, and monkeys disappear by two to swing by their tails. And essentially it isn't something wrong, either. A girl doesn't immediately drop out of the pink angel department just because she likes a boy more than somewhat and kisses him good night to prove it! This kind of natural affection is all a wonderful part of being alive and healthy. But it's the common high school habit of winding up every evening date with a lengthy session of third degree hand holding, this "any boy will do in a pinch" attitude, that comes up for censure!

A good gal doesn't have to be told twice that this just isn't smart business. Take it first from the least important reason for keeping out of the lap-happy brackets—the standpoint of what it might do to your dating rating. Presume that you are an interesting young character, attractive, alert; a pleasant bit of date bait.

You're the kind of gal with whom every good Joe would like to be stranded on a Friday night. Six out of seven Jacksons think you are strictly sweet stuff; the other one would like you, too, but he just hasn't met you yet. You could have a date every night in the week if you wanted it—and if your mother would let you go out that often. You are flattered by so much attention and feel an amiable affection for all boys, and you don't mind being very friendly to prove it. If each one wants to kiss you good night, who are you to say no? That may work for the first few dates, you may stay on the top of the hit parade, strictly a potent pigeon, but just wait till the story gets around that you're an easy date!

Boys may not mean to talk behind a gal's back, but they seem to get a certain manly satisfaction out of comparing notes. They will all agree that a little sweetness goes a long way, but once you've gone too far, you'll be a sad honey chile. Boys may like their girls smooth, but they don't want them worn smooth. And you can put this down in the book—a girl is desirable date bait only so long as she respects herself and acts accordingly. Shopworn merchandise always goes for a cut price, and you know that before you start.

It's just a lot of empty chatter to pretend that all boys are nothing but super-smooth operators, out to prey on every dream gal who comes their way. Chances are fifty-fifty that whenever this hand holding interlude looms up as part of the evening program the wide-eyed honey chile is the one who thought about it first.

There is safety and sense in numbers—double-date more often, or stick with the crowd; make a definite plan for your evening and don't leave an empty hour tacked on at the end of it—it doesn't take long for moonlight to turn into "moodlight," and before you know it the mood is on you!

Did you ever stop to consider what thoughtless necking does to you yourself? A gal can't build up a reputation as being so much hot gingerbread without changing herself. Human emotions are very sensitive and very important; a girl can't tamper with these feelings too long without running into trouble.

With so much extra loving spread here and there, your emotions may become so blunted that you wouldn't know the real thing if it did come along! You might be certain that "nothing could happen to me," but one thing leads to another, and before long those emotions may get hard to handle. Think about yourself while you can still think reasonably! You might believe it can just be chalked up to experience, but you can't always get those chalk marks off the wall. You're a very special honey chile; you have big things ahead of you—don't you ever forget it.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER

The agile Doberman pinscher is one of the breeds which have rendered a splendid service on battle fronts. This specimen is Ch. Dictator v. Glenhugel, which was picked as the best American bred and also the best dog in a recent show. (Percy T. Jones photo.)

THE HOUSE DOG that behaves quite well in the home and apparently is inclined to mind its owner, yet runs wild and ignores all commands outdoors, continues to be a puzzler for many owners.

Most of the owners who ask us for help on this dog problem report that they have tried disciplining their dogs to make them come when they are called, but it's done no good.

If a dog has not been given obedience training, which is simply teaching it that it must do what the owner wants when the latter gives a command, there is nothing unusual about such a pet ignoring the calls of the owner to come when the pup is off leash. Only obedience training teaches a dog quick and implicit response to a command anywhere, any time.

Let's look at the untrained dog's reasoning on what is going on when he gets outdoors. In the house the owner is close to him. There isn't much chance to take many liberties, because the owner can pounce on him, and the walls of a room permit no runaway stuff. So the smart dog plays his role nicely. He hasn't been taught by means of obedience training that he must give instant obedience anywhere, any time, but he appears to be letter perfect. So the owner reports the pet is well trained.

Then the dog is taken outdoors. It may be safe to let him off the leash for exercise. Perhaps the owner plays ball with the dog. Everybody has a grand time. Then the moment comes to pick up the dog and go home. By this time the pet is intrigued by some smells, another dog, or other distractions a half block away. The owner calls. The dog naturally ignores this command. He's smart. He knows he's safe.

The owner can't catch him, and the owner doesn't want to chase him up and down the street, because such a routine is embarrassing to the owner. So the dog plays around until he feels like coming back. Anyway, the dog remembers that when he did return to the owner the day before after such a performance he was whacked.

The dog remembers this sequence of events, especially the whacking. So why should he hurry to come when the owner calls? No dog wants to be put on a leash to the tune of several wallops. In fact, that is a fine way to discourage a dog from coming back to you.

The important part in the whole program is easy to single out: The dog hasn't been taught that it must obey a command at once, no matter where he is. If an owner wants a dog to come when it's called it must be given a series of lessons to teach it that routine.

While the dog is learning to come at the blast of a whistle or the vocal command "come here" it also is learning the thing that is most important in the control of any dog as companion, hunting partner, or guard. That's respect for and response to an order from the owner. A dog so trained and kept obedient doesn't take 10 minutes to make up its mind whether it will sit down when told or come when called. It obeys instantly and cheerfully.

The popular cocker spaniel comes in several colors and combinations. This is a good example of the solid color, black, variety. It's Champion Stockdale Town Talk, a western representative of the breed.

There is no other way out of this problem of control of the dog except training. If you want your dog to mind you it must be trained to do it. There is no hit-or-miss about such training if the owner does his part and exacts obedience from the dog. It will come back when it's called or when the whistle is blown as long as the owner shows the dog that such obedience and respect are expected and demanded.

If a trainer is going to teach your dog to mind, and especially to respond to the "come here" command, we recommend that the animal be taught to come to whistle. We never want to own a dog of any size, whether it weighs three pounds or 150, that won't come to a whistle signal. Why use your voice and strain your vocal cords when a little air blown thru a whistle will bring the dog to you?

MRS. C. M., ITHACA, N. Y.: "My hips were 53 inches, now 43 inches. I feel like a new person. I like the taste also. My doctor says it was O. K."

MEN and women all over the country report remarkable results in losing weight easily. Many report losing 20 pounds a month and more. They are following the Easy Reducing Plan of Dr. Edward Parrish, well-known physician and editor, former chief of a U. S. military hospital and a state public health officer.

Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan makes reducing a pleasure because it has absolutely NO STRICT DIETS, requires no exercises. HARMLESS, too, because it calls for no reducing drugs.

Here is Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan EXACTLY as given over the air to millions: For lunch take 2 teaspoonfuls of CAL-PAR in a glass of juice, water or any beverage. Take nothing else for lunch except a cup of coffee if desired. For breakfast and dinner EAT AS YOU USUALLY DO, but eat sensibly. Don't cut out fatty, starchy foods—just cut down on them. By following Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan, you cut down your daily caloric intake thus losing weight naturally. You needn't suffer a single hungry moment. CAL-PAR is not a harmful reducing drug. It is a special dietary product, fortifying your diet with certain essential minerals and vitamins. Most overweight people are helped by Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan. Try it. You and your friends will marvel at the vast improvement in your figure.

"I used to be mad at Henry on wash-day nights... Wasn't his fault I didn't know about Super Suds' extra suds!"

"Ever see a tablecloth so pretty and white? That's Super Suds for you ... and nothin' strong added to this SUDSIER SOAP!"

"Looks like this new soap with MORE SUDS and LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS makes all the difference between hard, tirin' rubbin' ... and washin' that's plain easy sailin'!"

Says Mrs. Henry Nosworthy

"Dirt on Henry's colored shirts gives in to these HARD-WORKIN' SUDS with less rubbin'. That means a lot to my disposition!"

"I've never seen the day when these RICH, THICK SUDS didn't get my dishes shinin' clean. My hands stay so nice besides!"

HERE'S WHAT MRS. NOSWORTHY FOUND—

"MY OLD SOAP GAVE OFF THESE TIRED, SISSY-LOOKIN' SUDS... THEY DIDN'T HOLD UP EITHER!"

"CHUNKS BIG AS LIFE DIDN'T DISSOLVE. THEY STICK LIKE SIXTY IN RINSIN' AND DON'T MAKE SUDS."

"THE WAY NEW SUPER SUDS BURSTS INTO SUDS IS A SIGHT TO SEE. REAL LONG-LASTIN' SUDS TOO!"

"NO BIG UNDISSOLVED STUFF HERE... ALL OF SUPER SUDS SEEMS TO MAKE SUDS... SAVES ON SOAP!"

"The milk-bottle suds test showed me how to get EXTRA SUDS," she said. Just shake up a teaspoon of your old wash-day soap and a glass of water in a milk-bottle. Do the same with Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Even cool or hard water will do. See if you don't get MORE SUDS.

DON'T WASTE SOAP! Vital materials needed to win the war are used in making soap

1. Don't just pour soap in from the box. Measure it out in a cup so that you don't use too much.
2. Don't wash a few clothes at a time, using soap for each batch. Save and wash everything at once.

You'll Love Its Country Charm

Dean's Milk .... Bottled in the Country with All the Cream left in

PEOPLE mean what they say when they so enthusiastically assert that Dean's Homogenized Milk is better milk. Such a statement—coming from tens of thousands of families—is not mere casual opinion. It is the expression of experience gained by comparison. Many families, in their search for milk of higher quality, tried 3 or 4 other brands before they found their ideal milk at the grocer's under the name of Dean's.

What is the Dean country charm that has made so many friends? It is fresher flavor. It is extra richness. It is faithfully guarded purity. Dean's is pasteurized immediately upon receipt at dairy—never tank-trucked 50, 60 or 70 miles before pasteurization.

Give your family the chance to compare Dean's country-bottled milk with city-bottled milk. Let them discover Dean's glorious goodness. Milk with the country charm of Dean's shouldn't be lacking at your table!

Dean's Milk

GRADE A PASTEURIZED HOMOGENIZED

On Sale at All National Tea Stores and Leading Neighborhood Grocers

DEAN'S EVAPORATED MILK HAS THAT COUNTRY CHARM, TOO

Love at first taste!

Dean's Evaporated Milk is so delicious and different because it's FRESHER FLAVORED. Preferred for many cooking uses and recommended by physicians for baby feeding. Dean's Evaporated Milk contains added VITAMIN D and your grocer gets it ALWAYS FRESH from our NEARBY DAIRIES.

TAKE A LOAD OFF YOUR MIND AND YOUR TIRED FEET...

Here's an easy dish for a dressy meal that hits the spot with all!

TOMATO-POTATO SALAD

6 cups cooked, diced potatoes
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon pepper
Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise
Chopped parsley
4 tomatoes
Grilled frankfurters
Romaine or salad greens

Toss potatoes, onion, seasonings together lightly. Mix ½ cup Real Mayonnaise with one chopped tomato. Add to potatoes and mix well. Pack firmly into an 8-inch layer pan. Chill thoroughly. Loosen from sides of pan. Unmold on chop plate. Frost top of potato salad lightly with Real Mayonnaise. Sprinkle parsley around edge, garnish center with tomatoes, sectioned. Arrange remaining tomatoes, sectioned, with frankfurters and romaine or salad greens around potato salad. Serves 6.

● Company coming—and you fresh out of ideas and energy? Family bored with their food—you bored with meal planning . . . worn out with hot weather, war work?

Relax. We dreamed up this salad special for you! Out of simple ingredients everyone likes. Put together with a flair for flavor and for making food look exciting. Hearty enough for a satisfying main dish.

Try it tonight—or tomorrow, or Sunday. It's so very easy to make!

We recommend—Real Mayonnaise

We make this Real Mayonnaise and know what's in it—what it adds to your salad in real nourishment and flavor.

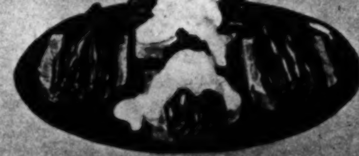
Eggs freshly broken from the shell, added egg yolks, our exclusive "Fresh-Press" Salad Oil, mild vinegar, spices—all double-whipped to a satin smoothness—that's Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise! Stretch it with milk or fruit juice, it's still creamy-textured—not watery.

Other uses: Spoonful for spoonful, Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise provides almost the same amount of food energy as vitaminized margarine, or butter. Good for many of the same uses . . . in tasty cooking . . . as a spread for bread.

But certainly, madam! Try these extra-flavor dishes with Real Mayonnaise

GOLDEN BROWN STUFFED EGGS

Cut 6 hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise; remove yolks. Mash. Add 1 tsp. Best Foods Mustard-with-Horseradish, 3½ tbsp. Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise, 1 hard-cooked egg finely chopped. Fill whites with yolk mixture. Dip in 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, then in well-beaten egg to which 2 tbsp. water has been added; dip again in crumbs; place in Nucoa'd baking dish, dot with Nucoa, bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce and green pepper rings. Serves 6.



STRING BEANS DE LUXE

Cook 1½ pounds of string beans in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and serve with a generous amount of Real Mayonnaise. Equally delicious, served in the same way, are freshly cooked broccoli, carrots, peas, cabbage, spinach, beets, and small white onions.

Real Mayonnaise helps you enjoy six of the "Basic 7" food groups recommended for good daily nutrition.

HELLMANN'S

Real Mayonnaise

LADY BE GOOD!

If your grocer is out of Real Mayonnaise sometimes, please remember he'll have it again soon—as fast as wartime conditions permit us to get it to him. Give him a little time on your order—you'll find Real Mayonnaise worth waiting for.

Cover Girl tells—

"How I really do Stop Underarm Perspiration and Odor (and save up to 50%)"

"More than glamour needed," says exquisite BETTY RIBBLE

"Posing is hard, hot work, under blazing studio lights," insists beautiful, blonde Betty Ribble. "Yet I can't risk unglamorous 'wilting'—and I can't damage the high-priced gowns I model. I have to have a deodorant I can rely on for both clothes and charm protection.

"The answer for me is cool, fragrant Odorono Cream! Odorono Cream is so wonderfully effective because it contains a perspiration stopper that simply closes the tiny underarm sweat glands and keeps them closed up to 3 days. And it's entirely safe for lovely delicate fabrics—I just follow directions.

"Safe for skin too. It's non-irritating even after shaving—actually contains soothing emollients. And I get up to 21 more applications for 39¢ than other leading deodorants give.

"Do try my Cover Girl way of ending perspiration problems with Odorono Cream. See if you aren't delighted too!"

Just "Peace" isn't going to be enough . . .

The American way will stand or fall forever on the kind of life its people get after the war is over. Just "peace" won't be enough after the fighting men come home.

There must be good jobs. There must be good homes—better-equipped and more livable than any before. There must be security for the people of America.

Our work at AVCO now is wholly war work—aircraft engines, propellers, precision parts. After the war we will hold AVCO's key place in American aviation.

But we aim to do something else, besides—something that will help make good jobs and good homes. We're going to turn part of our aircraft skill and equipment and ingenuity to making new AVCO household products.

They will give you something really exciting and really new in convenience and efficiency. And they will help make that security without which Peace can only be an empty word.

"Here's how that Sunday chicken can do for an extra meal!"

VEGETABLE CHICKEN MOLD

1 package Lemon Jell-O
1 pint hot water and
2 chicken bouillon cubes
3 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 teaspoons minced onion
¾ cup ½-inch raw carrot sticks
¾ cup thinly sliced celery
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
½ cup chopped left-over cooked chicken, ham, etc.

Dissolve Jell-O in hot liquid. Add vinegar, salt, pepper, and onion. Chill. When slightly thickened, add remaining ingredients. Turn into 1-quart ring mold or individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with escarole and radish roses, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Vegetable Mold. Omit bouillon cubes and chopped meat. Increase salt to 1 teaspoon.

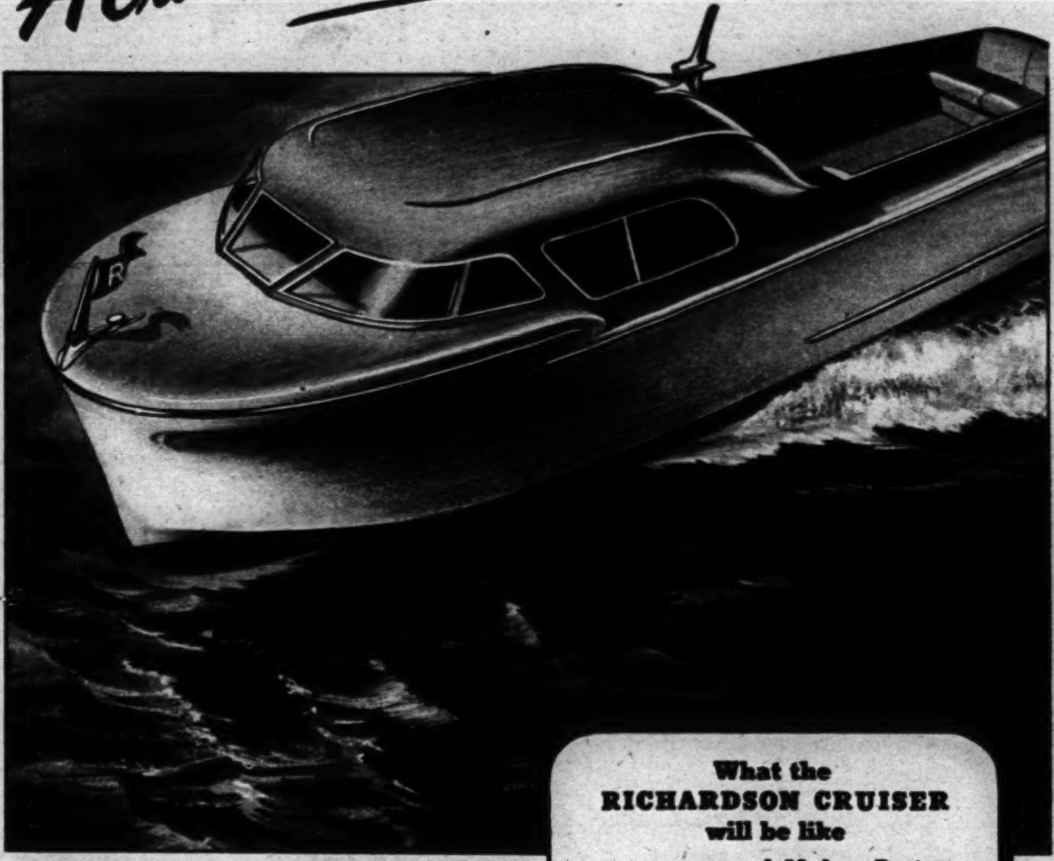
A Cruiser that MILLIONS can afford!



What the RICHARDSON CRUISER will be like

A Modern Boat The Cruiser's sleek lines are based on the tested hull principles employed so successfully in PT boats. Skims over the water—not through—for more speed with less power. Designed by the famous firm of Naval architects—Sparkman and Stephens—the men who designed America's finest prewar yachts.

Spacious Interiors for More Comfortable Living In spite of its graceful lines—the Richardson Cruiser's hull allows for more living space. Interior fittings for the combination that suits your needs. Exterior lines and superstructure are being created by Robert Bingman—designer of streamlined trains and buses, and for many years streamlined automobiles. Beautiful sheer, flare and other curved surfaces make it the last word in streamlined beauty.

Never Before a Luxury Cruiser so Low in Price Only modern mass production could give you such a cruiser for a price comparable to that of a car. A like cruiser built by custom yacht builders would cost much, much more. Inexpensive to operate and keep up. Yet there has been no compromise with traditional Richardson quality!

War-born revolution in boatbuilding gives you the

at the price of a car!

HERE IS WONDERFUL NEWS for all boat lovers—and it's no postwar dream. Modern techniques developed by war will make it possible for you to own a luxury cabin cruiser for the same amount of money that you might invest in a car.

Wonderful holidays on the water at last will be within the reach of the average American. And only a revolution in boatbuilding could make it possible. War demanded mass production . . . new materials . . . new designs. The fruit of this wartime effort will be passed on to you by Richardson, boatbuilders for 35 years, in the form of the Richardson Cruiser.

Take your Vitamins this delicious way

...for more effective TEAMWORK!

Take them in combination with other food elements which authorities agree are necessary for best results!

"Vitamins do not work alone. They work as a team with certain other food elements." That's why authorities more and more are urging, "take them in food for best results." In ordinary food, or fortified food.

For this reason, thousands are turning to Ovaltine. For it is a specially fortified food. Not just a "vitamin carrier," Ovaltine contains almost all of the precious food elements necessary for health and top vitality. And especially those elements needed for vitamin teamwork.

For example, Vitamin D can't do its complete job unless you have plenty of calcium and phosphorus, as found in a glass of Ovaltine made with milk. Vitamin A can't function fully unless you also have plenty of high-quality protein, such as Ovaltine supplies. Vitamin B_1 can't spark food into energy unless it has fuel-food to work on.

There is another advantage you should not lose sight of. The elements found in Ovaltine do not vary. They are accurately measured in every ounce. Ordinary foods sometimes vary sharply, but you can count on the vitamins and minerals in Ovaltine day in and day out.

So why not turn to Ovaltine, as thousands are doing, for an easy, delicious way to get the extra vitamins and minerals you need, for better health and all-round vitality!

3 out of every 4 people need extra vitamins or minerals—according to Government reports. Reasons for this include vitamin deficiencies of many modern foods—also losses due to shipping, storing and cooking.

"IT'S A BEAR!"

FOR over a month the Teenie Weenies had been hunting frogs, for frog ham is their main supply of meat. They catch a few crawfish and preserve the meat from the claws in Teenie Weenie jars, and they usually pickle and smoke several minnows, but frog ham is their favorite meat. It takes a lot of work to put up enough frog hams to last them thru the winter, for frogs have to be caught, dressed, salted, and smoked.

The little folks were lucky this fall, for they had caught six large frogs which made twelve hams and twelve shoulder hams. They had to be cured and well smoked with hickory and sassafras wood, and they would be left hanging for a few days in the tomato can which the little people used for a smoke house. Being a tomato can, it was quite safe from thieving mice, but one night a powerful thief pushed it over and ate most of the hams.

The Old Soldier with a wooden leg discovered the thief when he went after an armful of firewood for the kitchen stove one morning. The smoke house lay on its side and nine hams were gone. There were some tracks around the smoke house, but the little people could not tell what animal had made them.

"They're bear tracks!" shouted the Dunce. "It's a bear."

"Looks more like mink tracks," said the Policeman, pointing at a faint track with his Teenie Weenie night stick. "Wish the Indian was here. He could tell us."

The little people searched all around for more tracks and finally found some leading toward the creek. Along the bank of the creek they found some very plain tracks. They were quite large and the little people argued a great deal over just what kind of tracks they were. The Dunce discovered more tracks on the other side of a stick that lay on the shore. The little folks followed the tracks until they disappeared into a hole beneath the roots of a big tree. The Policeman cautiously tiptoed up near the hole, but when he heard a faint growl from within he turned and ran.

The frightened Teenie Weenies disappeared from that spot instantly, and in less than a minute they were all back to the Teenie Weenie village, certain that the animal was a bear. When the Indian returned he took one look at the tracks and smiled.

"Skunk tracks. Good thing you no make him mad, for he throw bad smell everywhere," said the Indian, and the Teenie Weenies all breathed a great sigh of relief for, as the Dunce said, "It's better to be smelly than to be et."

ROYAL BUTTERSCOTCH BANANA FLOAT

1 package Royal Butterscotch Pudding
3 cups milk
2 bananas, sliced
2 egg whites
3 tablespoons brown sugar

Mix rich, luscious Royal Butterscotch Pudding and milk. Cook as directed on package. (Quick! Easy! Total cooking time about five minutes.) Remove from heat; cool, Add bananas. Before serving, beat egg whites until stiff, then gradually beat in sugar. Drop large spoonful on each serving of pudding.

No wonder folks enjoy ROYAL PUDDINGS they're so delicious says MARY WOODS of the Royal Kitchens

"SUCH smooth, creamy texture . . . such rich, satisfying flavor! Chocolate, vanilla, butterscotch—you can't decide which tempting Royal Pudding you like best. And they're all so easy to make; save time, work, sugar.

"Try this enticing Butterscotch Banana Float. But if you can't get bananas, don't worry. Royal Puddings taste wonderful without another thing added. Royal Gelatin Desserts are tops, too—flavor-sealed, richer, tangier.

"When 361 women compared Royal Orange Gelatin with another leading brand, they voted almost 2 to 1 for Royal! Said it has better, more natural orange flavor. Always get ROYAL Puddings and ROYAL Gelatin Desserts!"

DE PAUL MOVES COLLEGE BACK TO NORTH SIDE

Action Will Affect 300 Students.

The college of liberal arts and sciences of De Paul university will be returned to the north side campus with the fall term opening, Sept. 18. The north shore campus has been given over for a year to 500 pre-engineering students in the army specialized training program. With the closing of this program, the north side buildings are available again for university use. Nearly 300 undergraduates and the liberal arts faculty, for whom temporary quarters were established in the downtown De Paul building, 64 E. Lake st., will be affected by the move.

During its brief term on the De Paul campus, the army occupied the liberal arts building, the gymnasium, the administration building, and the hall of science. The soldiers had their dormitories in De Paul academy, which was converted into barracks.

Opportunity for Service Men.

In commenting on the reconversion activities, President Michael J. O'Connell said: "The most important factor in the university world, so far as future enrollment is concerned, is the so-called G. I. bill or rights, the service men's readjustment bill of 1944. The opportunity to complete or to begin an education interrupted by the war provides to large numbers of returned veterans a chance to secure a higher education. These expected enrollees will present a major problem and opportunity to every university."

The first step in the university's peace time plans provides for an expanded liberal arts and science curriculum.

The university's school of science will resume night classes in biology, chemistry, and physics. It will be possible for pre-professional students in medicine, dentistry, and engineering to take their entire preparatory work in the night school.

Train for Work in Poland.

In the downtown school of liberal arts, a special group of students will begin training for reconstruction work in Poland after the war. Attending De Paul on scholarships granted by the League for Religious Assistance to Poland, these students will act as aids to qualified social workers. Student training will be centered around sociology, psychology, elementary statistics, elementary economics, and introduction to social work.

In addition, students will receive a general education leading to a bachelor of arts degree with a social science major. This group also will take Red Cross courses in home nursing and nutrition.

A new department, health and physical education, has been added to the curriculum with Lt. Col. Thomas Haggerty, retired, as director. Two courses in aviation, giving ground school instruction for passing a private pilot's written examination, have been added to the night school curriculum. Geopolitics, stressing preparation for peace, and population trends of the United States, Europe, and Asia have been added to the sociology courses.

CHOOSE NEW OCD COMMANDER FOR CLARK-DIVERSEY

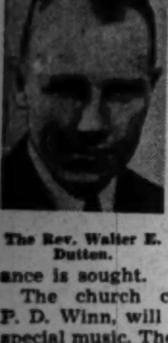
Milton C. Goldstein, 2726 Pine Grove av., has been appointed OCD commander of the Clark-Diversey community, Director Lee Ross has annouunced.

Goldstein has been affiliated with the OCD since its beginning, having served as civilian morale block warden, assistant zone captain, and zone captain. A leader in civic groups, he has held several offices in the Masons and has been a member of Kiwanis clubs.

Ross also announced the removal of community headquarters to 510 Diversey pkwy., where a complete OCD program will be continued.

RAVENSWOOD CHURCH TO SEEK ATTENDANCE RECORD THIS MORNING

Members of the Ravenswood Baptist church, Seeley and Sunnyside avs., have a double incentive to work for a record attendance at the 10:45 a.m. service today. Besides being the second anniversary of the Rev. Walter E. Dutton's pastorate, today is 100 Per Cent day, observed annually when full attendance is sought.



The Rev. Walter E. Dutton.

The church choir, directed by P. D. Winn, will give a program of special music. The pastor will preach on "The Last Three Bridges to Total Victory."

During the Rev. Mr. Dutton's tenure the church raised $2,500 to complete payments on a $3,000 mortgage obtained to repair the church building, and bought a $7,500 parsonage at 4533 N. Seeley av. Membership has grown from 15,' when the church was organized Oct. 9, 1891, to 637. Of this number 85 have been added in the last two years. The Rev. Mr. Dutton came to Ravenswood from the First Baptist church, McPherson, Kas.

Congressman's Home Is Center of Political Campaigns for 23 Years

The terrace of the Ralph E. Church home at 300 Church st., Evanston, is the favorite gathering place for Congressman Church's family and friends. It has been the center of campaign assemblages for 23 years. In the family group are Ensign William S. Church, recently graduated from the V-12 naval training course at Harvard university; Marjory; Mrs. Ralph E. Church, and Congressman Church.

When the young members of the Church family were old enough, the Churches erected a log cabin within sight of the dining room windows, where Mrs. Church kept a watchful eye on proceedings as young Ralph, Bill, and Marjory played to their heart's content. Now the house is a rendezvous for neighborhood children, and is open all year round. [TRIBUNE Photos by Julius Gantter.]

Congressman Church discusses issues of coming campaign with leaders of club groups. Left to right are Mrs. William H. Wark, Evanston Woman's Republican club; Mr. Church; Mrs. Dunbar Lewis, family friend and wife of Dunbar Lewis, associate of the congressman; Mrs. Walther Buchen, a director of the New Trier Woman's Republican club; Mrs. Edward F. Middleton, legislative chairman of the Evanston Woman's Republican club and chairman of the woman's committe for four successive Church campaigns; Mrs. William Osgood, president of the New Trier Woman's Republican club, and Miss Ruth Hypes, president of the Evanston Woman's Republican club.

Ensign William S. (Bill) Church and sister Marjory turn in at the Church walk after a stroll. Bill was home on leave recently after being commissioned an ensign. He is now waiting at Mechanicsburg, Pa., for assignment to duty. In the picture at the right, Lt. Ralph E. Church Jr. and his wife lean over the balustrade of the staircase in the Church home. The younger Mrs. Church is the former Janet Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Richardson of Evanston.

EVANSTON CLUB HORSE FAIR OPEN TO CHILDREN 7-17

The Town and Country Equestrian association of Evanston will hold a children's horse fair beginning at noon Sunday at Golf and Harms roads, Morton Grove.

Events will be open to children between the ages of 7 and 17, and will include various classes of horse showmanship, parade and jumping, and musical stalls. Other competitive activities will be original tricks and a pea and spoon race.

The number of entries is unlimited, but each entrant must have the consent of his parents or guardian. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the winners in each of the classes. No fee is charged for participation in the event.

TAX AUTHORITY WILL SPEAK AT N. SHORE SESSION

Edward K. Hardy will address the Evanston-North Shore Real Estate board at an open meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the University club of Evanston. His subject will be "What Can We Do to Secure More Equitable Taxation of Real Property?"

Hardy is president of the National Council of Real Estate Taxpayers and is chairman of the tax research committee of building owners and managers. Interest in the notice of his address led to the open invitation to property owners, Louis C. Burgener, president of the board, said.

A dinner will be served for board members at 6:30 p. m. and a short business meeting will be held before the talk.

RALPH CHURCH KEEPS CAREER FAMILY AFFAIR

Old House Is Office for Campaign.

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN.

Folks speak of them as the Churches of Church st. They live in a house at 300 Church st., Evanston—have since Ralph Jr. was just a baby more than 23 years ago. Dad, Cong. Ralph E. Church of the 10th district, was a member of the Illinois house of representatives then, and had established a law office in Chicago's loop.

In peace time the family, which includes Ralph E. Jr., a lieutenant in the navy; William S., recently commissioned an ensign, and Marjory, spends as much time in the Evanston home as the congressman's duties allow. They have a home in Washington, too, because they like to be together.

Family Life Difficult.

Maintaining a home life which brings the children close within the family circle has been somewhat difficult but the Churches have managed it. "We all love it here," Mrs. Church said, indicating the Church st. house. "It has been so much a part of our living you just can't divorce the Church family from this house."

Cong. Church brought his wife, the former Marguerite Stitt of New York, to Evanston as a bride. "Our first home was at 943 Judson av.," he said. "We couldn't afford a rent boast," Mrs. Church interposed, "so we moved to 517 Haven st., across from the old Northwestern gym."

Christmas Plan Unique.

"Ralph Jr. was born while we were living in the Haven st. flat," Church remembered. "We brought him home on Christmas day, 1920."

That Christmas the Churches had a small live potted Christmas tree. The same tree has been used each Christmas since. Between times it is planted on the lawn in front of the house.

It's a well worn little tree, but it is among the Churches' most cherished possessions. On it, each year, has hung the symbol of their next year's wish. Each symbol is preserved and hung again the next Christmas, making a family chronicle of hopes and dreams, some of which have come true, some which are yet to be fulfilled.

Hang Angel of Peace.

LOYOLA SETS UP COMMITTEE FOR RETURNING VETS

Father Malloy New Dean of University College.

Two departments designed to fit students for war time and post-war living will be added to the night school of Loyola university and a committee on post-war rehabilitation will assist discharged service men as the university begins its 75th year this month.

The Rev. John C. Malloy.

The Rev. John C. Malloy, S. J., will succeed the Rev. Thomas A. Egan, S. J., as dean of the university college, a downtown division of the college of arts and sciences. Father Malloy formerly was dean of Xavier university, Cincinnati, O.

Classes Open Wednesday.

Registration on the lake shore campus, 6525 Sheridan rd., will continue thru Wednesday, when classes open. Students may register for night courses from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow thru Saturday at the downtown school, 28 N. Franklin st. Classes will begin Sept. 18, and will meet from 4:15 to 9:45 p. m.

New departments of the night school are the training program for public service and the institute of inter-American affairs, both of which offer courses leading to bachelor of arts degrees. The institute also grants a master of arts degree or a one-year certificate to persons with some college work.

The rehabilitation committee, formed to assist men and women in solving educational problems as they are discharged from military service, was established recently on the lake shore campus with Dr. A. A. Schneiders, director of student personnel and assistant professor of psychology, as chairman.

Committee Has Varied Personnel.

The committee is composed of representatives from all major divisions of the university, including deans of schools concerned with rehabilitation work, a member of the department of psychology, and faculty members who are World war veterans.

Loyola's home study division, which 18 months ago began offering courses to service men, has headquarters on the lake shore campus. More than 300 fighting men, stationed around the world, are enrolled in its courses.

The school of medicine, 706 S. Wolcott av., and the college of dental surgery, 1757 Harrison st., will open later this fall with army and navy personnel forming a major part of the student body.

APPOINT NEW SACRED HEART PARISH PASTOR

The appointment of the Very Rev. Msgr. Reynold Hillenbrand as pastor of Sacred Heart church in Hubbard Woods has been made by Archbishop Stritch. Msgr. Hillenbrand will fill the pastorate left vacant by the death of the Rev. Frederick J. Haarth, founder of the parish and pastor of Sacred Heart church for 47 years.

In assuming his new duties, Msgr. Hillenbrand said that he plans to have a complete parochial school, starting with the opening of the school session Wednesday. Heretofore the school has housed two classes in each room, but with the new term there will be a separate classroom and teacher for each grade.

Will Have Kindergarten.

He also announced the establishment of a kindergarten for the first time in the parish history. Sister Mary Alexander will supervise this branch of the school.

The teaching staff of the school will be composed of members of the Franciscan sisterhood, Joliet, with Sister Mary Lorraine acting as superior.

Comes from Seminary.

Msgr. Hillenbrand, who is 40 years old, served for eight years as rector of St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein.

Msgr. Hillenbrand was born and reared in Chicago. He took his degree in theology at the Mundelein seminary, and completed his study in Rome.

After his ordination to the priesthood, his first teaching assignment was at Quigley Preparatory seminary.

Empire Daughters.

The Robert Burns chapter of the Daughters of the British Empire will hold a benefit luncheon and program at 12:45 p. m. tomorrow in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal church.

N. SHORE JEWISH WOMEN TO HOLD TWO MEETINGS

The north side chapters of the Chicago woman's division of the American Jewish congress will open the season this week with two meetings. The first gathering is scheduled for 8 p. m. tomorrow at the Belmont hotel, 3172 Sheridan rd., and the second meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the Standard club, 320 Plymouth ct.

The program tomorrow will include a talk on the "Meaning of the High Holidays" by Mrs. Benjamin Fain, a book review by Ruth Schlessberg Hyman, and a musical recital by Pauline Sachs and Evelyn Hattie Fox.

The Tuesday meeting is under direction of the business and professional chapter. Leo H. Lowitz, national vice president of the American Jewish congress, will address the group.

NEIGHBOR CLUB FESTIVAL TODAY WILL AID YANKS

The Hi-Neighbor club, a group composed of residents of the block bounded by Giddings st. and Washtenaw, Leland, and Virginia avs., will sponsor an alley carnival beginning at 4 p. m. today.

Proceeds will be used to buy bonds and Christmas presents for the 34 men of the block in military service. Since the group's organization last June, $25 bonds already have been bought for 21 men, Kaye McLaughlin, club president, said.

Miscellaneous articles suitable for Christmas presents will be sold in booths, and games for children and adults are planned. A costume parade by children of the block will open the carnival. Mrs. Joseph McLaughlin is in charge of the booths and George Lechner is refreshments chairman.

CATHOLIC CLUB LISTS PROGRAM FOR NEW YEAR

Evanston Auxiliary Will Open Season Sept. 25.

Mrs. Gerard Ungaro.

With members of the North Shore Catholic Woman's league continuing their participation in volunteer war work, the group will resume club activity with a series of programs arranged by representatives of league committees with Mrs. Gerard Ungaro as program chairman.

Among the lecturers will be Frank Smothers, foreign correspondent, and Newton H. Bell, news commentator and analyst. A program by Sylvia Lubi, dramatic lyric soprano, is planned. Members of the league's drama group will present a Christmas play.

During the summer lull league members have worked as Gray Ladies, nurses' aids, and home service workers. They have donated blood and have made surgical dressings for the Red Cross. Members of the war activities committee are Mrs. J. Albert Woll, chairman; Mrs. Richard Finn, Mrs. George F. Baier Jr., Mrs. Mortimer Beck, Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. Francis Bonner, Mrs. A. J. Bremner, Mrs. Leo Doran, Mrs. James Enright, Mrs. Henry Forster.

Mrs. Paul Gerlach, Mrs. Herbert Hedman, Mrs. Otmar Hunck, Mrs. Mathew Lillig, Mrs. John McCaffrey, Mrs. J. A. McGowan, Mrs. C. A. Mawicke, Mrs. Arthur Schroder, Mrs. Emil Stake, Mrs. Bernard Townsend, Mrs. E. C. Weissenberg, Mrs. W. R. Whitaker, and Mrs. Oliver Williams.

Young Woman's Auxiliary.

A number of lectures and musical programs will be heard by members of the Young Woman's auxiliary of the Evanston Woman's club, Mrs. John Buist Sadler, program chairman, has announced. Mrs. Emory W. Luccock, a resident of China for many years, will open the season with a lecture at a tea Sept. 25.

Other speakers will be Mrs. Myron T. Harshaw and Sarah Weidner Youngren, who will give book reviews; Clara MacGowan of Northwestern university's art department, and President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern.

The Boys' Glee club of Nichols school and the Instrumental trio of the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra are scheduled for musical programs. Dramatic entertainment will be given by Zeta Phi Eta, speech sorority at Northwestern.

Members of the program committee are Mrs. R. T. Cubbage, Mrs. Floyd E. Grover, Mrs. James G. Barber, Mrs. R. H. Samuels, Mrs. Raymond Hoffman, and Mrs. R. E. Fox.

Evanston Newcomers Club.

New officers will be installed by the Evanston Newcomers club at a bridge luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

ALPHA DELTA PI ORGANIZES NEW CHAPTER AT N. U.

Thru efforts of north shore alumnae of Alpha Delta Pi and members who have transferred from other colleges, a chapter of the sorority has been organized on the campus of Northwestern university and will be installed formally this fall. The sorority will participate in rush week activities with a series of parties in the Sigma Alpha Epsilon building at 1856 Sheridan rd.

Plans have been made for a chapter house to be built at Orrington av. and University pl. after the war, Mrs. Carl J. Nelson, Northbrook, alumnae province president, said. Until then, the chapter will meet in the S. A. E. building. Other north shore residents taking part in preparation for the new chapter are Marilyn Nilles, Evanston, who has transferred from Lawrence college to be a member of the chapter; Mrs. G. Preston Kendall, Wilmette, alumnae rushing chairman, and Mrs. G. N. Mastrogany, 7346 N. Hoyne av., member of the rushing committee.

National officers assisting at the installation will be Mrs. Sidney R. Stanard, grand president, and Mrs. Robert N. Jones, traveling secretary, of Webster Groves, Mo. Alpha Delta Pi, formed in 1851, is the oldest secret society for college women. A chief project of the group is its Memorial Fellowship fund, thru which exchange fellowships are granted to members and other students for graduate study at home and abroad.

Delta Delta Delta.

North shore alumnae of Delta Delta Delta sorority will be guests at a tea at 3 p. m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. William O. Jeffery Jr., Evanston. Mrs. Horace Dawson, Mrs. Melvin A. Root Jr., Mrs. H. D. Meyer, Mrs. Merrill Olsen, and Mrs. Warren Keller, all of Evanston, will be assistant hostesses.

Events on the social calendar for alumnae and members are a tea for new pledges, Oct. 11; a Christmas party, Dec. 13, and a bridge party and midnight supper, Jan. 20. At the regular luncheon meetings thru the year, members will make scrapbooks for convalescent soldiers, and will sew and knit for the Red Cross twice each month.

2 North Side Youths Win Culver Academy Medals

Medal winners at the recent commencement exercises of Culver military academy, Culver, Ind., included two north side cadets. They were William Walsh, winner of the gold vedette medal for activities as writer on the school paper, and Jesse A. Vail, Evanston, who took the bronze vedette medal for excellence of reporting for the school publication.

BARTELME CLUB WOMEN TO SELL TAGS TOMORROW

Share of Proceeds to Go to Group's Homes.

Representatives of the junior and senior auxiliaries of the Mary Bartelme club of Evanston will combine their efforts and act as taggers tomorrow for the annual Have a Heart tag day.

The tag day will be conducted in Chicago and much of the suburban area. It serves as a means of raising funds for scores of welfare organizations including the Mary Bartelme clubs.

Support Three Homes.

"Success of the tag day this year is more vital than ever before," said Mrs. Roy L. Davis, president of the general board of the Mary Bartelme clubs. "The organization this year is seeking funds not only for its original homes in Evanston and Austin, but also for its third house opened last February at 6344 Lakewood av."

More than 300 women will sell Bartelme club's tags and at least a third of the women are from the north side and suburbs.

Mrs. Dow Is Chairman.

Mrs. Harry A. Dow Jr., former president of the Evanston junior auxiliary, is general chairman of the tag day committee.

Representing the junior auxiliary are Mrs. Walter E. Quinby, president of the Evanston juniors; Mrs. E. L. Good of the Evanston senior auxiliary, and Miss Alice Thomas, president of the Career Girls division.

The Evanston Mary Bartelme club, in addition to supporting the Evanston home, is also actively interested in the home on Lakewood av. The Career Girls and the junior auxiliary have equipped the kitchen and the senior auxiliary and the Evanston junior aids are furnishing several bedrooms in the new home.

CHURCH SCHOOL WORKERS WILL CONFER TODAY

Episcopal church school teachers, superintendents, and workers of the Chicago diocese will hold a fall conference on Christian education at 4:30 p. m. today in St. Luke's church, Evanston. The Rev. W. Ridley Parson, rector of Grace church, Freeport, and chairman of curriculum for the Christian education department of the diocese, is dean of the conference.

The Rev. Frederick L. Barry, rector of St. Luke's, will officiate at the evensong service and Bishop Conkling will speak. The dinner speaker will be the Rev. James M. Duncan, rector of the Church of the Atonement, 5749 Kenmore av.

Leaders of group conferences from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. will be the Rev. John B. Hubbard, rector of St. Mary's church, Park Ridge; the Rev. J. Rodger McColl, rector of St. Augustine's church, Wilmette; Eleanor P. Smith, deaconess and director of religious education at St. Augustine's; Mrs. Dorothy Ann Miller; and Mrs. C. L. Bigler.

At Smith College

PATRICIA MADDEN.

Patricia Madden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Madden, 444 Elder lane, Winnetka, recently began her freshman year at Smith college, Northampton, Mass. She was graduated in June with high honors from the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Lake Forest. Miss Madden's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Finn, 5214 Lakewood av.

QUIZ PROGRAM VISITS CHICAGO FRIDAY NIGHT

"Double or Nothing," heard Fridays from 8:30 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N and Mutual, will visit Chicago next Friday. It will be broadcast before several thousand persons at the Chicago Civic Opera House. The broadcast will be staged in connection with the Chicago premiere of the new Hollywood production, "The Merry Monahans," which will be screened for the studio audience immediately following the program. All contestants in the show will be Chicago area residents whose names are Monahan.

The quiz, conducted by John Reed King, soon will start its fifth year on the air.

SYMPHONY HALL OFFERS MOZART VIOLIN CONCERTO

Mozart's Concerto for Violin No. 6 in E flat will be the featured selection on Symphony Hall on W-G-N and WGNB from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Tuesday. The W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber will open the program with Frescobaldi's "Toccata."

Phillip Kauffman, first violinist with the W-G-N Symphony, will play the Mozart violin concerto, accompanied by the orchestra.

The overture to "Sakuntala," by Goldmark, and the introduction to act III., Entrance of the Masters from "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner, also will be presented.

Gene Filip, Air Hero, Returns to W-G-N Job

Gene Filip, Chicago Tribune and W-G-N staff member, has returned to his job in the W-G-N news department after 32 months in the army air forces. Filip, as a bombardier in the South Pacific, flew 34 missions in a Liberator and was wounded during an attack on Wewak, New Guinea. He holds the air medal, silver star, and Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster. He was given an honorable medical discharge because of his injuries.

Tibbett, Niesen, Morini Guests on Concert Hour

Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan opera baritone; Gertrude Niesen, Broadway songstress and comedienne, and Erica Morini, concert violinist, will make guest appearances on Music America Loves Best over WMAQ-NBC at 3:30 p. m. today. Jay Blackton directs the orchestra.

Church st. Then there are symbols of the first car, the first baby, rowboat. An elephant, represents the first congressional nomination, which came to Mr. Church in 1934. There are six tiny battleships to stand for Church's membership on the house naval affairs committee, and a Clipper ship for his trip to Oslo, Norway, in August, 1939, as a delegate from congress to the parliamentary union conference.

Last year, the family wish was for peace, and a tiny angel replaced the little flag at the top of the tree.

The Churches are a busy family, but on Sunday mornings, when they are at home in Evanston, the front porch is filled with neighbors. Ralph Church has no campaign headquarters. Folks who want to see him come to the house.

Hosts to 79 in Week.

There was a time, the family remembers, when family dinners were stretched to include innumerable guests. The record was topped the week that 79 partook of the Church hospitality. That was before rationing of course.

Born on a farm in Vermilion county, Cong. Church, still maintains the family farm. He has a love of the soil and his favorite sport is horseback riding. At the University of Michigan he was a well known athlete. He was graduated from the Northwestern law school in 1909.

Taught China's First Lady.

"Mom taught Madame Chiang Kai-shek," 15 year old Marjorie said, exhibiting a framed letter from the wife of China's war leader. "Yes," Mrs. Church nodded. "Marjory and I heard her address congress two years ago, and that was the first time I had seen her since she walked out of my Wellesley college classroom, her notebook under her arm, in 1915."

Since her marriage Mrs. Church's intellectual interests have centered in government and politics. She is a member of the senior board of the Evanston Infant Welfare society, Illinois League of Women Voters, the Chicago Maternity center, Evanston Women's club, and the American Association of University Women.

Active in Washington, Too.

In Washington she has been a member of the board of Barney Neighborhood house, and is second vice president of League of Republican Women for the District of Columbia.

Lt. Ralph Jr., has been in the navy two years. He attended Evanston Township High school, St. Albans, Washington, D. C., and was graduated from Princeton university. Two years ago Christmas day, he married Janet Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Richardson of Evanston.

"Ralph's the guy with ideas," said Bill, home on leave after being commissioned an ensign at Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass. "The family, and that includes Prince, the collie, begins to click when he's around."

"Bill is the one member of the family, who had to be put under guard during campaigns, when he was a kid" the congressman remembered with a laugh. "When he was 8 years old, I was running for my first term in congress. One of the local aldermen came to see me on a Sunday morning, parking his car in front of the house. Bill and his gang let the air out of all the tires, and when the alderman came out, Bill ran away, establishing his guilt. We didn't see anything of the alderman for the rest of the campaign."

Dorothy Likes Sports.

Marjory, like her father, likes athletics. According to her mother, Marjory is more at home in sports clothes and scuffles than in dresses. Marjory is a junior in high school.

When the war is over and the Church boys are back in Evanston, the family, too, will be back to normal. For when you see one of the Churches, the rest are bound to be near at hand, according to the Church neighbors.

'D-DAY—1787'—A W-G-N SALUTE TO CONSTITUTION

G. O. P. Program Follows Air Theater Drama.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday will present "D-Day—1787" on the eve of Constitution day, which falls on Sunday, Sept. 17. A historically accurate portrayal of the circumstances attending the signing of the Constitution will highlight this presentation, which will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system before an audience of more than 4,000 persons in Medinah temple.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in a radio address, will review the events leading up to the framing of the Constitution and discuss some of the most significant parts of the document.

G. O. P. Program to Follow.

The full hour Theater of the Air program on the network will be followed by a half hour broadcast on W-G-N only, in which United States Sen. Brooks, Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for United States senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, will speak from Medinah temple. This 9 to 9:30 p. m. broadcast will be given under auspices of the Cook county Republican central committee. The Medinah temple audience will be composed of members of the central committee and their friends.

Music for "D-Day—1787" will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber. Jack La Frandre has written and will produce the Constitution day tribute which will feature a cast of distinguished Chicago actors. John Barclay will portray George Washington. The first President will be introduced as narrator for the historic drama which will recall the circumstances under which the Constitution was drafted and ratified.

Tell Bill of Rights Story.

The story of the adding of the Bill of Rights will be told also in dramatic form. The dramatic cast, besides Mr. Barclay, will include Jack Petruzzi as Patrick Henry, Sidney Ellstrom as James Madison, Hope Summers as Martha Washington, Arnold Robertson, Ray Suber, Eric Lord, Howard Hoffman, William Rath, Cliff Soubier, and Norman Gottschalk as various statesmen, and Laurette Fillbrandt as an evangelist. Tom Cafferty will serve as narrator; John Holbrook as announcer.

Commenting on plans for the celebration by Republicans on the eve of Constitution day, Gov. Green said:

"Constitution day always is one of the most important occasions of the year to the Republican party, which from its inception has fought to maintain the sacred freedoms of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This year's celebration is particularly significant because, while brave Americans are carrying its banner of freedom to victory thruout the world, we are called upon to defend it at home against communistic influences which seek to undermine and destroy it.

Held Issue of Year.

"Confronted as we are with the difficulties of war time transportation, it is particularly fitting that the program is to be broadcast sq that all Illinoisans may share in it at their own firesides.

"The preservation of our free American system under the Constitution is the paramount Republican issue of 1944. I am sure that the Republicans of Illinois will be glad to join in this thrilling program and thereby dedicate themselves to victory in the campaign ahead of us."

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, is in charge of ticket distribution for the Constitution day observance.

FAMILY HELPS TOM DOWNS IN CONGRESS RACE

Campaign Center Is 'Home' Office.

Politically Thomas J. Downs is the Republican nominee for house of representatives from the 2d district. At home he is the father of two little girls, Sara Ann, 10, and Ellen, 6; general fixer of broken doll heads and disjointed toys; husband, and golf and White Sox fan. He has been practicing law for 17 years and has lived all that time on the south side.

Mr. and Mrs. Downs and their daughters reside in a six room apartment at 7726 South Shore dr. Piles of newspapers fill a window bench in the small sun room [Mr. Downs' "home" office] which when clipped will make the beginning of a scrapbook Mrs. Downs is making on her husband's political career.

Home Canning Old Stuff.

There's another family project, too. Long before it was considered patriotic to preserve fruits and vegetables, Mrs. Downs canned at least 100 quarts of garden produce each year, just as her mother always did. Mr. Downs dons an apron and seals the jars in the evenings. Last year he picked clean a tree of cherries back of their apartment which yielded 25 quarts of fruit.

Sundays they attend mass at St. Bride's church, 7765 Coles av., and Ellen started to school there last week. Sara Ann, or Sally as she is known to her family, also attends St. Bride's grammar school.

Elephant Favorite Toy.

A second and larger sunroom at the back of the apartment is the girls' playroom. There Sally practices her music lessons, and Ellen keeps her collection of stuffed animals. Her favorite is a blue elephant, named Dewey, a successor to many other large and small worn out elephants with which Ellen has played during her six years.

Mrs. Downs, who is an active south side clubwoman, is even busier during these campaign months, handling her husband's mail and literature. Last year she was co-chairman of public welfare in the Windsor Park Woman's club. She is secretary of the South Shore League of Women Voters and a member of the St. Bride's Mothers club.

Since family vacations are out for the duration Sally spent this summer making puzzles and scrapbooks with the Junior Red Cross.

Missed in Close Race.

Altho Downs, 40, is a young candidate in the political theater, he is not a newcomer. He has been active in the Young Republican organization since coming to the south side 17 years ago and was defeated by a narrow margin in his race for congress in 1942.

He was the first Chicagoan to serve as president of the Young Republican organization of Illinois, a post he held in 1936 and 1937. In 1937 he was elected its national committeeman and in 1938 was elected 1st vice chairman of the national organization.

Local projects which keep him busy week nights are the South Shore Y. M. C. A., South Shore and Grand Crossing-Chatham Chambers of Commerce, Lions club, Elks, and the South Side Community committee.

Go Home for Christmas.

One out-of-town trip is made each winter when the Downes take their daughters back to Terre Haute, Ind., to spend Christmas holidays with two anxiously waiting grandmothers and a grandfather. Before coming to Chicago as a bride 13 years ago, Mrs. Downs was Miss Frances M. Mayrose. She met her husband when they were high school classmates in the Indiana town.

Shortly after graduation Downs left Terre Haute to attend Georgetown university at Washington, D. C., and after receiving his law degree came to Chicago. Four years later he married his high school sweetheart.

Three years ago the Republican candidate organized his own law office, Downs and Scheib, with offices at 135 S. La Salle st.

Quiet Family Life Is Backdrop for Attorney's Congressional Race

Thomas J. Downs, south side leader of young Republicans, is the G. O. P. nominee for house of representatives in the 2d district. His most faithful boosters are a daughter, Ellen, who holds her favorite toy, Dewey; Mrs. Downs, and another daughter, Sara Ann.

Ellen and her sister, Sara Ann, started back to school last week. They are pupils at St. Bride's school, 7765 Coles av. Ellen is in the 1st grade.

Proud of her husband's political aspirations Mrs. Downs, an active south side club woman, is beginning a scrapbook of the G. O. P. candidate's career. The Downs reside in a six room apartment at 7726 South Shore dr.

[TRIBUNE Photos by Julius Gantter.]

Mrs. Downs learned to preserve fruit from her practical Hoosier mother many years before it was considered patriotic to do home canning. Candidate Downs assists his wife by sealing the jars.

WOODLAWN WAR GARDEN SHOW TO BE HELD IN HOTEL

Expect 100 Exhibitors Tomorrow Night.

The Woodlawn Property Owners league will hold its first indoor exhibit of war garden produce and canned fruits and vegetables at 7 p. m. tomorrow in the ballroom of the Hayes hotel, 6345 University av.

More than 100 residents of the Woodlawn community are expected to enter displays. Tho garden festivals have been sponsored by the league for the last eight years, previous exhibits have been in the open air.

War Stamps on Prize List.

Prizes of war stamps will be awarded for the best displays of home grown vegetables and flowers, and for canned fruits and vegetables. All exhibits must be in the ballroom by noon tomorrow, E. A. Cleeton, festival chairman, said. Fred Horwarth from the Garfield park conservatory will judge the exhibits.

At 8 p. m. Ezra J. Kraus, chairman of the botany department of the University of Chicago, and George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the park district, will speak. Dr. Kraus will show colored slides of his experiments performed in Lake Forest and Lake Geneva, Wis.

Edits Botanical Paper.

An authority on the growth and nutrition of plants, Dr. Kraus has served as plant physiologist in the United States department of agriculture, is a member of the Illinois board of natural resources and conservation and is editor of the Botanical Gazette, published by the University of Chicago press.

After the program refreshments will be served for contestants, league members, and speakers by a committee with Mrs. William Collatz in charge. Mrs. C. I. Palmer is reception chairman, and John L. Sharpe is league president.

SGT. BOTSFORD ON FIREBIRD, 100 MISSION BOMBER

By flying its 99th and 100th missions on D-day, the Marauder "Firebird" entered the "100 Mission" club which now includes only eight medium bombers, two of which are no longer in operation. Sgt. Richard A. Botsford, 1707 E. 55th st., has flown on 55 of the 101 missions as engineer-gunner.

Only once did the "Firebird" run into trouble. That was on her 101st attack the day when B-26s smashed gun emplacements at Dunkirk. The bomber returned home with over 100 holes in the fuselage and wings, but not a member of the crew was injured.

The "Firebird" has dropped approximately 160 tons of bombs on targets in France, Holland, and Belgium. The objectives included railway marshaling yards, airdromes, bridges, and gun emplacements along the French coast. It is with the 9th air force bomber base in England.

Van Buren Legion Group Will Install New Officers

Van Buren American Legion auxiliary will hold a public installation of officers at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Hamilton hotel, 20 S. Dearborn st. The membership of the unit is comprised of postoffice employes from thruout the city.

Willing Helpers Plan Meeting for Wednesday

The monthly meeting of the Willing Helpers for Crippled Children will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Spalding school, 1628 Washington blvd. A card party will be given by the group Sept. 27 at Fleck's hall, 2022 Roscoe st.

Old Joe Wants Crack at Nazis Despite His Age

Polish-born Joseph Gibasiewicz, 62, of 2950 E. 80th pl., has no time for bowling, but he does need a score sheet to mark his perfect record since Pearl Harbor at the South Chicago works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company. He hasn't missed a day in three years at his job as first engineer in the heavy rail mill.

Joseph Gibasiewicz.

His only son, Alex, is a private in the army. Before the war they were a father-son team in the same mill. Today the son is fighting in New Guinea.

Plain, pipe smoking Old Joe, as he is known to the men in the mill, would like to take a crack at the Nazis anyway.

"I have a lot of relatives back in Poland," Joe said, thoughtfully. "Many of them would give everything they had to be safe in America, as I am now." He had been with Carnegie-Illinois for 38 years.

MURAL CONTEST FOR NEGROES TO END ON SUNDAY

Gertrude Abercrombie, Chicago woman painter, and Oskar Gross, portrait painter, will be among the seven judges who will select the winning entry in a mural contest to be held at the South Side Community Art center, 3831 S. Michigan av., next Sunday.

A $300 prize will be awarded the best entry on "The Negro in Professional Life," and the winning painting will be executed on a wall of the Professional Arts building, 2 E. Garfield blvd., by the artist. Entries are limited to those of Negro artists, Rex Gorleigh, director of the center announced, because it is believed that a Negro can know the subject matter best.

Other judges will be William Farrow, etcher; Charles Schucker, Baltimore Art institute winner of the Henry Walters traveling scholarship; Francis Strain of the Renaissance society, University of Chicago; David Rose, commercial artist, and Frayser T. Lane, director of the civic education department, Chicago Urban league, who will announce the winner.

Delano Post Will Install Mary Peyton Commander

Mary W. Peyton will be installed commander of Jane A. Delano post of the American Legion tomorrow night at 8 S. Michigan av., room 1520. Col. Paul G. Armstrong will be installing officer. The Legion quartet will sing.

Woodlawn Club.

Irvin E. Deer, representative of the movie industry, will discuss "Motion Pictures in the Post-war World" at the luncheon meeting of the Woodlawn Business Men's association Tuesday in the Hayes hotel.

'D-DAY—1787'—A W-G-N SALUTE TO CONSTITUTION

G. O. P. Program Follows Air Theater Drama.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday will present "D-Day—1787" on the eve of Constitution day, which falls on Sunday, Sept. 17. A historically accurate portrayal of the circumstances attending the signing of the Constitution will highlight this presentation, which will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system before an audience of more than 4,000 persons in Medinah temple.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in a radio address, will review the events leading up to the framing of the Constitution and discuss some of the most significant parts of the document.

G. O. P. Program to Follow.

The full hour Theater of the Air program on the network will be followed by a half hour broadcast on W-G-N only, in which United States Sen. Brooks, Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for United States senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, will speak from Medinah temple. This 9 to 9:30 p. m. broadcast will be given under auspices of the Cook county Republican central committee. The Medinah temple audience will be composed of members of the central committee and their friends.

Music for "D-Day—1787" will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber. Jack La Frandre has written and will produce the Constitution day tribute which will feature a cast of distinguished Chicago actors. John Barclay will portray George Washington. The first President will be introduced as narrator for the historic drama which will recall the circumstances under which the Constitution was drafted and ratified.

Tell Bill of Rights Story.

The story of the adding of the Bill of Rights will be told also in dramatic form. The dramatic cast, besides Mr. Barclay, will include Jack Petruzzi as Patrick Henry, Sidney Ellstrom as James Madison, Hope Summers as Martha Washington, Arnold Robertson, Ray Suber, Eric Lord, Howard Hoffman, William Rath, Cliff Soubier, and Norman Gottschalk as various statesmen, and Laurette Fillbrandt as an evangelist. Tom Cafferty will serve as narrator; John Holbrook as announcer.

Commenting on plans for the celebration by Republicans on the eve of Constitution day, Gov. Green said:

"Constitution day always is one of the most important occasions of the year to the Republican party, which from its inception has fought to maintain the sacred freedoms of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This year's celebration is particularly significant because, while brave Americans are carrying its banner of freedom to victory thruout the world, we are called upon to defend it at home against communistic influences which seek to undermine and destroy it.

Held Issue of Year.

"Confronted as we are with the difficulties of war time transportation, it is particularly fitting that the program is to be broadcast so that all Illinoisans may share in it at their own firesides.

"The preservation of our free American system under the Constitution is the paramount Republican issue of 1944. I am sure that the Republicans of Illinois will be glad to join in this thrilling program and thereby dedicate themselves to victory in the campaign ahead of us."

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, is in charge of ticket distribution for the Constitution day observance.

SYMPHONY HALL OFFERS MOZART VIOLIN CONCERTO

Mozart's Concerto for Violin No. 6 in E flat will be the featured selection on Symphony Hall on W-G-N and WGNB from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Tuesday. The W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber will open the program with Frescobaldi's "Toccata."

Phillip Kauffman, first violinist with the W-G-N Symphony, will play the Mozart violin concerto, accompanied by the orchestra.

The overture to "Sakuntala," by Goldmark, and the introduction to act III., Entrance of the Masters from "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner, also will be presented.

'Drama of the Frontier' on the Human Adventure

The Human Adventure broadcast will present "Drama of the Frontier" over W-G-N at 8:30 tomorrow night. The production will be based in part on research of Prof. Frederick Jackson Turner of the University of Wisconsin.

Measure of value

In deciding on the merits of various funeral homes, what better method can be found than to compare them point by point? Skeeles-Biddle welcome such a test because a comparison invariably emphasizes the advantages in service, facilities and economy available at Colonial Chapel.

Nationally recognized experts for restoring old, faded family photographs.

The exclusive, patented "Cinefoto"-System won thousands of friends since we introduced it to Chicago 6 years ago.

Here is your chance to get familiar with the comfortable, unique "Cinefoto" way resulting in an amazingly natural portrait, taken while you were completely relaxed. It reproduces the personality of "camera-shy" grown-ups just as easily as the charm of children.

Skilled photographers will take 5 (five!) different poses and expressions of you or your child to insure the perfect portrait you always wanted.

Our stunning "Birthday-Special"—good for very limited time only—is just in time to surprise the boy in uniform with a lovely Christmas photo at a grand saving!

CHOOSE 18 WAR FUND LEADERS FOR WEST SIDE

Drive Will Benefit 187 Agencies.

Appointment of 18 west siders as district and sectional chairmen for the Community and War fund drive which starts Oct. 2 with a goal of $12,980,000 has been announced by Ray McCarthy, chairman of the west side region; Amerigo R. Sansone, vice chairman, and Mrs. Violet Lewis, chairman of the women's division.

Those named by McCarthy and Sansone are Michael Melone, 1066 Taylor st., Charles McKiel, 1132 Albion av., and Anthony Mordente, 771 W. DeKoven st., Upper West side; Carmen Vacca, 3400 Chicago av., and Michael J. Blasi, 636 N. Sawyer av., West Town; William H. Doherty, 4223 Lake st., and Glen Johnson, 4010 Madison st., West Garfield Park; Frank Sorrentino, 827 S. Racine av. and C. A. Bruen, 3158 Madison st., East Garfield Park; Dr. A. Richard Leavitt, 3211 Madison st., North Lawndale; Leonard Serdiuk, 4126 W. 25th st., South Lawndale; Fred Burns, 1935 S. Halsted st., and Frank Bilek, 1831 Blue Island av., Lower West side; and Herman Schamberger, 4743 Kinzie st., Central Austin.

Appointees announced by Mrs. Lewis are Mrs. Elmer Swanson, 321 N. Central av.; Mrs. Charles Hrubec, 940 N. Kedvale av.; Mrs. William H. Gendrick, 704 S. Sacramento av., and Mrs. Joseph Janas, 2404 S. Hamlin av.

Mrs. Charlotte Hilton, chairman of the OCD volunteer office, has plans for 10 girls from the downtown OCD office to arrange alphabetically 75,000 cards to be used in the campaign.

Benefits 187 Agencies.

Nearly one-third of the money sought in the drive remains in Chicago for use of 187 health and welfare agencies. McCarthy said the budget calls for allocation of $4,289,500 for Community fund agencies, but money raised in the suburbs goes only to the war related agencies supported by the Community and War fund and suburban chests and charities.

Among west side agency members of the fund are Gads Hill center, Howell Neighborhood house, Erie Neighborhood house, Cathedral shelter, Firman house, St. Mary's Home for Children, Sarah Hackett Stevenson memorial, Mary clubs, Mount Sinai hospital, Home for Destitute Crippled Children, and Central Free dispensary.

Pick Suburban Chairmen.

Meanwhile additional leaders were named to carry on the suburban solicitation for the Community and War fund drive. George R. Murphy, chairman of the district which includes Naperville, Warrenville, West Chicago, and Winfield, appointed Don C. Burkholder, Warrenville, chairman of Warrenville; John W. Reid, West Chicago, chairman of West Chicago, and Harvey S. Ayton, Winfield, chairman of Winfield.

Richard M. Laux, 104 E. Lake st., Addison, chairman of the district that includes Addison, Lombard, Oak Brook, Villa Park, York Center, and Yorkfield, has named A. T. Pfotenhauer, Addison, chairman of Addison; L. M. Haskin, York Center, chairman of York Center, and Rudolph B. Mueller, Elmhurst, chairman of Yorkfield.

Other new chairmen in the suburban division are Mrs. Luella Laatz, La Grange, chairman of Hodgkins; Joseph Janda, Lyons, chairman of Lyons, and John Alexander, North Riverside, chairman of North Riverside.

OPEN ELMHURST FRESHMAN WEEK ON WEDNESDAY

College Classes Will Start Sept. 20.

Elmhurst college has arranged a full program for the week beginning Wednesday to help freshmen get acquainted with their classmates, their instructors, and with the college that is to be their alma mater.

Registration will take place Wednesday and Thursday. On Thursday night there will be informal gatherings of dormitory students. Men will meet in the South hall lounge and women will meet in the Orion hall lounge. Friday morning President Timothy Lehmann will address the freshmen on the subject, "Why Go to College?" A get-acquainted party will be held for all freshmen and members of the faculty Friday night.

Sunday Is Letter Day.

Saturday activities include a recreational program and a student sing. Sunday morning there will be worship at the college church, St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed, of which Dr. Frederick Frankenfeld is pastor. Students will be encouraged to write a letter home Sunday afternoon. Dr. Lehmann will conduct a twilight service in the college chapel.

A trip to Chicago Sept. 18 has been arranged for all freshmen who wish to join the group. The school will open for the year Sept. 20.

Three faculty changes are announced at the college.

Two Attended Berea.

Miss Hazel L. Chrisman, M. A., a graduate of Berea college and the University of Kentucky, will teach English, filling a vacancy left by the retirement of Prof. Henry L. Breitenbach. For several summers, Miss Chrisman taught teachers who came back to the University of Kentucky for special training.

Eugene L. Rotwein, who received his M. A. degree at the University of Wisconsin, will replace Dr. William D. Grampp, who has entered government service. Prof. Rotwein for two years worked toward a doctorate at the University of Chicago and for a year was with the Brookings institute, Washington, D. C.

An addition to the faculty will be James S. Brown, who graduated from Berea college and received his master's degree from Harvard university. Prof. Brown will assist in sociology. He has done research work in the hills of Kentucky and on this material he is writing a dissertation for his doctorate at Harvard.

BERWYN HOLDS FALL FESTIVAL TO SHOW CROPS

Gardeners Compete for Top Prizes Today.

Neighborliness developed by a civilian defense group in the early days of the war has continued to flourish in a Berwyn area bounded by Ridgeland, Harvey, Park, and Ogden avs. This afternoon and tonight three areas will unite in holding a harvest festival on a lot at 32d st. and Cuyler av.

For the Neighborhood homecoming day, residents of the area bounded by Ridgeland, Lombard, and Park avs., and 39th st., are invited to enter garden exhibits. More than 300 gardens are in the area, and their careful tending has resulted in good crops despite the dry weather. One of the tomato plants boasts 41 tomatoes.

Decorate Site with Flags.

The corner lot where today's festival will be held has a 100 foot frontage, half given over to lawn and the remainder utilized for war gardens. Across the street there is a baseball diamond where games and races will take place. The setting will be decorated with flags and be given special illumination. There will be a bond booth and refreshment stands. At a party held by the group in July, $2,000 worth of bonds were sold.

Members of the committee, of which Phillip Clarke, John G. Reichert, and A. J. Schweitzer are cochairmen, have planned an old-fashioned county fair setting. War gardeners have been urged to enter their products. A committee will make awards to successful entrants. Emil J. Dulla of the Berwyn playground commission has arranged for the softball game and track events. The South Berwyn Cavaliers, led by Frank Tlusty, will play for the street dance tonight. Neighbodhood talent will provide entertainment.

Buy Bonds For Fighters.

The neighborhood group plans to buy each of its 45 fighting men a $25 bond.

Ruth E. Schott is secretary-treasurer of the neighborhood organization, and Marue M. Zadny is assistant secretary. Joseph A. Meyers is deputy zone warden.

Members of the committee are Roy E. Blomberg, Frank Burian Jr., John W. Calkins, Bruce W. Dyson, Robert M. Jungst, Alfred A. Lazzari, A. O. Muehlbrandt, Lorenze F. Narjes, John Palmer, Melvin C. Richards, James F. Smirz, Lester A. Stephen, George T. Weick, and J. A. Zadny.

STYLE PARADE IN OAK PARK TO AID GIRLS' CLUBS

Bartelme Auxiliary Gives Show Sept. 30.

Club women modeling the latest styles will parade down the runway of the 19th Century club in Oak Park on Saturday, Sept. 30, at the benefit party and style show sponsored by the Oak Park senior auxiliary of the Mary Bartelme clubs.

Proceeds will be used for the maintenance of the clubs that were formed to care for girls under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court. The first club was established in 1914 thru the efforts of Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court, and another was begun in 1918 when the organization was incorporated. Recently a third club house was established in Oak Park.

Most Are Court Wards.

The clubs furnish institutional care and training for dependent and delinquent girls. Most of the girls are referred thru the Juvenile court, coming from both the family supervision and child placing divisions.

Altho the clubs are legally organized to care for girls who are wards of the court, the board, deciding it might better meet the needs of the community if its service were available to other agencies as well, now considers private applications.

Aid Party Plans.

The clubs, located in residential districts, are under the supervision of trained superintendents. Special needs of the girls are met thru gifts, tutoring, and training. A recreational director who rotates among the three houses instructs the girls in art, handicraft, sewing, and supervises the publishing of a paper concerned with the activities of club residents.

Officers of the senior auxiliary of the club are Mrs. Glenn N. Willard, president; Mrs. H. R. Beers, vice president; Mrs. Henry King, secretary, and Mrs. John McCarter, treasurer.

Recent Bride

Mary Norine Beirne, daughter of Mrs. Francis C. Beirne, 619 Marengo av., Forest Park, recently became the bride of Paul A. Fitzgerald in St. Bernardine's church, Forest Park. Mr. Fitzgerald is the son of Mrs. Charles E. Fitzgerald, 1012 Elmwood av., Oak Park.

ILL. PHARMACY COLLEGE MARKS 85TH BIRTHDAY

The college of pharmacy of the University of Illinois, 808 S. Wood st., will celebrate its 85th anniversary this week. The college is the oldest professional school in Illinois and the third oldest institution of its kind west of the Alleghany mountains, said Dr. Earl R. Serles, dean.

When it was founded on Sept. 5, 1859, it was known as the Chicago College of Pharmacy. Its original incorporators were among the pioneers of Chicago.

Dean Serles said the pioneer druggists were concerned with education of their apprentices, interested in advancement of their profession, and recognized the educational and social advantages of a college organization.

During the Chicago fire of 1871, the college lost all of its property and equipment but was able to reopen in 1872, because pharmacists of the world, particularly those of Great Britain, came to the rescue with new equipment. The present college museum contains nearly all of these donations.

The old building which housed the original school at Flournoy and Wood sts., was torn down in 1932 and the college since has been housed in the modern 18 story building. From an original class of four persons, the enrollment to date numbers approximately 100.

Military Training After War, Review Stand Topic

The question of compulsory military training after the war will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N and Mutual at 11 a. m. today. The participants will be Dean J. Monroe Hughes and Prof. Leon G. Kranz, both of Northwestern, and Prof. Walter Johnson of the University of Chicago.

'D-DAY—1787'—A W-G-N SALUTE TO CONSTITUTION

G. O. P. Program Follows Air Theater Drama.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday will present "D-Day—1787" on the eve of Constitution day, which falls on Sunday, Sept. 17. A historically accurate portrayal of the circumstances attending the signing of the Constitution will highlight this presentation, which will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system before an audience of more than 4,000 persons in Medinah temple.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in a radio address, will review the events leading up to the framing of the Constitution and discuss some of the most significant parts of the document.

G. O. P. Program to Follow.

The full hour Theater of the Air program on the network will be followed by a half hour broadcast on W-G-N only, in which United States Sen. Brooks, Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for United States senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, will speak from Medinah temple. This 9 to 9:30 p. m. broadcast will be given under auspices of the Cook county Republican central committee. The Medinah temple audience will be composed of members of the central committee and their friends.

Music for "D-Day—1787" will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber. Jack La Frandre has written and will produce the Constitution day tribute which will feature a cast of distinguished Chicago actors. John Barclay will portray George Washington. The first President will be introduced as narrator for the historic drama which will recall the circumstances under which the Constitution was drafted and ratified.

Tell Bill of Rights Story.

The story of the adding of the Bill of Rights will be told also in dramatic form. The dramatic cast, besides Mr. Barclay, will include Jack Petruzzi as Patrick Henry, Sidney Ellstrom as James Madison, Hope Summers as Martha Washington, Arnold Robertson, Ray Suber, Eric Lord, Howard Hoffman, William Rath, Cliff Soubier, and Norman Gottschalk as various statesmen, and Laurette Fillbrandt as an evangelist. Tom Cafferty will serve as narrator; John Holbrook as announcer.

Commenting on plans for the celebration by Republicans on the eve of Constitution day, Gov. Green said:

"Constitution day always is one of the most important occasions of the year to the Republican party, which from its inception has fought to maintain the sacred freedoms of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This year's celebration is particularly significant because, while brave Americans are carrying its banner of freedom to victory thruout the world, we are called upon to defend it at home against communistic influences which seek to undermine and destroy it.

Held Issue of Year.

"Confronted as we are with the difficulties of war time transportation, it is particularly fitting that the program is to be broadcast so that all Illinoisans may share in it at their own firesides.

"The preservation of our free American system under the Constitution is the paramount Republican issue of 1944. I am sure that the Republicans of Illinois will be glad to join in this thrilling program and thereby dedicate themselves to victory in the campaign ahead of us."

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, is in charge of ticket distribution for the Constitution day observance.

On Family Hour

Patrice Munsel, 18 year old Metropolitan Opera soprano, is the new star of the Family Hour aired over WBBM-CBS at 4 p. m. Sundays.

Tibbett, Niesen, Morini Guests on Concert Hour

Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan opera baritone; Gertrude Niesen, Broadway songstress and comedienne, and Erica Morini, concert violinist, will make guest appearances on Music America Loves Best over WMAQ-NBC at 3:30 p. m. today. Jay Blackton directs the orchestra.

Quiz Kids to Broadcast for Bonds from Seattle

The Quiz Kids will broadcast from Seattle tonight in behalf of the next war loan drive. They will be heard at 6:30 p. m. over WLS-Blue. The participants will be Joel Kupperman, Ruthie Duskin, Harve Fischman, and Richard Williams. Joe Kelly is quizmaster.

SYMPHONY HALL OFFERS MOZART VIOLIN CONCERTO

Mozart's Concerto for Violin No. 6 in E flat will be the featured selection on Symphony Hall on W-G-N and WGNB from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Tuesday. The W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber will open the program with Frescobaldi's "Toccata."

Phillip Kauffman, first violinist with the W-G-N Symphony, will play the Mozart violin concerto, accompanied by the orchestra.

The overture to "Sakuntala," by Goldmark, and the introduction to act III., Entrance of the Masters from "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner, also will be presented.

TSCHAIKOWSKY 4TH SYMPHONY ON AIR TODAY

A varied program featuring Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony in F Minor and Debussy's "La Mer" will be presented by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra over WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today.

The overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" by Glinka also will be presented. Vladimir Golschmann will be the conductor.

NBC Symphony to Offer Works of Six Composers

Works of six composers will be presented by the NBC Symphony orchestra, directed by Frank Black, over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. The program will include Debussy's "Nuages" and "Fetes," Massenet's overture to "Phaedre," Gliere's "Dance of the Russian Poppies," Liadow's "Baba Jaga," Sibelius' "Valse Triste," and Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2."

Charlie McCarthy to Get New Singing Pal Today

Gloria Hamilton, pretty songstress, has been signed up to do some singing on the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy show starting at 7 o'clock tonight. Effie Klinker will be on hand, too, as well as Mortimer Snerd. Ed Gardner, Archie of Duffy's Tavern, will make a guest appearance.

'Drama of the Frontier' on the Human Adventure

The Human Adventure broadcast will present "Drama of the Frontier" over W-G-N at 8:30 tomorrow night. The production will be based in part on research of Prof. Frederick Jackson Turner of the University of Wisconsin.

WOMEN LEARN PROPER USE OF FORKS ON FARM

They're in Field; Not Dinner Table.

An army of women, without uniforms or insignia, is performing a vital war service in the northwest truck and dairy farming area. With almost every farm in the section handicapped by the shortage of help, women have stepped in and are doing every kind of farm work with masculine ease, from driving tractors and sowing, to harvesting and caring for farm stock.

Typical of the farms where women are doing a man's share of the work is the 90 acre homestead of Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Long on Central rd., two miles west of Glenview. The Longs' oldest son, Robert, 22, has been in the army for a year and a half and is now at a port of embarkation, awaiting overseas duty.

Women Work Full Time.

Most of the work on the farm, which has been in the Long family five generations, is done by the "women folks." This year the chief crops have been onions, tomatoes, carrots, and sweet corn. Mrs. Long, with her mother-in-law, Mrs. James Long, works full time on the farm. Her two daughters, Jeannette, 21, and Myrtle, 19, who are employed in Chicago banks, help after working hours and during week-ends. A younger son, Glenn, 18, has given all his time to farm work since his recent graduation from high school.

At the Knoll farm, Central rd. east of Greenwood, the women in the family help in the fields every day. "We're up at 6 o'clock in the morning, and we work until it's too dark to see," said Mrs. John Knoll, wife of the owner.

"Truck farming is a tough game in anybody's language," Knoll said. "Everybody has to pitch in and help even in ordinary times. Now, with so many young men in service, I don't know how we'd manage if my wife and daughters didn't help ease the labor shortage."

Farm 25 Acres.

The Knolls have 25 acres under cultivation. Mrs. Knoll, as well as Marion, 20, and Violet, 16, has become so skilful a "farmeret" that the family has managed all season without any hired help. The heaviest work has been done by Knoll and Robert, 18, but since early spring the distaff side of the household has helped with the planting, cultivating, and harvesting.

Until this spring Mr. and Mrs. William Freise have always been able to secure hired hands. This year, with none available and with their son, Norman, in the army air corps, they found that they could no longer take care of their herd of cattle in addition to the other work on their 165 acre farm.

"We had 20 milking cows and 15 heifers," Mrs. Freise said. "We hated to sell them, but with no farmhands there was nothing else we could do."

Ready for Corn Crop.

Like so many other women in the northwest farming area, Mrs. Freise has become a full time partner in the season's work. In addition to taking care of the chickens and feeding the pigs, she helped plant the crops in the spring, worked in the fields during haying time, "and when it's time to pick the corn, I'll help with it, too," she said cheerfully

"Helping to meet the labor situation on truck and dairy farms has constituted just about three-fourths of our work this summer," C. A. Hughes, farm advisor of the Cook County Farm bureau in Arlington Heights, said last week. "The fact that we're meeting the problem without having to sacrifice any of the crops is due in large measure to the coöperation of wives and daughters of the farmers."

Ready to Give Advice.

Both Hughes and C. H. Mills, organization director of the farm bureau, visit the farms regularly and are available for consultation on special problems.

"Of the 2,000 farms in the northwest area, I'd estimate that there's an average of at least one woman worker a farm," Hughes declared. "Until the war made the man power shortage so acute, many women never worked in fields before. But they've pitched in like veterans, and are making an essential contribution to victory with very little fanfare."

CLASSES OPEN FOR 54TH YEAR AT NORTH PARK

North Park college, 3225 Foster av., will open its 54th year tomorrow, when registration will begin. As was true last year, North Park will continue to enroll returned war veterans and Japanese-American students.

President Algoth Ohlson said enrollment for the fall session shows that many northwest side youths have heeded the request of Paul V. McNutt, man power commissioner, and are returning to school.

Also opening is the evening session of North Park, a school for adults who seek educational opportunities at hours which do not conflict with regular employment.

Willing Helpers Plan Meeting for Wednesday

The monthly meeting of the Willing Helpers for Crippled Children will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Spalding school, 1628 Washington blvd. A card party will be given by the group Sept. 27 at Fleck's hall, 2022 Roscoe st.

Women Turn from Kitchen to Field Tasks to Ease Farm Labor Shortage

In the northwest truck and dairy farming area, women are playing an essential part in helping to ease the labor shortage and maintain peak production levels. Among those who have been working regularly in the fields since spring are Eleanor Krueger, 20 (left), and her mother, Mrs. Paul Krueger. The carrots they are harvesting constitute one of the principal crops on the Krueger farm, on Golf road. south of Mount Prospect.

"Hi-hi-yup!" says Gertrude Pohlman, 17, right, as she drives the cows thru the pasture gate at milking time. Her sister, Lorraine, 21, holds the gate open as the herd of Holsteins comes back to the barns in the late afternoon. The girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pohlman, Rohlwing rd. south of Palatine, milk 27 cows daily. Lorraine formerly was employed in a war industry, but when the need at home became urgent she gave up her job to work full time on the farm.

"I couldn't have managed without the help of my wife and daughters this year," John Knoll said recently. His 25 acre farm, on Central rd. east of Greenwood av., has produced tomatoes, peppers, and sweet corn this season. Helping load the tomatoes for market are, left to right, Violet, 16; Mrs. Knoll, and Marion, 20.

Driving a tractor is a daily chore for Mrs. Helen Friedle, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eichholz, say she is just as skilful as a man about the farm. A bride of three weeks, Mrs. Friedle returns regularly to her parents' home, Golf rd. east of Milwaukee av., to help during the harvest season.

Yellow crook neck squash are just ripening to golden perfection in the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Krueger, whose acres adjoin those of the Paul Kruegers on Golf rd. Picking the squash for Chicago markets are Mrs. Victor Krueger, left, and Lorraine Carlson. Lorraine is a junior at Taft High school.

Three generations work side by side on the Homer Long farm, Central rd. two miles west of Glenview. With Robert, the eldest son, in military service, much extra work has devolved on the women of the family. Screening onion sets are, reading clockwise, Janet, 21; Mrs. James Long, her grandmother; Myrtle, 19, and Mrs. Homer Long, and Glenn, 18.

Delano Post Will Install Mary Peyton Commander

Mary W. Peyton will be installed commander of Jane A. Delano post of the American Legion tomorrow night at 8 S. Michigan av., room 1520. Col. Paul G. Armstrong will be installing officer. The Legion quartet will sing.

Des Plaines Elks' Picnic to Be Held Today in Park

The Des Plaines Elks will hold a picnic today at Northwestern park, Des Plaines. There will be a program of games, races, ball games and dancing, and refreshments will be served.

PETERSONS WIN TOP HONORS IN N.W. GARDEN FAIR

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peterson, 5049 Overhill av., were awarded first prize in the Oriole-Overhill garden fair held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Papanek. Second place was won by Mrs. Henry Larsen, 7136 N. Oriole av.

Third prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Anderson, 7017 N. Oriole av., and fourth prize by Mrs. Papanek, 7047 N. Overhill av. The judges were Mrs. Marie Cornelius, home adviser of Cook county, who judged canned goods, and C. A. Hughes, farm adviser of Cook county, who judged fruits and vegetables.

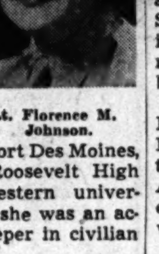
The Oriole-Overhill garden project, in which 48 families participated this season, was started by David Taylor and Leonard Wolfe in 1943. The group cultivated a total area of two and a half acres.

Van Buren Legion Group Will Install New Officers

Van Buren American Legion auxiliary will hold a public installation of officers at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Hamilton hotel, 20 S. Dearborn st. The membership of the unit is comprised of postoffice employes from thruout the city.

American Women at War

Promotion to first lieutenant in the WAC has been announced for Florence M. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Johnson, 3935 N. Spaulding av. Lt. Johnson has been stationed at Rome army air field, Rome, N. Y., since October, 1943. She received her basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., attending officer candidate school at Fort Des Moines, Ia. A graduate of Roosevelt High school and Northwestern university's evening school, she was an accountant and bookkeeper in civilian life.

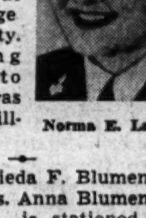


Lt. Florence M. Johnson.

The good conduct medal has been awarded to WAC Corp. Suzanne Schenk of Prospect Heights. Stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J., she is receiving training in the army signal corps. In the WAC since June, 1943, she was on duty in Boston, Mass., before being ransferred to Fort Monmouth.

Lt. Muriel Goettsch of the army nurse corps has been assigned to duty at the Boca Raton, Fla., air field. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Goettsch, 4415 N. Francisco av.

Norma E. Larson, 3565 Dickens av., a yeoman 3d class in the WAVES, has been assigned to the naval air station at Alameda, Cal. She entered service last March, receiving her basic training at Hunter college New York City. Before being transferred to Alameda she was on duty at Stillwater, Okla.



Norma E. Larson.

WAC Pvt. Frieda F. Blumenberg, daughter of Mrs. Anna Blumenberg, 2613 Hirsch st., is stationed in a branch office of the judge advocate general in England, helping in army legal work. Before enlisting she was a unit chief at the war department's tank-automotive ordnance center in Detroit, Mich. She is a graduate of Tuley High school and Northwestern university. Her brother, Sgt. Ben Blumenberg, also is in the European theater, on duty with army ordnance.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

The distinguished flying cross has been awarded Sgt. Chester J. Gorlinski, 20, waist gunner on the Flying Fortress, Piccadilly Lily, which operates from an English base. The son of Mrs. Mary Gorlinski, 4646 N. St. Louis av., he participated in missions against Nazi targets and against the communications and supply system of the Wehrmacht in France after D-day. Before joining the air forces, Sgt. Gorlinski was employed as a transformer assembler.

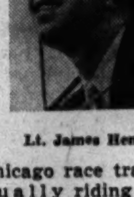
Sgt. C. J. Gorlinski

The air medal and oak leaf cluster have been awarded to Sgt. Anthony B. Tabor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tabor, 2231 N. Latrobe av. A radio operator and gunner on the Flying Fortress Button Nose, he has participated in 25 combat missions since being transferred to England last April. Sgt. Tabor, who entered the air forces in February, 1943, also holds the American theater campaign medal.

Sgt. A. B. Tabor.

The motor vehicle driver and mechanic award was presented recently to Sgt. Andrew N. Fischer, 3224 Foster av., who is serving with an aircraft warning battalion in the Mediterranean theater. Sgt. Fischer, who has been overseas for a year and a half, wears a bronze star for participating in the Tunisian campaign. In addition to his other decorations, Sgt. Fischer wears the soldier's medal for rescuing three soldiers from drowning in the Mediterranean sea.

Directing take-offs and landings of Flying Fortresses is the duty of Lt. James H. Henry of Mount Prospect, a flying control officer at an army air force composite station in England. Lt. Henry was trained at an R. A. F. school after his arrival in England a year and a half ago. A former jockey, Lt. Henry was well known on Chicago race tracks 10 years ago, usually riding his father's horses. He later attended the University of Illinois, and before entering the army was employed as a salesman.



Lt. James Henry.

An aircraft technician at a combat tactical training base in England, Pvt. Edward Skarr, 3430 N. Harding av., works from 10 to 12 hours daily making pre-flight inspections of P-51 Mustangs, repairing engines and servicing the aircraft. Entering the army air forces in April, 1942, Pvt. Skarr was sent to the Missouri Aviation institute, Kansas City, Mo., for mechanic's training. He has specialized on Mustangs since being assigned to the European theater several months ago.

Pvt. Edward Skarr.

Sgt. Sven O. Norman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verner Norman, 3940 Byron st., top turret gunner on the Liberator bomber, Patsy Jack, has completed his 25th combat mission in the Mediterranean theater. A graduate of Lane Technical High school, Sgt. Norman was a draftsman before entering service March 3, 1943.

ALBANY PARK FIRST TO FILL FUND PLEA ROLL

Leader Named in Each District.

To the Albany Park community goes the honor of being the first district on the northwest side to complete the recruiting of all captains for the Community and War fund drive which gets under way Oct. 2 with a goal of $12,980,000.

Louis F. Feldstein, 4419 N. Drake av., chairman of the Albany Park district, and his vice chairman, J. M. Kalish, 4720 N. Kimball av., were in charge of the selection of local leaders for the drive.

Map Seven City Regions.

The Community and War fund campaign this year is divided into seven geographical regions thruout the city. The regions are then divided into sections and the sections into districts, with captains and workers in each district.

CHURCH IN IRVING PARK TO HONOR WAR DEAD TODAY

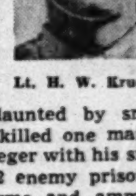
Memorial services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the Irving Park Lutheran church, Belle Plaine and Harding avs., for four men from the congregation who lost their lives in military service during the summer months.

The men are Sgt. LeRoy Kussy, 4814 Fletcher st., aerial engineer and turret gunner on a B-24 bomber, who was killed in action over Germany on July 20; Pvt. Edmund C. Lust, 2554 Wilson av., who died July 12 of wounds suffered in France; Pvt. Leonard Hansen, 3605 N. Monticello av., who was shot by a sniper on Saipan July 13, and Lt. Robert S. Willaman, 4915 N. Kilpatrick av., killed in a flight accident at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., on Aug. 25. Willaman had been awarded the distinguished flying cross for extraordinary achievement as a navy torpedo bomber pilot in the South Pacific.

Gold stars will replace the blue stars on the church's service flag at this ceremony, and four new wreaths will be placed alongside a like number which already hang in the sanctuary as a memorial to four other sons of the congregation who have died in service. Dr. Joshua Oden, the pastor, will preach the memorial sermon, the chorus-choir under the leadership of George Luntz, will sing.

LT. HERBERT KRUEGER WINS VALOR CITATION IN ITALIAN CAMPAIGN

Lt. Herbert W. Krueger, 5919 Navarre av., serving with an armored field artillery battalion in Italy, has been awarded the silver star for gallantry in action, his wife, Eleanor, was notified recently.



Lt. H. W. Krueger.

"Lt. Krueger led his observation party of five men against a well organized enemy strong point," the citation said. "Undaunted by small-arms fire which killed one man of his party, Lt. Krueger with his small force captured 42 enemy prisoners and stores of arms and ammunition."

In Italy since last October, Lt. Krueger has also been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received on the Anzio beachhead.

REV. F. J. FOLEY IS WOUNDED IN FRENCH BATTLE

Elmwood Park Pastor Hit by Shrapnel.

At a station hospital in England, Chaplain Francis J. Foley of Elmwood Park, a veteran of the Sicilian, African, and French campaigns, is recuperating from slight shrapnel wounds in his right hand.

The Rev. Francis Foley.

Landing on the French coast on D-day plus three in LCT craft, the armored infantry division with which Chaplain Foley was serving encountered heavy opposition.

"As we moved on," Chaplain Foley said, "we saw nothing but death and destruction on the road ahead of us."

Bombers Swarm Over.

Given orders to cut back toward the coast to block the Nazis' escape from a trap, the American convoy moved down a dark road which ran between two hedgerows. Focke-Wulfs swarmed over, dropping flares and bombs. Several soldiers were wounded, including Chaplain Foley and his assistant.

Much credit was given to the medical aid men by Chaplain Foley. "They carry on their work unarmed, in the thick of battle," he said, "sometimes at the cost of their lives."

Army to Give Purple Heart.

The Episcopalian chaplain, who will be awarded the Purple Heart, attended Lewis Institute and Seabury-Western Theological seminary. He was graduated in 1936, and was ordained priest in the same year by Bishop George Craig Stewart.

Chaplain Foley's wife is making her home in Elmwood Park during the war. His brother, Arthur, is at the Glenview naval training station.

JULIA WILLIAMS NAMED PASTOR'S AID IN SUBURB

Miss Julia Williams has assumed the duties of assistant pastor at the Community church of Park Ridge. For a number of years Miss Williams has been on the home missionary staff of the Presbyterian church, working in mining villages of West Virginia, and for the last three years in a Mexican settlement house in Greeley, Colo.

New superintendent of the Sunday school at Community church is Otto Bull. Teacher of a men's class last year, Mr. Bull succeeds Noah Pearcy, who will continue on the staff as assistant superintendent.

Department superintendents at Community Sunday school include: Mrs. A. N. Schultz, kindergarten; Mrs. Paul Dickens, primary; Samuel Wilson, junior; Mrs. Russell Griess, intermediate, and Mrs. Paul H. Walker, senior.

PICK N. W. SIDERS AS ILLINOIS TECH CLASS OFFICERS

Four northwest side residents have been elected to class offices in Illinois Institute of Technology's college of arts and sciences. They are among 16 new officers named by the four classes.

Viola Sievers, Elmwood Park, has been elected president of the senior class. Lillian Seges, Elmwood Park, has been named secretary of the junior class. Albert Conrad, 5147 N. Claremont av., is the new sophomore vice president, and Burton Rosky, 4504 N. Harding av., has won the freshman vice presidency.

Miss Sievers is majoring in home economics and Miss Seges is studying humanities. Conrad is an electrical engineering student, and Rosky is a chemistry major.

4 NEW TEACHERS ON FACULTY OF AUSTIN ACADEMY

N. W. SIDE GIRLS HAVE PARTS IN DRAMA SUNDAY

Six northwest side girls will take leading parts in the production of "Nine Girls," to be presented by the MacDowell players in Curtiss hall, 410 S. Michigan av., at 8:15 o'clock Sunday evening. The play, written by Wilfred H. Pettitt, will be directed by Anna Helen Reuter.

Playing the lead role will be Lorraine Ellsworth, 3020 Montrose av. Also in the cast of principals are Laurette Engel, 5250 Deming pl.; Lois Keller, 4918 N. Keeler av.; Mary Louise Bartlett, 3810 N. Leavitt st.; Eileen Dillon, 4840 N. Kedvale av., and Bernice Krentner, 3316 Pensacola av.

Also taking part in the production will be Lorraine La Brecque, Marilyn Pufall, Joan Clair, and Pat Rix.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Sept. 11.

Some gardens are badly in need of humus to build up the soil and as animal manures are difficult to procure, other material or methods must be employed.

Tuesday, Sept. 12.

Pot some of the smaller annuals that are in the outdoor beds, for they will continue to flower for some time and even a few blooms are welcome. One of the nicest accessories in which to grow ferns, philodendron, and many other plants is the fern box stand. However, conditions must be reasonably good, such as fresh air, a not too high temperature [the average furnace heated room is said to be 5 per cent dryer than the desert], and proper watering and feeding.

Wednesday, Sept. 13.

It is always profitable to review the successes and failures experienced during the season, and the gardener who kept notes should consult them and arrange to make alterations before severe weather.

Thursday, Sept. 14.

Fall is a fine time to plant lilacs. One should always consider the height, spread, and requirements of all plants when making the plan. Buy and plant the various hardy lilies as fast as they are available.

Friday, Sept. 15.

Stake the hardy asters before they are in full bloom, for under garden conditions they are likely to blow over, but all tall plants should be staked to keep them sightly. You may pot up the chrysanthemums if desired for indoor flowering. Keep outdoors until frost appears. An enclosed porch is a fine place for them. Tie up the taller sorts. Give the last trimming to the privet hedge.

Saturday, Sept. 16.

Quack grass is noticed in many gardens. Spade it out, removing each piece of root. It is a perennial and fills the ground with roots. Keep at it and areas can be cleared of it. Give the final cleanup to the flower borders. Plan the garden for next season now while everything is fresh in your mind and the foliage still remains.

WINTERIZE HOME NOW; CHECK THE HEATING PLANT

Loans Available for Furnace Repairs.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Here are a few suggestions on ways to prepare for winter's needs and a comfortably heated home. Houses must be given maximum protection, and heating equipment kept in top notch condition to cope with fuel shortages.

Replacement for worn out heating equipment is available and loans to finance replacements and heating plant reconditioning are easy to obtain. Conversion of heating is possible where it is necessary to change types of fuel. Repair parts are available without priority.

Check on present smoke stack and if you find it is pitted with small rust holes, put in your order for a new one. Such rust holes contribute to inefficient combustion and fuel waste.

Remove All Soot.

If there is soot piled above the smoke stack entrance this should be removed as it will impair the draft.

If you have a furnace and forced warm air heat, replace any clogged filters with new dust stops. You will not only insure circulation of cleaner air thru your house but you will get the utmost out of the fuel you burn.

Proper controls and regulators contribute substantially to fuel economy. If you have controls and regulators have them checked to make sure they are ready for good operation. If you need improved controls, order them now. You will find that damper regulators, time switches, thermostats, barometric draft regulators are all fuel savers.

Calls for Expert.

Now is the time to condition your stoker, gas burner, or oil fueled heating plant and this conditioning is an expert's job. The adjustments which must be made are usually delicate, and important.

Don't overlook the importance of clean flues and ash pit. Experts claim that even so little as "1/32 inch of flyash or soot on heating surfaces can easily cause an increase of 5% in fuel consumption." A boiler should be well cleaned and all ashes and soot removed and then flues vacuumed to remove accumulations of ash.

New valves for radiators may be installed now by government authorization. Worn out or clogged valves waste fuel.

Another fuel saver in connection with your heating plant is the insulation of boiler and pipes. A good heating contractor can do this for you economically and efficiently.

School to Direct Tag Day in Park Ridge Tomorrow

The Park Ridge School for Girls will be the sponsoring body when Have a Heart tag day is observed in Park Ridge tomorrow. A total of 50 agencies thruout Chicago and suburbs benefits from the sale of the tags, and it is anticipated that some 20,000 women volunteers will be stationed on street corners to sell the tags.

Church Council.

The church council of Christ Evangelical and Reformed church, Des Plaines, will meet tomorrow evening.

BOMBER CREW GETS NERVES ON EASY MISSION

Flying in a B-17 Flying Fortress of an 8th air force bombardment group, which for the first time in 15 months of combat flying against the German war machine did not have a single enemy shot fired at any of its planes, was the experience of Lt. Harold R. Levant, 712 N. Francisco av. during a recent attack on a Nazi air field in France.

As bombardier of the Fortress Janey Gal, Lt. Levant participated in the aerial assault on the Luftwaffe air base at St. Dizier, southeast of Paris.

Doughboys Clear Way.

"That mission showed us that air-ground coöperation is no one-sided affair," Lt. Levant said later. "Air power has been helping clear the way for the allied armies in France, but the doughboys are making things easier for us, too. Passing over territory that formerly bristled with hostile anti-aircraft guns, we didn't encounter a single burst of flak."

According to Lt. Levant, however, the nervous tension for the men on this uncontested bombing trip was almost as great as when the sky was filled with the smoke of bursting flak shells.

Suspense Doubles for Flak.

"You can't get over the habit of hunching up a little and waiting for it to come," he said. "We sweated it all the way, every minute of it. It was the first time we got near a target without any resistance at all. It kept us on edge, and we didn't know what to expect when no fire came up. The suspense was terrific."

Lt. Levant's bombardment group, which has in the past plowed thru many of the heaviest flak barrages thrown up by Nazi guns, has received the Presidential unit citation for outstanding achievement during a bombing attack against airplane plants at Brunswick.

SYMPHONY HALL OFFERS MOZART VIOLIN CONCERTO

Mozart's Concerto for Violin No. 6 in E flat will be the featured selection on Symphony Hall on W-G-N and WGNB from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Tuesday. The W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber will open the program with Frescobaldi's "Toccata."

Phillip Kauffman, first violinist with the W-G-N Symphony, will play the Mozart violin concerto, accompanied by the orchestra.

The overture to "Sakuntala," by Goldmark, and the introduction to act III., Entrance of the Masters from "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner, also will be presented.

TSCHAIKOWSKY 4TH SYMPHONY ON AIR TODAY

A varied program featuring Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony in F Minor and Debussy's "La Mer" will be presented by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra over WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today.

The overture to "Russlan and Ludmilla" by Glinka also will be presented. Vladimir Golschmann will be the conductor.

Gene Filip, Air Hero, Returns to W-G-N Job

Gene Filip, Chicago Tribune and W-G-N staff member, has returned to his job in the W-G-N news department after 32 months in the army air forces. Filip, as a bombardier in the South Pacific, flew 34 missions in a Liberator and was wounded during an attack on Wewak, New Guinea. He holds the air medal, silver star, and Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster. He was given an honorable medical discharge because of his injuries.

N. W. SIDE WOMEN LAY PLANS FOR COMING SEASON

Women's clubs thruout the northwest side are completing plans for their fall and winter programs. For many groups, the monthly meetings will begin during the first week in October. Boards of some clubs are making final arrangements for special meetings, and other clubs already have announced their year's programs.

Belmont Woman's Club.

Mrs. Charles Hansen, 5401 Melrose st., has completed plans for the year's programs for members of the Belmont Woman's club. The first meeting of the year, on Oct. 4, will be reciprocity day. The yearbook now contains notices of a musical biography of Chopin, to be presented in mid-October, a food demonstration in November, a program on the Orient in December, a Christmas party, Garden day, and Fine Arts day.

Irving Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. Charles Mates, president of the Irving Park Woman's club, has announced the following appointments of departmental chairmen for the coming year: Mrs. Roy M. Hutchinson and Mrs. D. C. Brixey, home; Mrs. Henry A. Oetjen and Mrs. S. V. Reeves, art; Mrs. Cecil Emery, citizenship and legislation; Mrs. John H. Naser, civil service; Mrs. Gay Larsen and Mrs. F. H. Proudfoot; conservation; Mrs. George D. Wardle, drama; Mrs. Frank B. Cheever, garden; Mrs. Hunter E. Hooe and Mrs. Peter J. Immel, international relations; Mrs. T. S. Proud and Mrs. Ralph Dahl, literature; Mrs. Paul H. Mueller, music; Mrs. R. C. Smith, public health; Mrs. William C. Kellerman and Mrs. A. J. Meyer, Red Cross; and Mrs. H. L. Rose, radio and motion picture.

New appointments of chairman on standing committees include: Mrs. Eugene J. Kuntzman, auditing; Mrs. William F. Willard, house; Mrs. Roy H. Bergstrom, pages; Mrs. James Graham, parliamentarian; Mrs. Theodore Bacmeister, reception; Mrs. Clark F. Austin, reciprocity, and Mrs. J. H. Smith, revisions. Mrs. John B. Adler is a new member of the student loan committee; Mrs. John Warren is custodian of the archives, and Mrs. William T. Reace is pianist. Mrs. A. L. Conlon continues as war service chairman.

Des Plaines Woman's Club.

A new department of international relations will be added to the Des Plaines Woman's club by the new president, Mrs. Wilbur C. Howard, when the club opens its fall season next month. The department will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Byron C. Foote. With Mrs. Fred Traeger, chairman of civics and education, the two departments will hold study classes jointly this winter. Mrs. Jeannette Jenkins, 7th District chairman of international relations, has been selected as speaker for the first meeting, the date of which will be announced later.

BUILDING IN JULY SHOWS DROP OF MORE THAN HALF

Building in July in the Chicago region fell to the lowest mark since July, 1940, with a total of only $4,525,871, as compared with $11,157,537 of July last year. The monthly average for the first half of this year was approximately $6,500,000, considerably under last year's monthly average of $9,000,000.

The falling off of permits for homes was a large factor in the decline of new building in July. Des Plaines has led all other communities in home building this year, but reported no home permits for July. Taking third place in home building in the Chicago region for the month was Franklin Park with 14 homes valued at $85,200. Park Ridge reported permits for eight homes costing $45,100.

Building permits for projects other than homes, issued on the northwest side during July, included: Barrington, $1,525; Des Plaines, $4,085; Elmwood Park, $3,590; Mount Prospect, $9,238, and River Grove, $1,785.

N. W. SIDERS WIN PHOTO PRIZES IN DOG CLUB SHOW

Judging has been completed in the third annual salon of German Shepherd dog photography, sponsored by the German Shepherd Dog Training Club of Chicago. A total of 133 entries were received, from such distant points as Connecticut, California, Texas, and Alabama. Chairman of the salon was Chester A. Madison, Elmwood Park.

The club will hold its annual obedience test trials today in Elmwood Park.

Top two prize winners in the miscellaneous class were northwest side residents, Ralph Bergstrom, 5027 Agatite av., winning first, and O. E. Schmidt, 3047 N. 78th av., Elmwood Park, receiving second. Also exhibiting in this class was Eugene Treiber, 7319 Myrtle av.

In the salon class were a number of exhibitors from the northwest side. R. L. Korf of Brinker rd., Barrington, had eight prints in the show, several of his own dogs. W. F. Stephenson, 5416 Kammerling av., showed four prints, and Martin Romeiser, 403 Elmore av., Park Ridge, also had an entry. C. A. Madison entered a print of his dog Queenie, and Mrs. Madison had an entry in a photo of their dog Penny. Many of the pictures were taken at the club's annual camera day, held in Elmwood Park several weeks ago.

DES PLAINES PTA ANNUAL SESSION TO BE THURSDAY

"The PTA Is Ready" will be the theme of a talk by Mrs. Theodore Gleichman, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, at the annual conference of District 28, I. C. P. T., to be held Thursday at the First Congressional church, Graceland and Marion sts., Des Plaines. The conference will be directed by Mrs. S. Richard Kaar.

Registration of delegates will begin at 9:30 a. m., followed by invocation by the Rev. William Earl Brehm, pastor of the church. A greeting by Mrs. Hale W. Olson, president of the Council of Northwest Suburbs, will precede the introduction of Illinois Congress board members and guests.

Reservations for the luncheon must be made with Mrs. Dana Schubert, 2147 Miner st., Des Plaines, not later than tomorrow.

Taking part in a symposium, "Facing Tomorrow," will be three members of the department of health and home service of the I. C. P. T.: Mrs. W. F. Krahl, on "Normal Mental Health"; P. K. Houdek, on "Normal Social Health," and Mrs. Milton L. Wiener, on "The Plus or Minus Child." Mrs. George Olson of the student aid and scholarship department of community service, will speak on student aid.

Mrs. J. W. Heylmun, chairman of music and art in the department of education, and Mrs. Phillip J. Scheid, chairman of study courses and PTA procedure in the department of extension, will speak on the afternoon program. There will also be music by the Des Plaines Mothersingers. Publicity books and posters brought in by delegates will be displayed.

Mrs. Vera Bantz Ward, Evanston, a graduate of the Northwestern university speech school, will read a modern play. New officers of the sisterhood are Mrs. Ludwig Degginger, president; Mrs. William Linz and Mrs. Tilden Levy, vice presidents; Mrs. Julius Solomon, Mrs. Richard J. Sholtz, and Mrs. Eli Brown, secretaries, and Mrs. Julius Lefkow, treasurer.

NBC Symphony to Offer Works of Six Composers

Works of six composers will be presented by the NBC Symphony orchestra, directed by Frank Black, over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. The program will include Debussy's "Nuages" and "Fetes," Massenet's overture to "Phaedre," Gliere's "Dance of the Russian Poppies," Liadow's "Baba Jaga," Sibelius' "Valse Triste," and Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2."

Military Training After War, Review Stand Topic

The question of compulsory military training after the war will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N and Mutual at 11 a. m. today. The participants will be Dean J. Monroe Hughes and Prof. Leon G. Kranz, both of Northwestern, and Prof. Walter Johnson of the University of Chicago.

Charlie McCarthy to Get New Singing Pal Today

Gloria Hamilton, pretty songstress, has been signed up to do some singing on the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy show starting at 7 o'clock tonight. Effie Klinker will be on hand, too, as well as Mortimer Snerd. Ed Gardner, Archie of Duffy's Tavern, will make a guest appearance.

'D-DAY—1787'—A W-G-N SALUTE TO CONSTITUTION

G. O. P. Program Follows Air Theater Drama.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday will present "D-Day—1787" on the eve of Constitution day, which falls on Sunday, Sept. 17. A historically accurate portrayal of the circumstances attending the signing of the Constitution will highlight this presentation, which will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system before an audience of more than 4,000 persons in Medinah temple.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in a radio address, will review the events leading up to the framing of the Constitution and discuss some of the most significant parts of the document.

G. O. P. Program to Follow.

The full hour Theater of the Air program on the network will be followed by a half hour broadcast on W-G-N only, in which United States Sen. Brooks, Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for United States senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, will speak from Medinah temple. This 9 to 9:30 p. m. broadcast will be given under auspices of the Cook county Republican central committee. The Medinah temple audience will be composed of members of the central committee and their friends.

Music for "D-Day—1787" will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber. Jack La Frandre has written and will produce the Constitution day tribute which will feature a cast of distinguished Chicago actors. John Barclay will portray George Washington. The first President will be introduced as narrator for the historic drama which will recall the circumstances under which the Constitution was drafted and ratified.

Tell Bill of Rights Story.

The story of the adding of the Bill of Rights will be told also in dramatic form. The dramatic cast, besides Mr. Barclay, will include Jack Petruzzi as Patrick Henry, Sidney Ellstrom as James Madison, Hope Summers as Martha Washington, Arnold Robertson, Ray Suber, Eric Lord, Howard Hoffman, William Rath, Cliff Soubier, and Norman Gottschalk as various statesmen, and Laurette Fillbrandt as an evangelist. Tom Cafferty will serve as narrator; John Holbrook as announcer.

Commenting on plans for the celebration by Republicans on the eve of Constitution day, Gov. Green said:

"Constitution day always is one of the most important occasions of the year to the Republican party, which from its inception has fought to maintain the sacred freedoms of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This year's celebration is particularly significant because, while brave Americans are carrying its banner of freedom to victory thruout the world, we are called upon to defend it at home against communistic influences which seek to undermine and destroy it.

Held Issue of Year.

"Confronted as we are with the difficulties of war time transportation, it is particularly fitting that the program is to be broadcast so that all Illinoisans may share in it at their own firesides.

"The preservation of our free American system under the Constitution is the paramount Republican issue of 1944. I am sure that the Republicans of Illinois will be glad to join in this thrilling program and thereby dedicate themselves to victory in the campaign ahead of us."

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, is in charge of ticket distribution for the Constitution day observance.

On Family Hour

Patrice Munsel, 18 year old Metropolitan Opera soprano, is the new star of the Family Hour aired over WBBM-CBS at 4 p. m. Sundays.

BEVERLY HILLS STILL HOME TO CONG. BUSBEY

As Pioneer He Has Seen Area Grow.

Altho congressional duties keep him busy in Washington, Rep. Fred E. Busbey, his wife and 15 year old son, Charles, call home a small chocolate colored bungalow in Beverly Hills.

For 23 years, ever since the congressman, Republican nominee for reëlection in the 3d district, started his brokerage office in the Loop, he and his family have been at home at 9144 Hoyne av.

When Fred Busbey and his wife first moved to the southwest side community, they could look from their kitchen window across three blocks of vacant lots to the street car tracks on Western av. Now homes dot the wooded community and in back of the Busbey's back yard are the courts of the Beverly Hills Tennis club.

Gives Business to Employes.

A garden gate swings from the Busbey back yard onto the courts where young Charles spends warm days. Before his election to congress two years ago, Fred Busbey, 49, and his wife used to play lively matches in the summer evenings. That was when the congressman was just Red Busbey to his neighbors, active in the Beverly Hills Improvement association and the local American Legion post and one of the many business men who daily made the 22 minute trip on the Rock Island suburban train to and from the loop.

When elected to congress he turned over his office at 10 S. La Salle st., to his employes to run as they see fit with the profits divided among them.

Americanism His Hobby.

In Washington, the Busbeys reside in a small hotel apartment. While his parents are in the capital city, Charles boards at Morgan Park Military academy, where he is a student. He comes home afternoons to mow the lawn and weed the flowers. This summer he cared for some of the neighbors' yards, too, when they couldn't find help.

Rep. Busbey will tell you his only hobby is Americanism. He fought to keep R. O. T. C. in the schools in 1927 when he was state Legion director. In congress, as a member of the war veterans' legislative committee, he has worked on the so-called G. I. bill of rights.

Organized Junior Ball Leagues.

His reputation as a community singer has carried to Washington where he is one of the most popular of congressmen. He made a big hit with the press last winter when he "brought down the house" at one of the newsmen's banquets with his Pantomiming of musical records.

Back in the days before his flaming red hair became subdued with streaks of gray, he sang in the choir at First Presbyterian church and played semi-pro baseball. One of his accomplishments as a Legionnaire was the organizing of junior baseball leagues thruout the state in 1925 for sons of American Legion members.

One piece of luxury in the modest Busbey living room is a baby grand piano which young Charles plays.

Basement's a Playground.

Rep. Busbey and his son are pals in many ways. In the basement there's a dart board, riddled by intensive playing, a ping pong table, and an old fashioned upright phonograph.

The basement, whitewashed with gray paint, also has an old upright piano and a gas stove for entertaining large gatherings from the local St. Paul's Community church, Beverly Hills American Legion post and auxiliary, the dancing club, and other neighborhood groups.

Meals are served in the basement and people eat from a collapsible table which Red Busbey and his son made.

Charles' Room? It's Easy.

Upstairs it is easy to tell which of the two bedrooms belongs to Charles. A life preserver and school pennants hang over his bed and suspended from the ceiling are several dozen model airplanes which he made.

At home Mrs. Busbey is active in the Beverly Hills Legion auxiliary and the Hamilton Park Woman's club. During the campaign months she is staying home to handle her husband's campaign literature and mail. But during the last two years in Washington the congressman's wife has added more Red Cross hours to her credit than any other congressional wife there.

Wrote Campaign Song.

Newcomers to the political scene two years ago, the Busbeys have led a busy and eventful life since going to Washington. Mrs. Busbey has done all she can to help her husband's constituents and to further his political career. In 1942 she wrote a campaign song for him which was used at many political meetings and which is being used again for this campaign.

But home to the Busbeys is still that small brown bungalow which they purchased 23 years ago, a year after they were married and not long after Busbey had come back from the battlegrounds in France. They like the pictures of Charles which line the walls, showing his growth from babyhood to the teens, the kitchen which they remodeled just before the war, and the flowers in the back yard.

The Busbey's moved to Beverly Hills from Englewood. Both are graduates of Hyde Park High school. Mrs. Busbey was Miss Julia Humpf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Humpf, 6327 S. Sangamon st.

Wife and Son Help Fred Busbey Campaign for Re-Election

Rep. Fred E. Busbey of Beverly Hills, who was a newcomer to the political scene two years ago, is the Republican nominee for re-election to congress in the 3d district. His wife and son, Charles, a student at Morgan Park Military academy, are helping him direct his campaign from their home, 9144 S. Hoyne av., where the Busbeys have resided for 23 years. [TRIBUNE Photos by Julius Gantter.]

"Let Red lead us in song," people always say who know red headed Fred Busbey's voice. Rep. Busbey's reputation as a song leader at home and in American Legion circles has carried to Washington. Mrs. Busbey plays the violin and their son, Charles, is just starting lessons in popular music after several years of classical study.

Fred Busbey and Charles have had many a lively argument over the riddled dart board in the basement. They also play pingpong and some tennis together.

Evidence of Charles Busbey's fondness for planes and things nautical can be seen in his bedroom where model planes hang from strings, suspended from the ceiling, and nautical decorations make it a typical boys' room. Charles' ambition is to become a pilot.

DISTRICT LEGION WOMEN TO SEAT NEW OFFICIALS

The 4th district American Legion auxiliary will hold an installation of officers at 8:30 p. m. Thursday in the Darius-Girenas Memorial hall, 4416 S. Western av.

Officers to be installed are Mrs. Harold D. Baker, 3104 W. 55th st., director; Mrs. Julius Smeisner, Argo, alternate director; Mrs. John T. Zuris, 4459 S. Francisco av., secretary; Mrs. John J. Mr. and Mrs. John S. Knight, Midlothian, recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen Eloise, to Corp. Richard E. Berger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Berger, Riverside, formerly of Midlothian. Miss Knight is a graduate of Morgan Park High school and Corp. Berger attended Thornton Township High school and received a degree from the University of Illinois law school before entering the army air forces. He is stationed in England.

RUSSELL M. MURRAY CITED FOR HEROISM ON BLAZING TANKER

Seaman Russell M. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murray, 2445 Pershing rd., recently was awarded a citation for heroism after he boarded a damaged tanker to put out fires on the gasoline laden ship.

Russell M. Murray.

Murray and another Coast Guardsman volunteered for the dangerous task and were transferred from their cutter to the tanker despite a near gale and heavy seas. Assisted by members of the tanker crew, they opened and flooded damaged compartments despite the danger from gasoline and gasoline vapors.

Murray attended St. Agnes Elementary school and Kelly High school. On his last leave he became engaged to Miss Patricia Johann, 3542 S. Rockwell st. His twin brother, Corp. Robert Murray, is serving in the Southwest Pacific.

Van Buren Legion Group Will Install New Officers

STUDIES 13 YEARS IN NIGHT SCHOOL TO BE A LAWYER

Works for Same Firm for 26 Years.

A 13 year grind to get an education while earning a living was completed recently by Jerry J. Sereda, 5026 S. Hermitage av., when he was admitted to the Illinois state bar.

Jerry J. Sereda.

He was a grammar school graduate when he went to work as an office boy on his 14th birthday March 29, 1917. During the time he was working for his law degree, he was employed as a department supervisor by the Linde Air Products company. He has been with the company 26 years.

Decides to Study Law.

Several years after leaving school he became friendly with two medical students and an attorney. Sereda saw the advantage of education, and at 27 decided to become an attorney.

He enrolled in the Englewood evening school and for 13 years spent his Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings in class. On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday he studied at home. When he was graduated from evening high school he was second in a class of 109 and was awarded a half year scholarship to the Central Y. M. C. A. college.

After three and one-half years at the Y. M. C. A. college, he entered the Chicago Kent College of Law from which he received an LL. B. degree.

Tries to Join Army.

While in law college he took an examination to join the army, but was rejected because of a perforated ear drum. As a member of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, he held the office of justice for three years. He recently refused the office for the fourth year.

Now that he has his degree he is using most of his free time to help speed recovery of patients at the Wesley Memorial hospital where he is a member of the men's volunteer corps. He recently received a pin for his first 100 hours of work.

PORCUPINE CLUB TO HOLD ANNUAL ROUNDUP SUNDAY

The Porcupine club will hold its ninth annual roundup at Reusnow's grove, 127th st. and 56th av., next Sunday. Paul Sander and George W. Fleischmann, club president, will be co-chairman of the program.

Members of the committee are Frank Kniering, Art Isherwood, Harold Jasperson, Lawrence Kass, Charles Novack, Guy Phillips, Rudy von Meeteren, Matt Summers, Hub Stolnacke, Mike Vander Meer, Earl Maguson, Sam Cohen, Russell Collett, Jim Farrell, John A. Frawley, Charles Colley, and Charles Otto.

Game chairmen include William Fisher, Jullie Bristol, Johnny Krandon, Cullie Goetz, John Sonneveld, Harold Schmid, Les V. Beck, Hugo Holmberg, and Max Wilneff. Charity events chairmen are Frank Ernst, Brad Provis, Arthur Eckborg, Albert Isherwood, and Neil Myroup.

Women at War

Dorothy Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Hines, 9217 Winchester av., recently was graduated from the women army service pilots' training field at Sweetwater, Tex. She has been assigned to Gunter field, Montgomery, Ala.

Dorothy Hines.

Miss Hines was graduated from Morgan Park High school and Wilson Junior college, and attended George Williams college. She is a member of the Phi Kappa Gamma sorority and began flying a year and a half ago. She entered the WASP last January. Her sister, Miss Margery Hines, is a senior cadet nurse at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Five southwest side WAC privates have been transferred from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., to the Romulus, Mich., army air base. They are: Elizabeth M. Anders, daughter of Mrs. Anna Mae Anders, 6740 Peoria st.; Lillian J. Van Krum, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Krauchuvas, 7046 Throop st.; Mary T. Nelson, wife of Anton Nelson, 11716 Lowe av.; Charlotte H. Jukelich, wife of Pvt. Peter Jukelich, and granddaughter of Mrs. Charlotte J. Carpenter, 6619 S. Military Training After War, Review Stand Topic

The question of compulsory military training after the war will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N and Mutual at 11 a. m. today. The participants will be Dean J. Monroe Hughes and Prof. Leon G. Kranz, both of Northwestern, and Prof. Walter Johnson of the University of Chicago.

'Drama of the Frontier' on the Human Adventure

The Human Adventure broadcast will present "Drama of the Frontier" over W-G-N at 8:30 tomorrow night. The production will be based in part on research of Prof. Frederick Jackson Turner of the University of Wisconsin.

'D-DAY—1787'—A W-G-N SALUTE TO CONSTITUTION

G. O. P. Program Follows Air Theater Drama.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday will present "D-Day—1787" on the eve of Constitution day, which falls on Sunday, Sept. 17. A historically accurate portrayal of the circumstances attending the signing of the Constitution will highlight this presentation, which will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system before an audience of more than 4,000 persons in Medinah temple.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, in a radio address, will review the events leading up to the framing of the Constitution and discuss some of the most significant parts of the document.

G. O. P. Program to Follow.

The full hour Theater of the Air program on the network will be followed by a half hour broadcast on W-G-N only, in which United States Sen. Brooks, Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for United States senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, will speak from Medinah temple. This 9 to 9:30 p. m. broadcast will be given under auspices of the Cook county Republican central committee. The Medinah temple audience will be composed of members of the central committee and their friends.

Music for "D-Day—1787" will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber. Jack La Frandre has written and will produce the Constitution day tribute which will feature a cast of distinguished Chicago actors. John Barclay will portray George Washington. The first President will be introduced as narrator for the historic drama which will recall the circumstances under which the Constitution was drafted and ratified.

Tell Bill of Rights Story.

The story of the adding of the Bill of Rights will be told also in dramatic form. The dramatic cast, besides Mr. Barclay, will include Jack Petruzzi as Patrick Henry, Sidney Ellstrom as James Madison, Hope Summers as Martha Washington, Arnold Robertson, Ray Suber, Eric Lord, Howard Hoffman, William Rath, Cliff Soubier, and Norman Gottschalk as various statesmen, and Laurette Fillbrandt as an evangelist. Tom Cafferty will serve as narrator; John Holbrook as announcer.

Commenting on plans for the celebration by Republicans on the eve of Constitution day, Gov. Green said:

"Constitution day always is one of the most important occasions of the year to the Republican party, which from its inception has fought to maintain the sacred freedoms of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This year's celebration is particularly significant because, while brave Americans are carrying its banner of freedom to victory thruout the world, we are called upon to defend it at home against communistic influences which seek to undermine and destroy it.

Held Issue of Year.

"Confronted as we are with the difficulties of war time transportation, it is particularly fitting that the program is to be broadcast so that all Illinoisans may share in it at their own firesides.

"The preservation of our free American system under the Constitution is the paramount Republican issue of 1944. I am sure that the Republicans of Illinois will be glad to join in this thrilling program and thereby dedicate themselves to victory in the campaign ahead of us."

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, is in charge of ticket distribution for the Constitution day observance.

THE EIGHTH DEADLY SIN

Is it worse than the other seven?
What shall be done to women who commit it?

"I will never let you go," she said, and Harland knew that was a threat . . . how terrible he was to realize later.

WHAT shall be done with a beautiful woman who is so insanely jealous that she cannot bear to share any part of a man's love with anyone else or any thing? "Leave Her to Heaven" is the answer of Ben Ames Williams in his new best-selling book of that title. It is yours FREE if you join the Guild now—but first read about this crafty woman.

Ellen Berent lived to conquer, and stopped at nothing to win victory after victory over men, women and even children. She was uncanny in her analysis of human actions and reactions, and used every fair or foul means to bend them to her will. She lied, cheated, and deceived, artfully and skillfully, to attain her ends.

While her own heart beat wildly at her daring, she played upon the heartstrings of others with masterful technique. Her eyes, her lips, her expression gave no hint of her falseness. Diabolically, she even cast suspicion on the innocent victims of her mad jealousy.

Seldom before has such a character been created. Seldom before has such a novel been written. You will be kept in impatient suspense until the very end. You will find yourself completely captivated by Ellen, by Harland, by Danny the crippled younger brother, loving, hating, comforting each as though they were part of your own life.

"Leave Her to Heaven" is more than a great, stirring novel—it is a powerful exposition of the Eighth Deadly Sin. "Will hypnotize you until you have turned the last page" says the New York Times. "Will hold you from start to finish, with your spine crawling like an inch worm and invisible hands massaging your scalp" says the Boston Sunday Post. "Wholly credible portrait of an amoral woman" says the Chicago Sun. It is a story you will long remember and discuss—a story you will be thankful you did not miss. THE extraordinary savings which you make on new books alone make Literary Guild membership worth while. There are no dues or fees. You can add to your library many of the latest, most important books, both fiction and non-fiction, at a flat price of only $2.00 each, regardless of the higher price (from $2.50 to $4.00) at which these new books are sold at retail in the publishers' editions.

Save 50% on New Books

There is no obligation on your part to accept a book every month after you have joined. Your sole obligation as a Guild subscriber is to accept, at $2.00 each, four Guild selections in the course of a full year, and this means any four selected by you from the Guild list of more than a dozen best-seller selections. These selections are brand-new books, full-sized, cloth-bound new works by outstanding modern authors. Each month's selection is chosen by our Editorial Staff from proofs submitted by the publishers long in advance of their publication date. Every selection is printed at the same time as the publisher's edition which is on sale simultaneously at retail for not less than $2.50 and often as much as $4.00.

Bonus Books Free

The Guild manufactures for its subscribers such a large edition of the book chosen by the Editorial Staff that great savings in cost can be effected. The savings are passed on to subscribers in the form of lower prices, and in still another way. The Literary Guild gives each subscriber a FREE Bonus Book as soon as four Guild selections have been purchased at only $2.00 each. This FREE book is always a popular new title, selling at retail for $2.50 to $4.00. The cash savings plus bonus books given during the year save you at least 50% on the selections you decide to purchase.

Magazine "WINGS" Free

As a Guild member you receive FREE each month the famous Guild magazine, "Wings," which contains illustrated articles about the current selection and its author and includes a special contribution by the author. "Wings" is sent to subscribers one month in advance so that it describes the book selected for the following month. If you feel you do not want to examine the book, merely return the accompanying form, which notifies the Guild not to send it when the time comes. On the other hand, if the selection sounds interesting, you let it come automatically for your approval. "Wings" is also an invaluable guide to all important current reading, for each month it keeps you informed of new publications by reviewing about 30 other new books.

Send No Money—Just Mail Coupon

Guild service will start and your free copy of "Leave Her to Heaven" will be sent you immediately upon acceptance of your free membership. Guild membership is your answer to "What's good to read?" and your guarantee of purchasing only NEW best sellers of your choice at a saving of at least 50%.

"That's a Laff" Coming to Civic Theater Sept. 24

Ballet Lists Program of 15 Performances

By Edward Barry.

Now that people have discovered that going a couple of hundred yards west of the loop for their entertainment is no more fearful a chore than going the same distance south, the comfortable and pleasant Civic theater on Wacker dr. has come into its own. The place is buzzing with plans for the 1944-'45 season and some of these have reached the stage where they can definitely be announced.

The season will open two weeks from tonight with a new comedy, "That's a Laff," written by Pamela Edmunds and based on a play by Don Mullaley. The only member of the cast so far revealed is the movie actress, Shirley Deane.

Veloz and Yolanda, the dancers who awed patrons of the Empire room of the Palmer House during much of the 1930s, are booked into the Civic theater for an as yet unannounced date in November. They will be seen in a revue of their own called "Dansation."

Plans for the winter are not definite, altho it has been revealed that Katharine Cornell may revive "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" in time for the holiday trade at the Civic theater if the actress returns from Europe in time.

Miss Deane, who will make her first important stage appearance in Chicago at the premiere of "That's a Laff," has been five years in Hollywood. She played in the Jones family and the Charlie Chan series as well as a host of other movies. She also has made many radio appearances.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo has released the program of its 15 performance engagement at the Civic Opera house starting Sept. 28.

Veloz and Yolanda

Thursday evening, Sept. 28—"Sylphides," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "Gaite Parisienne."

Friday evening, Sept. 29—"Dance Concerto," "Rodeo," "Bluebird," "Red Poppy."

Saturday afternoon, Sept. 30—"Chopin Concerto," "The Nutcracker," "Rodeo."

Saturday evening, Sept. 30 — "Swan Lake," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "Scheherazade."

Sunday afternoon, Oct. 1—"The Snow Maiden," "The Cuckolds' Fair," "Bluebird," "Gaite Parisienne."

Sunday evening, Oct. 1—"Serenade," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "The Cuckolds' Fair," "Rodeo."

Monday evening, Oct. 2—"Dance Concerto," "Rodeo," "Bluebird," "Gaite Parisienne."

Tuesday evening, Oct. 3—"Dance Concerto," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "The Red Poppy."

Wednesday evening, Oct. 4 — "Snow Maiden," "Ballet Imperial," "Scheherazade."

Thursday evening, Oct. 5—"Serenade," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "Rodeo," "Gaite Parisienne."

Friday evening, Oct. 6—"Dance Concerto," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "Ballet Imperial."

Saturday afternoon, Oct. 7—"Serenade," "Coppelia," "The Red Poppy."

Saturday evening, Oct. 7—"The Nutcracker," "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "Rodeo."

Sunday afternoon, Oct. 8—"Sylphides," "Ballet Imperial," "The Red Poppy."

Sunday evening, Oct. 8—"Dance Concerto," "Scheherazade," "Gaite Parisienne."

It will be noted that all three of the locally new George Balanchine ballets, which are presented during this engagement to celebrate the famed choreographer's silver anniversary in ballet, are to be danced on a single program on Friday evening, Oct. 6. The program is billed as a Balanchine festival. The great majority of the other programs include one of the new works.

By the way, "Ballet Imperial" is the original and now the restored name of the work which was announced earlier as "Second Concerto." Apparently there were too many concertos on the ballet programs. "Ballet Imperial" is danced to Tschaikowsky's second piano concerto [not the familiar one]. Décor is by Doubojinsky. The piece represents traditional Russian ballet as fostered at the great Maryinsky theater in St. Petersburg.

"Dance Concerto" uses Stravinsky's "Dances Concertantes." Décor is by Berman. "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" follows Molière's play as far as story is concerned. Music is by Richard Strauss and décor by Berman.

Alexandra Danilova and Frederic Franklin head the troupe. Among the other important members are Nathalie Krassovska and Dorothy Etheridge. The new conductor is Emanuel Balaban, a Russian-American who once was assistant conductor at the Dresden opera and who more recently conducted the Balanchine ballet orchestra on a South American tour.

Balanchine, who married the dancer Zorina and who is a great figure on Broadway as well as in ballet, came to America in 1933 at the request of Lincoln Kirstein. "Cotillon," "Serenade," and "Poker Game" are among the best remembered of the many ballets which he has created. A native of St. Petersburg and a graduate of the Imperial Ballet school there, he is thoroly conversant with the Russian tradition but has been alert for every new idea which would widen the expressive range of ballet.

Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard" already has been announced for the Blackstone for Oct. 2. It will be presented by Carly Wharton and Margaret Webster with a cast headed by Eva Le Gallienne and Joseph Schildkraut. Other players are John Bleifer, Carmen Matthews, Samuel Goldenburg, A. P. Kaye, Leona Roberts, Lois Hall, Hugh Franklin, Fiona O'Shiel, Horace Sinclair, Kenneth Tobey, and Anne Jackson. The production will use a new translation by Irina Skariatina and Miss Le Gallienne. "The Cherry Orchard's" engagement will be the first of the subscription series of the Theater Guild and American Theater society.

It was learned this week that the Michael Todd revue, "Star and Garter," would come to the Blackstone theater during the week of Nov. 12. Willie Howard and Lois Andrews will be featured. The management of the Blackstone revealed that a revival of "The Student Prince" is booked into the house for three weeks starting Oct. 22.

THE HIDDEN TOWN

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

(Copyright: 1944: By F. R. Bechdolt.)

INSTALMENT III.

NELL was shaking her head. He smiled confidently and went on: "That's why I wanted to talk it over here, where it happened. It's just possible that old associations may bring back old memories, and that some of those memories may be important. As I said, there are one or two interesting possibilities which I ran across."

He reached into his coat pocket and brought forth a silver cigaret case. He opened it and rose from his squeaky arm chair.

"Smoke?" he asked. She shook her head again.

"Thanks, not now." Ordinarily she would have taken that cigaret. But—somehow or other she could not trace the reason at first—she found herself on the defensive again. Then she realized that this was due to a change that had come over him. A moment before he had been brisk and cold and sharp, altogether professional. And now that he was being sociable he wasn't likeable at all. She was thinking.

"Next thing I know, he'll be asking me to go to dinner with him tonight." He took a cigaret from the case and lighted it; he settled back in his chair and she was a little vexed at herself for her refusal.

"All right," he said. "You've had a long drive and you're tired. The house has been gotten ready. It's been kept in shape ever since your father left, as you know, for you've had to pay the monthly bills. I'm going to give you the key and you're going over there and get a little rest before dinner. The woman who does the work isn't a good cook and I think you'll find it pleasanter to eat at the tavern. It's on the plaza and it's handy, and even if it is old fashioned, the cooking is excellent. But before you go I want you to tell me just how much you remember of the days when you were a little girl here, things about your father, and particularly if there's anything about that evening."

"I can tell you," she said, "in half a dozen words. There was the smell of tar weed. And there was the calling of the wild doves. And there was a wide hallway where the light was always dim until you opened the front door." Her face was tight and her hands were gripping the arms of the wicker seated chair. Her voice was toneless. "Until this afternoon the hallway was the only one. But this afternoon—it wasn't until I'd left the main highway and was driving through the hills—I noticed the odor. I'd smelled it a good many times before; this time, however, it was exactly as if I were a little girl again. And it was the same way with the doves. The moment I heard them. That's all. That's absolutely all. You see I was only four years old when my father took me away, and until the day he died, which was eight years ago, he never spoke of Escondido to me."

She drew a long breath as she remembered the doctor's promise that, no matter what came of this investigation, it was going to bring her peace of mind. Her hands relaxed and she let them fall upon her lap. She said:

"I wish you'd tell me what you know." But instead of doing so he asked her another question."

"Your father never said anything about the fact that he'd been acasked her another question.

"It seems curious, the way I learned that," she said. "For he never said a word to me about it. I got it—I can't recall just when the first knowledge began to come to me—but it was away back while I was still a little girl. My mother had died before we left Escondido, you know. There were just the two of us in San Francisco. And I began to realize that there was something on his mind. I suppose I must have heard him mention it to others or others to him. I was fourteen years old when he died, and when I went over some of his old papers with his lawyer in the city, there was a letter from your father among them. It spoke of the trial and it said that there was no new evidence; and the city lawyer told me that my father had been accused of killing a man named Jim Little. I must have known more than I realized for that didn't seem to surprise me the way it should have. The lawyer was handling the estate and he kept on paying the monthly bills which your father sent for the caretaker, and I learned that the house was being kept just as it had been, that my father hadn't taken anything with him except some personal possessions. It has occured to me that he must have always been hoping to come back here some day—that perhaps—"

She shook her head. "That's all."

"How come," he asked, "that you made up your mind to visit Escondido just now?"

She didn't like to tell him; it was not as it had been when she had sat in the office of the doctor, there wasn't the same feeling at all. But she hardened herself and she went through the ordeal. She made it brief as possible.

"I see," he said. It was evident that he didn't see, that he was entirely without that sympathy which makes one understand another's suffering.

"There is," he went on briskly, "one mighty promising development already. I mean that smell of tar weed and the doves. Old associations and old memories. Just as I told you. That means that maybe there'll be something more, and if there is, it may fit in."

"And now," she insisted, "tell me what you know."

"I'll tell you what I know," he nodded. "But that's all for the present. What I think about it—that's different. Better I keep that part of it to myself for a while. I don't want to start making suggestions. I want them to come from the things you see and hear; things like that smell of tar weed and the wild doves calling."

The small paned windows of the front room where they were sitting looked out on the main street of Escondido. The dust was thick on the dark leaves of the locust trees which lined the board sidewalks. A dark skinned vaquero was dismounting from a sweaty bay horse in front of the town's one and only drinking place, wherein there were neither stools nor women. The only sound out there was the aggravating stutter of a motor which wasn't hitting on more than two cylinders. And this ceased almost immediately.

Anastasia Rodriguez climbed out of his dilapidated old car. He was carrying something beneath his green coat, pressing it tightly to his body with one hand. He was day dreaming and the dream was pleasant. He was not seeing the wide street nor the two rows of ancient adobe buildings beside it. His fancy had taken him down into the long valley where the afternoon wind was forever blowing. He was standing behind the counter of a sandwich wagon on a narrow side street in Queensburg. On the roof of this wagon there was a yellow sign which bore his name in red letters. Of that day-dream the wagon was an actuality and so was the yellow sign with the red letters; but the name which those letters spelled was not Anastasia's. Between him and that final consummation there lay a little matter of five hundred dollars. In other days that matter had not been small. It had been in fact insurmountable, but it was different this afternoon. He hugged the object beneath his coat more tightly and he walked down the sidewalk.

Of all these things the pair in the office were unaware, for Nell was seated with her back to the front windows and Eddie Morton was too intent in his regard of her to notice what was going on outside.

"There were three men in Escondido," Eddie Morton said, "Dick Huntoon, your father, Jim Little, and John Yardley. Yardley's the only one of them who is living now. He owns the bank. They call him the Alcalde, for he's the big boss here. At the time when this happened those three were partners in the bank. Your father had furnished most of the money and Yardley was the real business man of the concern. Little looked after cattle loans, which was what you might call the main stock in trade before the last World war. That's the way things stood on the night when the killing took place.

"Now, according to the testimony in the case—and there isn't any dispute concerning the evidence either, which is unusual in murder cases—here's what was known to happen. On the night in question Little came to your father's house and the two of them were talking in the room which your father called the library. According to your father the talk was concerning business at the bank. There was a shortage in one of the accounts. A borrower had repaid several thousand dollars on a cattle loan and the amount had not been entered on the books. Yardley did the bookkeeping. His evidence was to the effect that the money had not been turned over to him. In other words, according to his statement, it looked as if Little had held out the money for it was to him that the stockman had paid it.

"Well, then, that's what the two men were talking about when the shot was fired and Little dropped dead with a forty-five slug thru his heart. Just those two together mind you, and no witnesses."

"What did my father say?" Nell asked.

"I was coming to that," Morton told her. "And I'm warning you that his testimony sounded strange. But that doesn't necessarily mean it wasn't true. Your father said that the library door was open, that he was standing in the doorway with his back to the hall and he was talking to Little; that he saw Little's face change suddenly and Little started to speak. It was then—so your father stated—that the shot was fired. It was, he swore, fired from behind him. He lost a few moments before he looked around to see who had fired it; he said he was bewildered, that he was deafened by the report close to his ear and partly stunned. Then he realized that Little was dead and ran out into the hall, and after that to the front door. There wasn't any one in sight.

"But the most damaging evidence in the case was the weapon. It was your father's revolver and it was discovered by the deputy sheriff the next morning in a room across the hallway from the library; it had been stuffed behind the seat of a davenport.

"John Yardley gave his testimony all in your father's favor. According to him there had been no quarrel between the two men that he knew of, in spite of the matter of the missing money. That didn't set well with the jury. It didn't sound natural under the circumstances, and I think, if it hadn't been for it, they'd have given a verdict of acquittal. You see, they thought Yardley was trying to cover up for your father. And so they disagreed and the court dismissed the case a few months later.

"Yardley, I forgot to tell you, was in his own house across the plaza when the shot was fired. He said on the stand that he heard it and your father came to him a few moments afterward with the story of what had happened."

"That's all?" Nell asked.

"There was," Morton said, "a missing witness. He, too, had heard the shot. He was a middle aged man, a prospector, and he was camped in the plaza with a couple of burros on his way to a quicksilver claim back in the hills. He had been subpenaed, and he didn't turn up at the trial, but his absence might not mean anything, for those fellows are always wandering all over the country, and for all any one knows he might have stampeded with some mining rush. There was one over in southwestern Nevada at the time."

"And the things you discovered in those papers?" Nell asked. He did not reply. She was watching his face and she did not hear the step on the gallery outside, but he had heard it and he was on his feet. He went to the door and opened it a few inches. He said:

"Next room. Go in there and wait." He returned to the desk but he did not seat himself. He opened one of the top drawers and brought out an old brass key. He handed it to her.

"Those things you speak of are mere surmises," he said. "They'll have to wait. I want you to form your own impressions before we talk them over." He gave her directions to the House of the Four Winds, and then, as she was about to depart—and as if it had escaped his mind up to now—

"I'll want a retainer of course, before I go into this."

She hadn't looked for that, but she took it in her stride. She seated herself before the desk once more, and while she was rumaging in her bag for her checkbook she asked him the amount. And when he said five hundred dollars his voice sounded as casual as if the money didn't mean his office furniture and his reputation in the bargain. Then she went on out, and down the stairs, and he went to the door of the rear room where Anastasia Rodriguez was awaiting him.

Five hundred dollars in his pocket. And the prospect of blackmailing John Yardley for at least a thousand. And now, by way of good measure, a new client here in the back room.

For there was, Eddie had noticed, something furtive in the demeanor of this caller whom he was about to see. He had grown accustomed to paisanos, and in particular to those who went for silk shirts and wide, stuffed trousers and loud colored coats. Some car owner hereabouts, he told himself, had traced a missing tire, and was about to swear out a complaint; or perhaps this visit was the sequel to a cutting scrape. In any event, it meant ready money, for the only lawyers who didn't exact a cash down retainer from such clients as Anastasia Rodriguez, were those whom the court appointed. Eddie was smiling when he laid his hand on the door knob, but the smile froze when he entered the room.

It was furnished for a bedroom and Anastasia Rodriguez was standing in the middle of the floor. He was holding a nickel hub cap in one hand. Eddie's face went white and he sucked in his breath with a sharp sound, as he recognized that saucer-shaped disk of white metal.

"Me." Anastasia Rodriguez said, and his voice was as gentle as if he were cadging the lawyer for the price of a drink—"I was een my car at the service station, an' I was the only wan who seen yo' w'en yo' heet heem."

Eddie Morton said, "Give me that hub cap." Anastasia bowed.

"Sure t'ing. I geev yo'—for five hundred dollar."

He never knew how close he was to death in that moment. There was an old Indian metate, one of those crude rock mortars in which natives used to crush acorns, and it was standing in a corner within arm's reach of Eddie Morton. A man could have felled an ox with the thick granite pestle. The lawyer's fingers closed and opened.

"Listen, hombre," he said. "I haven't that much money with me, and if I had——"

"Yo' can go get it," Anastasia Rodriguez said. "Bicuz, eef yo' do not get it I weel take thees to the Alcalde an' tell what I saw thees afternoon."

It is a common figure of speech to say that a man shivers when he is confronted with the prospect of complete undoing. It is a fact that Eddie felt as if a cold hand was passing up his spine. Yet his hesitation was sufficiently impressive, and when he said: "Well, maybe I could get it"—his voice was composed.

Anastasia smiled and nodded. And Eddie's voice took on a sharper note.

"You can't come here, you know."

"Hokay weeth me." Anastasia shrugged his shoulder, "I don't care we're I com, jos so yo' breeng five hondred bucks. Maybe yo' can see me tonight at the olive grove."

Whereupon he departed in blissful ignorance of the fact that, as the hackneyed saying has it, he had signed his own death warrant.

Eddie stood there considering the various angles of the situation. They always added up to the same three alternatives:

He paid Anastasia Rodriguez five hundred dollars. He lost his office furniture and law books. He went to jail on the drunken driving charge. He lost Nell as a client as soon as the facts came out. He didn't get a thin dime out of Yardley. His former wife exposed him to the local draft board with the result that he faced a federal prison term as soon as he got out of jail.

Or, he didn't pay Anastasia Rodriguez five hundred dollars. Whereupon he was convicted on a charge of hit and run with the death of the service station man involved. Inevitably the district attorney would introduce the record of that previous conviction for drunken driving. Even if Eddie had the money for a high powered lawyer, he couldn't square that case or win probation from the most complaisant judge. Which meant from one to seven years in San Quentin penitentiary. And, of course, the loss of his client, the abandonment of his blackmail scheme, the draft board prosecution.

The third alternative was invitingly simple. Eliminate Anastasia Rodriguez tonight.

At just about the time when death visited the service station on the main highway, John Yardley left his little old bank and set forth to summon death to Escondido.

"The deer hunters," he told the faded woman who looked after the books and handled business during his frequent absences, "are worse than ever this year. I've got to hire a rider if I don't want to have my feed burned out, and I'm going to post that land in the old Spanish grant this afternoon."

He went into a back room beside the vault where he stored various odds and ends and came out with several little square signs under his arm; their black lettering stood forth against a white background; it announced: NO TRESPASSING, and beneath this, UNDER PENALTY OF THE LAW. With him, the posting of these signs was a yearly ritual, for small boys and elder vandals who wanted to keep up their marksmanship used them for targets during the off season. So his departure today was in the nature of routine and she thought nothing of it.

What Has Gone Before

Nell Huntoon writes to Edward Morton Jr. to reopen her home in Escondido. She is returning after 18 years to review the charge of murder against her father, Richard Huntoon. Eddie's father had defended her father. Eddie is in financial difficulties. Scanning the old Huntoon papers, he decides if he can incriminate Yardley it will mean ready money. Realizing preparations are being made for Nell Huntoon's return, Yardley has a fear the past may catch up with him. Banker Yardley is known as the Alcalde. From a herder Yardley learns anthrax is prevalent in the hills. He forces Ursula to furnish him wool from a dead sheep. At a service station where Nell had stopped the owner is killed by a hit-run driver while crossing the road. Anastasia Rodrigues, a Mexican witness, picks up something from the road and puts it in his car. Nell calls on Eddie Morton.

How Never to be Tired

If You Feel Fagged Out Day After Day . . . If "Nervous Exhaustion" Is Running You Ragged . . . If You Haven't the Energy to Really ENJOY Your Work, Your Home, Your Friends . . . Then Let This Wonder-Working Book Give You ENERGY TO BURN in an Amazingly Short Time!

YOU weren't born to drag yourself through life—constantly tired, too rundown to enjoy work or play, feeling only half alive!

INSTEAD of that—you were born with more energy than you ever dreamed you possess! And you still have it—ENERGY to BURN—waiting right now for you to use freely and vigorously, just as soon as you know how to release it!

A New, PROVED Discovery

In this remarkable book, HOW NEVER TO BE TIRED, by M. Beynon Ray, a great medical discovery is revealed to the layman for the first time by the doctors themselves. This book explains the cause of your fatigue and how to cure it. How to overcome destructive emotions and replace them with vitalizing emotions—interest, self-confidence, ambition, a passion for work, a better philosophy of life.

The Master Plan given in this book is adapted to your life. It is packed with hundreds of exciting suggestions from specialists, for making your life richer, fuller, happier, and thus releasing more energy to do things.

Only those who know how to stimulate those abundant energies we all possess can live with all the life that is in them and reach the goals they have set for themselves. Most people who lack energy are totally ignorant of the real causes of their fatigue. They have been accustomed to thinking that it is brought about by physical and mental overwork. This is not so, and this book shows why.

This Formula Produces Quick Results

Probably one of the most valuable features of HOW NEVER TO BE TIRED is the practical Six-Point Plan it gives you for stimulating energy. This unique plan is so simple that anyone can easily follow it.

In addition, you are shown how to organize all your faculties to lead a well-balanced life. The plan is so flexible that it can be followed by the busiest executive and the most harried wife.

Once you start using the plan you will no longer be bothered by THAT TIRED FEELING. New energy will start to flow through you, enabling you to tackle numerous tasks with ease and confidence. And what's more, you will really start to enjoy life.

You, too, may become one of those enviable, almost incredible people of whom others say, "He's a Human Dynamo! He's bound to Succeed!" With boundless Energy and Vitality at your command, you can easily shape your life to get practically anything you want.

These Are Just a Few of the People Who Call This Book "A MIRACLE!"

Dale Carnegie Says:

"A splendid book. I derived real practical help from it, and I can recommend it with enthusiasm. Every tired or nervous man or woman ought to read it."
—DALE CARNEGIE.

"Generates Pep"

"Exceedingly stimulating. It actually generates 'pep.' This book is itself a dynamo, capable of charging people with enthusiasm and greater capacity for living richly."—DR. IRA S. WILE, Formerly Commissioner of Education in the City of New York.

'Cut Out Energy Leaks'

"As timely a tonic for what ails most of us as I have ever seen. Cut out those energy leaks. This book will tell you how."
—ELSIE ROBINSON, in the New York Journal-American.

Gets More Out of Life

"A most astonishingly thorough job. I learned a lot from this volume as to conserving energy and making it more effective. With all my heart I recommend the book to anyone who feels he isn't getting the most out of life."—CHANNING POLLOCK, writer, playwright, lecturer.

His Company Bought 88 Copies

"Sound advice . . . anyone, whether engaged in sales work or otherwise, could profit by reading it." — G. R. FENNER, Manager Columbus Zone 521, The Pure Oil Company. (This company distributed 88 copies of the book to their sales force, and district managers in the Ohio area.)

WHAT THESE 332 ENERGY-BUILDING PAGES WILL DO FOR YOU:

This book is for the person who sometimes feels more exhausted in the morning than when he went to bed the night before . . . who feels "too tired," after even a moderate day's work, to go dancing, or visiting, or even to sit quietly through a movie . . . who feels life slipping through his fingers because he lacks the energy to play games whole-heartedly with his own children, or really enjoy sports with his friends and neighbors.

HOW NEVER TO BE TIRED, the first and only book of its kind ever written, gives you a definite, concise SIX-POINT plan to end, once and for all, that constant feeling of fatigue and nervous exhaustion.

Seven "Personal Enemies" of Energy are making you tired, holding you back, shutting you out from the very things you most desire. They are Boredom—Worry—Fear—Indecision—Inferiority Complex — Over-Emotionalism—Lack of Courage. This book shows you how to conquer them.

It shows you how to seal up the energy leaks that have been draining you of your vitality—and tells you how to refill and keep filled your own vast hidden reservoirs of energy.

Among the hundreds of things that HOW NEVER TO BE TIRED does for you, and shows you how to do, are:

How You Can Overcome Devitalizing Emotions

How to Draw on Your Potential Energies

How to Vanquish Boredom and Eliminate Worry

These, and countless others, are explained to you clearly. Not only are you given the easily-applied principles for accomplishing them, but many actual case histories are given to illustrate what others have done — what causes underlay their tiredness or nervous fatigue, and how these principles were used successfully.

This book is for EVERYONE—man or woman, successful or "marking time," EVERYONE whose life is being only half-lived because of everlasting tiredness. This book was written for YOU!

U. of Chicago Announces New Composers Series on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

WHEN Ruth Gordon was last in town, with Katharine Cornell in "The Three Sisters," she either was the best person in the play or the worst, depending on the point of view. I wouldn't argue about it, having observed her being both. There was the night she gave the performance that twanged as resonantly in the Chekhov air as the mysterious sound heard in "The Cherry Orchard," and there was the night she gave such an exhibition of overacting the whole subtle structure of the play was thrown off balance. But she isn't commonplace and she isn't dull. You don't ignore Ruth Gordon.

Ruth Gordon An Actress Who Is Neither Dull Nor Commonplace

Miss Gordon has a mind of her own, and you could end that sentence after the fifth word and still be right. Born bow-legged, she refused to count on long dresses staying in style. Back in 1921, right here in Chicago, she had both legs broken in two places, having persuaded a well known surgeon an actress simply couldn't be so legicapped, and when they took off the highly publicized casts, she was happy to find her underpinnings "as straight as Marilyn Miller's." That comparison not only dates the improvement, but helps explain why in her new play, "Over Twenty-One," Miss Gordon is a devotee of the short nightgown.

"Over Twenty-One" is itself a triumph of mind over inertia. When the playwrights went to war, in one way or another, many a star was left high and dry without a word to say on a stage. Cornell took refuge in revival and an escape play about the last war, Helen Hayes ghost wrote "Uncle Tom," Gertie Lawrence tried the radio, Ina Claire just kept on "resting," and the Lunts skipped to London. But Ruth Gordon, who had been turning out salty autobiographical sketches for some of the better magazines, sat down and wrote her own play. Max Gordon [no relation, her nonstage name was Jones] liked it, and so did George Kaufman. The three of them made it a hit in New York and they hope the same for Chicago. Why not? It's no masterpiece, but it is funny, fresh, and topical, and Chicago is desperately in need of some good new shoes. We've worn the ones we have right down to the nub.

Ruth Gordon.
[Wilding Photo.]

Ever So Good (or Gay).

If "Over Twenty-One" lasts at the Harris thru Dec. 21, Miss Gordon will be celebrating the 29th anniversary of her career as an actress. It was Dec. 21, 1915, at New York's Empire theater, that she made her début as Nibs with Maude Adams in "Peter Pan." Nibs, you remember, is one of the lost boys in the wood, and when one of them says he is going to give his imaginary mother a checkbook for Christmas, Nibs inquires, "What's a check?" Out of this dubious début, Miss Gordon acquired a line in Alexander Woollcott's notice, variously reported as "Ruth Gordon was ever so good [or gay] as Nibs." Legend has it the grateful girl immediately wrote him a letter, spelling his name wrong, which was no novelty to the Town Crier, then or later.

Some of Miss Gordon's friends ascribe her foray into playwriting to New England thrift which refused to let her waste even her own time. A Wollaston, Mass., girl, she was stagestruck at the sight of Hazel Dawn in "The Pink Lady," and her seagoing father gave her the hard earned cash to try her luck at acting. The American Academy of Dramatic Arts, which must blush at the recollection, dismissed her "for showing so little promise," and there wasn't much money left when she was ever so good [or gay] as Nibs. But she was started, and nothing has stopped her since.

Baby Talk and a Fuzzy Dog.

It was Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" that made her famous as Lola Pratt, the baby talk girl who clutched the fuzzy dog, "Flopit." Nor did "Clarence," which boosted both Alfred Lunt and Helen Hayes, do her any harm. She married Gregory Kelly, the shy, diffident charmer who was so beguiling a comedian until his early death—remember him in "The Butter and Egg Man"?—and they had a stock company in Indianapolis, and also appeared with Stuart Walker's Portmanteau theater.

In later years, Miss Gordon acted almost one of everything. She was in Maxwell Anderson's "Saturday's Children," with Humphrey Bogart, in "Serena Blandish," and "Three Cornered Moon." She played in "Ethan Frome" with Raymond Massey and Pauline Lord, and was Mary Todd to Massey's Lincoln in the screen version of Sherwood's play. She played Mrs. Pinchwife in "The Country Wife" with stylized glee in New York and London, and she was Nora in Jed Harris' revival of "A Doll's House," the one with Dennis King, Sam Jaffe, and Walter Slezak that opened a Central City, Colo., festival and played Chicago on its way east. She was Ruby Bates, the girl in the Scottsboro case, in "They Shall Not Die," and she was Natasha, the encroaching sister-in-law of "The Three Sisters."

Career Wife in Present Role.

In "Over Twenty-One" she plays a career wife who adores her husband, a kind of wisecracking guardian angel attendant upon the miracle that maneuvers him thru officer's candidate school. Actually, she married Lt. Garson Kanin, Hollywood director, when he was an army private, but there is no factual indication that Lt. Kanin had any such difficulties on his way to silver bars. They got married in Washington two years ago in December, with "The Three Sisters" company as witnesses. No one knew then that Miss Gordon was going to write a play, Katharine Cornell take "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" overseas for soldiers, Judith Anderson play "Macbeth" in Hawaii with Maurice Evans, or Alexander Knox, "the little baron," win sudden fame by playing Woodrow Wilson in the movies.

But life on the stage is no more predictable than anywhere else, and Miss Gordon probably takes it as it comes. A slender actress with a wide mouth, brilliant eyes, and an acrid voice that gives off indescribable splinters of sound, she is having herself a time with all the best lines in her own play, and gowns by Mainbocher—a rhyme many another star would like to emulate. But she isn't resting on laurels, nice as they are to rest on. She's writing another play called "Journey to a Star." Probably as a New England hedge against deflation.

First Concert on Nov. 3 in Mandel Hall

By Albert Goldberg.

After the conservative, not to say reactionary plans of other Chicago musical institutions for the coming season, announcement of the new series of Composers Concerts sponsored by the University of Chicago under the direction of Remi Gassmann comes with a touch of wild but welcome daring. Following the success of the series last season, when every concert played to a capacity audience at Mandel hall, the number has been increased to five, and productions of contemporary operas and ballets have been added to the appearances of distinguished composers presenting their own music.

The first concert will be on Nov. 3, and will feature the first Chicago performance of Igor Stravinsky's "Dumbarton Oaks" concerto for chamber orchestra. The work was written in 1937-'38 as a commission from the owners of the estate, Dumbarton Oaks, near Washington, D. C., where preliminary peace conference discussions are being held. Hans Lange will direct an orchestra chosen from the first desk men of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. On the same program Bela Bartok's Sonata for two pianos and percussion will be performed, with Rudolph Ganz as conductor-pianist of the ensemble.

Signal honor will be paid to the pioneer modernist, Arnold Schoenberg, when an entire program of his works will be performed on Dec. 8, in observance of the composer's 70th birthday, which occurs on Sept. 13. The highlight of the program will be the premiere of the original version of Schoenberg's setting of Byron's "Ode to Napoleon," for speaking voice, piano, and string quartet. An amplified version, employing full string orchestra, was later made by the composer, and in this form the work will be played by the New York Philharmonic Symphony under Artur Rodzinski for the first time in November. The original version will be played here by the Pro Arte String quartet and Edward Steuermann, pianist, with Mack Harrell of the Metropolitan Opera delivering the spoken text, as he will in the New York performances. Byron's poem is of contemporaneous interest as an expression of the civilized world's contempt for tyranny and dictatorship. The remainder of the Schoenberg program will be devoted to "Verklärte Nacht" in its original sextet form and one of the string quartets. The composer will be heard in a prefatory lecture at Mandel hall on Dec. 6.

Edith Mason.

Arnold Schoenberg.

Edith Mason, famous soprano of the golden days of the Chicago Opera company, will emerge from retirement to enter a new field as the artistic director of two modern chamber operas, to be presented on Feb. 16. Darius Milhaud's three act chamber opera, "Les Malheurs d'Orphée" will be given its first American performance on this occasion. Paired with it will be Paul Hindemith's one act oddity, "Hin und Zurück," in which the second half of the opera completely reverses the action of the first part.

String quartets by contemporary composers will be played by the Pro Arte quartet on the program of March 23, with Alexander Tansman, composer-pianist, as soloist. Three days later, on March 26, Mr. Tansman will deliver a lecture in Mandel hall.

The final concert on April 20 will be devoted to the presentation of several contemporary ballets, now being prepared under the direction of the well known Chicago dancer and choreographer, Ruth Page. One of the new ballets will be by Remi Gassmann, American composer and University of Chicago faculty member, who has chosen ideas from the works of Edgar Allan Poe as his subject matter.

Several of the Composers Concerts probably will be repeated this year at other institutions. The University of Wisconsin has requested this cooperation, and in a lend lease arrangement has offered to share the services of the Pro Arte quartet, now resident on the Wisconsin campus. Some of the programs also will be repeated at York High school, Elmhurst, under the sponsorship of the Elmhurst college school of music.

All concerts will be held on Friday nights at 8:30 in Mandel hall. Season tickets sell for $5.40, including government tax, and go on sale at the university information office, 5757 Ellis av., on Friday.

BALLET STARS

Alexandra Danilova and Frederic Franklin will be two of the starring dancers when the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo opens a season of 15 performances at the Civic Opera house on Thursday evening, Sept. 28.

Doctor Explains How to Grow Old with Enjoyment

"YOU ARE YOUNGER THAN YOU THINK," by Martin Gumpert, M. D. [Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Edward Barry.

Since everybody hopes to be old some day, Dr. Gumpert's book can be read with pleasure and profit by a person of any age.

With pleasure because the author attacks the beliefs that 70 years is man's proper span and that physical misery and failing mental powers are the almost inevitable concomitants of age. With profit because he gives a few rules for long life and happiness which recommend themselves because of their conservatism and common sense.

Not only is the three score years and ten formula without any basis in nature, but it is actually harmful in its psychological effect, Dr. Gumpert asserts. If people did not think that they were supposed to die or become senile at 70, he implies, they might live on and enjoy two or three more useful and contented decades. Concerning the legend of the failing mental powers of the old, Dr. Gumpert says that after the mental peak at 60 is reached the decline is so slow that the average mental standard at 80 is equal to that of 35.

Career Man Tells of His Experiences

"ENVOY UNEXTRAORDINARY," by Donald Dunham. [John Day, $2.]

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

There is probably no function of the government so little understood by the country at large as the foreign service of the department of state. It was not so long ago—I was then a small boy—when Americans abroad advised each other in case of difficulty to call on the British consul. For our consular posts were political plums in those dark days of our foreign affairs.

Since then there have been many improvements. We have career men, many of whom have distinguished themselves. We shall have to select many more in the complicated days to come, and make their profession attractive. They are America abroad, and by their success or failure America stands in judgment before the public opinion of the world.

Mr. Dunham started out as one of these career men something over 10 years ago. He served as vice-consul in Berlin, Hongkong, Athens, and Aden. Then he resigned—he tells us why. The book is a charming almost day by day account of his education. As such it is excellent reading for the idle hour. But it carries a moral in its pocket—an obvious one—not only that the representative of America must know the ways of the people among whom he operates, but America must be generously conscious of its debt to these "envoys unextraordinary" who to the millions in Asia, Africa, or Europe are America.

This Story Should Make Grand Film

"YANKEE STRANGER," by Elswyth Thane. [Duell, Sloan, and Pearce, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edw. Wagenknecht.

This one didn't get the M. G. M. prize, but it will make quite as good a film as "Green Dolphin Street." They might get Ethel Barrymore in her "Whiteoaks" mood, for Tibbie Day, of Williamsburg, who as a girl, went thru the Revolution with Miss Thane in "Dawn's Early Light," and who now rounds out her century during Civil war days, an irresistibly wise and lovable and gallant woman.

Elswyth Thane

She has a whole clan of much intermarried Spragues and Days around her. There is Eden, who loves a rugged man from the north, breaks her engagement when he takes to secret service, is saved by him when she herself tries to smuggle desperately needed opiates thru the Union lines, and collapses appropriately upon his shoulder in the last chapter. And, among many others, there is Sue, who must give up Sedgwick because they are first cousins twice over, and who becomes a writer.

The plot is of the very stuff of Civil war romance, but the background is another matter. Miss Thane gives us the war from the vantage point of Richmond and Williamsburg, and as it impinges upon the lives of her women. That was Thackeray's way with war in "Vanity Fair," and there is none better.

Her vivid sketches of combat are no less effective for being kept in their place; her J. E. B. Stuart may send you back to Gamaliel Bradford's "Confederate Portraits." The issues of the conflict are presented with fine intelligence and also with magnanimity. In short, Elswyth Thane is an American novelist who can tell a story to match the best of them, and whose wisdom keeps pace with her verve.

Strunsky Takes a View of New York

"NO MEAN CITY," by Simeon Strunsky. [Dutton, $3.]

With the avowed purpose of describing and interpreting New York, Mr. Strunsky, conductor of the New York Times column, "Topic of the Times," ambles all around his beloved city, peeks into homes and buses and night clubs and skyscrapers; and discovers that the city really is American thru and thru. Not that the premise particularly needed demonstration—and, unhappily, not that any one in particular will care a great deal.

Informative Book by Mother and Son

"HI, NEIGHBOR!" by Theodosia and Allan Carpenter. [King, $2.]

Black and white illustrations by Jean Wilson Chambers distinguish "Hi, Neighbor!" written by a mother and son author team for use in grade schools. Its 128 pages contain 40 chapters, each dealing with a geographical unit of this hemisphere outside Canada, the United States, and Mexico. Bits of information about geography, history, customs, and conditions constitute the text.

Novel Makes Use of Every Known Thriller Device

"LIE DOWN IN DARKNESS," by H. R. Hays. (Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.50.)

Reviewed by Will Davidson.

When H. R. Hays wrote "Stranger on the Highway," he achieved a minor masterpiece in the field of the psychological thriller. That first novel had cohesion, economy of writing, strong characterization, atmosphere at times almost unbearably realistic.

H. R. Hays.

"Lie Down in Darkness" reads like an anthology of every psychological device ever used—a two dimensional crazy house populated by nothing but all the nasty individuals who have been flitting in and out of psychothrillers since the genre was invented. There's the dependent old maid, the lecherous girl, the handsome and amoral young minister who escapes seduction in the organ loft by an exquisitely narrow margin, the simpering widower who doesn't escape, the comic strip banker who won't change the will, the hordes of heavy-reared matrons who gush over the padre.

It is as if Author Hays once upon a time read "Kings Row" and got a bright idea—with "Lie Down in Darkness" as the result. Then, subdued by his unfettered dash into the murky field of terror and sin, he wrote the superb "Stranger on the Highway." That would make the current book one of those earlier manuscript rescues that so often attend a successful first publishing venture. It is sad to think "Lie Down in Darkness" is actually the latest manifestation of the Hays talent.

Here Is an Aid to Understanding Art

"THE ENJOYMENT OF THE ARTS," edited by Max Schoen. [Philosophical Library, $5.]

The layman who soothes himself with the old bromide that "I don't know anything about art, but I do know what I like" will find in this volume a very respectable defense of his stand, and an enlightening series of discussions that may broaden his field of interest and understanding. Sometimes wretchedly written, these discussions of the backgrounds of painting, sculpture, architecture, industrial design, poetry, drama, and theater, the novel, the movies, music, and art criticism, are nevertheless basically informative and inspirational.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake.

ENTRY.	PERFORMANCE.	PAYOFF.
"A ROPE OF SAND," by Francis Bonnamy. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]	Colony of eccentric residents near beach at Gary, Ind., is scene of pair of puzzling murders. Peter Shane, criminologist, sifts thru confusing implications of amorous relationships, cross currents of accusation, and hint of Nazi influence at work.	Interesting setting and characters provide background for a good job of detecting. Author puts himself in Dr. Watson role. Plot unfolds quietly, well written and with some bright highlights.
"NOT QUITE DEAD ENOUGH," by Rex Stout. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]	Two Nero Wolfe tales in this book. In title story, Archie, now major in army, frames himself as murder suspect to get Wolfe back into detecting mood and go to work for Army Intelligence. In second tale, Nero, in army role, stalks sabotage.	Rex Stout gives Archie a scintillant performance that is a refreshing breeze of enjoyment from beginning to end. Nero Wolfe does some of his smoothest deducting, both on and off diet.
"DEATH AND THE DEVIL," by Paul Whelton. [Lippincott, $2.]	Hard drinking, resourceful crime reporter delves into murder of gangster. It becomes a spectacular adventure, splashed with homicide, and uproots a tale of blackmail that involves a millionaire, a dancer, and assorted underworld exponents.	Fast crime story written in confident and competent reporter's style, built from a prodigious imagination. Just properly tough, with some ingenious inventions to highlight the excitement.
"UNDER A CLOUD," by Van Siller. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.]	Violent and mysterious deaths were depleting a queer lot on dude ranch in Montana, so it was selected as just the place for Capt. Pete Rector, invalided from Tunisia, to rebuild shattered nerves while solving the puzzle.	Off to a floundering start, this story creeps thru morass of detail, discussion, and doleful devices, without ever getting from under the cloud. Fitting title but, otherwise, this entry might better have been scratched.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

ORDINARILY this department doesn't go much for magazine serials, but one running currently in a weekly magazine has captured our fancy. . . . It's called "12:20 P. M.," and it's about "the coming death of Hitler." . . . In view of what has been taking place over seas the last few weeks, such a theme appears particularly timely. . . . If the story holds up as well as it has in the first three instalments, we predict that some publisher will grab it and turn it into a best seller. . . . And what a movie it will make! . . . William Gilmore Beymer, the author, knows his America and his Europe, and he writes from the viewpoint of a newspaper man. . . . That gives his fiction a genuine touch of realism. . . . Melodramatic fiction? Of course. . . . But what could be more melodramatic than the things that are going to take place when the allies catch up with Hitler?

A contest open to working newspaper men and women has been announced by Longmans, Green & Co. and a magazine called Newspaperman. . . . Stories of either fact or fiction will be selected for inclusion in an anthology, to be published a year hence. . . . Details may be obtained by writing the magazine at Hyde Park 36, Mass. . . . Frederick R. Rinehart, vice president of Farrar & Rinehart, writes: "We do not claim that 'Sleep No More,' edited by August Derleth, is the largest anthology ever published, nor that it is the most comprehensive. Rather, it is what all good anthologies should be: Highly selective." . . . The book, a collection of horror stories, is a prospective best seller of the fall season.

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home" is the title of Dixon Wecter's next. . . . It's to be issued this week by Houghton Mifflin. . . . On Friday the Bruce Publishing company of Milwaukee will bring out "Survivor," Pete Martin's story of Lt. Paul Madden's eleven day ordeal on a life raft in the Atlantic. . . . Wednesday is the date set by Henry Holt for publication of "Barnaby and Mr. O'Malley," by Crockett Johnson. . . . Late in October Harcourt, Brace will sponsor "Women and Men," by Amram Scheinfeld. . . . The book is said to challenge many accepted notions about the place of women in modern life.

Wound stripes will help win literary laurels for some of the men and women in the armed services. . . . E. P. Dutton & Co. announces a cash award of $5,000 for the best manuscript by a service man or woman—whether officer or in the ranks—wounded in action in this war. . . . Contestants may submit either fiction or nonfiction, including poetry and short story collections, of not less than 50,000 words. . . . The award is to be given three years, in 1945, 1946, and 1947. . . . The contest is now open, with Jan. 1, 1945, as the closing date for the first award. . . . TRAIN NOW FOR THE new OPPORTUNITIES in ACCOUNTING

Accounting, for 20 years past, has offered outstanding opportunity for ambitious men and women. Growing fast, paying well for ability, leading often to executive positions, this profession is also unusual in that the beginner can (shortly after he begins training) get a job as bookkeeper, statistical clerk or junior and earn while he prepares for the higher jobs.

Today, those opportunities are greater than ever. The needs of war, new and enlarged plants, increased government regulations, postwar demands—all demand more and better accounting, more bookkeepers and accountants in business offices and in government departments.

INVESTIGATE—Without Obligation

We shall be glad to tell you frankly about the requirements and possibilities in accounting—whether you are fitted for it, how much preparation you will need, what it will cost you.

For 29 years this school has been teaching accountancy. Everything is geared to practical training to make you capable and successful quickly and at low cost. From this and its parent school have come over 10% of all Certified Public Accountants in the United States.

Naturally, we hope that our facilities and our record will lead to your enrollment, if you are one who should enter accounting. But at least, investigate accounting and its opportunities. Write, phone or drop in—without obligation. Get interesting FREE booklet. Open evenings and Saturday.

Buddy Lester Adds Luster to Fine Revue

By Will Davidson.

Brilliant examples of the two highest types of night club revues are available for study at the Chez Paree and the Latin Quarter these nights. One is the standard night club show—a direct descendant from vaudeville. It employs the services of a group of diverse talents, well blended into a variety show of pace and high entertainment value. The other stems from the musical revue, with a cohesive quality in which the various parts are subordinated to the effect of the whole.

The Chez Paree has long been one of the few local masters of the standard revue. If it isn't featuring a star of national caliber, it often is creating one. Joe Lewis, Danny Kaye, Benny Fields, Willie Shore, Edgar Bergen, and a host of others attest to this.

Now it's Buddy Lester. Buddy was no unknown when he opened at the Chez last Tuesday, by any manner of means. He had been a long time favorite at the Latin Quarter. He had been a success in New York's Martinique. But the way he clicked at the Chez with his superb sense of the hilariously ridiculous was proof of his right to national stardom. His eastern success, important as it was to him, hadn't given him an exalted sense of his own infallibility. He was still the sort of guy who so enjoyed being comic that his own pleasure amplified that which he engendered in his audience. Buddy ranks with the best.

His Harry Lauder, his punch drunk baritone, his "Africa," his high speed tomfoolery, climax a very elegant Chez Paree show. It is elegant for one reason because of the work of Fred and Elaine Barry—as fine a dance team as there is today. The Barrys, like Lester, enjoy their work, and it therefore acquires a warmth that is over and above its very great quality of art. Waltz, tango, sleepy lullaby, are equal vehicles for the Barry talents.

The Chez show is elegant, too, for the presence of Susan Miller, a blonde beauty with an appealing, dramatic voice, and gowns that are exceeded in splendor only by the figure they so cozily encase. Susan has long been a favorite of mine in her appearances at the Drake, and she translates her singing technique into the Chez idiom with magnificent effect. She should rate a raise for her grand Calypso number, "Rum, and Coca-Cola," if for no other reason.

The Wesson brothers are delightful impressionists and they score nicely, even tho the opening spot does not afford them the opportunity they really need. Their whimsies are more effective when the audience has been better prepared.

The Adorables continue their dramatic lessons under Miss Olive Bernard with fair success.

The real luster of the new Chez show is Buddy luster.

One of the beautiful things about Ted Lewis' recent show at the Latin Quarter was the way the old master used his corny and delightful personality to weld together a collection of very good talent into a fast revue. Wisely the Quarter retained Ted as producer of its follow-up program, and the master's touch is very much in evidence. In every way except for the very important nostalgic appeal of Lewis himself, this current show is the equal of the previous one.

It was too long on opening night, but not in a dull way—except when its length was due to Dave Apollon's overexertions as emcee. When Connee Boswell finally appeared the audience was still ready for a long, long session of singing. Connee is one of the greats of the show world, a girl who knows that simple honesty is the best artistic policy. She sings her songs easily and sincerely. No tricky amendments are necessary — no tortured interpolations. Connee just sings "Swing on a Star" or "Amor" or "Stormy Weather" and you are very, very happy.

The Latin Quarter show is neatly tied together by the commendably brief line numbers directed by Mme. Natalie Kamarova—dramatically staged and stunningly costumed. Vicki Hart's songs are an integral part of these numbers, which achieve a remarkable transition between such widely varied entertainment styles as those of say, Son and Sonny and Mr. Apollon. Son and Sonny are those bundles of dancing energy who do bone crushing flying splits, and impossible appearing toe taps. They are great entertainers.

Mr. Apollon is very funny, indeed, when he and his three Filipinos match wits and music. Their Ink Spots imitation is great; their Hawaiian jam session fun.

Marilyn Hale is a lively and effective tap dancer, and DeMar and Denise add a colorful touch to the revue with their gracefully done lifts and spins. To Bill Bardo's band goes a very green laurel for an excellent musical background and for elegant dance music.

Boswelling the Bistros:

The new Rio Cabana show on Sept. 22 won't feature Joan Merrill after all. Instead, Jerry Lester is being held over to collaborate with George Tapps, the Chadwickes, and —happy news—the Dorothy Dorben dancers. . . . It's Dolores Gray in the Camellia House of the Drake, instead of Noble and King. . . . The Hotel La Salle's new show has been postponed until Friday. Audrey Hoveler's sprained wrist is the reason. . . . Today is Eddy [Aragon] Howard's 30th birthday. . . . Edna Cerny has been added to the show in the Bismarck's Tavern room. Tonight is Ray Benson's Pump room farewell. Carl Sands opens Tuesday.

The allies' capture of Sedan was quite a coup.

McFee Shows His Sureness of Touch in Latest Novel

"SHIP TO SHORE," by William McFee. [Random House, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst.

There is a considerable experience in store for readers of this novel which begins on the resplendent liner Brigantes just entering the Mediterranean on the great prosperity cruise of 1929. The experience includes a number of ports of call, a romantic love affair, and a marine disaster; but it more significantly includes a deft and perceptive sounding of a group of intensely real people.

Capt. Sylvester, living in staleness of spirit at the top of his profession in a British steamship line, and Rosita Ross, candid, clear-eyed New York business girl—these are the focus of a revealing study in national temperaments. The other characters, British and American, are of less importance to Mr. McFee's story, but they are no less real.

William McFee.

It is not surprising that the author of "Ship to Shore" was for 30 years a marine engineer. Like his other novels this tale is logical, well meshed, with a steady stroke and a steady pressure. All of its effects are thoroly prepared for and its conclusions are inevitable. It is a sure novel, as few novels in these days are sure.

Over the entire scene, nearly a decade of years and both sides of the Atlantic, Mr. McFee lets his knowledge play. He deals with American tourists and British shipping people, with Liverpool and New York, Genoa and Naples, with the glitter of the Brigantes and the fiery death of the cruise ship Lexington, but always at the center is the clash of character, the relationship of persons. In human speech, human behavior, human feeling, he is accurate and assured. And to these observations of his species he brings his own attitude of aloof and quiet irony. "Ship to Shore" is top-drawer McFee, and of its kind there is nothing better.

Canada Moves to Balk Printing of American Books

Books printed in Canada have been placed under a rigid export permit control, a move which Canadian government officials frankly admit is designed to prevent American publishers from shipping the book plates to Canada and having them printed there to avoid depletion of their limited quotas of book paper stock.

With their own paper supplies deeply cut, American publishers have been printing their books in Canada to an increasing extent, particularly books printed on the cheaper pulp stock, such as reprints and pocket editions.

The Canadian trade and commerce department defends its action on the ground that Canadian publishers now have an opportunity to build up their own business, which has been stimulated by war time conditions, and that their own paper needs must be met.

"Chuggety-Chug" Will Be Delight to Little Ones

"CHUGGETY-CHUG," by Lucille Pannell and Ralph Henry. [Wilcox & Follett, $1.]

Reviewed by Agatha L. Shea.

One of the most attractive toy-books of the season is this colorful little pull-out cardboard volume which has a railroad station for its cover, and opens up into a very real toy train of nine cars, with sturdy little Chuggety Chug just ready to pull them away.

The passengers, including giraffes, monkeys, and circus horses, will delight the littlest ones, as will also the catchy little rhymes which they will learn as they turn the pages. It is one selection for the toy stocking which can't be wrong.

The book is an all Chicago item, being designed by Ralph Henry, head of the Carson Pirie Scott book department, with verses written by Lucille Pannell of the Hobby Horse Book shop of the same department. Mrs. Katharine Evans of Evanston did the pictures.

All About Clouds and Weather Signs

"CLOUD AND WEATHER ATLAS," by Hugh Duncan Grant. [Coward-McCann, $7.50.]

All clouds have a story to tell, a story of increasing significance to the navigator by air, sea, and land, says the author in his introduction to this diverting study of the heavens. And then he tells these fascinating stories, accompanied by 165 splendid photographs and numerous charts, tables, and symbols.

From his long experience with weather forecasting, Grant has compiled an atlas of clouds and sky conditions which should prove invaluable to those who need to know what is brewing up above—the farmer, mariner, flyer. It fills a long felt need for an atlas for both the layman and the meteorologist, it is claimed, and is said to be the only book published which can be compared to the International Cloud atlas.

AL CHASE.

Here's to Day When Veterans Finally Return

"THE VETERAN COMES BACK," by Willard Waller. [Dryden, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons.

Prof. Waller, a Columbia university faculty member and himself a veteran of World War I., strongly feels that we should proceed at once, without counting costs, to the job of rehabilitating war veterans and absorbing them into civilian life again. In this first rate study, documented by assiduous research, he goes far toward proving his point. Altho the American soldier has been treated more fairly in this war than has any soldier in history, Prof. Waller points out that he will inevitably come home with a burden of grievances—some just, some imagined—that will cause a cleavage between him and the civilian. It is up to the civilian, in some cases without the veteran's coöperation, to get the ex-fighting man assimilated as quickly as possible.

Prof. Waller devotes some useful space to a review of the notorious veterans' bureau scandals of the '20s. His book is a valuable study of a subject that has more ramifications than appear on the surface.

More of the Cugats.

Some further history of George and Liz Cugat has been made into a new novel by Isabel Scott Rorick, author of "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat." Houghton Mifflin plan to publish it next year.

Jr's Fun to Draw

FUN AND MAGIC WITH DRAWING
Art Instruction and Reference with Over 1,000 "How-to-do-it" Sketches and Drawings

An Art Instruction Book especially for boys and girls—from 5 to 15! Every page of it, from cover to cover, was especially prepared not only to be instructive and interesting, but ENJOYED by the junior artist. It is a wonderful rainy-day and sick bed time-passer, will keep a child happily busy for hours at a time.

Here are all the things your youngster wants to draw:—cartoons, cowboys and comic characters; dolls, babies and nursery tale figures; jeeps, tanks and planes—anything and everything you can imagine. Drawing becomes fun with this new exciting book. Fingers start to itch for a pencil, just as soon as they open the book, and the easy-as-ABC-instructions makes drawing easy as writing.

INCLUDES SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS ON:

THE JUNIOR BOOKSHELF

By Agatha L. Shea.

TITLE.	SUBJECT.	VERDICT.
"AMERICAN TANKS AND TANK DESTROYERS," by Elizabeth Mallett Conger. [Holt, $2.] Junior Literary Guild selection.	Story of the American tank, its value and its use in modern warfare. Describes various types, their workings, and gives accounts of tank battles in the desert and elsewhere. Includes also information on trucks, tank retrievers, jeeps, peeps, and seeps.	Exceedingly interesting, and very readable. Authentic information, and many photographs from the United States army, and from the ordnance department in particular. For upper grade readers.
"YONIE WONDERNOSE," by Marguerite De Angeli. [Doubleday, $2.] Junior Literary Guild selection.	Yonie is a 7 year old Pennsylvania Dutch boy whose curiosity about everything earns for him the nickname "Wondernose." But one day Yonie is left to care for the house, his grandmother, and little sister, and his curiosity proved a very good thing indeed.	A charming picture book with lovely illustrations by this popular artist-author.
"REWARD FOR BROWNIE," by Dorothy Childs Hogner. [Oxford, $1.]	A policeman's horse is always a favorite and Brownie of this story is no exception. His retirement to the farm didn't please Brownie, even with a parade thrown in, but soon good luck brings his master too and then he is content.	A slight picture book for little readers with just enough text to explain the pictures.

Sentiment in Chinese Novel Reminds Reader of Dickens

"WESTWARD TO CHUNGKING," by Helena Kuo. [Appleton-Century, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Arno L. Bader.

No event of recent years has stirred the Chinese imagination like the war time trek of millions of people from the coast to the interior, and Miss Kuo has responded to it with her novel "Westward to Chungking."

At the beginning of the story we are introduced to the Lee family, prosperous, contented merchant folk of Soochow who combine the best of the traditional way of life in China with the more modern ideas introduced from the west. Uprooted by the Japanese, the family joins the countless army of refugees, and the rest of the novel tells of their adventures and of the various people they meet along the road.

Despite its modern subject, the book follows the traditional pattern of the Chinese novel; it is a chronicle of mixed joy and sorrow with a happy ending—leisurely of pace and Dickensian in sentiment.

The Lee family patriotically serves China. Two of its sons are in the army, one daughter is a nurse, another is attached to a guerrilla band, and the father helps wherever he can. The war forms a constant background, but in the foreground is a story of simple human emotions, a record of marriages, births, funerals, and day to day living.

Altho marred occasionally by propaganda, the book leaves the impression of fundamental truth.

Air Power as an Instrument in Peacetimes

"KEEP THE PEACE THRU AIR POWER," by Allan A. Michie. [Holt, $2.]

Reviewed by Will Davidson.

Russia's tentative proposal of an international air police force to maintain the future peace brings into a highlight the very similar but more detailed suggestions in Mr. Michie's provocative book.

Allan A. Michie.

Michie has been a student of aerial warfare and has watched its growth in the present conflict. His previous book, "The Air Offensive Against Germany," constituted a highly accurate forecast of what proved to be our strategic plan for the defeat of the axis in Europe. Now he carries the use of air power a logical step farther and offers it as a sure, comparatively inexpensive, and humane instrument of justice and peace.

For seven intense and detailed chapters the author demonstrates the dire necessity of complete postwar control over the German militarists who even now, he says, are probably better prepared to win the Third German War of the next generation than we are to win the coming peace. He has borrowed freely and convincingly from many writers, including THE TRIBUNE'S Sigrid Schultz.

Then he outlines his plan for an international air police and uses Great Britain's aerial control of her restless middle east possessions as the tested and successful model for a world organization. Briefly he would require, on an international scale, supervision of German industry similar to our federal inspection services. If evidence of secret armament building was uncovered, a warning would be issued, and at the end of a stated period the delinquent factory or even the wing of the factory involved in the illicit business, would be bombed. Workers, and nearby residents, of course, would be evacuated first and would be given every consideration. In Iraq during the early 1903s this technique of air control over rebellious groups was known as "inverted blockade," because it keeps people away from things, rather than vice versa.

Another form of aerial control is known as the "pin down blockade," also developed by the RAF in the middle east. It is used against mobile malefactors, holding them in one spot by barring lines of communication until ground forces can take over.

Mr. Michie's suggestion is not presented as the ultimate, but as a working plan upon which the allies might base their final solution of the problem of maintaining peace. It is, as he promptly points out, an extension and modification of other similar but less workable ideas.

Churchman Urges Use of Liturgy

"THE WAY OF WORSHIP," by Scott Francis Brenner. [Macmillan, $2.]

Dr. Brenner, a member of the liturgical commission of the Evangelical and Reformed church, calls his 200 page book "a study in ecumenical recovery." He argues that communion should be held every Sunday and that much more weight should be given, especially by Protestants, to ancient forms and symbols. He does not urge attempts to restore the exact liturgy of the primitive church but he feels Protestantism has dropped much that would strengthen modern Christianity.

THE CONTROL OF GERMANY AND JAPAN
by
Harold G. Moulton and Louis Marlio
The No. 1 postwar problem is to make sure that Germany and Japan will never again be able to break the peace of the world. This book analyzes the special character of the problem presented by Germany and Japan respectively and suggests a novel and practical method of control.

Drama Notes

Chicago's "Pore Jud" and New York's "Pore Jud" are to trade cities for a while. Murvyn Vye, who has been playing "Oklahoma's!" most sinister role on Broadway for the last several weeks will come to the Erlanger tonight to join the Chicago company for the beginning of the 44th week of the Hammerstein-Rodgers musical. His predecessor here, Richard Rober, will go to New York for the same part. . . . Representatives of the Theater Guild, producer of "Oklahoma!", have done some research into the attendance records of their principals here and have announced that four of them have not missed a single one of the more than 375 performances which have been given in this city to date. The perfect scores belong to Mary Mario, David Burns, Walter Donahue, and Dave Mallen.

"Kiss and Tell," the George Abbott—F. Hugh Herbert comedy which has just completed its 70th week at the Harris, moves to the Studebaker tonight to permit the Harris to house "Over Twenty-One," the Ruth Gordon vehicle which opens tomorrow. "Kiss and Tell," is now 30 weeks away from the 100 week mark set by "Good Night, Ladies" at the Blackstone. "Kiss and Tell" will adhere to its schedule of nightly performances with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

• • •

K. T. Stevens, who will have the role of Sally Middleton when John van Druten's comedy, "The Voice of the Turtle," comes to the Selwyn theater Oct. 2, recently stepped into the same part in the New York company when Margaret Sullavan, who customarily plays it, was taken sick. Altho this role is extremely exacting, since it requires that the actress who plays it remain on the stage thruout the entire performance, Miss Stevens was able to cope with it on only a few hours' notice and with but five days of rehearsal. . . . The three room set of "The Voice of the Turtle" will almost inevitably arouse as much interest in Chicago as it did in New York. The living room, bedroom, and kitchenette of a city apartment are seen in cross section. The furnishings are complete even to the toaster that turns out real toast.

The David Carey domestic comedy, "It's High Time," last night entered its second week at the Great Northern theater. Elsbeth Hofmann, Adrienne Bayan, and Hal Currier are among the featured players.

The report that the Theater Guild would establish a Shakespearean company has been confirmed by the Guild. B. Iden Payne, former director of the Goodman Repertory company and more recently in charge of the Shakespearean memorial theater at Stratford-on-Avon, will direct the new group. The first play will be either "As You Like It" or "Romeo and Juliet." The Shakespearean group, which is to be built around a nucleus of trained actors with a training school for young players, will tour Theater Guild-American Theater society subscription cities and will give performances in college theaters as well.

Zasu Pitts and "Ramshackle Inn," prospering at the Selwyn, must call it a run Sept. 30 because "The Voice of the Turtle" takes over the theater Oct. 2. Robert Reud, "Ramshackle Inn's" producer, says he might bring his star and play back to Chicago after the holidays.

Notes of Music and Musicians

One of the more ambitious ventures of the new season will be a series of four song recitals to be given in Lufkin hall by Marjorie Morgan, soprano, under the management of Bertha Ott, on the Monday evenings of Feb. 26, March 26, April 23 and May 28. The series is described as "an informal resume of the history of song." William Whitaker will be the accompanist and a string quartet also will participate in some of the recitals.

The annual parade of musical prodigies will begin, like the rest of the musical season, early this year. Richard Sheehan, a 13 year old organist who has been playing for services on a three manual organ at Our Lady of Grace church since he was 10, will give a recital in Kimball hall on Sunday, Oct. 1, at 3:30. His program will include such man size pieces as Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor and the "Cathedral" Prelude and Fugue.

Remi Gassmann has been appointed director of the Elmhurst College School of Music, Elmhurst, Ill. He will continue his work as a faculty member of the University of Chicago and as director of that institution's Composers Concerts. Mr. Gassmann also is music critic of The Chicago Times.

• • •

Harry Zelzer will open his season's concerts with a recital by Kerstin Thorborg, Metropolitan Opera contralto, at Orchestra hall on Sunday, Oct. 8, at 3:30. Miss Thorborg also will be heard during the first week of the Chicago Opera season, when she will perform the strenuous feat of singing Amneris in "Aïda" at the Saturday matinee of Oct. 21 and Fricka in "Die Walküre" at the evening performance on the same day.

Kerstin Thorberg.

Jerzy Bojanowski will speak on the Polish composer, Karol Szymanowski, on Friday at 8:15 in Room 500, Fine Arts building, 410 S. Michigan av. The public is invited. Especial emphasis will be placed upon Szymanowski's ballet, "Harnasie," a suite from which will be conducted by Mr. Bojanowski at the first concert of the Woman's Symphony orchestra on Oct. 6.

• • •

The Chicago Symphonique orchestra, an amateur organization conducted by Sarah Louise Bates, again will give concerts in Curtiss hall, the first being announced for Sunday, Oct. 29. Players interested in joining the group are requested to apply at room 921, Kimball building, on Friday at 7:30.

Hugh Hodgson, pianist, who appeared here last season with the Roth Quartet in the Shostakovich quintet, will give a recital for the benefit of Erie Neighborhood House in Cahn auditorium, Scott hall, Evanston, on Saturday, Oct. 28, at 8:15. Mr. Hodgson is head of the Fine Arts department of the University of Georgia.

Beg Your Pardon: Jimmy Vrhel, a new member of the bass section of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, writes that the phrase applied to him in last Sunday's Tribune—"after a try at the trumpet"—is misleading. Mr. Vrhel has played the trumpet for 12 years and expects "to keep on until I am physically disabled." He was first trumpet of the Civic orchestra in 1943 and played that instrument with the Indianapolis Symphony for two seasons, besides having sat in with the Chicago Symphony as extra man on several occasions.

The country's symphonic season will be off to a new start on Sept. 29 when the Philadelphia orchestra begins its 45th season under the regular conductor, Eugene Ormandy. Twenty-eight Friday afternoon-Saturday evening concerts are scheduled as well as a Monday evening series of 12 concerts. There will be 10 concerts in New York city, a week at the Worcester festival, beginning Oct. 9, a tour of the midwest from Oct. 29 to Nov. 5, a southern tour in February, besides regular series in Washington, Baltimore, Richmond and Harrisburg. Mr. Ormandy will conduct most of the concerts, but Pierre Monteux [lucky Philadelphia!] will have two pairs of concerts and a Monday night concert in January, as well as a New York appearance, and Saul Caston will conduct two pairs of concerts.

Good neighbor: During the current season of the Mexican Symphony orchestra of Mexico City, Carlos Chavez, the conductor, presented the entire series of nine Beethoven symphonies for the first time in Mexico. Other works played during the season included Shostakovich's Eighth symphony, Bartok's "Suite de Danzas," William Grant Still's cantata, "And They Lynched Him on a Tree," and Chavez' piano concerto, played by Claudio Arrau. Vladimir Golschmann conducted for two weeks in August. . . Alexander Brailowsky's series of six Chopin concerts in Mexico City, to begin Oct. 3 was sold out immediately upon announcement.

Miliza Korjus, coloratura soprano beloved of record fans, will give her first New York recital in Carnegie hall on Sunday night, Oct. 22.

• • •

The Cleveland Orchestra will give twenty pairs of concerts this season on Thursday and Saturday nights, beginning Oct. 12. Vladimir Golschmann opens the season and will conduct seven pairs of concerts. Fritz Reiner and Rudolf Ringwall, the orchestra's associate conductor, will conduct three pairs, while George Szell, Eugene Goosens and Frank Black are each slated to direct two pairs.

Woman Plays the Part of Motor Maker

"A BASHFUL WOMAN," by Kenneth Horan. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Arthur Frederic Otis.

Booth Tarkington wrote a book about the automobile industry and a woman who couldn't make up her mind and called it "The Magnificent Ambersons." Kenneth Horan has written a book about the automobile industry and a woman with a "talent for insistence," and calls it, oddly enough, "A Bashful Woman." Accurate as to industrial chronology, it is also a rattling good story—with no double entendre intended.

Sally Evans was bashful during her first years in Middlebury, Mich., partly because her Welsh accent and her father's drinking made her feel inferior to "the best people." But she married Jim Vinnedge, the ambitious young wagon builder, and steered the course of her life away from the Gladwyns—wild-eyed Jo, who loved her, and beautiful Nellie, his promiscuous sister.

Jo murders Jim Vinnedge's father and is sent to the penitentiary. Against Sally's wishes, Jim contracts for penitentiary labor to lower manufacturing cost on his wagons. And Sally's forebodings are justified when Jim dies in a prison fire started by rioting convicts, led by Jo Gladwyn. His sister later tries to kill Sally. Nice people, the Gladwyns.

It is then that Sally demonstrates her executive talents, takes over management of the wagon factory, which by then has begun the manufacture of automobiles, and ultimately marries the elegant Elliot Carstairs, who was her girlhood idea of "best people." Her company becomes part of General Motors.

Mrs. Horan's gift for imagery is frequently evident, as when she says a woman's influence pervades a house "like smoke coming under a door," or a man's snores "filtered down the stairs and into the room." "A Bashful Woman" is well and painstakingly done. I think you will enjoy it as thoroly as I did.

A Handbook on Occupation of Foreign Lands

"THE ECONOMICS OF MILITARY OCCUPATION," by Henry S. Bloch & Bert F. Hoselitz. [University of Chicago Press, $2.]

Reviewed by Col. C. H. Lanza.

This is a handbook highly suitable for those who know little about the subject matter. It is not a guide for experienced personnel.

The United States has had practially no recent experience in administering the affairs of foreign tribes and nations. In administering the affairs of Cuba and the Philippine Islands nearly a half century ago, following our war with Spain, there were no international complexities. Only local difficulties had to be considered.

In this war vast areas have been occupied, and are being administered while the war goes on. North Africa, Italy, and various islands in the Pacific present completely different problems. It seems fairly certain that new regions will have to be administered with still other problems.

The authors describe briefly but clearly the United States regulations. These are not matters of law but of war department orders. Brief discussions are given as to British practice. An analysis of what Germany and Japan have done in the same line is presented, and contrasted with American procedures. The essential difference is that the Americans are attempting to benefit others, while our enemies have attempted to benefit themselves. Therein they have gained the hatred of occupied countries.

This little book is worth reading.

BOOKPLATES OF BOOKMEN

FROM bookman to yeoman has been the metamorphosis of Ralph G. Newman in recent months. This well known Chicago bookseller, noted for his passion for Civil war lore and the writings of Carl Sandburg, is now a battalion yeoman at the Great Lakes naval training station.

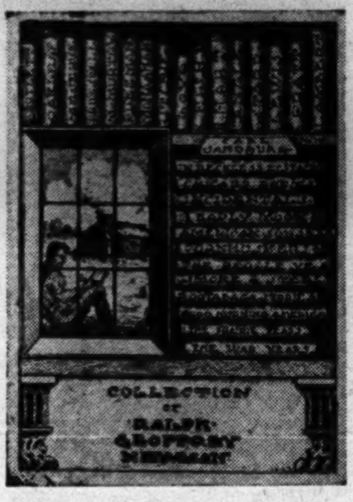
Mr. Newman says he enjoys being in the navy, but his long familiarity with the monitors and ironclads of earlier days makes him feel that he's in the wrong war.

Strictly northern in his views of the Civil war, he has been getting the other side of the picture from the numerous southerners stationed at Great Lakes, and, incidentally has been spending some of his time trying to convince the unreconstructed ones that the war between the states is really over.

It is also reported by Mr. Newman that there has been a considerable upsurge of interest in Carl Sandburg since he went to the training station, but Dick Tracy and Smilin' Jack still remain leading favorites in the men's literary life.

That it pays to make friends of one's customers is proved by Mr. Newman's experience: he has been able to keep his bookshop open despite the shortage of help thru the kindness of customers and collectors, who take turns running the shop in his absence.

Mr. Newman's bookplate was made for him by Bernhard Wall, famous Lincoln etcher and author of "Following Abraham Lincoln." He says of it: "The books . . . indicate my two major interests. . . . I am supposed to have the largest Sandburg collection in existence — the books on the upper shelf are all reference books in the Lincoln field."



Not too clearly seen thru the window set into the bookshelves on the plate is the seated figure of young Abraham Lincoln, reading a book, with his log cabin home in the background. KELSEY GUILFOIL.

This Story Is Crazy in a Calm Way

"ANGELS CAN'T DO BETTER," by Peter De Vries. [Coward-McCann, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

If you have ever been a candidate for alderman against a political machine's candidate at the same time that a starling was having a nervous breakdown outside your window, the building manager was gnashing his teeth over his wife's habit of gnashing her teeth, your father was rawhiding you out of one corner of his mouth while chewing a black cigar in the other corner, and you were loved by a young woman who was the prim daughter of the one man you ought to be nice to if you want that job, by another young woman who was the friend of the political boss and otherwise friendly, and by a third young woman who was fairly normal [especially in sweaters], you will get an idea of the problems of Peter Topp. He is the young man in this book.

You will travail with him because of the terrible night in a quarry where gunmen have tied him, because of the terrible dilemma of the female world which [as the author might have said but wisely didn't] enfolds him in its serpentine arms, and because of the terrible puns which the author did make thruout his brief years in this book. Mr. De Vries will pun at the drop of a jaw.

• • •

But it isn't what happens in this book that should make you rush out and line up for it Monday morning early. The events, while crazy, are crazy in a nice, calm, schizophrenic way. It's the writing. "Looks," says the gunman, "like it's settling down to a steady drivel." That remark about rain; and this one about an army doctor: "He had an eye like the stone in a cufflink." "I leaned against the wall and vice versa," comments our hero at one point. That's just what you'll do when you read the book. Except that before you're done you'll be sitting down on a chair and vice versa.

Book on Fascist Italy Is Judged Worth Reading

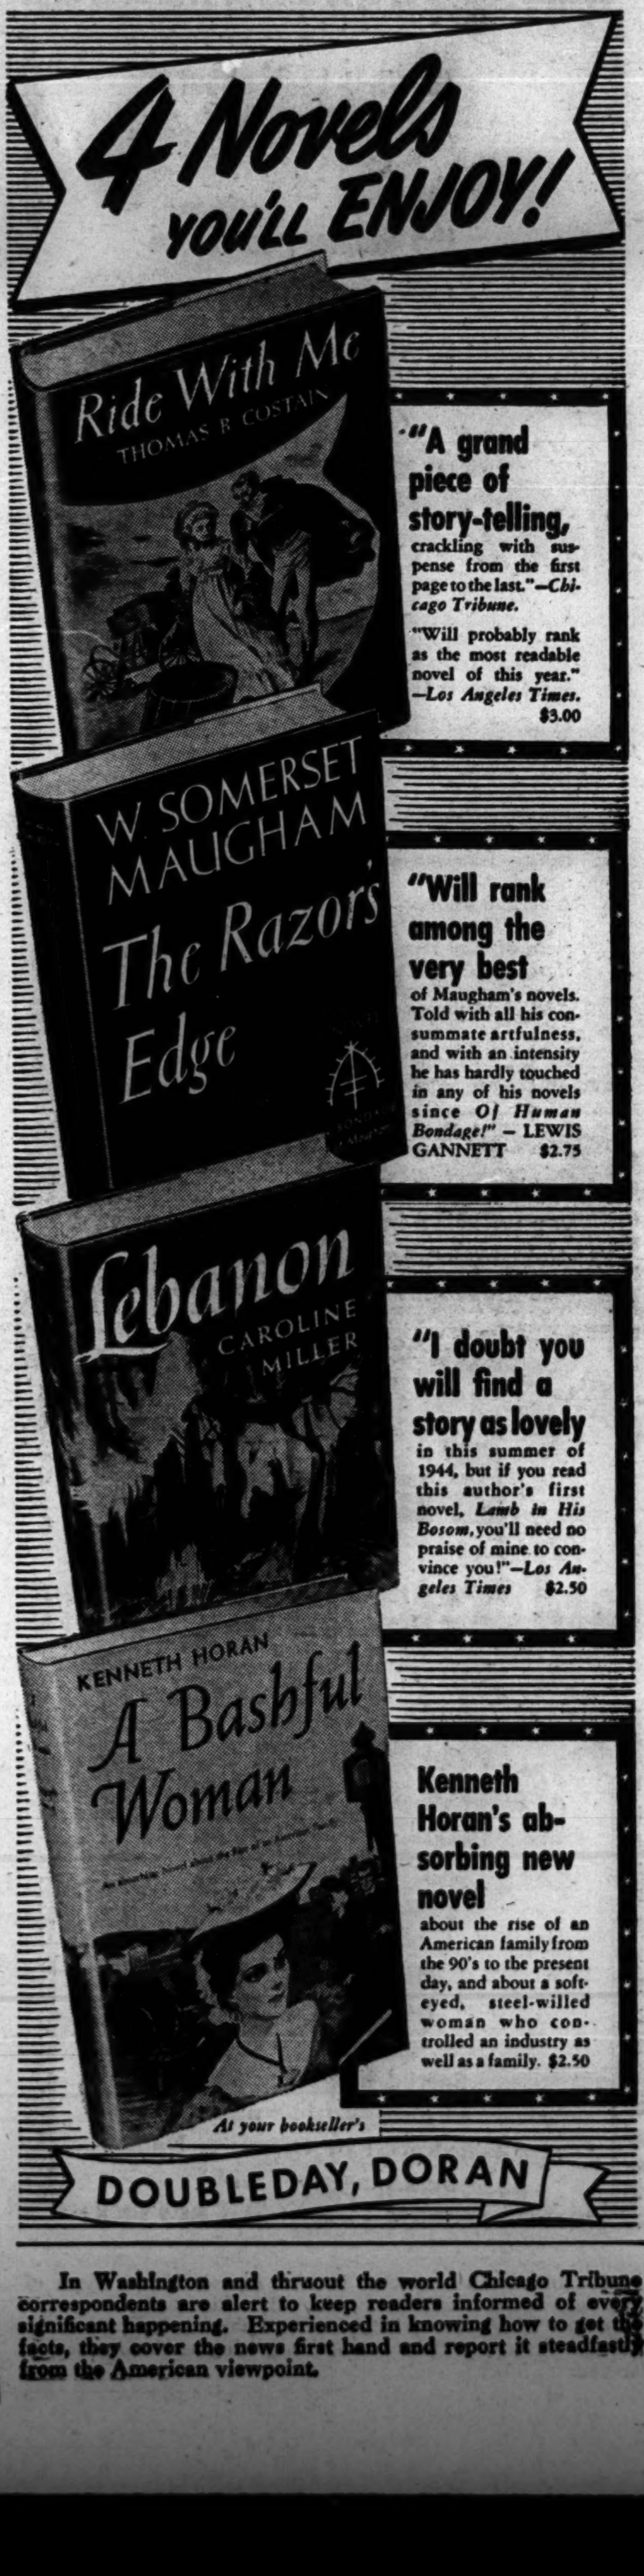
"TWILIGHT OF THE GLADIATORS: Italy and the Italians, 1939-1943," by Frank Heller. [Putnam, $2.]

Reviewed by Dr. Melchior Palyi.

According to Mr. Heller, the Nazis didn't want Mussolini to enter the war, nor to attack Greece, preferring a gap in the British blockade to a military help that couldn't amount to much, as they knew.

This is typical of the challenging interpretations the outstanding Swedish novelist-author gives of the Italian war time scene which he witnessed in Rome. He doesn't produce documents to support his interpretations, and he is wrong more often than not. The British blockade over Italy, as an example, had been so tightened in 1940 that there was little the Germans could get thru, and it was most important to them that their counter-blockade was completed by Italy cutting the Mediterranean life line of the empire.

However, this little book is worth reading. With a most sympathetic understanding, Mr. Heller gives a picture of war time Italy, its problems and turmoils, which are fascinating reading as well as a most instructive sidelight on the working of public opinion in the chains of fascism.



In Washington and thruout the world Chicago Tribune correspondents are alert to keep readers informed of every significant happening. Experienced in knowing how to get the facts, they cover the news first hand and report it steadfastly from the American viewpoint.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery.

IMAGINATIVE people like you and me and Aldous Huxley must always be perplexed to know why a man's ration of time for living is limited, in most cases, to a few niggardly decades.

Considering that time is poured forever from the vast decanter of eternity, by very definition boundless, we are inclined to be petulant in demanding a more generous dole. Surely the Management could spare each of us a few centuries, perhaps even millenniums.

Huxley's new book, "Time Must Have a Stop," is not the first in which he has applied his wits to this matter. A few years ago in his "After Many a Summer Dies the Swan," he played with the idea that a man might buy himself an extra century or two of bodily life if he would submit to a few adjustments, slightly inconvenient, and alter his diet to include the least tasty portions of raw fish.

In this new novel he goes farther, really turns himself loose, invading remoter regions of speculation. This time he lets his man die, but does not let go of him. He buries the body and pursues the soul as it shops around for a new body to be born into.

And if you doubt that disembodied souls really act that way, your argument is with Huxley — or with all the poets, philosophers, theologians, mystics of every tint, who were toying with the same conception long before Huxley acquired his own set of bones and corpuscles, his little bowl of time-on-earth.

And what is time? Emerson called it "the surest poison"; to Longfellow it was "the shadow on the dial." Marcus Aurelius thought of it as a river, with unknown origin and destiny, on which the parade of history sailed. To others time has appeared as "teacher," "ripener," "healer." And to Edna Millay in her first great poem, "Renascence." time seems to have been clockworks, for she heard "the ticking of eternity."

Robert Louis Stevenson in his "Markheim," a tale of murder, dramatized the thought that in a single room time can be simultaneously abundant and desperately scarce. The scene is the shop of a dealer in antiques, and there are two men present. One has only seconds to live. A dagger plunges. And Markheim, the murderer, standing above the corpse, is in a solitude of time. You remember how he becomes conscious of it?

"Time had some score of small voices in that shop," the story says, "some stately and slow . . . others garrulous and hurried. All these told out the seconds in an intricate chorus of tickings. . . ."

For the clocks, all the clocks on all the shelves, wound by a hand that would not wind again, were measuring the minutes as before. Time, the great neutral, was undisturbed. Do you remember the shock that you and Markheim felt when all those clocks struck the hour?

. . . O moments big as years!

The line is from Keats. It recalls one of the best of the stories by Ambrose Bierce, "An Occurrence on the Owl Creek Bridge," where such a moment, truly "big as years," is lived by a man with a rope around his neck. All of the tale, tho it takes many pages for the telling, is bounded—in time—by the interval between the drop of the trap and the tightening of the noose.

Literature is rich in stories based on tamperings with time. "The Wandering Jew," who could not die, is read by successive generations. . . . And have you forgotten how time stood almost still in "Lost Horizon," before Shangri-la became an aircraft carrier?

In Shangri-la the extra ration of time is lived richly and beautifully, because usefully; while in Huxley's "Dies the Swan" the added years are horrible in their emptiness. There is a dimly remembered pair of pentameter couplets that seem to point this contrast:

In melancholy tones his tale is told
Who sighs, "My friends, alas, I'm growing old."
Far happier the lot of those who know
The vital word in "growing old" is grow.*

Huxley's superannuated fish-eater merely becomes old, merely exists, like the laboratory heart that Alexis Carrel kept beating.

*The lines are quoted from memory, with possibility of error, after vain efforts to find them thru a search of reference books and anthologies. Can someone identify the source?

How a Man's Riches Come, Spirit Goes

"FOOTNOTE TO LIFE," by Eleanor Arnett Nash. [D. Appleton Century, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edith Weigle.

In the small compass of 229 pages Eleanor Arnett Nash, sister of Ogden Nash, has created a powerful, intensely vivid story of a man who came up the hard way from poverty in youth to millions in maturity. Hervey Fenton knew only one joy as a child: The companionship and understanding of a mother who was as sensitive a creature as he.

He saw her die because of continual over-work and the brutal indifference and shiftlessness of his father, and in his boyish mind he swore to himself that when he grew up he'd earn a lot of money, so much that he'd have "two butlers behind every chair." The great difference between Hervey and the average child was that Hervey never outgrew his adolescent dream. It became the dominant force of his life; it made him hang on thru hell and high water; it sharpened his wits, increased his business acumen, dulled his sympathies, and completely stunted his spiritual growth while making him a financial giant in Wall street.

There was no doubt about it, Hervey Fenton got there. He knew the important and distinguished people; he belonged to the most conservative and aristocratic club; he married a beautiful, highly intelligent woman and he could have had the two butlers behind every chair had he wanted to be so crass.

But not a human being was really his friend; neither man nor woman gave him the understanding he craved and he found himself just as much alone as tho he lived on top of Atlas. He realized that the reason for this was because he simply was unable to unburden himself to anyone. The painful experiences of his childhood had gone so deep, left such a scar that he could not reveal them, even to his wife. When most he wanted to talk, to cry out for sympathy and understanding he was mute, unable to put a single emotion into words.

The author has done an excellent job of making a detestable person completely understandable and poignantly touching. Several scenes in the book are unforgettable, and thruout both background and people have a clear ring of authenticity. "Footnote to Life" is a beautiful piece of work, commanding and sure from first to last.

Diarist Records Davis' Last Trip

"THE AMAZING BOB DAVIS: HIS LAST VAGABOND JOURNEY," by Fred S. Mathias. [Longmans, Green, $3.]

Bob Davis, one of the world's greatest gallivanters, who has been bouncing 'round the globe for several decades, made his last journey prior to his recent death under the pilotage of Fred S. Mathias, "diarist extraordinary," and a capable motorist. They drove to Mexico City via U. S. No. 1, the Old Spanish trail, and the Pan-American highway. Side trips were made to Taxco, Cuernevaca, Pueblo, and other metropolitan area famed spots. Returning they turned west from San Antonio, Tex., and visited the American southwest.

Mathias' diary of the journey, packed with typical Bob Davis memories of famous places and incidents all over the world, and excerpts from his column in the New York Sun, makes one of the most readable and informative travel books in several seasons. If you've been to Mexico you'll revel in it and if you're contemplating a trip across the Rio Grande don't fail to read this unusual travel log. Illustrated by the author.

Development of Flying Told by One Who Helped

"MAN'S FIGHT TO FLY," by John P. V. Heinmuller. [Funk & Wagnalls, $6.]

Reviewed by F. D. Sturdy.

Until the war matured, flying advanced and even the more conservative doubters accepted the airplane as something more than a means to suicide, but the bibliography of flying was exceedingly undernourished. Writers in the current scramble to produce aeronautical reading matter had the advantage of a fairly fresh field, but also found much of the history of flying in many of its most interesting aspects preserved only in private papers or the memories of pioneers in piloting and airplane building.

Heinmuller's book represents one of the finest of such collections. The author was in an especially favored position, as official chief timer of record flights of the National Aeronautical association, to record the great deeds of the world's finest airmen. He timed Lindbergh's flight to Paris, Clarence Chamberlin's flight to Germany, and all the famous trans-Atlantic starts from New York, including Amelia Earhart's, Jimmie Mattern's, Post and Gatty's.

Present Day Negro Writings Collected

"AN ANTHOLOGY OF AMERICAN NEGRO LITERATURE," edited by Sylvestre C. Watkins, with a foreword by John T. Frederick. [Modern Library, 95 cents.]

The best of present day Negro writers are represented here, including those like Richard Wright and Roi Ottley who have recently won fame with the general reading public. Considered as literature, without any consideration of race, these selections are remarkable for their range and power. As illuminating specimens of Negro thought and feeling, they cannot be disregarded by any one who wants to know what the Negroes have to say for themselves. No matter how one views the Negro problem, this book ought to be read.

For the most part, the writings in this book are temperate in their discussion of racial friction, and singularly free from bitterness. What they do manage to convey to a white reader is that, within his handicaps and restrictions, the Negro culturally has come of age. The book is a great piece of editing, serving well both literature and the Negro.

EDGAR SNOW DOES SUPERB REPORTING JOB

India, China and Russia Are Covered

"PEOPLE ON OUR SIDE," by Edgar Snow. [Random House, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

This book is an account of what a man from Missouri saw and thought in India, Russia, and China. It is an attempt to make real to us the problems of those areas, largely the problems of the war but also some of the recurring problems which were there before the war, and will be there afterward. Many readers will find the sections on India and China the most useful, since the Russian side of the war has been fairly widely covered.

Mr. Snow really gets around. There is a map of his travels which makes me tired just to look at it. It probably made Mr. Snow tired, too, but unlike so many correspondents he doesn't fill his book with talk about his Persian bellyache or his Assam headache. We suffer thru one toothache with him, but it's not too bad.

The bitterest fact of the world of Asia is color, and the white attitude toward it. Snow quotes a wealthy and distinguished Indian [his name is Sir Dinshaw Pettit, and I don't know why Indians with English titles seem so amusing to me; their titles wouldn't do them much good at many hotels and restaurants] on this subject. After denying that the reason the Burmese had helped the Japs drive out the British was a mistaken expectancy of independence, Sir Dinshaw remarks that it was because "they hate the British for their color prejudice and superior ways. All Orientals hate the British because of this stupid bias. It's done more harm than anything else. It's at the bottom of all the trouble."

Snow also thinks that the Japs may leave behind them some inroad into the thinking of Orientals, which will make them less ready to accept the denial to them of the slogans which are so grandiosely shouted about in Europe. His point is that the industrialization of the Orient is going to come fast; that industrialization means military potential, which is something to think about in connection with a billion people armed.

Snow emphasizes, likewise, an attitude which I feel very strongly: it is too easy for Americans to yell about British imperialism in India and forget our own treatment of our own dark skinned people. He says: "There is nothing in the British attitude in India which is as bad as the treatment of Negroes in our southern states." And he adds this fair comment on the internal problems of India, where Indian exploits Indian more savagely in many parts than the Englishman does: "There is also nothing worse than the Brahmins' discrimination against their own Untouchables."

On China, Snow urges the tragedy of Chungking conducting its latent civil war against the partisans of North China, who really fight the Japs, while getting American supplies intended for national and not civil war. Two divisions of Chungking troops were kept blockading the Partisans [Chinese] when they were desperately needed for the defense of Burma. This part of the book is very illuminating for those who tend to think too idealistically about the present one-party dictatorship in China.

The Russian section is admirable, and yet too little acknowledges the suppression of person and opinion.

Snow is an example of why the American press is the best informed in the world. We get a coverage of news hardly conceivable in any other country. I can do no more than recommend this book as a superb example of that coverage.

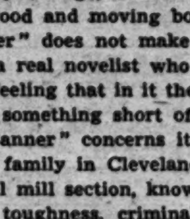
De Capite Shows His Skill in Writing a Second Novel

"NO BRIGHT BANNER," by Michael De Capite. [John Day, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Robert Penn Warren.

Less than two years ago, Michael De Capite published his first novel, "Maria," a very good and moving book. Now his second novel appears. "No Bright Banner" does not make me revise an earlier opinion that Mr. De Capite is a real novelist who deserves our best attention, but it does give me the feeling that in it the novelist has taken a subject which sometimes evokes something short of his best performance.

"No Bright Banner" concerns itself with the life of the son of an Italian immigrant family in Cleveland. The son grows up in the dingy streets of the steel mill section, knowing the best and the worst of that environment, the toughness, criminality, humor, hardihood, and self-reliance, sustained by the father's power of endurance and faith in the opportunity in the country he had come to. After the father's death, the son goes to a middle western college, comes into contact with the ideas struggling in the modern world, goes to New York to move in radical and Bohemian circles, becomes a wanderer in the depression, gets a job as a newspaper man in Chicago, and ends in the army.



Michael De Capite

The book concludes with a letter written back to a friend, a statement which gives the "sense" the hero has made of the years of wandering, the years in which he had been looking for "order."

Now the "sense" of the hero's letter makes good sense. And the whole book leading up to the letter is an intelligent book. But the closer the book gets to the present, the more it becomes intelligent commentary and the less a rendering of the imaginative insights.

But the trouble is not that the book is too contemporary; it may be that the hero is too much the shadow [not necessarily in any factual way] of the author, too much a mouthpiece, and not, as in Maria of the earlier novel, a true and independent creation. I cannot help but feel that Mr. De Capite's power lies in characters like Maria and like the father and aunt in the present book, and not in argumentative students and newspaper men who talk alternately like lead articles in liberal weeklies or like Thomas Wolfe.

A Good Yarn Which Might Even Be True

"BOOMERANG," by Lt. Comdr. William C. Chambliss. [Harcourt, Brace, $1.50.]

The author, a former task force commander in the South Pacific tells of the exciting capture in an atoll of the Jap destroyer "Hokaidokaze," which the Yanks christened the "Hokeydokey," and its adventurous but brief voyage under the American flag. Chambliss gives his readers an authentic, colorful background of navy operations, strategy, navigation, and jargon. A spirited little volume of 87 pages, which might be true.

Biography of Dewey Is No Mere Campaign Literature

"DEWEY: AN AMERICAN OF THIS CENTURY," by Stanley Walker. [Whittlessey House, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Walter Trohan.

For those who desire to become acquainted with the Republican candidate for President and what he stands for, this is a must book. It consists of 204 pages on the life of Gov. Dewey, including nine pages devoted to his attractive wife, and 145 pages of his speeches over the last seven years.

This is no ordinary campaign biography, and by the time the reader finishes with it he is certain that the young lawyer, who came singing out of the middle west to smash New York City's powerful ring of big shot racketeers, is no ordinary man. The most zealous New Dealer will have to pay tribute to the racket busting hero even tho he may no be moved to cast his vote for the New York governor.

Texas born Stanley Walker, widely recognized as one of the country's ablest reporters and editors, has not followed the campaign biography trail strewn with long forgotten potboiler rhapsodies. Instead he has conducted a calm search into Thomas E. Dewey to find out how he got where he is and what makes him tick.

True, Mr. Walker is a Dewey booster and he is active in the latter's campaign. But there is nothing of the starry-eyed hero worshiper in his writing nor of the adjectival bootlicking which makes this reviewer, for one, uneasy in the stomach, where a good book, like old wine, should spread comforting warmth. In years to come Mr. Walker, it is certain, will be able to acknowledge this book without apology.

Dewey's early life, as recorded by Mr. Walker, is the uneventful tale of a small-town boy, earnestly plugging to get ahead. After graduation from the University of Michigan, he studied law briefly in Chicago, went on to New York to pursue a career as a singer and remained to become a lawyer.

There he attracted the attention of George Medalie, then federal district attorney, was persuaded to become the latter's aide and embarked on the prosecuting career which was to liberate the city from the grip of the racketeers and smash the alliance between politics and crime. This drive made Dewey a national figure, placed him in the governor's chair before his 40th birthday, and may bring him a change of address in January.

If there is any lesson in the volume, it is that Dewey gets what he goes after and neither threats, nor reversals, nor schemes of men—nothing can turn him aside from his chosen goal, which at present is the White House.

Single Leader Viewed as Big Pacific Need

"PACIFIC VICTORY: 1945," by Joseph Driscoll. [Lippincott, $3.]

"PACIFIC BATTLE LINE," by Foster Hailey. [Macmillan, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons.

Joseph Driscoll, correspondent for a New York newspaper, is back from the Pacific front with a well filled notebook and the suggestion that the Pacific deserves an Eisenhower as much as the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Joseph Driscoll.

Until Adm. Halsey was moved to other duties the Pacific had three commanders—four, if you want to count Mountbatten in India. Strangely enough, MacArthur, whose command is in the extreme south, and Adm. Nimitz, holding sway in the center, had never met each other until last April. Driscoll believes this to be wrong. He believes the Pacific needs to be integrated under a single commander.

All over the South Pacific Driscoll saw clippings of a Tribune cartoon tacked on walls. The cartoon, by Carey Orr, was printed Sept. 7, 1943, and was in three panels, showing: [1] MacArthur pleading for more help to beat the Japs, [2] the promise of help being flashed from Washington, and [3] the almost immediate arrival of Mrs. Roosevelt in Australia. Driscoll reports, incidentally, that the American "honeymoon" in Australia has ended; the fact that "boys will be boys, and girls will be obliging" is chiefly to blame.

Less engaging, more soberly historical, is New York Timesman Hailey's account of the Pacific war's first two years. He does not add anything in particular to common knowledge about those years, but Hailey's narrative whips the bits and pieces into a useful, connected whole which improves one's perspective.

"PENNY," by Marjorie Torrey. [Howell, Soskin, $2.50.]

This story of a little 8-going-on-9 girl in pinafore and high top shoes who went to spend the summer in the country with her elderly Aunt Penelope is notable in every particular. Characterization, plot development, and illustrations [drawn by the author] sustain the interest even of an adult reviewer to the end of the 126 pages. How Penny and her aunt learn the art of friendliness is the theme.

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

IT IS good to have Paris back in the news, to be able to read again about its monuments and its moods with that lively sense of adventure that accompanies any mention of the world's most fascinating city. Possibly more people wondered what was happening in Paris, during the German black-out, than ever wondered collectively about anything before. For Paris is a symbolic city, as its paramours have sung, less the capital of France than of Dreamland. It is the "masterpiece of the creative spirit of humanity thru the ages," in the words of Richard Le Gallienne, a city of the imagination, created by hundreds of great writers and artists, and literally thousands of booklovers who have never set foot in it have lived there for centuries.

To the poet Le Gallienne, who had a garret in his favorite city until the Germans drove him out, living in Paris was a form of romance, "something like living in Bagdad or Samarkand." His books, "From a Paris Garret" and "From a Paris Scrapbook" [Ives Washburn], communicate his happiness in the scene with great charm; they are the best guides I know to the Paris of history and fable that everybody likes to read about. You may care to look them up now that again you are reading the latest words from the fabulous city of Villon, and Voltaire, and Verlaine. The writer's rambles lead him to the haunts of Dumas' "Three Musketeers," the Paris addresses of Balzac and Hugo, the crumbling mummy of Thais, Dr. Johnson's "visibilities of Paris," the many scenes of the revolution, even the reputed glove shop in the Rue Jacob where the Rev. Laurence Sterne conducted a notorious flirtation.

What Became of Poet?

Meanwhile, what has happened to that colorful figure of contemporary legend, the poet Richard Le Gallienne? Last of the romantic poets of the 19th century, some years ago he gave up his American residence [he was born in England], and went to live in the city of his choice. As his 70th anniversary approached he took a garret in an old street in Paris, with a view of Notre Dame and the Luxembourg gardens, and there, writing and dreaming, he hoped to live out his days. When he stepped out upon his balcony he could see—across the narrow street—an old gateway, the entrance to the courtyard of a mansion where M. D'Artagnan of the king's musketeers had lodged when first he came to Paris. But the war put an end to this pleasant dream as to so many others, and now there is some mystery about the poet. His publishers, when last they wrote me, had not heard from him since the German occupation of Paris. As he is believed to have gone from Paris to the south of France, it is to be hoped that he has been liberated by the American forces along the Riviera.

Long ago Le Gallienne outlived his reputation as one of the "men of the '90s," a lesser contemporary of Wilde and Dowson. For years he has been only a picturesque survival from another literary age. If he has continued to survive, his adventures should make fascinating reading. It would be interesting and delightful if the old poet could close his career with a book more important and memorable than any he has yet written.

How Fiction Transcends Fact.

Thinking of Paris reminds me of an amusing story told by Arnold Bennett about Frank Harris. Readers of Bennett's "Old Wives' Tale," one of the masterpieces of our time, will recall the author's brilliant description of a public execution during the siege of Paris. "It has been asserted," Bennett wrote, some years after publication, "that unless I had actually been present at a public execution I could not have written that chapter. I have never been present at a public execution, and my information about public executions was derived from a series of articles in a Paris newspaper. Mr. Frank Harris, however, discussing my book in an English journal, said it was clear I had not seen an execution, and proceeded to give his own description of one. It was a brief but terribly convincing bit of writing, quite characteristic and quite worthy of the author of 'Montes the Matador.' I comprehended how far short I had fallen of the truth! I wrote to Mr. Frank Harris, regretting that his description had not been printed before I wrote mine, as I should assuredly have utilized it, and, of course, I admitted that I had never witnessed an execution.

"He simply replied: 'Neither have I.' This detail is worth preserving, I think, for it is a reproof to that large body of readers who, when a novelist has carried conviction to them, assert offhand: 'O, that must be autobiography!'"

Justice in the Desert.

Arabian police, says Noel F. Busch, in "My Unconsidered Judgment" [Houghton], an attractive and readable volume of travel and opinion, "use footprints much as the G-man uses finger prints." A good detective, it is said, "can tell not only which way and how fast a camel is going, but whether a man or woman is riding it, and in many cases where it comes from and to whom it belongs." This suggests the famous exploit of Voltaire's oriental philosopher, Zadig, who recovered the queen's dog and the king's horse, altho he had seen neither, thereby anticipating Sherlock Holmes and his methods by more than a century. A good Arabian detective also carries in his head, asserts Mr. Busch, the footprints of most of the known criminals of his country. "Within a few years Ibn Saud, aided by his footprint experts, transformed Arabia from a country where property rights were scorned into one where they were revered. Responsibility for law enforcement rests nowadays on local governors appointed by the king. How thoroly they understand his majesty's wishes in the matter was shown when a wayfarer reported to one of the king's governors that he had found a bag of rice in the desert. The governor ordered the wayfarer's toe removed, on the ground that if he knew the bag contained rice he had examined it too closely."

One of Voltaire's philosophers might have reached that decision, too.

The Canine Linguist.

Inquiries about "The Dog That Spoke French" are now coming in so numerously that the issue must shortly be met. Efforts are being made to clear the column for this lost folk story, in the near future.

Bossy Wife Suffers for Her Actions

"ABSENT IN THE SPRING," by Mary Westmacott. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

"For you have I been absent in the spring . . ." which sounds the theme of this subtle, sagacious, and ingenious story.

Joan Scuddamore was a nice, attractive middle aged woman, well preserved. Her husband, Rodney, adored her, as did her three children, who had suffered various emotional crises that left them shattered and lost. They found recourse in what their mother advised as good marriages, she being one who chose to ignore the overtones of life.

Joan was well pleased with the way she'd managed things, and then on her way from visiting her daughter, Barbara, in Baghdad she missed her train, because of bad roads, and was marooned at a rest house in the desert.

At first she read and wrote letters, and then books and writing paper gave out, and she took long walks in the desert with nothing but her own thoughts for company. And her past life rose up before her in new colors and she saw herself not the successful wife and mother but a woman who so thoroly insisted on her own ideas that she had brought each one of her family to the brink of despair.

Her husband, Rodney, she had forced into a law office, when he wanted to be a farmer, and she must admit now that he had fallen in love with another woman of greater spiritual stature, tho she had denied it to herself right along. For her children she had opened the door she herself chose and pushed each one thru. No one near her had been able to live according to his inner dictates, but each one must conform.

Devastated by the blinding revelation of what she had done, Joan was a chastened woman. Like St. Paul, she had a vision, and it had made her whole. But when the train to Stamboul arrived with its porters, its elaborate compartments, its dining car, and all the other accoutrements of civilization, her mind went to the Simplon Express which was to take her back to England and Rodney. And what happened then is astounding.

Told with the utmost skill, this fragrant and revealing story has much the same plot as Anne Parrish's "All Kneeling" and Bromfield's "A Good Woman."

Novel by Selby.

Entitled "Elegant Journey," a new novel by John Selby, will complete a trilogy about the Trace family. The other two of the series were "Island in the Corn," and "Starbuck." It is on the November list of Farrar & Rinehart.

Brogan Frankly Criticizes Our System of Government

"GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE," by D. W. Brogan. [Harper, $4.]

Reviewed by Avery Craven.

The intelligent foreigner is often a keener observer of American ways than the native who accepts everything as a matter of course. Lord Bryce produced the classic description of American government, Harriet Martineau and Frances Trollope best analyzed early American society, and André Siegfried offered the first hint that America had come of age.

D. W. Brogan's study of the American political system seems destined to take its place as another valuable contribution to the opening of American eyes to American weaknesses and American strength. First published in 1932, primarily for British readers, it created something of a sensation because of its sharp criticism of American practices and for the equally blunt suggestions for political reform. Its reissue, with a splendidly written preface, which brings observations up to date, should revive interest in the work and add many new readers to one of the most thoughtful books of this generation.

Briefly stated, Prof. Brogan finds the American system of government "ill adapted to the necessities of contemporary life. Whatever its merits, the American government is slow, uncertain in action, liable to have its approaches to a solution barred to it by the courts and, apparently, incapable not merely of a long view but of a national view, however short."

The trouble begins with judicial review, which robs the legislative agencies of their proper responsibility and permits a group of legally minded men to impose their economic and social values upon a whole people under the mistaken idea of a sound balance of powers. It moves on to the party system where sectional and personal interests dominate and foil every attempt at national approaches. It reaches its climax in the absence of any medium thru which the fundamental divisions and interests in national life may express themselves in honest conflict for the control of affairs.

Such a situation mattered little in early and more simple days when an open continent remedied most mistakes and kept the doors of opportunity open wide enough to permit contradictions between ideals and practices. Under changed conditions of interdependence and class conflict, however, it will lead only to national disaster and ultimate ruin.

The need, says Brogan, is for wider executive powers, an easier amending process, a new and honest conservative party which will follow lines laid down by the early Federalists, and the ending of politics as merely a game of getting for persons and sections the economic goods which would otherwise go to some one else.

Brogan's criticisms are frankly harsh and sometimes lacking in complete understanding. Foreigners usually are puzzled by American success at bungling thru. They see the contradictions and the waste and the corruption but they often miss the deeper things which "make the wheels go 'round." But they have their uses and Americans will do well to listen when they speak as frankly and honestly as Brogan has spoken. Laski is not far wrong when he calls this "the most illuminating treatise on American government since the late Lord Bryce's famous volumes of 50 years ago."

3 Books on Personnel Management

"MAKING AND USING INDUSTRIAL SERVICE RATINGS," by George D. Halsey. [Harper, $2.50.]
"WORK METHODS MANUAL," by Ralph M. Barnes. [Wiley, $1.75.]
"WAGE INCENTIVES," by J. K. Louden. [Wiley, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Arthur Bergholz.

It is reassuring to find in these critical times that personnel workers will not lack proper tools for their important work. These three books are excellent evidence for that assurance. Written by a personnel director, a teaching industrial engineer, and a production manager respectively, they show a high order of skill and judgment in their advocacy of sound personnel procedures.

The most impressive fact which shows that these three works belong with the best in personnel literature is their common agreement on the fundamentals which should motivate all personnel practice.

Halsey, Barnes and Louden agree that a personnel program can only be effectively administered when top management has an active and participating interest in it. Secondly, they agree that all techniques which apply to job descriptions, time and motion studies and incentive plans can be assembled into an over-all personnel program only thru full discussions with and thoro instructions of the whole staff: employes, supervisors, and executives. Finally, they are agreed that the goal of personnel work is to insure fairness to all who contribute to the economic well-being of the institution for which they work.

It is with these three fundamentals in mind that each author examines the specific phase of personnel with which he is concerned. Halsey in "Making and Using Industrial Service Ratings" makes a contextual survey of the making of service ratings, of the evaluation of their different forms and of their application to nonsupervisory help, supervisors, and executives.

Halsey is particularly good in discussing the advantages and disadvantages of these forms in respect to particular classes of jobs. The reader will find the many forms which he gives in respect to employes, supervisors, and executives, instructive; especially if at any time he is involved in the construction of such a form.

Whereas "Making and Using Industrial Service Ratings" is a generalized discussion of its subject matter, Barnes' "Work Methods Manual" is a specific analysis within the field of time and motion study of the principles of work organization and motion economy. It is a compact well arranged discussion of 10 principles of motion economy premised on an examination of process charts, man and machine charts and operation analysis.

Barnes very clearly shows that the motions which the human body, especially the hands, makes in the process of working can be analyzed so that the principles governing the component parts are the same whether the individual is working in a factory, in an office, in a service institution or on a farm.

Author Tells About Rare Kodiak Bears

"BIG BROWNIE," by Rutherford Montgomery. [Holt, $2.]

Boys and girls as well as adult nature lovers will relish this swift tale of the Kodiak bears—those rare beasts, largest flesh eating animals in the world, that look like big teddy bears. Only a writer who knows and appreciates wild life could succeed in making the reader feel as tho he himself were a Kodiak bear. There is a basis of truth for the story's plot, concerned with the successful fight of an attractive young girl and her father to save the bears on Kodiak Island from extinction. The book is a junior literary guild selection.

Lutherans to HoldMaywood Home Reunion

By Irene Steyskal.

If, in its role as a corporate mother, the Lutheran Woman's league were given to quoting bits of homely philosophy, this is a time that would warrant its recalling, and with justified pride, that old saying about proof being in the pudding.

It was 25 years ago, on Sept. 27, that the league opened its receiving home for dependent children in Maywood. A silver anniversary observance, designated as Founders' day, is to be held there next Sunday afternoon. For scores of young men and women it will be an occasion of homecoming, with all the warmth of affection that term implies in a closely united family circle. Not if the boys and girls were their own could the league women be more completely absorbed in plans for the reunion and in ambitious schemes for the home's future. In the self-forgetting manner of parents, it is only as an afterthought that they note this also is the golden anniversary year of the league.

Two friends of long standing have received special invitations to attend next Sunday's open house—Dr. Charles B. Foelsch and Rodney H. Brandon. Dr. Foelsch is president of the Lutheran Theological seminary and Mr. Brandon is director of public welfare in Illinois. Both will speak at a program at 3 o'clock.

Golden anniversary meetings will be held by the league women next month. On Saturday, Oct. 7, they will gather at the Drake hotel for a luncheon at which Gov. Green will speak. One of the league founders is expected to return from New York for that occasion. She is Dr. Emmy Carlsson Evald. Dr. Evald was president of the Lutheran Woman's Religious congress, first international gathering of the women of the church, held here during the World's Columbian exposition in 1893. There will be a religious service in observance of the anniversary on the evening of Sunday, Oct. 22, in the Wicker Park English Lutheran church. The speaker that night will be Dr. Rees Edgar Tulloss, president of Wittenburg college in Springfield, O.

Anniversary milestones being the points at which to appraise the past and plan for the future, the league, looking back, finds gratifying proof in the grown-up "boys" and "girls" of its home that its work has been sound. There is, for example, the lad who now is the pastor of a large congregation. Several of the girls have become nurses and teachers. Recently one boy, who was brought to the home when he was an 8 day old infant, was graduated from high school with the highest honors in his class and received a $1,000 college scholarship.

One of three commissioned officers among the home's service men and women is a girl. The "family" welcomed home as a hero one of its boys recently who has been for two years in active combat, first in Africa and later in Italy, and who wears the Purple Heart. There are 25 stars in the home's service flag. One is gold. Perhaps nothing better could illustrate the meaning of the home to the young people who have passed their childhood there than the incident of a gift linked with the gold star. Brothers and sisters of the boy who was killed overseas—they, too, grew up at the home—have assigned his life insurance policy to the Maywood institution for its building fund.

In the building fund is vested the league's plans for the future. With the home celebrating its 25th and the league its 50th anniversary, building fund goals have been set at $25,000 and $50,000, a total of $75,000. Several thousands of dol-

Fashion Show Gives View of Future Styles

Backstage yesterday in the swirl of urgent preliminaries for THE TRIBUNE's American Fashions show, foreshadowings of tomorrow's vogues began to take form.

Officials of this annual $5,000 competition, which will bring to view a superbly staged spectacle in the W-G-N studio theater Oct. 5 and 6, drew a corner of the curtain sufficiently to permit a fleeting glimpse of what is to come. On the basis of costumes destined for exhibition in this trend-shaping event, women may expect these items to become important in forthcoming seasons:

More floor-length evening gowns than in years.

Woolen fabrics more vivid in color and more daringly unusual in contrast and combination.

More individual detail, variously carried out in fanciful braid trim, in saddle stitching of bright hues, in bead and embroidery and other handwork.

Among models prophetic of next season are one of fine linen sewn with black, coin-size sequins and belted with patent leather, and two suavely beautiful, all-white gowns for dinner and evening, elaborate with embroidery and beadwork.

In a new floor-length dinner gown, entirely hand-knitted, gold thread is combined with fine yarn which is used for the diagonally-striped, short-sleeved top.

A horizontally-striped wool coat has sleeves of fur.

In a stunning cape-jacket suit the jacket and cape are beautifully cut in one piece, with a dashing lining of striped wool.

• • •

There are coat dresses, the sort of costumes that constitute the day time uniform of the average American women, that convey the last word in distinctive silhouette.

Bright wools are used in slim day time dresses that flash with details of patent leather.

There are lace dresses for evening, bright of color; satin dinner dresses with matching handbags, whose embroidery of bugle beads repeats the beading on the dresses.

A wedding gown of ivory-tinted fine net takes its inspiration from an heirloom lace veil of the same tint. Every tiny stitch is made by hand, even to the seed pearl headdress that holds the fragile lace veil on the head.

A Persian lamé brocade peplumed jacket tops a slinky skirt of black satin to make a dinner costume of distinctive elegance; down the front are 46 buttons and loops; on each long sleeve are 24 buttons and loops.

Mrs. Grace Pickering, the fashion authority who has made the annual American Fashions show an authoritative event in the world of style, voices unreserved delight over the wealth of talent revealed in the designs submitted by competitors this year.

"Our contestants are a fair cross section of the United States," she says. "Some are women, some men. They live in big cities, in towns, in villages, in Hollywood. They are students in art schools and schools for dressmaking. Some are big-name couturiers, some village dressmakers.

"The costumes they have designed are typically American; they are clothes for the average wardrobe, for street, town, or country. Best of all, they show a growing mastery of craftsmanship, seasoned with good taste and good sense, that is promising for the future.

"This 5th annual show tends to confirm what its predecessors have hinted: That after the war women of this country will look less to foreign shores for the things they wear, and more to the fashion centers of America, than ever before."

On both Oct. 5 and 6, in the studio theater of radio station W-G-N, there will be afternoon and evening

Fresh from the Hills . . . . By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm . . . . Zachariah Tipton Jennings

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

GOODNESS knows I tried to get a good tale about lead mining in the early days of Granby, Mo. Blame my failure on that transplanted Missourian, Richard Pilot. Away back last winter in Chicago, Mr. Pilot said:

"If you want to write about Ozark lead mining, go see Tip Jennings of Granby. Tip's a great guy! City marshal in the old days and still a prominent citizen. He'll tell you just how the miners worked and fought!"

In Granby, recently, I did a little reconnaissance before I hunted up Tip.

"Yes, this is the town!" said the attendant at the gas station. "Look at the water tower."

I looked up. The tower bore an enormous sign:

"Granby, First Mining Town West of the Mississippi, 1850."

The man also said that lead-and-zinc mining is still the principal industry in Granby, and brought out a small handful of grayish-blue ore which he nonchalantly handed to me. It weighed slightly less than our bull calf and narrowly missed my right foot when it plunked to the ground. He also knew Tip, who was running for representative at the moment "and shore to make it" and told me how to find Tip's house. I would know it, he said, by the sign, Justice of Peace, Hunting and Fishing Licenses. Having encountered unpredictable nontalking moods in Ozarkians, I asked if Tip would be willing to talk. The gas attendant was still chuckling over that when I drove away.

Zachariah Tipton Jennings bears no resemblance to the tall lean Ozarkian of the comic strips. He is medium height, with sandy reddish hair, tobacco stains at the corners of a crinkly mouth, and blue eyes that start chuckling before the rest of his face breaks into a smile. Maybe he's close to 70 but what are years to a fellow who's 1-A in spirit?

"I've wore out 14 inches o' steel tires on that wagon o' mine traveling back and forth to my farm."

"I hear you were mixed up in quite a lot of goin's-on around here in earlier times," I began, when we had picked our chairs on the front porch of the two-story white frame home.

Tip spat at a fly 10 feet away and drowned him.

"Aw! Them old times! Who cares about them? This is another age. Ever' 10 years, things change. A feller's got to change with 'em. 'Course some folks hold on and never let old times go! Not mentionin' names, but 16 years. . . . !" He spat again and I steered the conversation back to Granby's past.

"I ain't been here long enough to know much about Granby," he said, modestly. "I jis' come here in 1900. 'Course my folks had been in this country quite a spell. Back in the 18th century three Jennings brothers came to east Tennessee. Two of 'em stayed there. One of 'em was my great-grandfather. The third one, the one called Edmund, went west with the Indians. And up in the historical society, the first writing of any white man in Missouri was done by a feller called Edmund Jennings. It's good English 'cept it's got Indian expressions all mixed up in it. Lived so long with the Indians he talked like 'em. Reckon that was my grandfather's uncle. Ever' now and then I hear about a feller up there around Springfield with the same name as mine. One o' my kinfolks, like as not!"

"What about this business of being city marshal back in the early days?" I asked. "Isn't it true that the Frisco railroad workers had bragged one time that they were going to take over the town? And you went up with a Springfield wagon and rifle and loaded 40 of them into the wagon?"

"Aw, folks jis' like to tell them old tales. An' they git 'em all wrong. They was only 'leven o' them fellers. Anyhow, I jis' got to be marshal by accident. Nobody else wanted the job. I'd jis' come in from east Tennessee and I wasn't afeared and I needed a job. Most times when I'd come around where they was supposed to be trouble, nobody ain't a'sayin' nothin'. And besides them people has all got descendents here now and they're nice people. I don't want to hurt their feelin's."

"I get it," I said. "You want votes. But your election is in the bag. The gas station man says so."

"I ort to git it!" Tip chuckled. "An' do you know what I'm a-goin' to do? When us representatives meet, I'm a-goin' to make the first motion! Yes, ma'am, I'm a-goin' to say that I move we appropriate a sum o' money to drive the witches out o' the state capitol building."

"Witches!"

"Yes, ma'am. Must be witches in the state capitol because I've seen so many good men go up there and come back plumb different. Only way I see it they're jis' bewitched."

A small boy came up to the porch and handed the justice a vote appeal card. Tip read it carefully. Then he looked over his glasses and said with gentle reproof:

"Why, son, you've brought me a Democrat's card." The boy looked frightened and Tip added: "But that's all right, sonny. Butch is a good friend o' mine!" The boy scurried away and Tip rocked gently:

"I like to have some one pointed out to me as a Democrat. I like to say: 'Air you a Democrat 'r a New Dealer?' Many's the feller that's got up and shook hands with me and said he was a Democrat. Democrats helped build this country. They helped build churches and schools. But this New Deal,——."

"Look!" I interrupted. "I've heard that the lead miners of Missouri had an entirely different philosophy from the farmers of Missouri. They believed solely in luck, while the farmers believed in hard work."

"Yes, that's right!" said Tip. "Miners were always foolin' around with fortune tellers. They'd draw a big ring on the map and the fortune teller would tell 'em whether or not there was lead inside that ring. Then they'd draw a ring inside o' that, and another one inside that one, and so on right down to a little bit of a ring. Then if the fortune teller would tell 'em there was lead inside that, they'd go out prospectin'."

"Didn't the miners have some odd way of settling up accounts at the end of the week? Mr. Pilot told me 4 or 12 or even 32 fellows would work a mine on the shares. Then at the end of the week, they would sit down around a pile of actual cash and divide it up by saying 'one for you, two for Sam and two for Jim' according to the shares each one held. Is that true?"

Tip opened his mouth to reply. But just then a young man came in for a fishing license. I wrote out the card at Tip's dictation. The young man gone, Tip settled back in his chair.

"Nope! They haven't a chance o' gittin' in again. Sixteen years! A woman was talking about Mr. Hoover the other day. Called him 'Ol' Hoover.' Said the banks all closed down when he was in office. I told her it never made no difference to me. I belong to the tribe o' Job, I told her, and didn't have anything to do with banks. I knowed she never had a dollar in a bank in her life. I said the p'taters and beans still growed when Hoover was in office. So what'd we have to worry about? Another woman was tellin' me Mr. Roosevelt had done so much f'r pore folks. Well, I was head o' the relief around here before the New Dealers got in, and I know what was done f'r the old folks an' the kids. The old folks got good food and good milk and oranges and not a kid was kept out o' school because he didn't have shoes or clothes. But when that New Deal crowd got in, d'you know . . ."

"Why, son, you've brought me a Democrat's card."

"In those early days of Granby, did you expect to make politics your life's work?" I interrupted.

"Aw, I'm jist a farmer! I've wore out 14 inches o' steel tires on that wagon o' mine traveling back and forth to my farm. Had the same pair o' mules 25 years. Ol' Pat and Johnny Bear. Johnny got his name because he looked out of his eyes like an ol' feller named Johnny Bear. Sometimes I'd go to a convention somewhere. But bein' a farmer like as not I wouldn't a-had a new suit in 15 years and I'd be there with a bunch o' lawyers with their pants pressed. I was postmaster for a while. An' deputy sheriff. An' constable. An' justice o' the peace. When I git to be representative I'm a-goin' to work for the parole o' boys. I parole 'em now, no matter what the law says, when they come up before me. Fact is, I don't pay much attention to the law in my court. When I got to be justice some years back, they give me a big set o' law books. But shucks, the only page in ary one of 'em that had any finger prints on it was the page tellin' about fees."

After election, I'll get that missing story.

All-Illinois Fall Exhibit Opens Oct. 29

By Eleanor Jewett.

Mrs. Nelly Deachmann, exhibition chairman of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts, announces the fall show of the organization will open at the Stevens hotel with a tea on Oct. 29. The jury of selection will meet Monday, Oct. 16, at 10 a. m. Mrs. Deachmann is expecting a big exhibit for already many artists have asked about it. The current summer exhibit of the All-Illinois is still one of the pleasantest shows of the season and the two smaller All-Illinois exhibitions at the Drake hotel have delighted many visitors. The Drake exhibits close Friday.

Among the well known artists exhibiting in the All-Illinois are Adam Emory Albright, Josephine J. Eastman, Tunis Ponsen, Louis Jensen, William H. Eppens, John Doctoroff, Carl Tolpo, Leo R. Weeks, Florence White Williams, Michael J. Sileikis, Nan Rice, Oscar Lumby, E. G. Kummer, Myrtle E. Frankovitz, and Cora Debes.

The Chicago Galleries association opened an important and beautiful exhibition of works by members last Wednesday. The exhibit is one which heretofore has been hung in December, but for various reasons, some of them to do with Christmas and an anticipated unusually brilliant holiday show, the member exhibit is being held thru September this year.

The Chicago Galleries is following the members' show with an interesting exhibition of paintings by three veteran Chicago artists in October. Adam Emory Albright, Frank G. Peyraud, and Charles Dahlgreen will be represented.

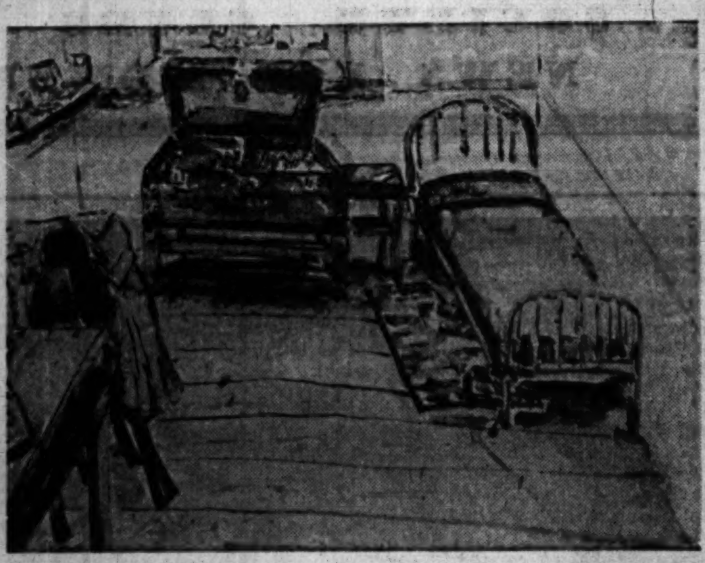
An intriguing exhibit opened last Wednesday in the Marshall Field galleries with a showing of Chinese woodcuts and color etchings by Bertha Lum, Elizabeth Keith, and Elyse Lord. Mrs. Naomi Northam is in charge of the exhibit.

The charming wood block prints of Bertha Lum have long been a subject of delight in various galleries. The work of the other two artists, who are English, is less well known here. Bertha Lum is an American, born in Iowa. She specializes in colored wood block prints of oriental subjects done in a manner she learned in China where she lived for many years before the war. Her prints have delicacy, imagination, and life; they are among the most beautiful interpretations of Chinese life that any artist has given us. Her color is utterly delightful. In the San Francisco exhibition of 1915 Miss Lum was awarded a silver medal for her work. Examples of her prints are in the permanent collections of the British museum, the New York public library, the Detroit Institute of Fine Arts, and other public and private collections.

Elizabeth Keith and Elyse Lord are Englishwomen, Miss Lord being the most prominent color etcher in England. Her prints are unlike anything being produced by any other artist in Europe today, and altho their pervading pictorial characteristics are for the most part of Chinese suggestion, their purpose is in no sense realistic representation of any phase of life in China. It will be hard to believe, but Miss Lord has never actually been in China tho she has traveled far and wide. Her clever, amusing and fanciful prints, then, so suggestive of China, are all the more interesting. Examples of her work are rare in this country and are particularly sought after by collections. These on view are amazingly well done and have atmosphere, charm, and exquisite color.

Elizabeth Keith is another master in the making of prints and her group rounds out an exhibit which is outstanding this month. She has spent much time in the orient, returning from her last visit thru the Malaya peninsula and the Philippines. Her work, too, is in many important public and private collections thruout the world. The late Sir Sidney Colvin, for many years head of the print department of the British museum, pronounced her prints to be unequaled since the great period of print making of the 18th century. The exhibit is a MUST.

"INTERIOR SCENE," BY LT. RAYMOND DAVIS



Lt. Raymond Davis painted this picture which was shown in an exhibit of work by convalescent service men held at the Art institute. We introduce it to emphasize the fact that there are many talented painters in the services. The painting has the austere lines of a Van Gogh room, but is cooler in color.

Lutherans to Hold Maywood Home Reunion

lars already have been contributed by "alumni" of the home and league members.

The immediate need of the home is for increased dormitory accommodations and recreational facilities. Since the beginning of the year, applications for the admittance of 135 children have been received, but, operating to capacity, the home could take only four. In its 25 years the institution has acquired a "family" of 433. It has not been a receiving home as the term is defined by child care agencies, motherly Supt. Mina Lichtner, who has headed it for 14 years, points out. Altho the original plan was to provide a temporary shelter for children until they could be placed in foster homes or adopted into families, many of whom satisfactory provision could not be made remained at the home until their high school education was completed.

Looking back to its own early years, the league finds a membership enrollment of 300 at the time of its 10th anniversary. Active members now number close to 1,500, with some 300 more names on the inactive list. An increase of 25 per cent in membership is one of the anniversary goals. The women of the league represent 76 Lutheran churches of six synods. Because many members are from suburban communities, the organization is chartered as the Lutheran Woman's League of Chicago and Vicinity.

Comprising the board of managers of the children's home are Mrs. Albert E. Overton, chairman; Mrs. L. Franklin Gruber, secretary; Miss Lichtner, superintendent, and Sister Caroline Williams, liaison representative to the Juvenile court.

Present officers on the board of trustees are: Mrs. George P. Lottich, president; Mrs. John L. Forch Jr., Mrs. Overton, and Mrs. Gruber, first, second, and third vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. O. L. Ewert, recording secretary; Mrs. L. O. Cooperrider, assistant secretary; Mrs. C. P. Derry, treasurer; Miss Lillian Hanisch, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. M. E. Phillips, historian. Other trustees are Mrs. W. W. Burdsall, Mrs. A. H. Heiby, Mrs. Marie Jensen, Mrs. V. Karmen, Mrs. W. E. Krause, Miss Marje Larsen, Mrs. N. A. Nelson, Mrs. I. M. Peterson, Mrs. F. W. Sallet, Mrs. W. C. Schultz Jr., Mrs. Harold Smith, and Sister Williams.

Swedish Daughters of America Plan Meeting Thursday

To mark the opening of the new season, the American Daughters of Sweden will have a program meeting Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company building, 122 S. Michigan av., which will bring as guest speaker George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney. Mr. Johnson, whose wife is a past president of of the club, will discuss "Issues Confronting the American People."

Ruth Fredrickson.

Sharing the program will be Miss Ruth Fredrickson, youthful soprano, who will sing Musetta's waltz song from Puccini's "La Boheme," "Spring in My Heart" by Strauss, and "Tonerna," a favorite Swedish song which has been requested by club members. Miss Fredrickson has studied with Miss Flora Waalkas.

Tip on Laundering.

Garments should be mended before laundering to prevent fraying and tearing, but soiled or stretched garments may need to be carefully laundered first.

Board Meeting 1st Federation Event of Fall

Curtain raiser to the season for the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will be a two day meeting of the board of directors, which Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, the president, will convene at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in federation headquarters, 30 W. Washington st.

For out of town members arriving Tuesday and those of the Chicago area, Mrs. Charles W. Stigman, state war service chairman of the federation, has arranged a tour of the Vaughan General hospital at Hines. The women are especially interested in the occupational therapy department.

Foreseeing increased needs in that field, the club women recently added $300 to their scholarship fund at the University of Illinois for the training of occupational therapists. Three young women are enrolled for the fall term in the department, which is directed by Miss Beatrice D. Wade at the university's medical unit in Chicago.

State officers of the federation serving this year with Mrs. Rennie are Mrs. Raymond R. Fairfield of Normal, Mrs. Burton A. Noeys of Arlington Heights, and Mrs. William F. Bennett of Flora, vice presidents; Mrs. Harry M. Daughtrey, secretary; Mrs. T. C. Craig, treasurer; Mrs. Willis J. Burgess, executive secretary, and Mrs. Clarence G. Goodwin, parliamentarian. The last named are all from Chicago. Seated with the officers on the board of directors are the 25 district presidents, 19 department chairmen, and 16 chairmen and vice chairmen of committees.

Four departmental meetings will be held at federation headquarters Tuesday. With Mrs. C. D. Rowland presiding, the conservation department will assemble at 10 o'clock to hear talks on Illinois' plans for the post-war by Livingston E. Osborne, state director of conservation, and Joel C. Loomis, acting state forester. Mrs. R. C. Mann will conduct a meeting of the law observance department at the same hour.

The garden department, headed by Mrs. Harry E. Messick, will meet at 1:30 o'clock, and the 1st district chairman of gardens, Mrs. Luther C. Snyder, will serve as hostess at that gathering. Mrs. Snyder will present Mrs. George I. Martin in a talk on flower arrangements and Arthur Jackson, who will speak on war gardens. At 2 o'clock Mrs. Fenno Dewey will meet with the American home department.

Also meeting at headquarters Tuesday afternoon are the district chairmen of the civil service department. The state chairman of civil service is Mrs. W. E. Quick.

Tomorrow will bring 1st district club women together for the opening event of their fall season. Planned as a benefit, a literary tea will be held at 2 o'clock on the roof of the Hotel Sherman. The program, a book talk, will be given by Laurene Rutledge Hoppe. Mrs. Arthur L. Eller, finance chairman, and Mrs. Robert L. Holmes, a vice president and social chairman, are in charge of arrangements and Mrs. Earl E. Clark is ticket chairman. Proceeds will be devoted to war service work and charities to which the district contributes. Mrs. David C. Slagle is the district president.

ENGAGED

Miss Mary Frances O'Keefe, whose engagement to Arthur James Mulholland Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mulholland of Kalamazoo, Mich., was announced by her parents, the John A. O'Keefe's, at a tea at the Lake Shore club. Miss O'Keefe is a graduate of St. Mary's of Notre Dame. Mr. Mulholland is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and its law school.

Fashion Show Gives View of Future Styles

productions of the American Fashions show. Tickets went on sale by mail during the week, and early orders began pouring in. In previous years the house has been virtually sold out for each of the four shows.

Seats at the evening shows will be $2; for the matinees, $1. All checks should be made out to American Fashions, Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., 435 N. Michigan av., Chicago 11, Ill.

At least 35 costumes will be modeled at the shows, and designers of these will receive a selections prize of $50 each. All these models will compete for the grand prizes of $2,000 for first place, $1,000 for second place, and $500 for third place.

The fascination of fashions thru the ages will be visualized at the shows in a richly dressed prolog presenting glamorous and famous costumes of history. Some of the most celebrated beauties of antiquity and more recent past will come to life in this dramatic pageant.

The annual American Fashions shows were inaugurated when the flood of war engulfed Paris, and American women, cut off from the famous salons of the Rue de la Paix, were compelled to look to American dressmakers for their entire wardrobes. Designed to offer opportunity to hitherto unknown stylists, and to discover new talent, the annual competitions have been successful beyond original hope.

Many designers have submitted sketches in each of the five annual competitions. Seldom do they enter a single sketch; oftener they submit two, sometimes as many as 25.

Four Outing Clubs Schedule Walking Excursions Today

Four outing groups have planned hikes for today in coöperation with the OCD physical fitness program, all of which are open to the public.

The Prairie club will take a 10 mile circle walk in the Thornton vicinity, leaving by bus at 9:20 o'clock this morning at 20 E. Randolph st. A six mile trek along Sauk lake has been planned by the Englewood Outdoor club, whose 9:30 o'clock meeting place will be 63d and Halsted sts. Pilcher park will be the outing club's destination, when that group boards a 9 o'clock train at the La Salle street station, and the North Shore Hiking club will leave the Winnetka Village hall at 9:40 o'clock for a two and a half hour walk along wooded trails in the Winnetka vicinity.

Curtain Saving Hint.

So that one part will not wear out before another, curtains on the north side of the house or in shady windows should be changed with those in sunny openings.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Miss Dorothy Northam.
[Loop Photo.]

Altho the large percentage of women graduates of war training courses at the Illinois Institute of Technology goes to work in war plants, a small portion finds work in other important fields. In the latter category are four women graduates whom John I. Yellott, director of war training, and head of Illinois Tech's gas institute, has employed for the faculty of the gas division.

"When I decided to enlarge the gas institute staff," Dr. Yellott said, "I automatically turned to alumnae of war training courses, because I knew the women could do technical work. I took advantage of the first opportunity to hire some of them."

The women he placed on the faculty were drawn from three major training fields: Drafting, chemistry, and ordnance inspection. Three of the alumnae are pioneers of the war training program, which was the first in the nation established exclusively to instruct women in technical war jobs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rueck, Mrs. Stella Dean, Miss Patricia Mack, and Miss Dorothy Northam are the feminine instructors. Mrs. Rueck is an assistant chemist. She not only works at the institute, but also teaches spectroscopic analysis, an advanced chemistry course, in Illinois Tech's evening war training program. She began teaching chemistry classes for women in March, 1942, when the first women's courses began. Mrs. Rueck is a graduate of DePaul university, and also did postgraduate work at the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Dean, a mathematics graduate of the University of Oklahoma, enrolled in the first women's program, taking ordnance inspection.

Now a junior technician in the gas appliance department of the institute, Mrs. Dean finds time to teach mathematics in an evening class.

Before taking a job as draftsman at the gas institute, Miss Mack did drafting in a war plant. Altho trained in art and interior decoration, she hopes to remain in technical work after the war, because she has come to prefer it.

Miss Northam, the "infant" of the alumnae workers, was graduated from high school only last year. She is technical assistant at the institute. Before taking the position, she worked in the laboratories of a steel company. She is studying advanced chemistry at Illinois Tech, having been graduated from its basic chemistry course.

Thelma A. Hunter of Apollo, Pa., a WAC schools officer and assistant in the military training division of the 6th service command in Chicago, has been promoted to the rank of 1st lieutenant.

Lt. Hunter was commissioned at Fort Des Moines, Ia., in June, 1943, and has been at command headquarters for a year. She has been informed that she will leave soon for a new assignment in the control division of the army service forces headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Lt. Hunter was a teacher and lecturer before enlisting in the WAC.

Hadassah Unit Plans Drive for New Members

Miss Pearl Franklin.

As Hadassah and other Zionist organizations view the ever recurring problem of human suffering that rises from unreasoning antagonism to minorities, the solution they propose, in the case of the Jew, lies in repatriation of the race in the ancestral homeland of Palestine. When the peace is negotiated after this war they are determined provision must be made that will preclude a repetition in the future of the black chapter in barbaric persecution that was written in this day into Europe's history.

On this note, Chicago chapter of Hadassah opens the fall season. This week district membership rallies will be held thruout the city. "Numbers speak," asserts Miss Pearl Franklin, honorary president of the Chicago organization, "and our voice must be strong and definite when the time comes for peace negotiations." Miss Franklin's idea for intensive drives over a brief period to bring into the organization "waves" of 1,000 new members in successive campaigns, which had notable success in a previous enrollment, again will be followed for the present drive. It is planned to culminate the drive, as in the spring campaign, with a gala assembly for new members and their sponsors in Orchestra hall.

Sponsored and supported by Zionist organizations, large scale programs for the rebuilding of a national Jewish home in Palestine were well under way at the beginning of the war. The Hadassah hospitals and other medical facilities in Palestine were fully utilized by the armies of the allies during their operations in the near and middle east. Hadassah is the only organization in this country shipping war emergency supplies and food to Palestine.

It is estimated that more than 10,000 Jewish boy and girl refugees from Europe have found shelter in Palestine thru the Youth Aliyah movement started by Henrietta Szold, founder of Hadassah and head of the youth bureau in Jerusalem. In agricultural villages, trade schools, and children's homes, these young people are being educated and trained in farming and trades. Thousands of children are fed at Hadassah supported nutrition centers. Among other projects undertaken have been large reforestation programs and soil reclamation in the Haifa bay area. One of the forests was named for Miss Franklin, who before the war made several trips to Palestine.

President of Chicago Hadassah is Mrs. James H. Olshan. General plans for the membership drive are under Mrs. Edmund B. Diamondstone and Mrs. Edward Miller's direction, and the two have a membership chairman assigned in each district.

At the head of the Metropolitan district's membership committee is Miss Jean Schneider. Judge Harry M. Fisher will speak at the Metropolitan group's rally, a buffet supper and open house, at 6 o'clock Thursday evening in the Hadassah rooms at 8 S. Dearborn st. A later meeting at the downtown center will be that of the business and professional women's unit, that will hold a reception at 3 o'clock Sunday, Sept. 24, at which Mrs. Olshan will speak. Miss Betty Sloan is membership chairman.

Mrs. Olshan will be the speaker also at the Albany Park district meeting at 1 o'clock tomorrow in the Eugene Field community house, and at the north side district meeting at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Sovereign hotel. District membership chairmen, respectively, are Mrs. Robert Porto and Mrs. Reuben R. Kaufman.

Miss Franklin will address the Austin-Lawndale rally at 1 o'clock Tuesday in the temple of Congregation B'nai Israel. That meeting has been arranged under the joint chairmanship of Mrs. Lester Korey and Mrs. Milton Friedman.

Mrs. William Henning Rubin will speak to the northwest side district at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the Logan Square Masonic temple. Mrs. Sol Simon is the membership chairman in charge of the meeting. The north shore district, whose rally, directed by Mrs. Jack Lederer, is set for Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 20, in North Shore temple at Glencoe, will have Judge Samuel Heller as guest speaker.

A reception is planned by Mrs. Joseph Gray and Mrs. Herman Goldstein for the south side district at 1:45 o'clock Tuesday in the Windermere hotel, at which Mrs. B. J. Lourie will speak. The West Rogers Park meeting, a tea arranged by Mrs. Morris Kraemer and Mrs. David Michaels, is scheduled for 1 o'clock Tuesday in the Green Briar park fieldhouse. The speaker will be Mrs. Bertah Read Missman.

Legion Women to Hold Annual Conclave Here

Eyes of the approximate 600,000 members of the American Legion auxiliary figuratively will be turned Monday thru Wednesday, Sept. 18-20, on the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel where delegates will meet for the auxiliary's 24th annual national convention. Nearly 1,000 women, among them wives and relatives of veterans of the present world conflict, as well as relatives of Legionnaires of World War I., are expected to represent the nation's large auxiliary membership at the assembly, which will be conducted by the national president, Mrs. Lawrence H. Smith of Racine, Wis.

Mrs. N. L. Sheehe. [Nelidoff Photo.]

The minute and varied details of the convention have been entrusted to the general chairmanship of Mrs. Norman L. Sheehe of Rockford, past president of the department of Illinois, and working with her as chairman in charge of distinguished national guests is Mrs. Melville Mucklestone of Chicago, a past national president. Mrs. Sheehe, whose appointment was made by the national organization, served during the last year as national committeewoman and also as national defense chairman.

The women will follow the patriotic precedent set by the Legion in curtailing social functions and focusing attention on war time service activities. The program, which not yet has been completed, lists among the speakers Lt. John Mason Brown, U. S. N. R., former dramatic critic for a New York newspaper and author of "Accustomed As I Am" and the newly published "To All Hands." Col. W. J. Clear of the army, one of the last to leave Bataan and who has seen service in Normandy, also will address the group, and Louis Johnson, past national commander of the Legion who now is serving as the President's special emissary to India, will discuss the Legion's post-war program. Mr. Johnson is a former assistant secretary of war. A representative of the American Red Cross recently returned from the theater of war also will appear.

Following its custom, the Eight and Forty, honorary society of the auxiliary which corresponds to the Forty and Eight of the Legion, will meet in preliminary session at 9 o'clock next Sunday morning, with Mrs. Valentine Delles of Chicago chapeau nationale, presiding. Mrs. Delles also will serve on Mrs. Sheehe's arrangements committee, and other Chicago women assisting Mrs. Sheehe include Mrs. John Lynge, Mrs. Ralph Webber, Mrs. Norman Berg, Mrs. Robert M. Stack, Mrs. Leo J. Kelly, Mrs. Byrne Jackson, Mrs. James Novy, Mrs. Stanley Lofgren, and Mrs. Delles.

First district of the American Legion auxiliary will have an installation ceremony at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Civil Service post clubrooms, 155 N. Clark st. Mrs. P. A. Thomas, who is succeeding Mrs. Charles Wetter as district director, will be inducted into office by Mrs. Ralph C. Webber, a past state president. Assisting Mrs. Webber will be Mrs. John Shimkus and Mrs. Herbert Edwards.

Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

The hit of a gymkhana, which was one of the features of the Labor day entertainment at Castle Park, Mich., was the appearance of Mrs. Alfred D. Plamondon Jr., so skilfully made up as "Mr. Saunders," with spectacles and mustache painted on, that some of the youngsters participating, who have ridden with Mrs. Plamondon all summer, didn't recognize her in her masculine riding garb. Miss Carol Plamondon, who appeared as an Indian during the informal costume parade, later indulged in a horseback wrestling match with Miss Carol Blossom. Their bout in the show ring was decidedly a ladylike one, with much giggling, and quite in contrast to the hearty matches between various waiters [all of them college students], who man the tables at the Castle three times daily and furnish a stag line at Saturday night dances. The girls' costumes epitomized the formal and informal in riding clothes, Miss Blossom in well tailored jodhpurs and coat, white shirt, and tie, and Miss Plamondon in blue jeans and an open necked white blouse. She was busy receiving congratulations on the success of a play which she produced and directed a night or two earlier in the natural amphitheater at the park, with the children of summer residents as actors and stagehands. To attend a barbecue luncheon served around the outdoor barbecue pits after the gymkhana, Mrs. Abner J. Stilwell changed from her tennis costume of brief blue shorts, white blouse, and matching blue jacket to a fresh, butter yellow linen dress embroidered in white. Two whole lambs and a pig had spent hours roasting before the whole of the Castle Park summer congregation met for luncheon, and many of the teen-agers, including the Stilwells' Sally and Betsy, had gotten up at 3 a. m. to see the animals put on the fire. Bushels of ears of corn, baked beans, salads, pie, and ice cold watermelon also were on the luncheon menu, and sitting around the long picnic tables were guests of all ages.

Mrs. Alfred J. Plamondon Jr. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

One of the youngest was Ford Rollo, in tan overalls and a red shirt, who came to the Castle with his parents, the Harger Rollos, and grandfather, Eugene Ford, and Mrs. Ford. Looking mighty sporty in high waisted trousers of black and white checks, "Fordy" was among the youngsters attending a children's dance Labor day night at the Castle's outdoor dance platform overlooking Lake Michigan. Adjoining the dance floor is a house called the "Barn Swallow," which belongs to the younger generation exclusively, and where sodas, ice cream, and all manner of soft drinks are constantly available. The Barn Swallow is just up the hill from the popular swimming beach, on which the Andrew Berkeys spent much of their time while at the resort. Mrs. Berkey's bathing suit was an unusual two piece one of leopard cloth, and Mrs. Ford's was the briefest sort imaginable, a top and trunks of bright yellow knit. Also of yellow was Mrs. E. Cummings Parker's stunning low backed, full skirted bathing dress of smooth textured material, which if it were a yard longer would look equally at home on a dance floor. One of Mrs. Parker's tennis costumes is a well tailored blouse and shorts ensemble of blue and white plaid. The feminine wardrobe for a resort like Castle Park, "simple" tho it is supposed to be, turns out to be rather extensive when all is said and done, and guests' suitcases contain many sartorial surprises. One of the most stunning late afternoon frocks seen about was Mrs. Ford's backless yellow linen one, with crossed shoulder straps and buttons in the back down to the waist line. She arrived at a cocktail party wearing this sophisticated version of a sun dress, with its matching brief jacket tossed over one shoulder and buttoned securely in its casual place with the buttonhole intended for the under the chin fastening attached to the top button at the back of the dress. Very neat! A Castle Park fad—and perhaps a fashion of wide following—is the way the young girls have of gathering up the tails of the boy's shirts they wear and knotting them in front, tucking the ends in and under, and presto chango! they are wearing a bare midriff blouse.

Many Colonists Plan Extended Visits on Cape

CAPE COD, MASS.

Ignoring the tradition of closing summer homes on Labor day, many of the summer residents of this New England resort will be at their home thru the month of September to enjoy the clear, cool weather that is typical of this section. Real harvest weather—crisp, tangy nights and pleasant sunny days—make the month ideal for golf, tennis, yachting, and other sports. The tempo of activity slows down, but there is plenty for vacationists to see and do. Beaches, golf courses, smart new shops, quiet houses, gay new night clubs—all are close at hand.

Some hotels and restaurants proprietors closed their establishments this week but others will stay open for what is expected to be brisk September business. Among these are the Oyster Harbors club in Osterville; the Coonamessett inn in Falmouth; Provincetown inn, Town house and Pilgrim house in Provincetown.

Yacht races and dances attracted the attention of all vacationists over the Labor day week-end, with full schedules of racing being carried out by the Hyannisport, Stage Harbor [Chatham], Wianno, Oyster Harbors, Hyannis, and Bass River Yacht clubs. All young persons with even a little knowledge of sailing tried their hands at racing last week-end, and those who could not sail lined the shores to watch. White sails against blue sky could be seen Saturday afternoon, all day Sunday, and Monday. A stiff breeze Saturday afternoon and Sunday made competition even keener, and Monday's clear weather and southwest wind were all that a sailor could ask to send his boat skimming across the waves.

Sailing enthusiasts at Chatham are Miss Barbara Meincke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Meincke of Chicago, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Meincke Jr. Miss Barbara and Mrs. Mincke Jr. sailed as much as possible last week-end because the family is returning to Chicago early this week.

The Hyannisport younger set was in shorts and dungarees the entire week-end, trimming and filling sails to speed the way around the course in Vineyard sound and returning to the pier next to former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's summer home in the 'po... Miss Evelyn Gardner and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Gardner of Winnetka, were among the spectators at the races over the week-end, and spent many hours sunning and bathing at the sandy beach near their home, overlooking the sound.

During the recent annual meeting of stockholders of the Hyannisport club, officers and directors for the ensuing year were named. Among those chosen to serve was Mrs. George K. Campbell of Chicago, who was elected a director.

Miss Ariel Tatman and her mother, Mrs. James H. Tatman of Chicago, whose lovely home at Wianno is opened each season, are enthusiastic sailors, and each day last week-end saw them joining the throng of yachtsmen at the pier below the terrace of the Wianno Yacht club, and their boat, the Ariel, was seen competing gallantly with all the other boats of the club. Watching the panorama of white sails, blue skies, and blue water from the terrace of the club was Mrs. George R. Nichols of Chicago, long time visitor at the club, and Miss Catherine Jones. Miss Marion Vilas was also a spectator as was her mother, Mrs. Lawrence A. Vilas of Chicago. Other Chicagoans seen following the races from the club were Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett and daughter, Miss Carolyn, who is remaining at her parents' summer home in the Wianno colony until the close of the season.

The holiday week-end at the Oyster Harbors club was marked by sports contests, entertaining at the club and in the various homes of the colony. Witnessed by a large gallery was a Red Cross tennis tournament in which Mrs. Louis D. Root of Washington [the former Mrs. Annabelle Orton of Highland Park] and Howard C. Richardson Jr. also of Washington and formerly of Highland Park, were winners. Mrs. Root displayed the same brilliant playing which won her the singles and doubles championships of Chicago's South Shore Country club. In the finals at Oyster Harbors the team of Root and Richardson defeated Richard Kobusch and Mrs. John L. Gardner, 7-5, 7-5.

Enjoying the early fall days on the cape are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winan of Greenwich, Conn., formerly of Chicago. The Winans are stopping at the Oyster Harbors club. At nearby Osterville, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Connors of Oak Park, are spending a two week vacation, accompanied by their son and daughter, Peter Jr. and Mary Ann.

Joyce Fox, 14 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox of Chicago, will have a lot of news to report in her yachting letter for the Yarmouth Register after last week-end, when she and her sister, Sara, 12, and brother, Billy, 16, were crew for their young friends in the races held by the Bass River Yacht club. Their parents were ardent race spectators from the club and so were the Ballard M. Higbees, relatives of the Foxes and next door neighbors in Bass River. Alix and Anne Graves, twin granddaughters of Mrs. John K. Graves, another Chicagoan who returns each year to the cape, also are busy members of the Bass River Yacht club.

Miss Joan M. Lynch of Evanston has arrived in Provincetown to spend a month with her grandmother, Mrs. John A. Matheson. Miss Lynch will enter Goucher college in Baltimore.

Still another visitor to the cape tip recently was Dr. Clark G. Kuebler of Ripon, Wis., president of Ripon college and well known to Chicagoans. His 10 day vacation was spent at the Gifford house, one of the most popular summer hotels in Provincetown.

In South Yarmouth, Miss Helen C. Gunsaulus and Miss Helen F. MacKenzie, Chicagoans who have made the cape their permanent home, are making plans for the visit of Dean and Mrs. Charles Gilkey of the University of Chicago, who will arrive tomorrow.

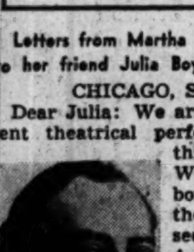
When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13, 1896.

Dear Julia: We are having excellent theatrical performances here this week, and as Will and I are both fond of the theater we have seen two of these. Augustus Thomas' "In Mizzoura," a homespun drama of the southwest, pleased us with its mingled romance and realism. A. S. Lipman took the part of the sheriff almost as well as Nat Goodwin, whom he replaced.



James K. Hackett.

"The Prisoner of Zenda," with James K. Hackett in the leading role, fascinated us. The ending is disappointing, but the first two acts are charming. No one has anything but praise for Mr. Hackett, who is manly looking and has undoubted talent, inherited from his father, the actor who took the part of Falstaff so convincingly. The beautiful Isabelle Irving, as the Princess Flavia, was very satisfying. Any man would fall in love with her, she is so womanly and gentle—heroic, too, when heroism was demanded.

On Sunday we attended All Souls' church, Oakwood blvd. and Langley av., because Will wanted to hear a lay sermon preached by Ald. William Kent of the 32d ward, who occupied the pulpit in the absence of Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones. It was the last Sunday of Dr. Jones' vacation. He chose to have members of his congregation take his place, rather than to call on strange preachers. One Sunday Dr. Breasted of the University of Chicago spoke on his work research in the orient. I am sorry we didn't hear that discourse.

Mr. Kent took for his text words from the Song of Deborah: "Curse ye Meroz, because they came not up to the help of the Lord." His talk was a plea for good citizens to take part in local politics and he more than hinted at the corruption in our city—franchises sold and other favors given for pay. In the matter of national issues, he advised voters to disregard minor differences and to vote for McKinley and sound money. But he didn't hesitate to point out that there are plenty of dishonest Republicans in local politics. He begged all who heard him to join and work for the Municipal Voters' league, which he thinks is doing much good in getting decent men to run for office. Will says he's too old to run for office, but he is a member of the M. V. L. and gives as much as he can afford toward its expenses.

Sept. 14.

I didn't finish this yesterday and now want to add a line to mention the great victory in Maine. Isn't it splendid—the Republican majority the largest ever known—50,000? Will is jubilant and calls the result a rebuke to the demagogs who try to stir up class against class. Thomas B. Reed has been reëlected to congress by an increased majority.

Mr. Bryan is a good man, I'm sure, and I don't like to hear him spoken of as an anarchist [or an "arnichist," as our coachman pronounces the word], but with every day one finds more of our wisest and best citizens expressing abhorrence of his theories. So I am pleased with such straws as the Maine election, which show the way the political wind is blowing. No silver craze there, says Will.

A number of Chicago clergymen have issued a joint statement to their congregations, telling them that the issue to be decided in November is a grave one and calling on them to keep the nation's honor bright. Among these are Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, Dr. P. S. Henson of the First Baptist church, Dr. J. P. Brushingham of Fulton Street Methodist church, and Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, who wields such power in Chicago. Now I must close. Ever affectionately,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

The Municipal Voters' league, organized in February, 1896, became one of the greatest forces for civic righteousness Chicago ever had. Its president, George E. Cole, diminutive but fearless, disregarded threats of personal violence and called knaves by their right names. In its first year, the M. V. L. had crushed the two-thirds majority which had been able to pass almost anything over Mayor Swift's veto and the reform element was well on its triumphant way.

Anniversary Bouquets.

F. E. Bonney, who confesses to being 87, writes that he was present at the birth of "When Chicago Was Young": "As I opened my TRIBUNE that day, there it lay, all unwrapped and unveiled. Hitherto, all infants had been to me just little red babies, but here was one with a different look. . . . Some day, when we have gone and she has grown old and perhaps fat, we will look down from our mansions above and watch her still dipping her buckets into the waters of the past and drawing up rich stores of refreshing memories." . . . Mrs. Charles Cullinan quotes a saying of an old farmer friend, expressing enthusiasm: "I wouldn't miss it, 'not for nothing.'" . . . Frank Conte, who has lived 31 years at 1343 W. Flournoy st., and is a loyal friend of this column, sends congratulations. Mr. Conte's patriotic heart prompts him to have printed on his personal letterhead, "Buy Defense Bonds." Two of his sons are in the service. . . . Sam Litt, whose 86th birthday falls on Sept. 15, writes: "It is certainly a pleasure to read about the past I knew." Mr. Litt, tho a Democrat, joined the McKinley procession in 1896 and went with other sound money Democrats to see the Republican candidate at his Ohio home.

Poem of the Week.

Eastern Shore Colony Enjoys Holiday Events

BEVERLY, MASS.

Approaching the height of its late summer activities, the north shore was gay this week with interesting and colorful attractions running the gamut from dinner-dances at the yacht and country clubs to recitals and lectures in homes along the shore. Over at the Eastern Yacht club in Marblehead, one of the oldest yacht clubs in the nation, there were a buffet supper, movies, and dance, while the Essex Country club staged its largest dinner-dance of the season.

At the Corinthian, at Marblehead, the junior group gave a supper-dance with young people from all of the colonies attending. The famed Myopia Hunt club, which gave up its Labor day horse show and gymkhana because of war conditions, will put on a Victory dance the night of Victory day, and, come when it may, the affair will be one of the brightest in the three-quarter century history of the hunt.

One of the notable weddings of the October season is being planned for the north shore at Manchester, when Capt. Maximilian Gevers, now in the United States army, and son of the former Netherlands minister to the United States, will take the Countess Guy de Baillet-Latour as his bride. The countess is the daughter of James Clement Dunn, director, office of European affairs of the state department, and Mrs. Dunn, who was Mary Armour of Chicago. Countess de Baillet-Latour is related to the Cochrane family in Beverly by marriage, her younger sister, Cynthia, having married Alexander Lynde Cochrane Jr. in Washington last year. Before her marriage in April, 1936, to the late Count Guy de Baillet-Latour of Belgium, the countess was Miss Marianna Armour Dunn. Their two daughters are with their mother on the north shore.

Capt. Gevers, son of the dowager Baroness Gevers of New York and the late Baron William Gevers, former Netherlands minister to Washington, was educated in Europe. He has been in the banking business in this country since 1934 and in the United States army since July, 1942. He recently returned from an 18 month assignment overseas.

A novelty is in store for Chicagoans who visit the north shore trading post, which will open tomorrow and continue thru the week when treasures from many north shore homes will be offered for sale. So large is the stock that the Wenham town hall and the Wenham Historical society barn will be open for the display. Colonists are to act as salespeople and the affair will benefit the North Shore Babies' hospital and the Wenham Historical society.

Mrs. Barrett Wendell Jr. has returned to her home in Chicago after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Sr. at their Hamilton country home in the Myopia district. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Clay Bartlett of Chicago are at their White Hall estate at Chapman's corner, Beverly Cove, after a stay at their Graftonwood farm in Essex.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

For an Autumn Vacation Try Mackinac Isle

By Mildred Peterson.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. [Special].—A haven for those who suffer from hay fever is Mackinac Island and the Michigan territory nearby. In fact, the Upper Peninsula is the home of the Ca-Choo club, which was founded a number of years ago at Sault Ste. Marie, where many sufferers found almost instant relief, since the pollen count is almost nil. No more sniffles and red eyes if you can spend your fall vacation in this area, and autumn is one of the most delightful times of the year here.

There's something about Mackinac Island that makes it stand out above many other parts of this will known resort state—it may be its position in the Straits between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas with Lake Michigan on one side and Lake Huron on the other, or it may be its historical background—anyway, you should visit it: going by speed boat from Mackinaw City in the Lower Peninsula or from St. Ignace in the Upper Peninsula.

The state highway department operates a fleet of state ferries between the mainland and the island and you'll enjoy the delightful 40 minute boat trip. Three boats from today to Nov. 9 run hourly between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace and several a day between either city and Mackinac Island. Year around service to the island and mainland is via St. Ignace. For the hunting season, Nov. 10 to 30, service will continue without schedule between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace, until hunters have been accommodated, all boats being in operation.

When you are at St. Ignace you will want to visit the grave of Father Marquette in the little churchyard on the main street opposite the Indian village, where Indians make baskets, do weaving, carving, and other handcrafts. North and east of St. Ignace is that great territory known as Les Cheneaux Islands [The Snows].

But back to Michigan's island state park; you arrive at the dock in the harbor opposite Marquette park and the statue of Father Marquette, who founded the first mission in the Straits of Mackinac at St. Ignace in 1671.

Above the park is Ft. Mackinac, reached by stairway or carriage—this is the only place on the continent where the horse and buggy era has not been pushed aside by the auto. To get the best view from the various heights, take the stairs. The fort was built in 1780 by the British; was taken over by the Americans in 1796; again went back to the British in 1812, and finally to the Americans in 1815. In 1895 it passed from the control of the United States to Michigan. While up here you'll want to see the library and the museum of old time relics.

The island, which is only about four miles long and three wide, has many wooded acres crossed by a maze of roads, over which you may walk, ride a bike, go by horseback or in a bike-chair, or take a carriage. Places at which you will want to stop are Arch Rock, Fairy Arch, Fort Holmes [the highest point on the island—339 feet above the waters], Skull Cave, Deer Park, Echo Grotto, Sugar Loaf, Astor House, Old Mission House, the old churches and the Grand Hotel.

There are numerous hotels, inss, and boarding places where the fall visitor may stay.

Blaney Pk., Mich., Hay Fever Haven, Enjoys Big Season

BLANEY PARK, Mich. [Special]. —This upper Michigan resort and hay fever haven is enjoying a good season.

Blaney Park covers 33,000 acres of forests, streams, and lakes, with game and bird sanctuaries on several thousand acres and open to guests. The golf course, swimming pool, tennis and shuffleboard courts, children's playground, airport and dude ranch are adjacent to the central buildings.

Fifty miles of wild flower bordered roads and trails lead to forest lakes, trout-streams, rearing ponds, beaver dams, deer feeding stations, fire towers, and ranger stations, penetrating miles of towering timber. The Paul Bunyan museum at Lake Ann Louise is a unique attraction.

It's "Month of Flaming Leaves" at Lake Placid

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. [Special].—The "month of flaming leaves" at Lake Placid—from mid-September to mid-October—when forest and field are clad in their reds and golds, will, from advance reservations, match summer for its popularity. A full program of golf, tennis, hiking, riding, mountain climbing, and even ice skating will continue thruout the fall.

Shop Features Custom Made Fall Blouses

By Rea Seeger.

A blouse collection that attains the fashion and shopping importance of a showing of new dresses is as exciting as it sounds. For there's a smart shop here in Chicago that offers such a glamorous selection: Blouses made to suit color preferences of shoppers and made to the individual measurements. Even the sketches are proffered if you wish. There are about 25 different models, each a gem of blouse perfection, but the best part of this service is that such blouses are the particular kind to change any two piece suit into a suave ensemble.

Satin, thin jersey, and crepe are the most favored materials. The colors range from pristine white to pastels and gay taffeta affairs in stripes and metallic thread designs if you desire.

Later the famous fabrics by Dorothy Liebes will be available for the fashioning of a super blouse, for famous Liebes fabrics are hand woven by this western weaver, flaunting such breath taking threads as those of glinting real silver and gold and some of the most beautiful colors ever mixed or contrasted.

This collection features the exceptional contrasts of unusual pastels and the smart dull or shimmering all-white materials. Many interesting effects are created with the combination of gleaming and dull textures in one blouse.

The most important fashion details in all blouses are the cleverly padded shoulders, detachable pads to allow for cleaning and laundering. These pads give that sleek, wide shoulder line and are the pads that match the famous wide shoulder lines seen in all Adrian suit jackets. They make the blouses.

Long sleeves, elbow length sleeves, and brief affairs that extend inches over the shoulder assure the right choice for the suit of your wardrobe. Hand fagoting, hemstitching, hand sewn monograms, intricate scroll band work, and other individual contrasts make these models the essence of a couturier blouse.

Curved shaped folds of the material, sharp geometric designs detail the rather simple models for a street suit; more elaborate designs in detail and general silhouette make the exquisitely perfect blouses for dress suits. Examine every fine detail of these exciting blouses and you'll instantly recognize the worth of the cost. Only the finest available materials are used and each is a gem of individual creation, well worth the extra time you must wait for its completion.

Most outstanding models are those made of thin, fluid jersey. Not the bulky, hard to manage jersey, but fabric so thin it has the transparency of sheer. This makes the super blouses that swathe so softly and effectively high around the throat line, or the surplice blouses that also are worn high above the collar line of the jackets. Chalk white jersey without a hint of sheen or shine is the most popular choice for all dark suits of fine wool or tweed.

Five distinctive new models are sketched, illustrating the exceptional detail and design of the collection. For further information call Superior 0200.

A. Harlequin-inspired blouse has unusual detailing. Available in white or pastels. • B. Drawn work and monogram dramatize this sleek blouse of dull crepe. White or pastels. • C. Thin white jersey blouse boasts brief sleeves and high, crushed neckline. • D. Gleaming short sleeved satin blouse has interesting treatment of folds. • E. Dull crepe blouse features contrasting satin trim in geometric tulip design.

Jane Whipkus Bride of Ensign Thomas Brett Jr.

The wedding of Miss Jane Frances Whipkus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Whipkus of Jeffery blvd., to Ensign Thomas J. The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	7 spades
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, ace of diamonds.

Between humor and pathos the boundary line is frequently undiscernible. There is a touch of both in the story that was told me in connection with today's hand. It was at a session where bridge players had assembled for the purpose of discussing their most unlucky experiences at the card table. [Have you noticed how many bridge players have a tendency to emphasize their hard luck?]

It is a distinct form of hypochondria. An ordinary hypochondriac is one who appears to enjoy bad health. A bridge hypochondriac is one who enjoys hard luck. They appear to take great pride and to derive immense pleasure from the claim that they are "bad holders." It is strange how easy it is to forget good cards.

The narrator of today's episode, a gentleman, well in the grasp of Bacchus, submitted this as an example of unmitigated hard luck. His words: "I held the South hand and the bidding came to me after three passes, so of course, I bid seven spades [!!]. This was doubled by my left hand opponent. He led the ace of diamonds and then the ace of clubs. I was down one. If he had led the ace of clubs first I would have made the hand."

The humor, of course, lies in the complete confidence with which he contracted for a grand slam with three losers in his hand, and the reference, in complete sincerity, to the incident as a case of hard luck.

The pathos of the situation is to be found in the circumstance that the declarer, after making the utterly fantastic bid was actually the victim of a bad break. Had I been on lead, I would without much ceremony have produced the ace of clubs. Surely the declarer must have some void, and since I had only three clubs as compared with five diamonds, I would have concluded that there was a better chance that the club ace would survive.

Against me South would have made his seven spade contract and it seems to me I would have been entitled to the respectful attention of my colleagues as I told my hard luck story at the next meeting of the moaners club.

Alumnae Club Entertains New Students Today

The Chicago Alumnae associations of Frances Shimer college are expecting some 100 guests when they entertain at tea from 3 until 5 o'clock today at the Cordon club for prospective students and undergraduates of the college and their parents.

Miss Frances Moulds. [Daguerre Photo.]

Among the young Chicagoans whose names appear on the guest list is Miss Frances Moulds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Moulds, 5807 Dorchester av., who this fall will enter the prep school of the 92 year old college, located in Mount Carroll, Ill. Her father, a member of the administrative staff of the University of Chicago, is a trustee of the college. Other Chicago girls invited to the party include the Misses Marilyn Hardt, Nancy King, Donna Laird, Patricia Maier, Pauline Studer, Caroline Williams, Barbara Le Vally, Jo Ann Johnson, Nancy Alkire, Marguerite Anderson, Barbara Aubin, Suzanne Avery, Bonnie Jean Clark, Florence Nance, Margaret Nehls, Elaine Nelson, Teddy Sargent, Anita Smook, Carol Spiering, Florence Spuehler, Janet Stoll, Nancy Wilson, and Dorothy Zurndorfer.

Albin C. Bro, president of the college, and Mrs. Bro will be on hand to greet the girls, as will members of the board of trustees. Mrs. Doris Smith Johnson, president of the north shore alumnae chapter, has been assisted in arranging the party by Mrs. Avis Carroll Mracek of Oak Park, national alumnae president; Miss Mary Elizabeth Waring, president of the west suburban group, and Mrs. Aurel Spuehler Ploshay, who heads the south side chapter.

A dinner will be given tomorrow at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. for freshmen of the Chicago area who are entering Monmouth college. Miss Emma Gibson, dean of women at the college, plans to come from Monmouth for the party, and Richard Petrie of Riverside, former admissions counselor, and Mrs. Petrie also will be in attendance.

Alumnae of the Phi Omega Pi Pan-Hellenic sorority will give a tea today for girls of Chicago's north side and west suburban areas who are enrolling this year at the University of Illinois, and next Sunday the sorority alumnae group plans to entertain state university students of the south side and south suburban area. Mrs. Russell Wiley is opening her home at 204 N. Ridgeland av., Oak Park, for today's party, and hostess at next week's gathering will be Mrs. Milton Sterling, 11256 S. Parnell av. Co-chairmen for the south side tea are Miss Carol White of Blue Island and Miss Lee Wilson of Homewood.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Elenor Nangle.

We are delighted to learn that the harrowing slovenliness of the teen-agers is going out of fashion. Mothers probably will be too, for several reasons, and we hope they'll battle on the home front for better grooming and tidier dress by their offspring of high school age.

Slovenliness of dress always makes for slovenliness of manner. When girls dress like ladies they will make an effort to conduct themselves like ladies. When they dress like hoydens, as the bobby sock brigade has found it smart to do, they'll behave like female hoodlums. It's only reasonable to expect that a restoration of the sense of femininity and cleanliness will bring about, automatically, the restoration of a better set of manners among the young girls who have become such a bore with their curious affectations and their unattractive behavior.

The teen years are important ones in which good or bad habits can be established. The mothers and the high school teachers will, we hope, do their best from now on to help the fledgelings acquire the habit of good grooming. In college, or in the business world, or even in the ordinary social life of maturity, femininity of dress and manner is a downright necessity.

The youngster who's sloshed thru high school following a fashion for grimy nails, blue jeans, unbrushed hair, sloppy socks, and soiled shoes has lost a lot of time. Her score as an attractive girl is zero, and her charm as a girl is non-existent.

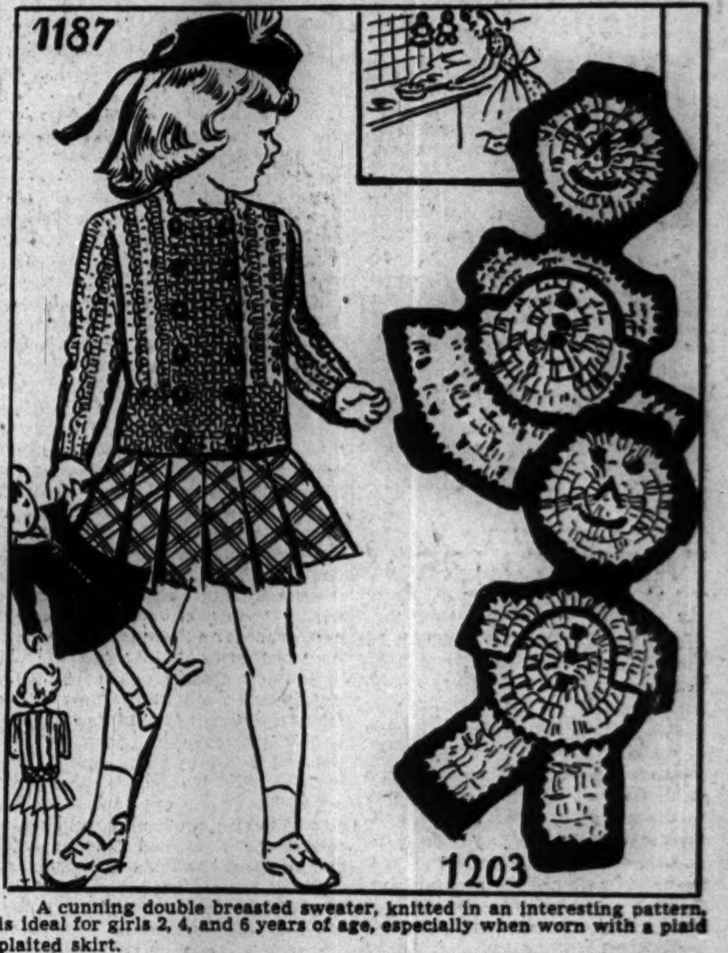
The high school girl isn't an adult; it's up to her mother—particularly in the face of the smart-aleck fashion to be sloppy—to insist on cleanliness. The daily bath, the frequent hand and face washing, the care of teeth, hair, and nails are important. If the girl hasn't acquired the habit of cleanliness in childhood she must, it seems to us, be made to acquire it during adolescence.

And discipline and parental authority must, if necessary, be exercised where tidiness is concerned. The disordered bedroom, the habit of never picking up after herself, shouldn't be tolerated. The teen-age girl is old enough to know better than to behave like a thoughtless child and should be required to be clean about her person, her room, and her possessions.

You can only feel extremely sorry for the teen-agers who've followed blindly in the fashion of sloppiness, or whose parents and teachers have excused their behavior. They're a most unattractive lot, and will slide into an even more marked unattractiveness as they mature. They'll be pretty trying wives and mothers because of their acquired habit of slovenliness.

Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce



A cunning double breasted sweater, knitted in an interesting pattern, is ideal for girls 2, 4, and 6 years of age, especially when worn with a plaid plaited skirt.

Crocheted novelty potholders, durable and charming little additions to any kitchen, are these gay, red and white, boy and girl holders. They are created from four-ply cotton and require but little time and a small amount of material.

For instructions in knitting the girl's sweater, No. 1187, and for crocheting the potholders, No. 1203, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost. FOR EACH PATTERN, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago, Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

BRUSH AWAY GRAY HAIR ... and look 10 YEARS YOUNGER

Now, at home, you can quickly and easily tint telltale streaks of gray to natural-appearing shades—from lightest blonde to darkest black. Brownatone and a small brush does it—or your money back. Used for 30 years by thousands of women (men, too)—Brownatone is guaranteed harmless. No skin test needed, active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Cannot affect waving of hair. Lasting—does not wash out. Just brush or comb it in. One application imparts desired color. Simply retouch as new gray appears. Easy to prove by tinting a test lock of your hair. 60c and $1.65 (5 times as much) at drug or toilet counters on a money-back guarantee. Ask for BROWNATONE. Get it today.

Fall Canning Recipes Are Printed Today

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

September is the month for canning pears, plums, pickles, and relishes, for making grape juice and grape jam and jelly. The letters and telephone calls which members of my department are handling now seem to indicate that women are busier with canning this month than they were in July and August.

These are some of the most frequently requested recipes.

Canned Pears.

Peel pears, cut in halves and remove cores with ball cutter. Drop into slightly salted water [1 tablespoon salt to a quart] to prevent discoloration until all are prepared. Make thin sirup, using 1 cup sugar to 3 or 4 cups water. Drop pears into sirup and simmer for 5 minutes. Pack neatly, core side down, in jars, cover with hot sirup, filling jars to within ½ inch of top, adjust covers and process in boiling water bath for 20 minutes.

In the boiling water bath water should boil up over the tops of the jars for the full 20 minutes of processing. Remove hot jars to cloth covered table to cool, and tighten seals at once, if caps are three piece type. Two piece caps are tightened firmly before processing, and never should be tightened further after the canning has been completed.

Small, hard pears which are to be canned should be simmered longer than 5 minutes before processing. They usually are better for pickling than for canning as sauce. The Bartlett pear and other large pears which are good to eat raw make the best canned sauce.

Canned Plums.

If you want your plums to look their prettiest, prick the skin of each in several places with a clean darning needle, after washing. This prevents too much splitting of the skins during canning. Cook whole plums for 5 minutes in medium sirup, if they're tart; thin sirup, if sweet. Medium sirup usually is made in the proportion of 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water. Pack plums in sterilized jars, cover with hot sirup to within ½ inch of the top, adjust caps and process in boiling water bath for 15 minutes. Tighten caps of 3 piece covers as soon as processing has been completed.

Grape or Wild Grape Jelly.

Wash and stem grapes, place in kettle with just enough water to start them cooking. Simmer until soft, then pour into jelly bag and let drip overnight or for several hours. Measure juice, and for each cup, measure ¾ cup sugar. Bring juice to boiling point, add sugar, stir to dissolve, and cook sirup until it gives the jelly test. At this point drops will be thick and hang for several seconds at the edge of the spoon before falling. Pour at once into sterile glasses and cover with melted paraffin.

Crabapple and grape jelly is a wonderful combination. Prepare it in the same way, using equal parts apple juice and grape juice. In preparing apples for juice, cut washed apples in pieces, including skins and cores, which contain most of the pectin, or jelling property. Cook until soft with water to half cover the apples, and drain thru jelly bag.

Grape Juice.

Wash, stem and crush grapes. Add very little water or none. Simmer until soft, strain thru cheesecloth, reheat to simmering and fill hot sterilized jars to within ½ inch of the top. Process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes.

Corn Relish.

6 cups corn, cut from cob
2 sweet red peppers, finely chopped
2 green peppers, finely chopped
1 cup finely chopped cabbage
4 onions, chopped
1 quart vinegar
2 tablespoon salt
2 cups sugar
¼ cup dry mustard
½ cup flour
1½ tablespoons celery seed
1 tablespoon turmeric

Combine vegetables. Mix dry ingredients together, then add with vinegar to vegetables. Simmer for 45 minutes, stirring frequently. Seal in clean, hot jars.

Mary Meade booklets on canning are "War Time Canning Guide," 7 cents in stamps; "Mary Meade's Best Jams and Jellies," 25 cents; and "Favorite Pickles and Relishes," 5 cents in stamps.

Patterns by Clotilde

By Clotilde.

Wardrobe-starters for autumn should include at least one dressy frock and one trimly tailored mode. These two patterns provide such basic wardrobe items.

The afternoon frock relies on deft shirrings to accent shoulders, sleeves, and low waistline. Satin is a fall fabric promotion that is ideal for this simple dress.

The jumper dress goes in for sharp scalloping at the wide shoulders and on the revers of the softly tailored blouse. Princess lines keep this dress figure-wise.

Style No. 2506 is designed for sizes 10 to 44. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 35 or 39 inch material.

Style No. 3879 is designed for sizes 10 to 40. Size 16 requires 1⅝ yards of 54 inch material for jumper; 2⅛ yards of 39 inch fabric for blouse.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

The edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions now is available over the counter at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower lobby, for 15 cents. Twelve cents buys the book if it is ordered with a pattern.

Ephraim Art Group Elects New Officers

EPHRAIM, WIS.

Mrs. Carl Wilson was elected president of the Peninsula Arts association at an executive board meeting held in Ephraim on Sept. 1, one of three meetings held during the past week. Well known in musical circles in Highland Park, Mrs. Wilson, now of Milwaukee and a summer resident of Sister Bay, Wis., will be assisted during the following year by Vice Presidents Mrs. Roy E. Hanson, Milwaukee; John Matter, Chicago, and Mrs. Elizabeth G. Mudd of Clayton, Mo., all summer residents in Ephraim. Mrs. Henri E. Nelson of Chicago and Sister Bay was elected secretary, and Mrs. George W. Martin of Evanston and Ephraim, treasurer.

At a general meeting of members, a memorial to the late Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and a summer resident in Ephraim for many years, was established in the form of a $100 scholarship awarded to Miss Barbara Carlson, young Sister Bay pianist. Covering many phases of community life from recreation to social service, committees have been chosen to set the organization's varied activities in running order for the summer of 1945. The public lecture series planned for next season will emphasize the greater understanding of the natural beauty of this locality. Children's art classes, art, flower, and hobby exhibitions, and musical gatherings will again be sponsored by the association.

The mile long wooded bluff of Peninsula State park, as seen across the expanse of bay from the hillside view of the village of Ephraim, acts as a calendar of color in registering the seasons. The varied shades of the changing leaves have marked the arrival of autumn during the past week. Hikes in the crisp fall air and horse back riding in the country side have replaced swimming and sailing as favorite fall activities. After the popular months of September and October the winter sports program will begin to draw attention, rounding out Door county's year around schedule of enjoyable outdoor activities.

Every wedding, of course, needs a bride, groom, and a preacher, but it must not be without rice and presents, war time or not. So decreed a merry group of Ephraim visitors when a young couple, married for just a few hours, stepped into the living room of Anderson hotel and were promptly "adopted." The former Marjorie Winkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Winkle of Evanston and Carroll Elkjer of Willmar, Minn., musician 2d class of the navy, home on leave after serving for 21 months at Dutch Harbor in the Aleutian Islands, had stopped in and been married the night of Sept. 2 at the lovely Moravian church next door.

That accounted for the bride, bridegroom, and preacher, not to forget Miss Mary Wigent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wigent of Chicago, who came along for the ride and stayed to play the wedding march. As for the rice, every hotel guest got a handful when he heard the news and the presents came the next day. Blooms from a neighboring garden went into a belated bridal bouquet. A white tissue papered box found its way to the bridegroom's side at Sunday dinner, the result of much earnest whispered discussion among the hotel guests. In the friendly graciousness of this community, the young people provided the romance, and their new friends "the fixin's."

Mrs. Billy N., Gary, Ind.—I find that paint, no matter how dried and hard, can be removed from washable clothing by using equal parts ammonia and turpentine. I sponge spots with this mixture, several times if necessary, and then wash thoroly in heavy soap suds.

Mrs. Ed B., Chicago—For our post-war houses, why not make all house numbers standard equipment and manufacture them so that they are "luminous" and easily read, no matter how dark the night?

Bertha A., Milwaukee, Wis.—I have two roomers in my house who do a good deal of typing at night. Here's how they have helped to silence the noise. They have their machines set on sponge rubber pads which lessen vibration and also use thin pieces of fabric under the paper.

Mrs. Tom S., Pittsburgh, Pa.—This summer my husband hit on a good way to keep his grass shears close at hand when mowing the lawn. He cut a wide rubber band from an old inner tube and slipped it over the lawn mower handle. Shears can be nicely parked inside this rubber band, and always on hand now when needed.

Mrs. Harold A., Waterloo, Ia.—My husband is quite a dabbler in amateur photography and says that a tiny bit of tincture of iodine will remove black spots on a print—spots which have been caused by pinholes in the negative. He uses a fine pointed brush to apply iodine and follows up with a little bit of plain hypo.

'Nervous' Child May Not Be at All Nervous

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"She's a nervous child," is a statement very loosely made about a child—and I say "loosely made" because often the boy or girl about whom it is said, may not be nervous at all.

As a matter of fact, nervousness is rather an elusive thing. Also it takes many forms. In other words, there are nervousness and nervousness.

"She's a nervous child," we say, and it may be that she's only sensitive. If little, she may be easily startled or affected by loud sudden noises, or frightened by a grotesque picture in a story book, or a false face on a Halloween or Thanksgiving ragamuffin. That doesn't necessarily mean that she is nervous—perhaps merely very "aware" with her senses or imagination.

A perfectly normal but sensitive and imaginative child will respond in this way to many stimuli that would leave another sort of child unperturbed. Yet that child is not necessarily a nervous child. She will need handling geared to her temperament, especially while young; and if she gets it will usually emerge into her teens pretty well balanced and not hypersensitive.

Again, "She's a nervous child," we'll say; and this time we may mean she cries easily, she's easily upset, she's overly fearful, she's apprehensive, she sleeps badly, has bad dreams and even actual nightmares. If these things are only occasional, we wouldn't be accurate in calling the small boy or girl who experienced them a really nervous child. All children are subject to variations, as are adults. But if these symptoms persist, if they interfere with the general happiness and well being of a child, then we would be justified in using the term "a nervous child."

And last, this general label "nervous child" is applied to the child who makes habitual nervous movements or has muscular spasms. Obviously in this case the child's nerves are involved. He is a nervous child of perhaps another type. This child needs quite definitely examination and treatment by a good pediatrician, or by a doctor who may not be a child's specialist but has bad wide experience and skill in treating and handling children.

I find this last quality most important in selecting a physician to treat your child. For after all, a wise doctor knows he is not treating a disease—he is treating a human being who has a disease; and understanding the young body and the young personality is a very important factor in his success, both in diagnosis and in treatment, for he always has the growth factor to consider. Medical conferences have been stressing this sharply in recent years.

In some acute nervous cases a psychiatrist may be needed—or an experienced child psychologist—to supplement the work of the doctor. The mind and the emotions and the body need to work pretty harmoniously to produce a healthy well balanced child.

• • •

As you see, what we've said so far is that a little boy or girl or an older one may be called nervous when he or she isn't. But if you feel sure that your child is nervous—either with the general sort of nervousness we've described, or the specific sort with habit spasms or "tics"—the first thing to do is to go to a good doctor. A thoro physical examination is never out of place, in any case. Get your doctor's advice and follow it. In addition it may be helpful to you to have some of our advice based on a combination of a mother's practical experience and some special knowledge. Here it is:

The framework upon which your care of your nervous child is based is made up of two fundamentals which are closely interwoven, definitely interdependent. They are:

1. Do everything you can to put your child in as good physical condition as possible.

2. Handle your child not only lovingly, but as wisely as possible.

Wild Water Buffaloes.

The water buffalo exists in a truly wild state only in India, altho it is known in parts of Europe and Africa.

Lady of the House

"Steamboat! Steamboat!"

At the first hoarse toot from down the river the boy dropped his hoe and bounded over the rows of knee high corn toward the oak grove at the top of the clay bluff, unbuttoning his blouse as he went, so that he could shed it and the tight knee pants the instant he passed the thorn bush, and plunge into the blue river in time to meet the wash of the first wave sent ashore by the great paddle wheel of the chugging steamer.

The girl, a little older, looked after the darting figure for a moment with envy and resentment; then, with a mothering look, she picked up his hoe and hoed his row to the end before going on with her own. The beauty and poetry she vaguely sensed in the rows of waving green corn put a rhythm into the swing of her hoe—her first lesson in a course women have taken for centuries: drawing sustenance for the spirit from the poetry of the homely things about them.

So Ida Meyer of Chicago, our guest today, speaks for many of us when she pleads for indulgence in her Digression.

Don't scold me, please, because I'm slow
Performing every household chore!
Tho wielding duster as I go,
My pencil always beckons more,
Because the words of poetry
I find within so many things,
For cobwebs are like lace to me,
And songs my gay canary sings
Filter thru the vacuum's drone;
Dust cannot mar my pride and joy
In these beloved things I own.
So chide me not if I employ
My pen and pencil to decrease
The drudgery of work and care—
Thus let me seek for homely peace!

All of us who knew a kitchen like Aunt Susan's will join with Mrs. Meyer in bidding a regretful farewell to

The Old Cook Stove.

Aunt Susan lives out on a farm
And seems remote from world alarm;
Her kitchen always garnered cheer,
One found a peaceful haven here;
Events brought little outward change
Around the shiny old black range,
Behind it where the big bin stood,
Filled with handcut chunks of wood,
We dried the towels or rain wet clothes,
And from its oven often rose
Delicious smells of cake and bread,
And where the top glowed garnet red
A bubbling kettle always steamed.
Enwrapped in warmth we sat and dreamed,
Watching firelight fleck the walls.
Sometimes we made sweet popcorn balls,
Cooked fudge, or stirred the chicken stew.
Cold nights we had some visitors, too,
Old Tom and Rover would lie asleep,
Unmindful of the constant peep
Beneath the big stove's high arched feet,
Where newborn chicks were cuddled in its heat.
In winter time the old wood tub
Was set before it for our weekly scrub;
At dawn we'd scamper thru the frosty air
And don our toasted garments there. . . .
The years have built a treasure trove
Of memories around the old cook stove,
But these will soon be swept away—
Aunt Susan bought a 'lectric range today!

And ever our thoughts fly far beyond the confines of our own little homes—

Let all of us who long for peace
And tumult of the wars to cease
Pray God to heal each bitter heart
That fosters hate, and so impart
His loving kindness to all men
That selfish ways may be forsaken;
And let us plumb our souls to find
A deep regard for all mankind.

To the seeing eye there is beauty and romance in the much maligned Chicago river—

The river holds on dusky nights
Reflections of ten thousand lights,
Which cross the water beam on beam,
Like giant spindles set agleam;
And where the bridges bind the thread,
The lights of trolley cars o'erhead
Are twinkling shuttles weaving gold
Into the river's velvet fold. M. M.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

Even tho it is war time it is possible to have almost any color of paint, and mixing of colors to obtain special tints is not difficult for painting contractors or home owners. . . . Beautiful colors of paint come already mixed, but in case one prefers some rare shade of green or other color to match the color in a rug, a piece of furniture, or some other household accessory, it is possible to mix and tint paints. . . . Nor is it always necessary to buy more than one color of completely mixed paint when one has a special tinting in mind. . . . Nor does one always have to use white as a base for all tints and tones, for often one can obtain color that closely approaches the one in mind, so that the paint in the can needs only a slight modification one way or the other—a bit of yellow to soften a green, a dash of violet to soften a gray.

We've prepared a leaflet with a few practical examples for mixing of colors and a few rules to keep in mind when tinting.

[Please send stamped, addressed envelope to Louise Bargelt, Home Owners' Editor, The Chicago Tribune, if you wish this leaflet.]

Fashions

Getting comfortably settled is of major importance when relaxing or poring over math and Greek. As an aid to achieving this, wear one of the smart new lounge slack suits. The slacks are flawlessly tailored, and the jackets are styled to fit every taste. The colors are vivid and materials rich and warm.

A striking weskit-slack combination is this one of fuchsia wool gabardine with one side of the weskit front in purple, the other a soft heather blue. Two fuchsia and blue plastic buttons form the closing. The sleeves and back of the vee-necked jacket match the trousers. This costume is available in bittersweet with gold and green, and Kelly with gold and orange.

More informal but equally colorful is the red and black loafer jacket worn with soot black slacks. The red sleeves boast an interesting cuff detail of black, fastened with a red bone button.

Another in this group of new arrivals is a fuchsia gabardine suit with a lumber jacket top which ties with a bow at the waist. Contrasting with these colors is a pair of soft gray wool slacks with a white pin stripe. The matching vest is worn over a long sleeved, yellow cotton sport shirt.

Here Are Ways to Treat Oddly Styled Window

By Edith Weigle.

Since the treatment of windows is an important part of the decorative scheme of a room it pays to spend time and thought about curtains and draperies. For the average window glass curtains should be made in one of the following lengths: Window sill; the bottom of the frame, or the floor. They should never end midway between window frame and floor, or level with the top of the base board.

Draperies usually come down to within an inch of the floor. In some cases they may, like curtains, end at the sill or the lower edge of the window frame. In most living rooms they hang in straight, full folds; in bedrooms they can be tied back.

But suppose you have several problem windows, ones that aren't average, at all. In many homes there are narrow, "shoe box" windows above built in bookcases flanking the fireplace, or one may be above the sideboard in the dining room, or all by itself on one wall in the living room, or in the hall.

Here are several ways to treat such a window. First, use a swag valance on the other draperies in the room, and repeat this on the small window, but minus draperies or curtains.

Second, use glass curtains, shirring them on a narrow brass rod and making them long enough to come down to the lower edge of the window frame, if the window is not too recessed.

Third, have your handy man or carpenter make hinged shutters for either side, and paint them white like the woodwork, or have them of some solid composition board and decorate them with flower stencils or wallpaper cutouts, pasted on and shellacked. One is good in a more or less formal interior; the other, in an informal room.

Fourth, if the window has small panes, as so many of this type have, mount a flower print cut to fit each one and back it with heavy cardboard. Of course, this will shut out the light, but usually the other windows in the room will furnish enough so that this small window will not be missed.

• • •

Fifth, select a wide wallpaper border in colors that harmonize with the room's color scheme and run it around the wall, framing the window. On the sill place a row of matching, small flower pots with Chinese evergreen plants, or ivy, or philodendron.

Sixth, if the sill is very narrow and won't hold plants attach three or four decorative brackets to the wall just below the window and place pots of trailing ivy on them.

Long banks of windows in sun porches present other problems. The best method of treatment is to hang them with Venetian blinds and to use floor length draperies at intervals, breaking up the expanse.

No Burns! No Holes! No "Hidden" Fires! ...when RONSONS Take Over!

Today, we all have to bear with little "MATCH-MENACES" . . . burnt fingers, holes in upholstery, table linens, clothing . . . PLUS that danger of smouldering matches firing wastebaskets, etc. But in the "soon-tomorrow" there's an answer to all this . . . the RONSON Table Lighters I've just seen in the RONSON showrooms . . . stunning silver-plated and crystal models that will guarantee SAFE and luxurious lighting for EVERY room in your home. SO KEEP RONSON TABLE LIGHTERS IN MIND! And by the way . . . if you're lucky enough to own a pre-war RONSON Table Lighter . . . lady be GOOD to it. Always use RONSON accessories, and when RONSON rules (free on request) for "first-aid" to lighters won't fix it . . . pack it, insure it and mail to the RONSON factory. Address Art Metal Works, Newark, New Jersey. For a minimum charge, your precious lighter will be restored to workability.

Be in tune with the new Fall colors—and "color-light" your complexion! English Peach—suffused with rosy-warmth that's really necessary as your suntan begins to fade from your face. Rose Rachel—fresh, golden and truly glowing with sparkling bright "color-light!" Or Zinnia . . . sunlit and softly blended to give you a flattering glow. Ask at finer shops everywhere for these enchanting YARDLEY English Complexion Powder shades—yours for just $1 a box! Delight in new loveliness!

"Quick-As-A-Flash" SILVER POLISH!

Last week a lady wrote—"You tipped me off to SILVO Liquid Silver Polish, and now I've converted 20 of my friends to this quick-as-a-flash polish!" Somehow, I like her use of this phrase even better than the number of SILVO devotees she's won . . . for SILVO works just like that . . . quickly poured on a cloth, flashed over the silver and the cleaning job is finished with just the lightest of rubbing! No chalky deposit left to be laboriously rubbed away, and SILVO is so safe it's used on the priceless silver of the King of England! Ask for this slick-'n'-quick silver polish at leading Grocery and Department Stores . . . only 25c!

Found! A VELVET GRIP!

Sometimes we get so used to wartime articles and garments that don't stretch or wear or last that we forget there are still some good things around that will behave as we want them to . . . and I don't mean pre-war gadgets that have been lying around undiscovered, either! For instance—I found a VELVET GRIP GIRDLE the other day . . . with VELVET GRIP Garters! I was lucky, Allah be Praised . . . because they're scarce. But there are some on the market today . . . real elastic in them and four real-elastic Velvet Grip garters! (You know they're tops, too.) So if you're looking for a new girdle or garter belt, ask for a VELVET GRIP. They may be out of them at the moment, but persistence will reward you! Ask again and again, for you'll love a VELVET GRIP. It will fit, wear and make your clothes look better than ever before!

"Food" for Dry Skins!

One usually thinks of networks as signs of progress . . . lines of communication that crisscross the land and web the air. But a network of wrinkles is definitely something you want to AVOID! They come from a too-dry skin . . . are a sign that your complexion needs lubrication. So why not try a cleansing cream with an emollient base that's homogenized to give extra lubricating action? Angelus DRY SKIN Creme from the House of LOUIS PHILIPPE cleanses the pores thoroughly and at the same time works lubrication wonders with skins that are dry and have a tendency to wrinkle. Ask for it at Cosmetic Counters!

Pardon this early entry of the good Santa into BUY-LINES . . . but he's here to suggest that you start NOW to have a gift of enduring quality and dignity for someone you love ready by Christmas. At extremely low cost, you can give solid silver — TOWLE Sterling in a favorite chosen pattern. A single place setting of 6 essential pieces costs only about $22, (including the 20% Federal Tax)! And what a cherished gift,—lustrous TOWLE Sterling in any of the 12 beautiful patterns being manufactured even in wartime! See your Jeweler this week—set up a regular plan to buy one piece of TOWLE Sterling at a time. You'll be amazed at the "treasure trove" of Sterling you've acquired by Christmas!

When the modern woman starts counting the blessings that have come to her in the past decade—surely TAMPAX must come near the top of the list! With TAMPAX the familiar medical principle of internal absorption is applied to women's sanitary problem . . . and what an escape this means from the old troubles! No longer need a woman be uncomfortable, self-conscious and hampered on certain days. TAMPAX, made of compressed surgical cotton, is worn internally . . . without belt, pin or external pad. No bulk or unpretty edges to worry over . . . no chafing . . . but plenty of absorbency with a selection of 3 DIFFERENT sizes—Regular, Super and Junior. Ask for TAMPAX at Drug and Notion counters! Don't let another month go by without enjoying this new TAMPAX freedom!

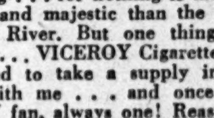
Remember the GORDON Hosiery Contest we ran in this column recently? Well . . . it was a howling success! Thousands of women wrote in on what they wanted to see in their post-war hosiery. Letters and suggestions were so good that the GORDON Hosiery people had such a hard time selecting the 100 prize winners that they gave away 121 pairs of GORDON Rayon beauties instead of the 100 pairs offered! In case you didn't win . . . just remember that your suggestions were greatly appreciated by the GORDON experts who judged the contest . . . and that you'll see many of your wishes for post-war hosiery incorporated in GORDON Hosiery soon! In the meantime—continue to ask for GORDON Hosiery at your stores . . . there's no finer, quality-stocking made!

AYDS to Slimness!

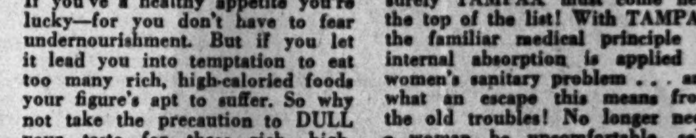
If you've a healthy appetite you're lucky—for you don't have to fear undernourishment. But if you let it lead you into temptation to eat too many rich, high-caloried foods your figure's apt to suffer. So why not take the precaution to DULL your taste for these rich, high-caloried foods before you go to the table? Just try eating AYDS Vitamin Candy before meals, according to directions . . . and see how the AYDS Vitamin Candy Reducing Plan helps you to lose weight. AYDS are fortified with important vitamins and minerals, as a supplement to your daily diet. Cost of AYDS is only $2.25 for a month's supply. Ask for AYDS at the Fair, Boston Store, Mandel's and leading Drug Counters.

Sweet Memories!

Half the fun of vacations is memories left with you . . . and mine are rich indeed! Wish you could have been along . . . for nothing is more beautiful and majestic than the St. Lawrence River. But one thing I DID miss . . . VICEROY Cigarettes! I neglected to take a supply into Canada with me . . . and once a VICEROY fan, always one! Reason is that you get so dependent on the services performed by the clever VICEROY filter tip . . . checking resins, tars and other throat irritants and preventing tobacco crumbs from spilling out into purse or flecking onto teeth and lips. This cigarette, made from the finest blend of Turkish and domestic tobaccos, is indeed . . . the SMART smoke for SMART women!



Flavors Men Remember!

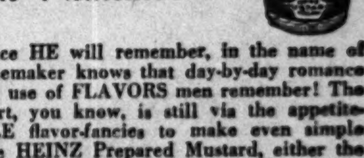


Perfumers tell us to use a fragrance HE will remember, in the name of sweet Romance. But any wise homemaker knows that day-by-day romance is even better served by the careful use of FLAVORS men remember! The surest route to the masculine heart, you know, is still via the appetite-route! So seek UNFORGETTABLE flavor-fancies to make even simple foods something to remember. Use HEINZ Prepared Mustard, either the pungent, robust brown or the milder, yellow kind, to make lunch-box sandwiches, hamburgers, cheese dishes, salads and all types of meat dishes "special"! HEINZ Prepared Mustards ARE unforgettable in smooth-textured flavoring . . . made from special American-grown mustard seeds that are stone-ground the good old-fashioned way. This gives them an extra zip, flavor and freshness, so that every dish you prepare with them is certain to win a BIG hand from the masculine side of the house! A thrifty jar of HEINZ Prepared Mustard goes a long way—so ask your Grocer to supply you tomorrow!

Know the pleasure YOU get when a friend thanks you for some friendly shopping tip? That's just what your letters telling me you've enjoyed BUY-LINES' recommendations mean to me! For instance — one woman writes, "WELCH'S Orange Marmalade IS just what you say . . . a delicious bit of orange-fresh sweet a la Americana! We'll never be without it in our house, now we've taken your tip and tried it!" It's only human to feel proud because something you've recommended pleases others . . . and most certainly WELCH'S Orange Marmalade, made from FRESH oranges, will delight most everybody! Ask your grocer for it . . . and remember—your money back if you're not entirely satisfied!

How About Your Smile?

Is it genuinely happy and carefree . . . or is it frequently pinched and on the scowly side because you're suffering the tortures of hurting feet? Then why not DO something about it? Try those little LuPADS I so often recommend . . . designed by Dr. William M. Scholl, the famous foot authority . . . and ease that strain at the BALL of your FOOT. Dr. Scholl's LuPADS loop over the forepart of each foot to nestle soft pads beneath the metatarsal arches, cushioning them against pressure, painful calluses and burning sensations. Light and invisible, LuPADS cost only $1 a pair at Drug, Department and Shoe Stores, or write direct to DR. SCHOLL, 213 W. Schiller St., Chicago, Ill. Be sure to state shoe size.



Keep right on guarding your "nestlings" against diaper rash, skin chafing and irritation during Indian Summer days . . . because itching, burning and prickly heat are just as liable to cause baby discomfort now as on the hottest day in July. So anoint your baby's tender skin with the finest lubricant you can buy . . . which, of course, is ALBOLENE Baby Oil, containing the purest mineral oil known to the medical profession—Liquid Albolene—and with a mild, antiseptic and soothing action. That's why I advise you to insist on ALBOLENE Baby Oil.—Your Druggist has this product for you in a big 6-oz. bottle at a low cost.
